A SLANDER.—A Winchester correspondent of the Philadelphia Times, says:

"Did you ever get into a Virginia crowd? When you do you will remember it. It is something to think about in odd moments. It assembles with no provocation whatever. A second rate circus will get one together in short order. A political meeting, an agricultural fair, will draw the people from miles around. And such a crowd! It is large, it is grotesque, it is enthusiastic. It is a crowd you would go a good ways to see, just because it is unlike any other crowd you ever came in contact with. The crowd which gathered in this old town yesterday was simply immense as reckoned by the Shenandoah Valley's general opinion of a crowd. The Times has already told about this gathering and that it came here to decorate the Confederate graves. There is something decidedly funny about the patriotism of a Virginia crowd. Patriotism in the Valley of Virginia is in a very mixed state. Half of it is loyalty to the Union, and the other half to the Confederacy. Take, for instance, a military company which parades the streets in its jackets of gray. It will utterly refuse to carry the stars and stripes, and yet the next moment it will hurrah for the Union in the same breath that it will cheer the "Lost Cause." Among the visiting companies yesterday was the Light Infantry from Alexandria, on the Virginia side of the Potomac, within sight of loyal Washington. I happen to know that when this company met in its armory to talk over the proposed trip some one suggested that it carry an American flag at the head of its column. Hisses greeted the proposition and it was voted down promptly, and the company marched yesterday without colors. Yet this same company a week previous, when the people of the North were decorating the graves of the nation's dead, turned out in the rain and strewed with flowers the graves of the federal dead in Alexandria. Lots of reminiscences of the war are to be had in this old town. There are plenty of people who saw Sheridan start on his famous ride which brought disaster to the Confederate arms after they had already counted victory their own. It is somewhat surprising that there are not more traces of the war to be found, for Winchester changed hands over eighty times. In Mount Hebron cemetery, a portion of which is devoted to the Confederate dead, and known as Stonewall cemetery, there are bullet marks on some of the grave stones, but only a few."

Now, so far as this refers to the Alexandria Light Infantry is is deficient in one important particular, and that is truth.

Not only did the company not "hiss the proposition," but such a subject was not even broached in the company's meeting.

On two recent occasions, one at the Fair Grounds and the other on their visit to Culpeper Court house, they carried a United States flag, and the distinctive badge of office of their color sergeant is a miniature representation of the Stars and Stripes, worn upon the arm.

The law in such cases made and provided, not allowing detached companies to carry the National colors, which are set apart for regiments, a company flag of blue silk has been procured and was carried to Winchester, as it is carried on all public parades. It will hence be seen that the company was not "without colors" but carried those prescribed by law.

The company can certainly not be justly accused of "disloyalty" as they were the first to initiate the decoration services in this city on the recent Federal Decoration Day, notwithstanding the fact that a large number of ex Union soldiers were residents of the city.

THE UNION GOSPEL MEETINGS.—The Bible reading at 5 p. m. yesterday was a stirring one, from the life of Elijah. Lessons of the deepest interest were derived from the way in which God sustained His servant during the three and a half years of drought, by the ministry of the ravens and of the poor widow of Sarepta with her handful of meal and her cruse of oil. Motives to Christian courage in opposition to evil were drawn from the sublime scene on Mt. Carmel, where the solitary man of God encountered alone the power of Ahab and Jezebel, and the four hundred and fifty priests of Baal. The strongest encouragements to prayer were found in the prophet's experience with regard to the rain, which came in abundance, as the drought had come, in answer to his prayer, though he were a man of like passions with us. Scenes from the life of Lot were the subject of the discourse at night. The calamities into which he and his were drawn by what men would call his shrewd business sense and good judgment in choosing the well watered plain, and pitching his tent toward Sodom, were most impressively dwelt upon. And the most affectionate and urgent appeals were made to unbelievers to escape from their peril, based on Gen. xix, 17, "Escape for thy life; look not behind thee, neither stay thou in all the plain; escape to the mountain lest thou be consumed." The congregation was again large, and the attention and interest profound. Next week the meetings are to be held in the M. E. Church South. To-morrow morning Mr. Williams will preach in the M. E. Church. At night he will preach in the M. E. Church South, and the congregation of the 2nd Presbyterian Church will unite in the service. The service in the 2nd Presbyterian Church in the morning will be conducted by the pastor.

