DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

FOR APPELLATE JUDGE,

HON. W. S. PRYOR,

OF HENRY.

LIBERAL REPUBLICAN TICKET.

FOR PRESIDENT,

HORACE GREELEY,

OF NEW YORK.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,

B. GRATZ BROWN,

OF MISSOURI.

We place these names at the head of our columns to be stricken therefrom only on the consolidation of an independent ticket by the Democracy; and with an independent ticket in and out of the ranks we go into the defeat of our party.

CAMPAIGN CLUB.

As the Congressional and Presidential contest has fairly opened, we desire to offer to the citizens of this part of the State, a cheap medium of political news; and we now offer to clubs of ten or more, our paper from May 10th to the 1st of December, for the small sum of 75 cents and to single subscribers for the same length of time, at $1,00.

The present political canvass will be one of very great importance, and our facilities for furnishing our people with reliable and accurate political news, have never been excelled. Send in your clubs and subscriptions at once!

THE DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION.

Every one, of course, knows that our State Democratic convention took a road which leads from Grant to Greeley. Had we been permitted to direct its movements and dictate its resolutions, its action would have been more in accord with the sentiments expressed in the very sensible resolutions offered by General Basil Duke. The fact is, there was entirely too much pandering to the views of our friends, the Bourbons. This is no time to play the agreeable, simply for the sake of gratifying a very foolish party pride. Bold, manly, outspoken resolutions in favor of indorsing the Liberal nominees, is what we wanted and needed, and that is what the vast majority of Kentucky Democrats expected at the hands of their delegates in convention assembled. We are making history to be read and pasted upon—not only by our own State people and for the present time alone, but for a whole nation, and to be read and pondered over for years. The demand made by the anti-Greeley element in the convention, and which found expression in the soft solder compromise resolutions put forth, was, to our thinking, puerile in the extreme. The spirit of the rebellion against the expressed wishes of seven-tenths of the Democrats of Kentucky, which manifested in the threat that if Greeley was plainly indorsed, the disaffected would bolt the convention, smacks very much of that bravado which boys exhibit when one of them places a chip upon his head and dares another to knock it off.

After all, however, we were glad to know that an "unbroken Greeley delegation" was appointed to attend the Baltimore convention, and we fear not the result of their action as our delegates. They go there instructed to "vote as a unit on all questions," and, knowing the sentiment of Kentucky, they will not be slow to express it, or mealy-mouthed in their expression. No State, in our opinion, will give the Liberal nominees a more cordial and heart-felt support than our own, and should Greeley be indorsed, Kentucky will be proud to honor him with an immense majority. While we regret that our recent convention was not a "unit" in sentiment, we must and do rejoice to know that there was no split there in our ranks, but that all agreed to abide the action of the national convention at Baltimore, whether that convention makes an independent ticket, or whether they indorse Greeley and Brown. This, at any rate, leaves no honest hole for a bolter on either side to crawl through and all will unite to carry out the will of the convention, whatever that may be.

CONFERENCE OF LIBERALS.

A number of distinguished gentlemen, who are opposed to the present administration and its continuance in office, and deem it necessary that all the elements of the opposition should be united for a common effort at the coming Presidential election," met at the Fifth Avenue hotel, in New York, on Thursday last. About one hundred in number were present, representatives from every section of the country, including Senators Schurz and Trumbull, recognized leaders of the Liberal movement. Ex-Governor Cox, of Ohio, presided. Ever since the adjournment of the Cincinnati convention the Radicals have endeavored to induce Senator Shurz to declare himself in opposition to the ticket nominated there, but these efforts have proved unavailing. Senator Schurz will give his hearty support to the Liberal ticket, all reports to the contrary notwithstanding; and he asserts that his presence at the conference is solely for the purpose of pacifying those of the Liberals—ultra free-traders who are opposed to Mr. Greeley on account of his views on the tariff question. The session of the conference continued until after mid-night, and during the proceedings it was evident that the sympathies of a majority of the members were with the Cincinnati nominees. Senator Schurz, in the chief speech of the evening, declared himself firmly for Greeley. Henry Watterson, of Louisville, spoke for Kentucky, and in one of the most effective speeches of the session, pledged her hearty support to the Liberal ticket. The Greeley sentiment generally predominated. The free-trade Republicans who were not impervious to reason and altogether impracticable declared themselves for Greeley and Brown, and Judge Stalle, Edward Atkinson and other impracticables went off in themselves, and nominated Groesbeck, of Ohio, for President and Olmstead, of New York, for vice President. They are not so foolish as to accept, and take the road that leads from Greeley to Grant.

KNOXVILLE BRANCH EXTENSION.

The Directors of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company are anxious to begin work on the Knoxville Branch of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, and would do so had not the city of Louisville refused to aid them as desired. We see from the Courier-Journal that the authorities refused positively to give them a single dollar of aid, and one Mr. Long, a member of the Board of Common Council made a long and very illogical speech the other night, at a meeting held to determine the matter, in which he attempted to give reasons (?) why the city of Louisville should not give of her substance to this road. Among other silly things asserted by the gentleman referred to, he said the extension of this road from Livingston to the Tennessee road beyond Cumberland Gap would not benefit Louisville, but Nashville. Now if any man can take a map and look at the country which this extension would reach, and which would pour its products into the lap of Louisville, and then say Louisville would not be vastly benefitted by the extension, we would be almost ready to doubt his sanity.

