NEWS AND GOSSIP.

A negro named Crockett, employed on the lower wharf-boat, says the Memphis (Tenn.) Argus of the 23d, yesterday rescued a passenger on the new United States, who accidentally fell overboard, and then plunged in a second time and secured the stranger's carpet-bag, which had sunk beneath the surface. For his heroic conduct the large-souled stranger gave him ten cents. Some persons present shamed the man for his meanness, but Crockett said "Nebber mind; de gemman knows best how much his life is worth."

During the last ten years the Aurora Borealis was never seen in California, except on very rare occasions, and then the sight was very faint or barely visible, until the 28th ultimo, when it appeared in wonderful splendor, the whole northern part of the sky being of a bright crimson color, and the same phenomenon, with equal magnificence, was repeated on the night of the 1st inst.

St. Louis—The Fair—Street Railroads, &c.

A few days absence from Cincinnati, at St. Louis, furnishes us with a budget of items, which we offer our readers fresh from the field of observation. St. Louis is an improving city, and, barring her muddy streets, she is progressing with giant strides in various municipal improvements.

FIRE-ALARM TELEGRAPH.

St. Louis surpasses us in this department. She has had the sagacity to purchase from Cincinnati, eight steam fire-engines and to erect telegraphic wires to all the engine-houses. In each district of four squares is a box, by applying a key to which a signal is given at the City Hall of the breaking out of a fire in any district. Cincinnati should improve upon this at once, and erect a police and fire-alarm telegraph.

DETECTIVE POLICE—POLICE CONVENTION.

Captain Lewis Wilson, Chief of Cincinnati Police; David M. Bleaks and Jack Fletcher, of the regular detectives, were of service in the city and on the fair-ground in shortening the stay of rogues in St. Louis. They found there "Mystic Jimmy," "Bill Olive" and "Jack Gibson," who, on a warning that they would be jailed if they remained in St. Louis, took the hint and vamosed. The only pick-pocket arrested on the fair-ground was nabbed by the Cincinnati Detective Jack Fletcher. This was a noted thief and was hurried from the city in double quick time, on similar warning. On Thursday evening, members of the detective police and regular police force of various cities, East and West, had a preliminary meeting, and, in a body, waited upon Mayor Filley. On Saturday night a national convention took place, those present compared notes, exchanged items, and gossiped about plans.

The meeting took place in the office of Marshall Rawlings. The organization was effected by choosing as officers—Capt. Lewis Wilson of Cincinnati, President; Capt. Samuel Garrett of Memphis, Vice-President; Marshal Jacob Rhein of Chicago, Secretary. The following Executive Committee was appointed to arrange a plan of action for concert throughout the United States, by which the police of various cities may communicate more intelligently and effectually for the suppression of crime and detection of criminals—they to arrange some central place and time for a general convention of marshals and police officers of the various States in the Union, viz.: Capt. Lewis Wilson, Cincinnati; Marshal Rawlings, St. Louis; Capt. Ray, Louisville, and Marshal Rhein, of Chicago.

ST. LOUIS FAIR—A LESSON TO CINCINNATI.

The St. Louis Fair was a financial success; a great advertisement to the city; for its getting up a fair and an attendance which left a quarter of a million of dollars or more among hotel keepers, transporters, merchants, feeders, &c. This enterprise was conducted by a stock company; the prominent business men of the city. The Hon. J. R. Barrett is President of the corporation—and the ablest of the financial managers of the city take an interest in its management. They have their own grounds—pay liberal premiums—have the best arranged and conducted establishment in the country. They make money by a judicious use of money. Cincinnati may profit by this example. Take the hint, business men, at once. St. Louis business men also advertise liberally.

Missouri has had the sagacity to reap strength from the strength of even the most distant States. Illinois, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Ohio and other States, have, by their representatives, been brought to the banks of the Mississippi to entertain thousands within the limits of St. Louis, which has reaped a golden harvest from the wealthy exhibit of skill in design and execution of foreign artists. Kentucky won a thousand-dollar premium for her unsurpassed stock in cattle. Ohio, in her well-trained premium roadster stallion in harness—and, again, Kentucky won the blue ribbon for the best thoroughbred stallion—while Missouri bore few honors away in valuable prizes, except for her unsurpassed skill in getting up and conducting a national fair.

THE VICTORY WORTHILY WON BY OHIO.

