JUNE

BY JOHN D. LEYDA.

Hail! Queen of the year,
Beautiful June—calm and serene;
Clothed in robes of purple and green;
Many a heart there is throbbing I ween,
To welcome thy advent here.

Ah! the charm one meets,
Wand'ring alone for hours and hours,
Breathing the air of embalmed bowers;
Fragrant incense from abroad flowers
That bend with their dewy sweets.

Maids with snowy breast,
And lightsome hearts unknown to care,
With blushing lips and golden hair,
Trip o'er the fields; their tiny feet, soft and fair,
On thy velvet mantled rest.

Dahlias bend their heads;
And from their leaves of crimson hue
Steal crystal drops of nectar'd dew,
As clearly pure as the gods erst drew
Of their downy, perfumed beds.

Alas! that these decay;
The maiden pales in her girlish pride;
The flower, too, soon hath drooped and died,
And dust to dust they lie side by side,
For all is passing away.

☞ A Kansas correspondent of the Lockport, N. Y., Journal, states that the extravagant stories of the riches of the Pike's Peak region, were started by Bassett, who was recently killed at Cherry Creek. Bassett, besides being Postmaster, was one of the owners of the town, and was consequently interested in attracting all the inhabitants thither that he could. Accordingly, to further his scheme, letters that were put in his office, he was in the habit of opening, and in their stead writing counterfeit letters, giving accounts to friends at the east, and advising them to come on to the mines. The writer adds:

"Yesterday I witnessed a scene like this. One brother met another on the road, one pushing forward to the mines, the other on his return, after having spent the winter there. The one on his return said to the other: 'My God, John, what are you out here for?' Said he, 'I am going to the mines, as you advised me to do; did you not write for me to come?' Said he, 'No, never, I wrote you to stay home.' After having told his experience of several months, it is needless to say that his brother turned back when it was discovered that the post man, Bassett, was engaged in this forgery, and the facts proven beyond a doubt."

If this account be true, it is no wonder that Bassett was murdered, when his frauds were brought to light.

HOG CHOLERA.—This disease is again spreading to various sections of the country. The Oxford (Mississippi) Express says:

This disease appears to be universally prevailing among the swine of this country. On some plantations the destruction of hogs has been universal—not one hog being spared by the destroyer. The planters are exceedingly chagrined and are utterly at a loss for something to prevent the fatal disease sweeping every hog they own. We have seen several men within a day or two who inform us that there is not a hog on their plantations, and that they owned from one to two hundred ten days ago.

The Savannah, Georgia, Republican says:

We learn from a gentleman who returned yesterday from a visit to his friends in Burke county, that the hog cholera is generally prevailing throughout that section of Georgia, and that he had witnessed several cases and seen large numbers of dead hogs in the woods. Dr. Wm. B. Jones, he informs us, has lost upward of seventy head from the above cause.

The disease has also made sad havoc nearer home. Several hog raisers in this county have lost quite a large part of their stock by it. It does not continue very long at a time, but breaks out occasionally and is fatal to every hog attacked.

PICCOLOMINI'S FAREWELL SPEECH.—The Piccolomini Farewell and Serrification took place at the Academy of Music, New York, on Monday evening. The performance—oratorical and musical—was quite spirited, and the speech of her little ladyship was neat and well received—thus:

"MY DEAR FRIENDS. In this beautiful temple, eight months since, you bade cordial welcome. During this period (Oh, how short how happy to me!) you have been always most kind, most indulgent. I give you thanks from the depth of my heart, and will ever hold you in sweet memory. This immense country, through which I have rapidly journeyed, I leave with tears of sincere regret, and pray my good angel will once again safely guide me to its hospitable shores. Encouraged by this hope, with less pain I can say, adieu, I bid you all, dear friends, farewell!"

Doesticks, who was present and assisting at the solemnities, says in this morning's Tribune, that to all the audience, excepting a hundred or two just in front, it sounded very much like this:

"My tear frients—monz sinz—you bade me—during the time, oh, how shor, how happee (staccato.) You hav bean moss kin, moss indealgent. I return you thank from the dep of my hart. Dis 'mense course tro 'dich—I leave cold tears—'spitable shor s—say adieu. Enthusiastic applause.

AN INFLECTION.—Under this caption the Cincinnati Times' report of the Republican Convention doings says:

On taking the chair, Senator Wade made a speech. It was a prosy speech, of about an hour's duration, all about the slavery question, and was a severe infliction upon the delegates. While speaking a delegate would occasionally come to the stand, and say to the Secretary:

"For God's sake, tell Wade to stop. The delegates are already worried out," or something of that sort.

The Secretary—Mr. John K. Green, of this city—had too much respect, however, for the U. S. Senate to tell one of its members he was boring those whom he was addressing. Finally, Senator Wade brought his speech to a close, and his last remarks were greeted with enthusiasm by a liberated Convention.

BAPTISM ON A RAILROAD TRAIN.—The Milwaukie Free Democrat of Thursday says:

An infant son of John Bullene, Jr., and Emma Francis J. Bullene, was baptized this morning at 9 o'clock, by the Rev. J. C. Richmond, in the cars while in motion, (for Mr. R. says he has no power like the Ethiopian, to command the chariot to stand still.) between Beliot and Clinton. Mr. Richmond spoke to the passengers who assembled and stood solemnly uncovered, while the Rector read from memory, sometimes on his knees, the service from the prayer-book. The Conductor brought the water, and Mr. R. and his eldest daughter were the sponsors. The child, like one of old, was named "John," signifying the "Grace of God." He is a fine, fat, healthy boy, 10 months old. As Mr. R. used to be called Rector of the North River, he reasonably expects soon to be called R. R. R. R.—Richmond, Rector of Rail Roads.

☞ The prisoners confined in the Madison (Ind.) jail "barred the Sheriff" on Friday afternoon by placing blocks of wood and a stove against the door. The door was broken open. He found every particle of wood, chips and combustible matter, carefully concealed. With this it was intended to light a fire with coal and burn out by converting the limestone of the flue into lime. The attempt was made, but the smoke betrayed the prisoners.

DESTRUCTION TO VERMIN.

THE SUMMER MOON WAS SHINING
All in the purple sky,
My wife and I, we tossed about,
And could not close an eye.
I cursed and swore, she scolded me
All through the weary night,
But 'twas enough to vex a saint,
The bed-bugs' savage bite.
Soon as the morning broke, I rose
From out my sleepless bed,
And, oh, so wretched did I feel,
I half wished I was dead.
You may be sure I certain went
That morn to Rose's store,
And home in joyful triumph,
Th' Magnetic Powder bore,
Which quickly slaughtered every bug,
Mosquito, roach and fly,
And now through out the livelong night
We sleep, nor upe an eye.

☞ The Genuine Lyons' Magnetic Powder and Pills are sold at Rose's Drug Store, where can be obtained at all times every article in the Drug trade.