MT. VERNON.—The session of the Board of Regents of Mount Vernon was continued yesterday.

Miss Harper, the Regent for Maryland, was present for the first time during the session.

Among the guests were Judge Henry W. Thomas, of the Board of Visitors, and W. W. Corcoran, of Washington.

Judge Thomas, on behalf of the Board of Visitors for Virginia, expressed his satisfaction at the admirable manner in which the ladies had perfected and carried out their plans for the improvement of the mansion and grounds.

The practice on the part of some visitors of eating luncheon in the rooms of the mansion, was forbidden.

The following committees were appointed to serve for the ensuing year: Finance—Miss Harper, Maryland; Mrs. Chase, Rhode Island, and Mrs. Ball, Virginia. On mansion—Mesdames Halsted, New Jersey; Broadwell, Ohio; Washington, West Virginia; Barnes, District of Columbia, and Townsend, New York. On collection of relics—Mesdames Washington, West Virginia; Ball, Virginia, and Barnes, District of Columbia.

The picture hanging over the mantel in the Illinois room, representing Admiral Vernon's fleet before Carthagena, has been restored by a well known artist of Baltimore, without the loss of any of its color. The ceiling and sidewalls in the same room have been repainted, gilded, &c., nearly 2 600 pieces of plaster work having been reproduced.

Mr. W. W. Corcoran has presented to the association two pieces of a dinner service formerly used by General Washington, which are to be placed in the cabinet in the Ohio room, and a crockery bowl for the Maryland room, formerly in the possession of the Stuart family.

MARRIED.—Our fair correspondent "Alice" (Miss Alice T. Kinnier) has succumbed to the fascinations of one of the "Lords." Yesterday she was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Dr. Frank Lewis, the Rev. Mr. Gray performing the ceremony. We did not presume from the spirited manner in which she assailed the foibles of the stronger sex that she would so soon be caught in the toils of one of them. But change of mind is one of the inalienable rights of woman, and she is not slow as a general proposition to avail herself of it. But we hope Miss Alice, on closer acquaintance, will find man not such a horrid creature as she had imagined.—Lynch. Vir.

[Dr. Lewis is the son of Mr. Daniel W. Lewis of West End, Fairfax county, and his numerous friends here hope that his brightest anticipations of happiness in his new estate may be gratified to their fullest extent.]

THE TEMPLAR'S EXCURSION.—The excursion of Old Dominion Commandery, Knights Templar, took place at Marshall Hall, last night. As announced heretofore, they were accompanied by the Alexandria Light Infantry, who marched to the wharf at 7:30 p. m., commanded by Lieut. Geo. McBurney, jr., and preceeded by the Alexandria Musical Association.

On arriving at Marshall Hall the Infantry went through a simple drill and at a later period in the evening performed the "silent manual," on both of which occasions they received the well merited applause of those present.

The rest of the night, until after midnight, was spent in dancing, when the party re embarked for home.

DELEGATES APPOINTED.—Dr. E. P. Howland and Prof. Wm. Saunders have been appointed delegates from the Potomac Fruit Growers' Association to the National Convention of the United States Board of Trade, which meets in New York next Wednesday. Dr. Howland and Mr. N. W. Pierson have been elected delegates from the Woodlawn Club to the same convention. The main business of the convention will be the consideration of the World's Fair of 1883.

FREIGHT BUSINESS.—During the month of May, says the Front Royal Sentinel, in addition to 288 cords of tan bark reported last week as shipped from the depot of the Virginia Midland Railroad Company here, J. C. Jacobs, the agent, informs us that there were also sent off as freight, 742 barrels of flour, 31 tons of ground sumac, 1,135 sides of leather, and 1,889 pounds of wool. The freights from other points along the Midland road are reported as good.

POLICE ITEMS.—The following cases have been tried since yesterday.

Louisa Lucas, Forney Banks and Carrie Banks, all colored, for fighting and disorderly conduct were made to pay costs and to give security to keep the peace.

