Wrecks.

December 29th, 1882.

Why muse upon the past with sorrow? Why, at the close of each year, does every rational, thinking mind recoil upon itself and brood o'er that which hath gone to blend with the mysterious tide of old eternity and borne upon its breast a thousand wrecks of glory and of beauty? Reader, let this sprite your fancy; pause with a sad delay, and within your own mind define the meaning of the word wreck and see to what it pertains. Does it not mean the decay of that which hath once been lovely, pure and good? Does it not mean the destruction of some lofty city or upturn mountain, or fall of some national Empire, or a burning of Moscow, or devastation of a Pompeii, or siege of Sebastopol, where on the side of a rock-bound bay, remote from the pathway of travel at the southern extremity of European Russia, the far-seeing Czar had raised, tier above tier, the frowning bulwarks of Sebastopol. In a wilderness of forts whose lines were seventy miles in length, seeming to defy the world, rose high above all the rest the dark cloud-like battlements of the Malakoff. Here this Russian city was besieged by an army of sixty thousand men and a fleet carrying five thousand guns, but the allies were to contend, not only against the iron rain of shot and shell, but, also, the raging of the elements; hail, frost and snow conspiring against them.. Here five hundred thousand men perished. A thousand millions of dollars had been wasted. But we draw a vail over this wreck which is too horrible for sight. Upon such scenes, the human heart would withdraw, as being horrors inconceivable, indescribable and yet, how many are there that prove wrecks of their own existence? The good and great often die the wisest sages of Greece and Rome often did; the most famous, farsighted chieftains of the land often plunge madly into misery and woe, and end their lives in poverty and despair, and yet, why all these wrecks of the noblest attributes of the Deity? Is it by setting the mark too high, overtaxing the brain too far. It is the heaping and getting together of wisdom whose white winged seeds of happiness would only prove eternal joy; would the possessor only use it frugally and with judgment and not try to measure arms with Him who blessed them with the richest earthly blessings. For instance, Alexander, the great king of Macedon, who conquered the principal nations of the earth though he died in the 32nd year of his age. While intoxicated, he killed his friend, Clitus. In another fit of intoxication, he burned the city of Persepolis and then died in Babylon from excessive eating at a banquet. Why not then bestow our manual labor, bodily toil, skill and reason over to the directing of that power that will bear it for us with no muscle to grow weary, no nerve to relax, no breast to feel faintness? But this period is the wreck of the dying year; its fair green vesture is gone; its faded pieces whirl upon the wind and rustle beneath the squirrel's foot, and float upon the passing stream and the quivering lake; the voice of gladness is hushed among its boughs; its glory has vanished its beauty has disappeared. The crystaline sheathes of ice, and keen blasts have hovered so pitiless over the face of nature until all things seem desolate and forlorn. Who will account for the loss of this beautiful gift? There is the word of an angel hidden in the breast of nature, saying: "Be comforted, I have hidden only for a season; I will come again; the scowling face of winter shall lose its features; the storms shall grow faint and breathe their last. I'll send my ministers abroad and hover around thee and blend my beautiful tints and o'er thee a new created glory. I will bestow upon thee another robe. Thou shalt be bright and unsullied; brightness and grandeur shall fit thy every part joy, shall smile around thee; birds shall fly back and grace thy boughs and sing a hymn to the new year of 1883."

Mr. Editor, here, if you will excuse the digression after giving a few notes from Beda, the writer will desist. A pleasant, quiet Christmas has been ours; Christmas dinners and socialdes are the order here without the least monotony. But had it been, 'twould have been speedily withdrawn by the cheering presence of Prof. J. D. Carroll, of Daviess county, who is at present teaching near Pellville. His employers were exceedingly liberal by giving him Christmas week. The Professor seemed to be in a state of perfect health and was as genial and pleasant as ever. He reports the smallpox has infected his neighborhood and several have died. I am sure it would have contributed largely to the happiness of his acquaintances had he not made such a flying trip in the way of making a Christmas visit.

Success to the HERALD of our county is the wish of your humble writer.

Dr. Tanner's German Ointment.

D. A. Chandler, of Patoka, Ill., Mar. 16, 1877, says: "One of my neighbor's little boys smashed his thumb about one year ago, and it was supposed by everybody that it would have to be taken off. I got him to try one box of Tanner's German Ointment. It cured him sound and well. He had tried good doctors on it, to no effect. The boy's father's namr is Noble Cruse, of Lester, Marion Co., Ill.

CAUSE FOR APPREHENSION.

Why Mysterious Physicial Troubles Arouse Special Dread—A Professional Experience.