A few years ago a rumor was current in Cincinnati that a superior horse could be obtained in Stockbridge County, New York, which could make most excellent time. This horse was finally obtained by Joseph Cooper, of Hamilton County, Ohio, for $4,000, and has been in the mean time under the judicious training of that most graceful, as well as enthusiastic master in his art, George Cream, of Cincinnati. Wherever George appeared with "Stockbridge Chief," he won. The horse under the rein of his trainer in the St. Louis amphitheater, on Friday last, was a sight worthy of the classic days. Of twenty-two grooms in the ring, George Cream, dressed in white cap, pants and round-about, was the tasty artistic handler of the ribbons. "Stockbridge" looked indeed a "Chief." He bore himself gallantly. When the chariots, the horses and their drivers, all coursed around the arena, the blood thrilled in the veins of twenty thousand spectators, hushed in silence while the contest proceeded, but when the shouts for all other horses competing had died away, Cream alit from his seat, and, after wiping his horse's mouth with his white handkerchief, drove around the ring—the harness, in Carrick's neatest style, all in precise order—the horse seemed animated with the fire of victory, but the driver held the reins, even with his eye, in the gentle grasp of only two fingers of one hand; at this a deafening shout from the vast amphitheater paid involuntary tribute to the gentleness, as well as the size, firm, action, style and endurance, of the Cincinnati chestnut-sorrel. The judges advanced and placed on the proud neck of "Stockbridge," the star-studded, blue ribbon of superiority, which award was followed by the popular acclaim, in a succession of full-mouthed cheers. All States represented agreed that the right horse had won the $1,000 purse.

STREET RAILROADS.

Street railroads have been doing a wondrous business while the fair continued at St. Louis. They are always filled in ordinary times. There are five or six lines, some of them having fifteen cars. The Broadway line has double tracks, and proves to be but a nominal obstruction or obstruction to the travel or ordinary business. We travelled over several lines. The Market-street lines are omnibus-bodies, the horses in shaft attached to the coach; the horses are in place at the terminus; the car revolving on a pivot. We noticed on this line that there are no conductors, and that no money is allowed to be paid to the driver. If the passenger has no exact change, he drops it in Lawson's Patented Box, near the driver, but locked so that he has no control of it, but can see through the glass cover if payment has been made. If the passenger has a large piece of money, large letters of direction indicate him to pay the same to driver, who returns the full amount in change. When the passenger places the five cent-piece into the Automaton Treasury-box, which is relieved of its contents at the close of the day.

Those lines having but a single track have occasional turn-out and switches, which are adroitly entered while the car meeting passes, and both go to their destination without detention or danger.

The Olive-street line, passing up what is called the Fifth-avenue, does not run on Sunday. It and the line on the adjacent street is owned by a private company, of which Mr. Erastus Wells is President. The other lines run on Sunday and are crowded with passengers.

Texas—Indians and Yellow Fever.

The Indians, it appears, are out in great force on the Rio Grande frontier, overrunning the country and committing extensive depredations unchecked. The Postmaster at Corpus Christi writes to the Galveston News, on the 19th September, as follows:

I have just received the inclosed slip from the Postmaster at Laredo, and on questioning the mail-rider, I find that the Indians have swept an immense number of horses from our exposed frontier, near Laredo, and below it, along the Rio Grande, and from the outlying stock-farms, lately established.

The wholly defenseless condition of that part of our frontier—since the withdrawal of the United States troops from the posts below Eagle Pass, (Fort Duncan,) on the Rio Grande—has been most inviting to the numerous bands of Indians that range the Mexican country in front, (on the west bank of the Rio Grande,) without intermission; and there is no obstacle to the savages swooping down even upon the Nueces Valley, as it has no troops to defend it. It is reported that already the Indians have succeeded in driving off three thousand head of stock, "at one fell swoop." You ought to call the attention of "the proper authorities" (?) to this order of things, so ruinous and scandalous.

We talk magnificently about "taking Mexico" and "annexing Cuba," "against the world in arms," and can not afford a few companies of troops to protect our Rio Grande frontier, below Eagle Pass to Fort Brown, against marauding bands of cowardly Mexicans or bare-backed Indians.

The Laredo Postmaster's note, inclosed by the Corpus Christi Postmaster, is dated September 15, and is as follows:

"From thirty to forty Indians have come down upon us, robbing us of stock, and killing people with impunity. A party of nineteen citizens went, last Sunday, 11th inst., in pursuit, and have not returned up to date."

The Houston Telegraph, of the 22d, says:

There are to-day, as far as we can hear, eight cases of yellow fever under treatment in town, of which four or five have been taken since our report on Wednesday, and the balance are convalescing. There have been in all five deaths reported by the city sexton, of this disease. It does not as yet appear to be spreading. The names of the persons who have died are A. W. Holman, Catrina Stoffle, George Baker, John Day, and one other whose name we have not ascertained.