Harriet Lawson, colored, for stealing clothing from Alice Taylor and Mary Dorsey, the latter colored, was sent to jail for 60 days by Justice Padgett.

BRILLIANT WEDDING.—Mr. Chas. G. Miller, of Baltimore, and Miss Mary E. Gray, daughter of George D. Gray, esq., of Culpeper C. H., were married at the latter place on Wednesday night. Among the attendants were Miss Charles Smoot, and Messrs. Leonard Marbury, J. C. Smoot, and C. W. Ashby, of this city. The wedding was a most brilliant one.

THE ST. JOHN'S CADETS.—A note received here to day from Colton's Wharf, Md., states that the St. John's Cadets arrived there safely at 6.15 p. m. on Thursday, after a most delightful trip. The boys were all well, and no accidents had occurred.

CATTLE KILLED.—During the storm on Thursday a cow and calf belonging to Mr. Jno. Clagett, who resides near Moxley's Point, in Prince George's county, Maryland, were struck by lightning and instantly killed.

REAL ESTATE SALE.—F. A. Kerby, auctioneer, sold to day for Stuart and Smith, commissioners, a lot of ground on St. Asaph street near Gibbon, 30 feet by 123 feet, to Alfred Hamilton, for $360.

THE MARKET.—The market this morning was well supplied not only with the necessaries, but also with the luxuries of life. Buyers were plentiful and the sellers were kept busy.

Cause and effect are inseparable; and to nullify any effect the cause must be removed, particularly in disease. Dr. Bull's Baltimore Pills always work radically, and at once neutralize the effect of disease by eradicating the cause. Price only 25c.

Mr. W. E. Thornton, Baltimore, Md., means what he says when he asserts that his J. M. Larroque's Anti-Bilious Bitters will relieve the severest cases of Sick Headache or Constipation, and for any disease of the Liver or Stomach they are unsurpassed. Nervousness and Dyspepsia are quickly and effectually cured. He does not claim his Bitters to be a cure for all diseases, but those named above he will guarantee them to work like a charm. Don't take his assertion for it. The Bitters will talk for themselves; give them a trial. Sold by all druggists. Price 25c a package or $1 per bottle. W&S

FROM WASHINGTON.

Special Correspondence of the Alexa. Gazette.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 14, 1879.

Judge Harris's bill for returning to the States the money advanced by them to the federal government during the war stands third on the calendar for the next session. The way the Judge got it there was right cute. He makes himself friendly with all the members on both sides of the House, knowing that contingencies may require him to ask their aid. Being thus on good terms with Mr. Conger, the Michigan objector, he went to him yesterday, and said, "Conger, if you don't object to my bill somebody else will, so you must pursue your usual course; then I will ask you to withdraw your objection, and when you do that all the other possible objectors will imagine that if you agree to let it pass they can certainly have no good ground for opposing it, and so it will go through without any difficulty." Conger was so tickled at the importance given him that he entered into the agreement at once, and the most sanguine hopes that the friends of the bill entertained for it this session were realized. When the bill was before the committee one of the republican members suggested as an offset to it the direct taxes yet due the general government by some of the States to be benefited by the bill, and asserted that if the States that have come into the Union since the war of 1812 are to be taxed to pay this money, the States that yet owe the direct tax should certainly be made to pay it. This objection, however, did not hold, for the money due the States is due by the general government, while the direct tax is due the general government by individuals.

The House Committee on Banking and Currency adopted a resolution this morning calling upon Secretary Sherman for information respecting certain alleged crookedness in the relations existing between the Treasury Department and the contractors for supplying it with the paper upon which U. S. bonds and notes are printed.

The Spofford Kellogg contested election case was formally closed for this session to day, and the witnesses made glad by the reception of their fees and mileage. If perjury is work no men ever earned their wages more honestly. Other witnesses will be examined in New Orleans, and the case be re opened next session.

