MR. A. TENNER and Mr. Trautman were thrown from their vehicle yesterday afternoon in a runaway at the corner of Wade and Elm streets. They fell upon the bowlders, but sustained no serious injuries.

THE alarm of fire from box No. 194, about 5 o'clock last night, was caused by the ignition of a quantity of shavings in a cellar of a house on Freeman street near Bank. Loss trifling.

THE ordinance to establish Street Railroad Route No. 10 was laid over to the next meeting, by the Board of Aldermen yesterday, when the Engineer will report the number of feet the proposed route runs over Route 13.

CITY SOLICITOR Strong, at the meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Cincinnati Hospital, held that the Worthington law did not apply to the Hospital. The opinion was ordered to be recordered on the journal of the Board.

AT the Grand Hotel last night pools for the Newport races, commending today, were sold by T. J. Biggs, with Henry Otten, of Newport, as Treasurer. Colonel Wash. Grant was on hand in Newport last night, but no pools were sold.

ORDINANCES to appropriate money were passed by the Board of Aldermen yesterday, as follows: $1,485, to pay A. S. Winslow, for property taken to widen Culvert street; $1,207, to pay Charles Harkness & Co., for property taken to widen Culvert street.

THE attempt was made yesterday afternoon in the Board of Health to abolish the Sanitary Police force, but was defeated by a vote of four to three, Messrs. Miner, Thomas and Mayor Johnston voting aye, and Messrs. Baum, Fratz, Schultz and Bramble nay. The object of the proposed action was a reduction of expenses.

LIEUTENANT CROWLEY and two officers from Newport, last night, arrested young Hildebrand at the residence of his uncle, near the Oliver-street Station. Hildebrand was taken across the river, where he is wanted for having seriously stabbed Richard Hoops in the neck last Sunday evening at the corner of Central avenue and Mayo street.

A COMMUNICATION from the Mayor was received by the Board of Aldermen yesterday conveying an ordinance to prohibit street sprinkling by carts or companies, except by permission of the Health Department. The ordinance, after being amended by striking out Health Department and inserting the Board of Improvements, was carried.

Any information of its whereabouts may be left at No. 3 Cassily row, No. 4 Pike street, or No. 18 Friendship alley, and will be gratefully received by the afflicted parents.

MESSRS. TWACHTMAN, Sutton, Brunswick, Saffin and Voight were appointed by the Board of Alderman yesterday, a committee of five, to report at the next meeting "the correct amount of the liabilities created while there was no money in the City Treasury, and to whom and for what purpose it is due. Also, to report the amount of money due the city at the time this said debt was created, and from whom and for what the same is due."

The Worthington Law and the Board of Health.

The following is Solicitor Strong's opinion regarding the application of the Worthington Law to the Board of Health:

"CITY OF CINCINNATI,
SOLICITOR'S OFFICE, July 13, 1875.

To the Board of Health:

"Gentlemen—You have called upon me to answer whether the Board of Health is governed by the provisions of the Worthington Law. The principal duties and powers of the Board are defined by Sections 306, 307, 308 and 320 of the Municipal Code. These sections were amended April 20, 1874, since passage of the Worthington Law. Section 306, as amended, reads as follows:

"When expenses shall be incurred by the Board of Health under the provisions of this act, it shall be the duty of the Council, upon application and certificate from said Board of Health, to pass the necessary appropriating ordinances to pay the expenses so incurred and certified; and the Council is hereby empowered to levy, subject to restrictions of Section 648 of the Municipal Code, and set apart the necessary sum to carry into effect the provisions of this act; and all moneys heretofore levied and unexpended for the purposes mentioned and provided for herein, shall be transferred to the funds, and placed under the control of the Board of Health.

"It will be seen that this section requires that where any expense is incurred by the Board of Health, under the provisions of said amended sections of the Municipal Code, it is the imperative duty of Council to provide for the payment of the same. By the said amended Sections 306, 307 and 308, new duties and powers are imposed upon the Board of Health, and this having been done since the passage of the Worthington Law, the expense incurred in carrying into effect these new powers and duties must be paid. I am of the opinion, therefore, that the Worthington Law does not apply to your Board.

"Very respectfully,
"ROBT. O. STRONG, City Solicitor."

A similar opinion was, as mentioned elsewhere, rendered regarding the Hospital Fund.

Marriage Licenses.