Compressed Air, as a Means of Communicating Power.

Messrs. Debain, Botton and Zellier have recently applied to the Prefect of the Seine for permission to lay mains through the streets of Paris for the introduction and circulation of compressed air. "This enterprise," as they say in their application, "consists in the compression of air by means of large establishments, which we erect outside of the city, the compressed air to be led through the whole city by a system of pipes similar to those used for the distribution of gas, so furnishing a means of power and life wherever it may be needed. It is well known that it requires considerable time to set up the ordinary machines for obtaining power; whereas we can introduce ours generally in a half a day, and in the most difficult cases in two days, and when this is once done, the operative who uses it is perfect master of it. He can run it by day or by night, and can begin and end work whenever he pleases without interfering with his neighbor. The amount of power furnished is measured by a meter. He has no boiler to heat, and loses none of the power which is lost in the ordinary use of steam. In a word, it is power domesticated.

"And this air is not confined in its use to the moving of machinery. A simple cock will replace the cumbrous bellows in the smiths' shops, and will furnish much more oxygen, the air being more compressed than by the bellows, producing a more perfect and much more intense combustion. Those trades which require a continuous or occasional draught of air will always have it at hand.

"It will also be of great use in the economical heating of buildings, as a current of compressed air blowing the fire in the furnace will produce a perfect combustion of the fuel. The power which it gives may be applied to elevating water into the upper stories, and much other work.

"The health of the city will be improved by the diminution of smoke, which will, in the end, be entirely consumed. Hospitals, sewers, workshops, tenant-houses, and places of public assembly may be ventilated by a current of compressed air more cheaply than in any other way.

"The price at which it will be furnished to the public for use will place it within the reach of all.

"There is no danger to be apprehended from it; even should the pressure be so great as one hundred and fifty pounds to the square inch, tubes can easily be made which will sustain it, and if a tube should burst, the air streaming out would be no injury, except by its loss to us."

GARIBALDI AND THE MUNICIPALITY OF COMO.—The Municipality of Como having informed Gen. Garibaldi of their intention of erecting a monument in commemoration of the battle of San Fermo, the General has replied as follows, from Modena:

"The engagements which took place in May last in your town and neighborhood are worthy of being recorded. Great, indeed, was the bravery of the riflemen of the Alps, most of whom belonged to your population. How can I express my gratitude toward you? For the little I have done you have held me up to the esteem of Italy, and even of distant nations. Ten years ago, when I had the honor of fighting on the soil of Lombardy, I covered the national banner with scorn, because it had been forced to yield to the pressure of the foreigner. That act weighed on my heart for ten years, while I hoped to return and fight again on your fields. May God, who has fulfilled these hopes, bless the thankful and religious people that has suffered so much.

AFFAIR OF HONOR.—It was generally understood in this city yesterday that a duel would occur during the day on the Arkansas shore, opposite Memphis, between Major Felix Labauve and John M. Dockery, Esq., of De Soto County, Mississippi. The affair grew out of an offense alleged to have been given by Mr. Dockery, which led to a challenge. It was understood that the meeting would take place at four o'clock yesterday afternoon, and the principals and their friends, accompanied by a large party of cigar spectators, were on the ground long before the appointed hour. The questions of differences were submitted to referees, who failed to agree upon a basis of reconciliation. In the midst of the negotiations, the authorities of Crittenden County, Arkansas, appeared upon the ground and stopped proceedings.—Memphis Appeal, Sept. 28.

The Duke of Argyle thinks highly of Mrs. H. B. Stowe—thinks she can't be spoiled; but the Duke does not approve of a woman appearing on a platform in public, unless she is going to be hanged, when, he says, "it is unavoidable."

Caloric engines have already been set to work in England and Ireland. In Sweden the new motor is in full operation.

REPORTED FOR THE PENNY PRESS.

Noon Dispatches.

Arrival of the Overland Mail.

ST. LOUIS, October 3.

The Overland Mail, with advices from San Francisco to the 9th ult., arrived here last night. Since the sailing of the steamer of the 5th instant, business has been a good deal interfered with by the State election, and but a light demand for goods from the country has been experienced.

A number of arrivals have occurred from Atlantic and foreign ports from which few sales are reported. The market remains firm and the quotations unchanged. The British ship Forrest Monarch, was wrecked on the 24th of August, while on her way from San Francisco to Puget Sound.

The State election on the 7th resulted in the undoubted choice of Milton S. Latham, Lecompton Democrat, for Governor, by a very large majority, probably 20,000.

Scott and Burchall are probably elected to Congress, although their opponents, Baker and McKibben, who received the united vote of the Republicans and Anti-Lecomptons, have the benefit of a slight doubt in their favor.