Again, if Mr. Long will tell and show us how Nashville, situated remote from this road and having nothing shipped to and from her over it, is to be benefitted by the extension of this Knoxville Branch, we will give him credit for more sagacity than his speech indicates that he possesses. Virginia, East and Middle Tennessee, the Carolinas, and Georgia, with their cotton, rice, sugar, etc., would pour those rich products into Louisville over this road, and Louisville would have another grand artery or trade over which she could ship her goods, wares and merchandise, her manufactures, and thus enlarge her borders, fill her coffers, and take another long stride ahead of her jealous rival, Cincinnati. Mr. Long admitted that the Louisville and Nashville railroad had been of vast benefit to Louisville, and that the road was well managed. For this gracious compliment the L. and N. R. returns thanks and makes her best bow to the councilman. Small favors always thankfully received.

Mr. Long said that the Louisville and Nashville railroad was a rich corporation and abundantly able to finish the road herself, and that it should not ask Louisville to aid it, because at present "the terminus is in the wood, and ends nowhere." That "millions of dollars had been expended already, and the Directors were men of too much sagacity to permit the road to remain in this incomplete condition."

Now what deduction did Mr. Long intend men to draw from this assertion, and what is the force of the remark? Simply this: Because the corporation is wealthy, the people of Louisville, (who are joint beneficiaries in the extension) should not aid in the work; In other words, it is right, equitable and just, for Louisville to enjoy a large measure of the benefits which this new, completed artery would bestow, without "helping to pay the fiddler." Because an individual has money enough to erect water-works, or any other work for the public use, therefore the corporate authorities of the town or city where the work is erected, should, refuse to take stock in it to aid in the matter. This is the kind of logic (?) contained in Mr. Long's address to the city council.

His speech is a boncombs affair from beginning to end, and, in our opinion, will wholly fail to hit the mark at which it was aimed. Mr. Long should understand that there is such a thing as carrying one's guardianship of a public trust entirely too far—in fact, great danger of his going to a ridiculous extreme, if not of actually running it into the ground; and to our thinking, the common council of Louisville have well nigh, if they have not fully, committed these very blunders.

It may be true, sirs, as your spokesman has asserted, that the Knoxville Branch "ends in the woods—nowhere;" but if you will travel in a body up this way to that terminus at Livingston, you will find a good road, excellent cars, a well managed road, with trains going twenty-five miles per hour. You will see from three to five long trains of cars per day, laden with superior coal and fine lumber, with cattle, horses, mules, hogs, sheep, lark, etc., and you will find passenger cars pretty well filled with passengers, composed of emigrants going West from Eastern Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia, Carolina, etc., and you will also find that many of these passengers are merchants and farmers going to your city to buy the supplies of your merchants and manufacturers, and who leave with them hundreds of thousands of dollars every year, which, but for this branch road that "terminates in the woods—nowhere," would find its way to Cincinnati, Nashville, Baltimore, and other cities.

We hope that wiser measures and better council may yet prevail, and that Louisville will do herself the honor and the good which she would receive by aiding in the extension of the Knoxville Branch.

FREDERICK LAW OLMSTED publishes a card stating that the use of his name by the free-traders' conference as a candidate for the vice Presidency, was without his knowledge.

TO THE DEMOCRATS OF LINCOLN COUNTY.

The Democratic Executive Committee for the Eighth Congressional District, having issued a call for a delegated convention, to be held at Stanford on the 10th day of July next for the purpose of nominating a Democratic candidate for Congress in this District, the Executive Committee for Lincoln county have selected Saturday the 6th day of July next as the day for choosing the delegates to represent Lincoln county in the convention.

The Democracy of Lincoln county are therefore, respectfully requested to meet at their respective voting places, at 2 o'clock P. M. on the day named, and select their delegates to the convention and express their preference for the candidates.

In order to secure uniformity in the manner of holding these meetings throughout the county, the following plan is prescribed for holding the meetings:

3rd. The commissioner shall then proceed to ascertain by actual count, the preference of the voters present for the various candidates, and the result of this count they shall certify to the Chairman of the county committee, showing in their certificate how many votes each candidate received, and the name of the delegate chosen.

The respective precincts are entitled to the following number of delegates, to-wit:

Stanford 4, Hustonville 2, Crab Orchard 2, Waynesburg, Highland, Turnersville and Walnut Flat, 1 each.

The following gentlemen are appointed commissioners, namely:

Stanford precinct, John Bright; Hustonville precinct, Alex. Williams; Crab Orchard precinct, Jacob Guest; Waynesburg precinct, Ellison Padgett; Highland precinct, John Y. Henson; Turnersville precinct, John O. Neal; Walnut Flat precinct, R. M. Pitman.

By the Committee,

J. WARREN GRIGSBY,
Ch'n Ex. Com'tee for Lincoln Co.

STATE CONVENTIONS.

