SYMPTOMS REQUIRING AID FROM

SOUTHERN

Liver Regulator:

The general feeling of a person troubled with torpidity of the Liver is a sense of drowsiness and inability to attend to duties; bad taste in the month, pain in the back or shoulders, sour stomach, habitual constiveness, head feeling full, eyes feeling heavy and dull, and often become yellow, restlessness at night, and dryness of skin; in fact almost all of the more common diseases may be attributed to a diseased liver.

FOR—

LIVER COMPLAINT

THE SYMPTOMS OF LIVER COMPLAINT are uneasiness and pain in the side, sometimes pain in the shoulder, and is mistaken for rheumatism; the stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; bowels, in general, constive, sometimes alternating with lax; the head is troubled with pain and dull, heavy sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done; often complaining of weakness, debility and low spirits.

Sometimes many of the above symptoms attend the disease and at other times very few of them—hence the Liver is generally the organ most involved.

REGULATE THE LIVER AND PREVENT

Dyspepsia, Constipation, Jaundice, Bilious Attacks, Chills and Fever, Head Ache, Colic, Depression of Spirits, Sour Stomach, Heartburn, Flies, Etc. Etc. Etc.

TONIC, ALTERNATIVE and CATHARTIC.

Simmons Liver Regulator, purely vegetable, is the medicine generally used in the South to arouse the torpid Liver to healthy action. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy on the Liver and Kidneys. The action of the Regulator is free from nausea or griping. It is most effective in stimulating the secretions of the Liver, causing the bile to act as a cathartic.
When there is an excess of bile in the stomach, the Regulator is an active purger; after the removal of the bile it will regulate the bowels and impart vigor and health to the whole system.

DON'T STOP MY PAPER.

Don't stop my paper, printer, Don't strike my name off yet;
You know the times are stringent,
And dollars are hard to get;
But tug a little harder Is what I mean to do,
And scrape the dimes together, Enough for me and you.

I can't afford to drop it;
I find it doesn't pay
To do without a paper, However others may.
I hate to ask my neighbors
To give me theirs on loan;
They don't just say but mean it.
Why don't you have your own?

You can't tell how we miss it, If it, by any fate,
Should happen not to reach us,
Or comes a little late:
Then all is in a hubbub,
And everything's awry,
And, printer, if you're married You know the reason why.

I cannot do without it,
It is no use to try.
For other people take it,
And, printer, so must I.
So I must have my paper, Cost what it may to me,
I'd rather dock my sugar,
And do without my tea.

So, printer, don't stop it, Unless you want my frown,
For here's the year's subscription,
And credit it right down,
And send the paper promptly And regularly on,
And let it bring us weekly
Its welcomed benison.

BABY IS DEAD.

One of the most touchingly beautiful tributes to a dead baby that has fallen under our notice for many a day is from the editor of the Telegraph Operator:—

"Baby is dead!" Three little words passed along the line; copied somewhere and soon forgotten. But after all was quiet again, I leaned my hand upon my head, and fell into a deep reverie of all that those words mean. Somewhere—a dainty form, still and cold, unclasped by mother's arms to-night. Eyes that yesterday were bright and blue as skies of June drooped to-night beneath white lids that no voice can ever raise again.

Two soft hands, whose rose-leaf fingers were wont to wander lovingly around mother's neck and face, loosely holding white buds, quietly folded in confused rest. Soft lips, yesterday rippling with laughter, sweet as woodland brook falls, gay as trill of forest birds; to-night unresponsive to kiss or call of love. A silent home —the patter of baby feet forever hushed—a cradle bed suppressed, little shoes half worn—dainty garments, shoulder knots of blue to match those eyes of yesterday, folded with aching heart away. A tiny mound snow-covered in some quiet graveyard. A mother's groping touch in uneasy slumber, for the fair head that shall never again rest upon her bosom. The low sob, the bitter tear, as broken dreams awake to sad reality. The hope of future years wrecked, like fair ships that suddenly go down in sight of land. The watching of other babies, dimpled, laughing, strong, and this one gone!

The present agony of grief, the future emptiness of heart, are held in those three little words—"Baby is dead!" Indeed, it is well that we copy and soon forget the words so freighted with woe to those who receive and send them. And yet it cannot harm us now and then to give a tender thought to those for whom our careless pen-stroke is preparing such a weight of grief.

—A New York paper gives a remarkable instance of the veridancy of some young mothers. One up-der was one morning bathing the baby for the first time, when the grandmother in passing through the room noticed that the water was cold. Instead of adding warm water the mother placed the bath tub with the baby in it on a small gas stove and waited for further developments. The developments came as soon as the bottom of the tub began to get extra warm. The offspring gave one yell, when the fond mother, grandmother and two servants rushed to the rescue. In the future grandmother will wash the baby, while the mother reads up on the cares of a mother, and how to bring up children.

—Young lady are you cross, nervous and fretful? Have you spells of melancholy, or are you wakeful nights? How is your memory, and do you feel vigorous? Are you pale, feeble and inactive? If so, use one or two bottles of Dr. Dromgoole's English Female Bitters, it will restore you to health in every particular and make you feel bright, bou-yant and happy.

FASHION NOTES.

—Shirring is out of favor.

—Vells are not worn with pokes.

—The word chudda means shawl.

—Brown furs are restored to favor.

—Black pearls are mourn in mourning.

—Pointed trains supersede square ones.

—New trays for cards are made of plush.

—Bangs must not extend across the temples.

—Scrap baskets are shaped like antique vases.

—Soft pillows of plush are labelled "lean on me."

—Mother Hubbard dolls are the favorite this year.

—Breast feathers rival ostrich tips for small bonnets.