The following marriage licenses were issued since our last report:

J. G. Reinhardt and Franciska Geug.
Rodney Brookins and Mollie Bird.
Geo. J. Streng and Katie Poggenclick.
Daniel Canity and Mary L. Monogena.

THE authorities of New Albany, Ind., ask Col. Snelbaker by letter whether John Snipp, who is in jail at the above place, is wanted in Cincinnati. He is supposed to have stolen a gold ring, which was pawned at Frank Smith's, a lady's gold chain with cross attached, and a pair of opera-glasses, pawned in Louisville, and a silver goblet marked M. A. Ellett.

A GRAND picnic is to be given at Parlor Grove to-morrow by the Cathedral congregation, for the benefit of the poor. Arrangements have been in progress for some time to make this picnic one of the most attractive of the season, and it will undoubtedly prove such. The elegant excursion steamer Andy Baum has been chartered for the occasion, and on both the morning and noon trips will touch the foot of Fifth street. Abundant refreshments and excellent music have been provided for.

The President's Son-in-Law.

On Saturday evening a number of young gentlemen of sporting proclivities were gathered in the West End Hotel, Long Branch. Very naturally the conversation between drinks turned upon physical development, and more naturally still, the impulsive youths began to bear their arms to show the size of their muscle. Of all the arms shown, those of Mr. Sartoris, President Grant's son-in-law, and Mr. Goicouria, a young stock broker, were the most muscular. Each of these gentlemen exhibited knotted cords which would have done honor to a prize-fighter, and each showed as much pride as muscle, talking with that liberality which Piper Heidsick and Mumm's Extra Dry always inspire.

The upshot of the big talk was an agreement between the two gentlemen named to test their strength and skill in a glove fight. Mr. Goicouria wished to fight without delay, but as the hour was late, it was at length decided to defer it until Monday, and to select a stable belonging to the Hon. Thos. Murphy as the place of meeting.

The stable stands back of Ocean avenue, and not far from the cottage presented to President Grant by the Hon. Thomas Murphy, George Washington Childs, A. M., and others. It is a spacious building, and the main floor afforded abundant space for the fistic encounter.

At 10 o'clock on Monday morning the friends of the contestants drove from the West End Hotel to Mr. Murphy's stable, six coaches being well filled with sport-loving young men. It is said, also, that President Grant, Mr. Thomas Murphy and his son, George Washington Childs, A. M., and other cottagers in the aristocratic neighborhood, walked over to the scene and manifested great interest in the sport; but as to this point all who were present are peculiarly reticent. Indeed, like the Beecher jury, they were sworn to secrecy, although enough has leaked out to justify the following description of the thrilling contest:

At about 11 o'clock the men stripped to the buff, both showing magnificent muscle, and both being in good fighting condition. Although rather below the size of his opponent, Mr. Sartoris seemed to be harder in flesh and able to stand more punishment; and in the preliminary sparring it was plain that his knowledge of the noble science of self-defense was greater than that of his adversary. But in point of strength and quickness of foot Mr. Goicouria had all the advantage.

The first round was a cautious one on both sides, although Mr. Goicouria got in a left-hand facer, which Mr. Sartoris reciprocated with a neat clip on the side of the head, administered with his right. Then followed a series of feints and parries, and the round ended.

Mr. Sartoris opened the second with a bold attack, which Mr. Goicouria skillfully parried, and seeing that his opponent, in his eagerness, relaxed his guard, he went for him right and left, the result being a knock down.

From this time out the game was all in the hands of Mr. Goicouria. After getting first knock down he drew first blood, and for six or seven rounds battered the President's son-in-law unmercifully. Mr. Sartoris stood up round after round with bull-dog courage and endurance, but at last his friends saw that his chance of winning was less than nothing, and persuaded him to retire.

The following affecting stanza, which can be attributed to no less celebrated an elegiac poet than George Washington Childs, A. M., who thus expresses his horror at the pounding of the President's son-in-law, has attained to great popularity at Long Branch.

Affliction sore long time he bore,
His parries were in vain;
For Goicouria mauled him sore,
And put him in great pain.
Gone to join his father-in-law.

When a Brooklyn woman can't find a vacant seat in the ladies' saloon of a ferryboat, she manages to be accommodated by standing up in front of some sitting gentlemen, who doesn't seem to see her, and accidently sprinkling him with hartshorn.