The Anti-Lecompton candidate for State Printer, who was also supported by the Republicans, has a chance of election.

With these possible exceptions, the Democratic Lecompton State Ticket is elected by an immense majority.

Both branches of the Legislature are largely Democratic.

It will be a week before the official returns can be counted.

The People's Reform Ticket, being the regular succession of that inaugurated in 1856 by the Vigilance Committee, has again triumphed for Lieutenant-Governor in San Francisco by a handsome majority.

Crops in Europe.

NEW YORK, October 3.

The money article of the New York Herald says: Private advices from England state that the crop both in that country and throughout Europe, with the exception of Prussia, is not threshing, but, as was expected, the actual yield of wheat will be very much below an average of Great Britain, France and Russia.

Under the circumstances, considering the reported spread of the potato disease, some British houses write us that they looked for a fair export from this side. At present prices do not permit of grain exporting to England at a profit.

A small purchase was made on Friday for English account, and it is understood that some thousands of bushels have been bought for England at Baltimore, but a comparison of the quotations shows that either our prices must fall or the English prices rise before wheat or flour can be shipped profitably. There are indications of an advance in Great Britain, but, as usual, is being anticipated in the West, and the object may thus be defeated.

From Washington.

PHILADELPHIA, October 3.

A special Washington dispatch to the North American, says:

"It is well known in filibuster circles here that another formidable expedition is preparing against Nicaragua. A portion of the expedition has already succeeded in leaving New York and Charleston, but the parties will make no suspicious demonstration until all the plans are matured, and the full force is upon the spot ready for action.

"Colonel Wheat, now in New York, will have an important position in the new crusade.

"These facts can be implicitly relied upon, and our Government should be awake to their importance."

Gas.

WILMINGTON, DEL., October 3.

On Saturday evening the city works entertained a large party to witness the manufacture of gas from water. The demonstration was, in every respect, satisfactory, the light being very pure and brilliant. One twenty-seventh of the usual capacity of the works can supply the whole city with this gas, at all elevations. The light, in burners suited to the density of the gas, was admirable. It is manufactured under Dr. Sanders's Cincinnati Patent, and is cheaper and cleaner than that made from coal.

The Directors of the Philadelphia City Works and many scientific gentlemen were delighted with the success of the demonstration.

Fire in New York.

NEW YORK, October 3.

The immense lager beer brewery of Messrs. Speyers was entirely destroyed last night. The loss is estimated at $250,000, upon which there is an insurance of $145,000.

Fire at Sing Sing.

NEW YORK, October 3.

A conflagration occurred yesterday in Sing Sing Prison, destroying the tile and augur shops and dye-house. The loss is $80,000.

River News.

PITTSBURG, October 3—M.

River four feet six inches by the pier-mark and at a stand. Weather clear.

A WONDERFUL CANNON.—A most wonderful long ranged cannon, invented by Mr. Jeffries, patentee of the well-known marine glue, is in course of being mounted in the Royal Arsenal, Woolwich, for experiments at Chorburyness. Its range is spoken of as certain to eclipse every other weapon hitherto known. The gun, with its massive bore, a three-inch diameter, weighs seven tuns, and presents an appearance (with the exception of the present clumsy aim-tube) not unlike that of our sixty-pounder. The charge will consist of sixteen pounds of powder and a conically shaped shot, weighed with lead to nine pounds, and bollowed similar to the Minie bullet, which it is presumed will be propelled fifteen or twenty miles. Mr. Jeffries, it is stated, has secured his construction that it would carry from Dover to Calais. It is the intention of the authorities to carry out a tried and complicated course of experiments under the inspection of the Select Committee of Woolwich Arsenal. After being satisfied of its power in its present form, the bore will be progressively increased to a sixty-eight pounder. To enable the gunners to point the gun, the trunnions will be fitted with a couple of telescopes, to assist the eye over the enormous range predicted.—European Times.

THE MAMMOTH BALLOON.—The mammoth balloon of T. S. C. Lowe, to be exhibited on Reservoir-square, the site of the Crystal Palace, is about three hundred feet in hight and one hundred and fifty feet in diameter. A metallic boat thirty feet long, provided with two paddle-wheels eight feet in diameter, is attached below the balloon to steam through the atmosphere as well as to serve as a life-boat if dipped into the water. The boat is to be propelled by an Ericsson caloric engine of four-horse power, fed with fine coal and alcohol. An ascent will be made from Reservoir-square early in October. The Common Council of New York City have granted the temporary use of the square for that purpose.

The peach crop in New England the present season is small, and the quality by no means good.