The Democratic State Convention of Maryland, which assembled in Baltimore on the 19th, elected a full Greeley delegation to the National Convention.

The Democratic State Convention of Texas, which met on the 19th, indorsed the Cincinnati platform but refused to adopt a resolution instructing the delegates for Greeley and Brown.

The Democratic State Convention of Minnesota, which assembled at St. Paul on the 19th, adopted the Cincinnati platform, and instructed their delegates to the Baltimore Convention to vote for Greeley and Brown.

The Democratic State Convention of Nebaska, June 20th, unanimously passed resolutions indorsing the Cincinnati platform and instructing the delegates to Baltimore to vote as a unit for Greeley and Brown. The greatest harmony prevailed, and the convention adjourned amid great enthusiasm.

The Democratic State Conventions of the following States have met during the week, and have all declared for the Cincinnati nominees: Arkansas, Illinois, New Jersey.

Georgia sends delegates uninstructed, but all are faverable to the Greeley-Brown ticket.

The Illinois Democratic and Liberal Conventions "clasped hands across the bloody chasm made by the war," and nominated a State ticket consisting of men of both parties.

The Ohio State Democratic Convention meets to-day.

GENERAL DESHA'S SPEECH.

In accepting the Permanent Presidency General Desha, after returning his thanks to the Convention for this renewal of their confidence, and expressing the hope that the proceedings would be characterized by the deliberation and decorum, said:

For thirty years I have been here almost invariably when a State Convention has assembled, but on no occasion were the circumstances that surrounded us such as now exist. We have a right to discharge—a duty we owe to our respective constituencies, and a duty to our country.

Question may be presented that may produce some difference of opinion, but recollect, gentlemen, we come here for the purpose of conciliation, and to harmonize, and to fraternize the Democratic party. [Great applause.] That questions so momentous in their consequences should arise will not be wondered at, but I do hope that our deliberations will be conducted soberly and deliberately in view of the grave questions which we have to consider, and that our action will redound to the best interests of our State and our common country. Again thanking you, I will now entertain the motion to adjourn.

The Convention then adjourned to 2 o'clock P. M.; in order, as the mover stated, to allow the Committee on Resolutions time to complete their work.

[Afternoon Session.]

Convention called to order at quarter past two.

First business was the call of the Congressional District for reports of district delegates and electors, The district reported as follows.

The following delegates at large were selected:

Governor Bramlette, from the Committee on resolutions, submitted the following report:

"Resolved, That the Administration of the Federal Government, with President Grant as its Executive head, has persistently violated the Constitution and elective franchise; and, unless arrested in its centralizing doctrines and corrupt practices, will subvert and destroy our liberties. [Applause.]

"Resolved, That the Democracy of the State of Kentucky now reaffirm the principles contained in the platforms adopted by former Conventions of the party since and including the Convention of the 1st of May, 1866. These platforms contain substantially the theory and practice which, we believe, if carried out, will secure the protection of life, liberty, and property, and all the essential ends of free government.

"Resolved, That, while we adhere to the principles contained in said platforms, and while we are deeply impressed with the conviction that the peace, prosperity, freedom and happiness of the people of the United States will be best secured and promoted by a strict adherence to said principles in the administration of both State and Federal governments, yet recognizing and appreciating the necessity of preventing, if possible, the continuance in power of the present corrupt Administration, while we do not expressly instruct our delegates to the National Convention as to the course which they shall pursue, we expect them, after consultation with the representatives of the Democracy of the whole country, to take such action as will most likely insure a perfect union of all the elements of opposition to the nominees of the Philadelphia Convention; and the Democrats of Kentucky unhesitatingly pledge to the ticket that may be presented to the country by the Baltimore Convention an active and earnest support, not only because it will be the representative body of the whole party, but because in party organization it is the ultimate judge of the policy which members of the party should persue. [Good! good!]

"Resolved, That the delegates from Kentucky to the Baltimore Convetion are instructed to vote as a unit on all questions." [Cheers.]

Before the question of the adoption of the resolution was put, General Basil Duke offered the following as a supplemental article:

"Resolved, That, in the estimation of this Convention, Greeley and Brown are the candidates best calculated to accomplish the defeat of U. S. Grant and the overthrow of the pernicious policy he represents."

Following the introduction of the resolution by Gen. Duke, a spirited debate ensued, participated in by Messrs. Duke, Jones, McManama, and others. After consultation, he concluded to withdraw it for the sake of harmony; whereupon the report of the Committee was unanimously adopted.

THE first exclusively negro jury ever impanelled in Kentucky served at an inquest held in Louisville on Wednesday last on the body of a negro named Wagner, who died from the effects of wounds inflicted by another negro on the steamer Robert Burns, on the 29th of May. According to the Commercial, "they conducted the investigation in a manner highly creditable to themselves."

AS THE habeas corpus clause of the Ku-Klux law was not extended, and as no pretext exists for sending United States troops into the Southern States, the War Department has ordered all the troops from these States to the Plains, to prevent, if possible, an Indian out-break this season.