Few things give more pain than dread or apprehension. Most people are able to face apparent danger heroically, but the sudden and unexpected coming of some indefinite calamity very naturally strikes terror to even the bravest. For this reason lightning and tornadoes are considered terrible; their coming and going are so sudden, unannounced and unknown. For this same reason an unknown disease, some poison in the blood, some malady that is gradually undermining the life, is specially dreaded by all thinking people. And, indeed, there are good reasons for such dread, for modern science has discovered that some virulent disorders show the least signs in their beginnings, while they have the worst possible symptoms. We know of many persons who have dull and uncertain pains in various portions of the body; who are unnaturally tired one day and apparently well the next; who have an enormous appetite at times and a loathing of food soon thereafter. Such persons are really in a dangerous condition, even though they may not realize it. The following statement of a most prominent physician, who has had unusual opportunities for investigation is of so striking and important a nature that it will be read with interest by all:

CINCINNATI, O., Dec. 2, 1882. }

Editor Herald:

I have, during my professional career of many years' practice, treated a large number of various disorders, of which, perhaps, none have given me more trouble than the mysterious disease known as acute nephritis; and while it may seem strange, it is, nevertheless true, that the physician is generally greatly annoyed by this mysterious trouble, especially when the case is of hereditary origin. It is, doubtless, the first stage of the well-known, but terrible Bright's disease, as the kidneys contain large quantities of albumen; and while children and young people are especially liable to its attacks, it is prevalent with all classes, and usually continues until late in life.

One obstinate case which came under my observation, was that of a fireman of this city who applied to me for treatment. The case was diagnosed parenchymatous nephritis. The man was twenty-four years of age; plethoric and light complected. He stated that he had suffered from urinary troubles from childhood, and that he had "doctored" a hundred times, each time improving some; after which, in a short while, he would relapse into his former state of misery. I prescribed the usual therapeutics known to the profession with the same result that my colleagues had obtained. He got better for awhile and then worse again; in fact, so bad that he had to lay off for some time. He suffered intense pain; so much so that I confess I had to resort to hypodermic injections of morphia. My druggist who knew now disgusted I was with the case, although not willing to desert the man, advised me to try a remedy from which he (the druggist) himself had derived great benefit. As a drowning man catches at a straw, I prescribed this remedy, not letting my patient, however, know what I was giving him; and, although not a believer in nor a patron of "patent medicines," I must confess that after my fireman had taken one bottle he grew much better. I made him continue its use for a period of two months, with the most gratifying results; it really worked wonders, and he owes his cure and present perfect health solely to the remarkable power of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, the remedy which I prescribed and he used.

Since the recovery of the man above mentioned, I have given considerable thought to the subject of acute nephritis, or kidney difficulty, and I find that its manifestations are most remarkable. It often appears without any special symptoms of its own, or possibly as a sequel to some other disease. It may be a sequel to scarlatina, diphtheria and other illnesses, and even arise from pregnancy. The first symptoms frequently show themselves in the form of high, fierce and intense pains in the lumbar region "the small of the back," troublesome micturitions and frequent changes in the color of the urine which at times diminishes perceptibly. If the urine is entirely suppressed, the case, probably, will terminate fatally in a few days. Dropsy is a consequence of the suppression of urine, and the severeness of it is governed by the proportion of retention. The nervous system becomes prostrated with subsequent convulsions and irregular circulation of the blood, which in my estimation, eventually might cause a diseased heart to give out. As I have remarked, in many kidney diseases—yes, even in Bright's disease itself—there is no perceptible pain in the back, and these troubles often assert themselves in various symptoms—for instance, in troublesome diarrhœa, blood poison, impaired eyesight, nausea, loss of appetite, disordered digestion, loss of consciousness, husky voice and many other complaints too numerous to mention. Indeed, thousands of people are suffering from the first stages of Bright's disease today, and they do not know it.

In conclusion I would like to state that I have, since my success with the fireman, repeatedly prescribed Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, and if my professional brethren could only be brought so far as to overcome their prejudice against proprietary medicines they would, undoubtedly, find themselves recompensed for their supposed sacrifice of liberty, as well as by the great benefits that would accrue to the world. Most sincerely,

O. ANDERSON, M. D., Supt.

Died

At the Henry Smith farm two miles south of Fordsville, this county, at 4 o'clock, A. M., Monday, January 1st, 1883, of cholera infantum, Henry Martin, only child of Henry A., better known as Alonzo and Annie Smith, aged one year, four months and five days. This little child was sick one week and during its sickness was attended with spells of vomiting which was in a short time after it swallowed its medicine, water, etc. A few hours before it died the disease went to the brain, when it became unconscious and died in about four hours. He was laid in his little coffin with his hat on and his toy cup and brass trumpet, a Christmas present from his father, the latter being made on the pattern of the cavalry trumpet now used by the United States Cavalry and blown to please him during his sickness by his father. On the morning of the 2nd his funeral took place and his remains were interred near the grave of his grandfather, Henry Smith, in the graveyard on the hill above his home.

Horton Items.

I have not noticed any news in your paper from this point since I became a resident here, and thinking that the gossip of this town would interest some of your many readers, I endeavor to contribute a few items.

