JANE ADDAMS' FIRST VOTE WILL BE CAST FOR WILSON

Distinguished Publicist and Former Roosevelt Lieutenant Sorry Illness Prevents Her from Actively Entering Campaign in President's Behalf.

One of the hardest of the many hard blows dealt the campaign for Mr. Hughes among women is the announcement that Miss Jane Addams, "America's Foremost Citizen" and one of Theodore Roosevelt's most effective lieutenants in 1912, is supporting President Wilson.

The disposition of Miss Addam's first Presidential vote, which she is to cast in Chicago on November 7 is naturally a matter of intence interest to every righteous American.

Miss Addams came into prominence in the councils of the Progressive party when Roosevelt first announced his divorce from Republican spoilsmen and representatives of special privilege—a separation since annulled by mutual agreement. She became a member of the Committee of Nine which Roosevelt named as his special advisers in the 1912 campaign and had an important part in drafting the statement of Progressive principles, particularly the sections devoted to social justice, which played such an important part in the Progressive Party platform. It was she who first put the phrases "social justice" and "industrial justice" into the American vocabulary.

Miss Addams is chairman of the National Woman's Peace Party. She feels that because of the humanitarian measures he has put upon the statute books, and his stand for broad humanity in all international affairs, President Wilson should receive the support of those who are sincerely endeavoring to improve the lot of the average American citizen.

In the years devoted to improving the status of the vast foreign-born population whose life centers in Hull House, Miss Addams became known first as Chicago's foremost citizen, and then was characterized by Roosevelt as the "Foremost Citizen of America." When the Woman's Board of the Panama-Pacific Exposition met last year to consider the women who were to be given high honors, they chose Miss Addams as one of the most noted women in the Western hemisphere.

Jane Addams, "America's Foremost Citizen."

In Miss Addam's own facetious comment she and the Colonel "parted company two years ago." For the last two months her responce to the multitude of inquiries as to her vote has been that "one doesn't wait fifty years for a vote and then cast it without due deliberation." Miss Addams now declares:

"I shall cast my first Presidential vote for Woodrow Wilson. I am sorry I am too ill to enter the campaign actively and that all I can do is to vote for him."

THE BALLOT IS VERY LONG ONE

SUPPLIES WERE SENT OUT ON SATURDAY TO OUTSIDE POLLING PLACES.

SOME FEATURES OF INTEREST

County Clerk and Recorder F. R. Cunningham and his assistants now have the ballots and other election supplies divided up and were sent to all of the out of town precincts. There are 51 precincts and 67 polling places in Fergus county and it will require something over 21,000 ballots to supply the electors, a considerable surplus being provided for. In addition to the main ballot there are five small ballots this year. One of these is on the prohibition measure. Another is the initiative measure No. 11, for the boxing bill. All who wish to vote against the restoration of boxing should vote against this measure while those who favor it should, of course, vote for it. Then there is the bill authorizing the issue of bonds for establishing a twine factory at the penitentiary; another measure amending the constitution so as to exempt mortgages from taxation and a second proposed amendment to the constitution for the creation of a state board and county board of equalization. The ballot itself is a huge affair this year. The democrats, republicans and socialisas all have full tickets, national, state and county, except that the socialists pass up a few county offices. The progressive party, which has no candidate for president, has no candidates for presidential electors. This is the result of the presidential primary vote, the Chicago convention afterwards making the selection of electors a useless one. It might be said in passing, however, that Mr. Parker of Louisiana, the regularly nominated candidate for vice president on the progressive ticket, has come out squarely for Woodrow Wilson and urges all progressives to vote for him. Mr. Parker is now making speeches in behalf of Mr. Wilson.

The fifth column on the ballot is headed by the "non-partison educational party" and under this heading comes the name of Charles W. Tenny as an independent candidate for the office of superintendent of public instruction.

Strange to say, the prohibition party, which has a national ticket, did not see fit to name electors in this state and is not, therefore, represented on the ballot.

FERGUS EXHIBIT FEATURE.

The Chamber of Commerce received word from H. M. Robinson, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce at Roundup, and Joe Gemert, immigration agent of the Milwaukee, that the Fergus county exhibit at the Seattle land show was a huge success. The Montana display was of such interest that a large crowd was constantly admiring it. The moving pictures of Montana and especially of Fergus county farm scenes were so popular that pictures were constantly in motion.

MR. CARROWAY LEAVES.

Vincent Carroway, the pioneer merchant of Gilt Edge, who has been engaged in business at that place, is preparing to leave. He will locate in the state of Washington and engage in the grocery business. He makes the change solely in the expectation of benefitting his wife's health.

Fred Michel, a prosperous homesteader in the Winifred country, was in the city Saturday.

Miss Elizabeth von Tobel was in the city Sunday from Stanford where she is teaching school.

DENGLE BROS. CLEAN UP SLATE

SECURE RECORD BREAKING LOAN UPON THEIR EXTENSIVE RANCH PROPERTY.

MRS. SHIPPY SUES FOR DIVORCE

Dengle Bros., whose litigation has attracted some attention during the past year, have secured a corporation loan from an eastern financial institution, negotiated by John M. Howland of this city and Attorney Alfred Blaisdell, representing the mortgagees. The loan was made in the form of a bond issue and was secured by various trust deeds on the Dengle ranches north of Grass Range, comprising about 11,000 acres. Much of this is first class farm land and the whole comprises one of the best ranch properties in the state. The loan is certainly the largest of the kind ever made in this state, amounting, it is understood to $153,500.

This transaction enables the Dengles to clear off their obligations, a payment of $91,526, being made to the Bank of Fergus County, while several other claims were disposed of. John A. Coleman, the legal representative of the Dengles, with whom was associated R. J. Anderson, looked after these details.

SEEKS DIVORCE.

Laura Shippy has brought suit against Albian Shippy to secure a divorce on the ground of cruelty. The parties were married in 1894 and have two minor children. S. W. Pennock representes the plaintiff.

O. W. Belden as trustee, has brought suit against Lottie Knapp to recover $15,573.

F. R. Henry was a business caller from Hobson Saturday.

Instruction to Treasurer on Liquor Licenses

In accordance with an order of the board made on September 8, 1916, Sissin Bros., and W. H. Smith, both of Hobson, Montana, filed petitions for the reissuance of the retail liquor licenses now held by them respectively. No protests against such reissuance having been filed, the county treasurer was instructed to reissue the licenses.

Board adjourned sine die.
