

THE MARRIED MAN.

Adown the street the married man Starts with hurried tread, But from the door a wifely voice Calls, "Don't forget the bread."

COME WITH THE CROWD.

SOMETHING FOR YOUNG MEN TO READ.

See here, my boy! The bells have rung the old year out and the new one in, and a new watch has come on deck.

Perhaps you smoke and chew. What for? What's the use of paying out $100 a year to insure bad breath, headaches, red eyes, decayed teeth and nervous debility,

Maybe your drink a little; very probably you do. A young man of your age is apt to think it smart to guzzle down lager and tippie wine,

Now, as to your personal traits. You may have come naturally by your egotism, but keep it in check.

Bluntness is a good thing sometimes; sometimes it isn't. Civility and a conscientious regard for other people feelings are trump cards in the game of life.

In fact, young man, suppose you square up with your tailor, pay the balance at your bootmakers, part your hair on the side and fall into procession with the rest of us.

Letters with Currency invariably by Express. We pay Express charges on all sums of $5 or upwards.

"Is it a sin," asked a fashionable lady of her spiritual director, "for me to tell pleasure when a gentleman says I am handsome?"
