Have you heard from New York?

What will Keifer do now without Robeson.

Cleveland 174,000 majority in New York. How high ish dot?

If Kansas has elected a Democratic Governor the millennium may be soon expected.

"Corn goes up as Republicans go down," is the way the Omaha Herald puts the case.

The "Republican bosses must go" is what the people said at the elections in some of the Eastern States.

Robeson, of New Jersey was elected to stay at home. A just rebuke to him and well administered.

It would appear from the report of the Congressional elections that Mr. Hubbell's barrels were not emptied in the right places.

It is now in order to hear something about the "smoke of the battle having cleared away," or like original observations.

If Ben Butler has not repented in sackcloth and ashes it is about time the Democracy of Massachusetts performed that duty.

Mr. Folger has concluded not to resign the office of Secretary of the Treasury. He has recently heard some news from New York which influenced his decision in this matter.

As predicted by all well informed men, California has gone Democratic. In view of the well known policy of the Republican party upon the Chinese question it could not do otherwise.

The next House of Representatives will be Democratic by a good working majority. This means retrenchment and a saving to the people of over $100,000,000 during the next two years.

There is a crumb of comfort for Republicans in the fact that Iowa did not go Democratic. The people of that State are like Ephraim of old, joined to their idols, and seem to be given up to a hardness of heart and reprobacy of mind that they may further experience the blighting influence of Republican rule.

Will the Herald please give us "The Exact Words" of "The Broken Promise"? as there are many who would like to know whether there is really "No Precedent for a Sixth Term." We believe we have seen something about these matters in the Herald lately and hope it will not too suddenly drop the discussion of them.

The following States and Territories cast Democratic majorities at the election last Tuesday: Colorado, California, Connecticut, Delaware, Indiana, Kansas, Massachusetts, Nevada, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Wyoming and Montana. There are other States and Territories to hear from, which will increase the number considerably.

An exchange says another reduction is soon to be made in the price of government stamped envelopes. Only a few years ago the price was four dollars per thousand, exclusive of the stamps. They have since been reduced to two dollars, and after January 1st they will be reduced to $1.80 per thousand. Parties ordering 500 or more can have their return address printed upon them without charge.

A Republican editor in Nebraska calls a brother Republican editor of the same State, "Hell's vicegerent," a "nefarious, deformed and dwarfish abortion, intellectually and morally that never thought a good thing or did a good act in his life," a "thankless freak of nature" and other pet names of like character. All of which go to show that an overdose of political enthusiasm sometimes makes a fool of a man.

The report of Mr. Burchard, Director of the Mint, places the output of gold and silver in Montana for the year 1881 at $1,900,000. The gold products amounted to $[illegible], and that of silver to $2,[illegible]. The estimate, so far as it is intended to indicate the value of the mineral output of this territory is much too low. It is estimated that the value of our copper exports exceeded that sum for the year named.

THE RESULT.

There is now no question that Major Maginnis has carried the Territory by an overwhelming majority. Custer county, which the Republicans claimed before the election gives nearly 500 majority for Maginnis. Dawson rolls up nearly 300, Choteau the same number, and Missoula, Meagher and other counties will swell his majority far above that he received two years ago. Nothing reliable has been heard from Lewis and Clarke, Jefferson, Beaverhead, Madison and Gallatin. These counties, with the exception of the first named, will probably give Mr. Maginnis decided majorities. Silver Bow County gave Mr. Botkin a handsome complimentary vote, but as far as known at the present writing honors are easy on the rest of the ticket. The Democrats gave a large majority for their candidate for District Attorney, have probably elected their full legislative ticket with one exception, elect their candidates for Treasurer, County Clerk and Recorder, and several others on the ticket. On the whole, considering that the Republicans claim this county as a Republican county, the Democrats did well. They made a gallant fight, and but for causes which it is not necessary to refer to, they might have done much better.

How a Reporter Got Shaved.

"Go and get shaved."

Thus spoke the city editor to the reporter, who made his appearance yesterday morning with a board seven days' unrestrained growth upon his chin.

"Get shaved?"

"Yes, and as it is a good while since you were last shaved the experience will probably be sufficiently novel to inspire you with ideas for an article on barbers."

This was intended as sarcasm, but the reporter bore it meekly and went his way to a "tonsorial parlor." As he entered each barber turned from his patient and gazed at him with an air of languid curiosity. It was trying, but the reporter bore it with a courage born of necessity. As he took a seat and began to read a last year's paper, each barber wiped his soapy fingers on his customer's coat collar, and all met in the centre of the room to consult his fate. They "sized him up" and compared notes in an audible tone. There were some little differences of opinion on minor points, but all agreed that he was a "chump." By this time two of the customers had each smoked a whole cigar, another had read a newspaper all through and had been looking at some old mail in his pocketbook, and the last had turned over comfortably and gone to sleep. He was awakened by having a brushful of lather thrust into his mouth, and soon all four artists were again at work. The man and brother by this time had blacked the reporter's shoes without his knowledge and assessed him ten cents. The searcher after truth took in the progress of the work to determine in whose hands his fate would be. None of the artists seemed to be in a hurry to get through, and the customers were not particular either. The waiting man did not want to fall into the hands of the fiend on the end of the row. He was an emaculated stripling of twenty-five years, was slow in movement and ungainly of figure. He kept his mouth externally open, and his face wore about as much expression as the portrait of Miln in the Exposition gallery. His shirt-band and collar were so low that every time he took in a long breath his liver pad could be seen. It was evident that he had breakfasted on garlic. As fate would have it he finished before his brother artists and the reporter was obliged to take the chair. Before he went in he handed the gloating wretch a sheet of copy paper, on which was written:

"I want a close shave. I am in a hurry. Do not put any oil or grease upon my hair. I never use any rum or cosmetics. Please comb my hair up and back. I do not wish my hair trimmed or cut. I do not want any hair tonic or skin medicine. I do not want a shampoo or a bath. I have not heard the latest news from Egypt, nor do I want to. I care nothing for politics or crime or society. I do not care for stock or market reports. I am not a stranger in the city, and I am not going to the ball this evening. I am a professor in a deaf and dumb institute, and I am glad of it. Go ahead and shave me."

When the tonsorial artist had managed to decipher this epistle, he gave a despairing groan and began his work in a mechanical sort of a way, stopping once in a while for directions on the sheet of paper. Several times he got ready to ask a question, but remembered the admonition with a grimace. However, he unburdened his mind to his fellow-workers, and the remarks made about the reporter savored strongly of personal criticism. When the torture was finished and the artist had placed a court-plaster asterisk on his victim's chin, he threw him out of the chair with a jerk, placed a fifteen-cent check in his hand and gave him a push towards the cash deck. The reporter paid his check, evaded the boy with a whisk broom, and vanished up-stairs.—Chicago Herald.

On examining the urinary deposits a ropy sediment will often be found, and sometimes small particles of albumen will appear, or the whole will be of a thin milkish hue, again changing to a dark and torpid appearance. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.
