THURSDAY EVENING, SEPT. 15

SUICIDE AT SEA.—As the steamship Austria, of the Anchor line, lay in her berth at pier 40 North river, on the 29th of July, a man about 30 years of age came aboard from the busy pier and said that he was an Englishman, out of money and anxious to return to England. If given an opportunity, he added, he would be glad to work for his passage home. Chief Engineer Murray said that he could find a vacancy as a coal passer, and told the man to come aboard with no luggage, if he had any, as soon as he could. Some hours later the man came aboard with a trunk. He said that his name was Pinkerton. Some of the firemen of the Atlantic speak of him as a youngish man, of comparatively slight build, and, to all appearances, unused to manual labor. The Austria sailed at 8 o'clock on the morning of the 31st of July. When she reached England her officers reported to the Board of Trade of London that Pinkerton was missing. He went on duty at noon on the 31st of July. The engine room was so hot that the veteran firemen and coal passers had to come up to the deck frequently to cool off. Pinkerton was detailed to go into the coal bunkers and shovel coal down so that the firemen could reach it easily. He hesitated to enter the airless bunkers. The regular firemen ordered him in, and when he drew back, opened the grate doors upon him. Unable to stand the terrific heat he cried, "I would rather jump overboard than work here," and hurried up to the deck. Chief Engineer Murray followed him, and ordered him back to duty. He said that he was exhausted by the heat, and that he could not work in the bunkers. But the chief engineer repeated the order. Pinkerton said that he must get a drink of water, and he moved quickly forward. He was not seen again, and it is possible that he leaped overboard to escape the suffering in store for him in the engine room.

From having been intimate with the proprietors of "Swift's Syphilitic Specific," I have known much of its manufacture and use. There are men in this community who were victims in early life to Syphilis, and who have taken too S. S. S. medicine, and are now, to all appearances and in their own belief, as free from taint of disease as the first man, fresh from the hands of his Maker. Delicacy forbids their public recommendations, but I am allowed to refer the skeptic privately to those who will endorse everything that can be said in its favor. Being professionally much opposed to recommending secret remedies, it is with hesitation I attach my name to this article; but I know whereof I speak when I say our science has not made public a combination equal to "Swift's Syphilitic Specific" for the purpose indicated.