The most interesting feature at this time is we have had a wedding or reception here and a wedding at Roseville. Mr. George Thompson of this town was married to Miss Elton Lyons of Roseville, on the 3d inst., and arrived here the 4th, where an elegant reception awaited them. The attendants were Miss Bettie Turner and Mr. Geo. Baltzell. A number of friends and acquaintances greeted the happy couple on their arrival and notwithstanding the inclement weather all moved off pleasantly. The entertainment that evening was enjoyed by all. May happiness attend them through life. The next reception will be at the Baltzell hotel, so says Madam Rumor.

I suppose you are all aware that Christmas has "come and gone." Quite a number of elegant Christmas dinners were enjoyed here that day. The day was specially regarded by most all families here.

If "Jim Poke" did not enjoy Christmas, there were none that did.

A large audience met at the hospitable residence of Mrs. Martin New Year's evening and enjoyed a candy breaking, given by Mr. Tom Martin.

Social hops in abundance.

Mr. H. Wilson accompanied by his little son and daughter, Olla und Edna, paid Elm Lick a flying visit yesterday.

Miss Mary Felix has been visiting her sisters at this place.

Miss Katie Wilson, of Glendale Farm, is in town and will remain for a few days which is very gratifying to ARTHUSIA.

Valuable Testimony.

To the efficacy of Dr. Roger's Liverwort, Tar and Canchalagua. Some time since Mr. Geo. W. Morgan, a well known journalistic of San Francisco, Cal., wrote us a letter, in which he related his miraculous escape from death by using the Liverwort and Tar. Afterwards he wrote again as follows:

I wish to re-affirm and confirm all I have said as to the remedial virtues of Dr. Roger's Syrup of Liverwort, Tar and Canchalagua, and will be pleased to bear testimony personally, or by letter as to the truth of my assertions, to any who may desire to know more of my case.

The February number of the North American Review is to contain an article on "The Experiment of Universal Suffrage," by Prof. Alexander Winchell; a discussion of "The Revision of Creeds," by clergymen representing six evangelical denominations; a paper entitled "The Decay of Protestantism," by Bishop McQuaid; and a defense of the Standard Oil monoply, by Senator Camden.

List of Delinquent Tax-payers for the Year 1882.

Agreeably to promise we begin this week the publication of the delinquent tax list of the county—free of charge to the county. As we remarked last week some of the names are a surprise. The amount of tax on property is so insignificant that we do not give it. The names of parties dead are not given.

How a Lawyer treated the Case.

I, David Strouse, of New Haven, Connecticut, was attacked with a severe rheumatism on my right arm, hand and foot, so that I walked with difficulty and could hardly use my hand to eat with. I used one bottle of St. Jacobs Oil, rubbing well three times a day, and obtained instant relief and a perfect cure. DAVID STROUSE.
Attorney-at-Law

Dr. Green's Oxygenated Bitters

Is one of the oldest and best remedy for Dyspepsia, Billiousness, Malaria, Indigestion, all disorders of the stomach and all diseases indicating an impure condition of the blood, kidneys, and liver.

Sandwiches.

Enquirer: Can a man race horses and be honest? Oh, yes; he'll find it expensive, though.

"Skill and patience succeed where force fails." The quiet skill and patient research which brought forth Kidney-Wort illustrates the truth of the fable. Its grand success everywhere is admitted. Disease never comes to us without a cause. Ask any good physician the reason and he will tell you something interferes with the working of the great organs. Kidney-Wort enables them to overcome all obstructions and preserves perfect health. Try a bottle at once.

Texas has a town named Palestine, though there's nothing about it suggestive of the Holy Land.

We would advise all of our readers who think of making a Vegetable or Flower Garden this spring to send to D. M. Ferry & Co., Detroit, Mich., and get their valuable and beautiful Seed Annual. The house is entirely reliable and if you wish to get exactly what you order you cannot do better than entrust your orders to them.

Where there is no servant in the house the plumber loses no time. He puts it in lighting his pipe.

The "Favorite Prescription" of Dr. Pierce cures "female weakness" and kindred affections. By druggists.

The New York Commercial Advertiser says that "the tin horn and the toy pistol go hand in hand." This is the first time that we ever knew that either article had hands.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally. It acts directly upon the blood and the mucous surfaces of the system Price 75 cents. For sale by Thomas & Kimbley. 453m

In view of the way the interested members of his party have acted, Judge Park, of Connecticut, must feel very proud of his attempt to overturn the will of the people as expressed at the last election.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound ranks first as a curative agent in all complaints peculiar to women.

A Sacramento man carelessly leaves his umbrella, has it stolen, and then makes the thief fork over $5, or stand an arrest and prosecution. And the citizens propose to send him to State prison for deliberate swindling.

Farmers and others desiring a genteel lucrative agency business, by which $ to 20 a day can be earned, send address at once, on postal, to H. C Wilkinson & Co., 195 and 197 Fulton street, New York. 1-6m.
