No Americans in the Line.

The Chicago News says editorially: "No true hearted American citizen could view the anarchist procession which marched through the streets of Chicago Sunday without emotions of a conflicting nature. It was a display at once pitiful and reassuring. That something more than five thousand persons, men, women and children, should avail themselves of the funeral of five murderers to advertise their sympathy with lawlessness must be regretted. In the procession were no flags or banners expressive of hatred to American institutions and American society, but on every breast was pinned the blood red sign of revolution and destruction. To plain common sense it appears inexplicable that five thousand, or ten thousand, or one hundred men, in the light of day should wear the crimson ribbon and march in the trail of executed murderers. In the place of banners, flower pieces with mottoes were borne aloft, the word "martyrs" being a favorite among these, vieing with a white dove in its appropriateness. The red flag that, in obedience to the Mayor's prohibition, was banished from the air, rested upon the coffins of the hanged Engel and the self-destroyed Lingg. Behind the hearse bearing the body of Parsons followed what must be regarded as the remnants of No. 1307, the suspended knights of labor assembly of which he was once a member. Otherwise, there was no indication that the great labor organization had any sympathy with anarchy or mourned its executed leaders. Clearing the way before the procession marched a Grand Army veteran, bearing a cheap Fourth of July copy of the Stars and Stripes, emblazoned with the battles in which he had fought. This was the only flag displayed along the march. Its presence, the freak of a half-cracked brain, was resented by the anarchists. They had been prohibited from carrying the red flag, and they appealed to the police to prevent the veteran from flaunting the Stars and Stripes before the corpses of their brethren. For once the police would fain have obliged the anarchists but they dared not. The old man shook his flag in the face of anarchy, and said he had braved death under its folds upon the battle-field, and he was prepared to die under it there. The police started to prevent this affront to anarchy in the presence of its dead, but the crowd upon the sidewalk surged forward, and cheering for the old veteran and the national emblem, forced the police back. From the Lake street viaduct to the depot the Stars and Stripes held its place at the head of the procession, and was cheered all along the route. This was significant of the temper of the citizens of Chicago. In all the procession, as far as the eye of a spectator could determine, there was not an American face. This was significant of the composition of the procession."

THE AFFLICTED PRINCE.—The present growth in the Crown Prince Frederick's throat consists of a gradual increase. As the Prince has declared himself opposed to the extirpation of the whole larynx, difficulty of breathing will sooner or later arise, and probably necessitate tracheotomy. The physicians recommend that he spend the winter in the South, where it will be more possible to maintain his present strength. Precautions have been taken at San Remo to have surgical assistance in readiness in case tracheotomy is decided upon. The swelling in the throat has almost disappeared. The Prince will walk out to-day, weather permitting, for the first time in a week. He has decided to remain at San Remo for the winter. Prince Henry will pass Christmas with his father. The Berlin Reichsanzleiger makes the statement that, during the examination at San Remo of the Crown Prince's larynx, the physicians were able to ascertain that the malady consisted of a malignant new growth, mainly situated below the left vocal chord, and back of the margin of the larynx. Small beginnings of growth were also percepible on the right side. Up to this time the ailment has been local, and has not affected the Crown Prince's general health, but now there is danger. The National Gazette states that Dr. Bramann, the senior assistant of Dr. Bergmann, has gone to San Remo to be in readiness to assist his chief if the operation of tracheotomy is performed on the Crown Prince. The Emperor of Brazil has paid a visit to the Prince and his family at San Remo.

A BOMB EXPLODED.—A bomb was exploded in the Iowa Iron Works in Dubuque, Iowa, at a late hour Monday night. The works are running a night force, and of them some twenty workmen were employed on a large boiler in the boiler shop. They were startled by a sudden explosion, some fifteen or twenty feet away on the other side of the boiler. It made a terrible noise and was heard in many parts of the city. The bomb, which was picked up, was made of inch and a half gas pipe about two feet long; one end was still intact, plugged up with a cap and a hole in the pipe near it for a fuse. The pipe was split in several pieces. Fortunately the explosion was all in one direction—away from the men. The floor-log and parts of the building were set on fire, but speedily extinguished by the men. No other damage was done. It is a miracle that there was not a great loss of life. It is supposed the bomb was thrown in an open window. The works here fear no trouble at all with their men, but have been running a double force for nine months. It is thought that the bomb was prepared by some one having a grudge against the work, or else by an out and out anarchist. It was filled with either dynamite or gun cotton. The bomb is now in possession of the city police marshal, and the anarchists are being hunted for.

But heavenly portrait of bright angel's hue,
Clear as the sky, without a blame or blot,
Through goodly mixture of complexions due.
And in her cheeks the vermeil red did show."

This is the poet's description of a woman whose physical system was in a perfectly sound and healthy state, with every function acting properly, and is the enviable condition of its fair patrons produced by Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription." Any druggist.