Among the bills objected to in the House by Mr. Conger to day, and that consequently had to go over, was the one pensioning the widows of Gen. Shields and Fletcher Webster. Gen. Johnston attempted to introduce a resolution authorizing the acceptance by Congress from Professor Fountain of some plans and maps of the Mississippi, but Gen. White objected, not, as he informed your correspondent, because he is opposed to the acceptance, but for the purpose of getting the House out of confusion, so that the regular order could be proceeded with.

The adjournment of Congress seems to be receding, and a prominent Senator intimated to-day that the President would probably veto all three of the appropriation bills, certainly the judicial, and that if Congress adjourned without providing for the appropriations contained in it, Mr. Hayes would call it together again immediately.

The House to day passed the Senate bill providing for a magnificent new postoffice in Baltimore, so that Mr. Hayes' signature is all that bill wants now to become a law.

The judicial appropriation bill was called up in the Senate after the morning hour to day, and the intention of the democratic Senators at this time is to sit until it shall have been passed.

The legislative bill as amended by the Senate was reported in the House to day and ordered to be printed. It is thought it cannot be reached before Tuesday, as on Monday the States must be called, and by the time that call is over the hour for the District bills will have arrived.

The subcommittee of the democratic caucus, to which Mr. Bayard's resignation of the chairmanship of the Finance Committee, and Mr. Coke's resolution relating to discharging that committee from the further consideration of the Warner Silver bill will, it is understood, report in favor of allowing that bill to be reported without amendment and put on the calendar for the next session, and against the acceptance of the resignation. It is also understood that Mr. Bayard has become satisfied and will agree to this arrangement. Some of that Senator's democratic colleagues, however, are by no means pleased with his course with regard to this bill and say that he has been obstinate and pig headed, and that if it were not for the talk that would be occasioned by his resignation, and the possible injury that talk might do the party, his resignation would not be so great a misfortune as some imagine.

The following synopsis of the census law will be interesting to those who contemplate applying for positions under it, and will save them the trouble of writing to their representatives in Congress about it, and save the latter the greater trouble of answering their letters:

The Superintendent of Census is appointed by the President and receives an annual salary of five thousand dollars. The Secretary of the Interior shall on or before the 1st day of March, 1880, designate the number, whether one or more, of Supervisors of Census for each State, who shall be residents thereof. The President, with consent of the Senate, appoints the Supervisors for each State. The total number of Supervisors not to exceed one hundred and fifty. Duties of each Supervisor in his district: To propose to the Superintendent the appointment of his district; to designate and, with consent of Superintendent, employ enumerators, one for each sub division, and resident therein, to be selected without reference to party affiliations. Each Supervisor receives five hundred dollars in full of all services rendered and expenses incurred by him, except allowance for clerk hire, at the discretion of Superintendent. In sub divisions, where the Superintendent shall deem such allowance sufficient, enumerators shall receive as compensation two cents for each living inhabitant, two cents for each death reported, ten cents for each farm and fifteen cents for each establishment of productive industry, and no other compensation is allowed. Sub divisions not to exceed four thousand inhabitants. The enumeration begins the first Monday in June, and must be completed on or before the first day of July, 1880, except in cities having over ten thousand inhabitants, then to be completed in two weeks from the first Monday in June.

Kate Dodson, the colored woman who attends to the ladies' gallery in the Senate, is now one of the best reconstructed of her race, though immediately after the war, and in fact until a change took place in the political complexion of the Senate, she was just the reverse. She obtained the appointment by reason of the notoriety she achieved by intruding herself into the ladies' car on the Alexandria and Washington Railroad, thereby necessitating her ejectment, for which she sued the company for injuries received, though the conductor used no more force than was required. There are many applicants for the position she now holds, some of whom are white, and it is by no means improbable that Kate will have to skip from the lucrative place she has held so long, but if protestations of admiration for conciliation and for letting bygones be bygones can be made the means of retaining it, Kate is not the woman to refrain from using them, for she like many another of a whiter skin is wise enough to appreciate the advantages of being on the strongest side.

A dispatch received here to day from Warrenton, Va., reports that an improvement took place in the condition of Gen. Payne's daughter yesterday, but that last night she relapsed, and that hopes of her recovery are being abandoned. In consequence of her illness the Pinafore Operetta that was to have been performed at Warrenton next Monday night has been postponed.
