The Crops and Coming Harvest.

The absorbing interest among all classes at the present time, is the crops, and the prospect for the coming harvest. The anxiety of individuals and the nation centre upon this, as our prosperity and future well being depend mainly upon the result. Another failure, such as that of last year, would almost hopelessly prostrate us, while on the contrary, a plentiful harvest, as the present encouraging prospect indicates, will establish us again upon our feet, and impart new life and zeal to trade and business of all kinds. The Baltimore Sun, in speculating upon this subject, comes to the conclusion that "we have reason to believe the liberal prices of last year have induced the farmers throughout the most fertile portions of the grain growing districts to exert all their energies, and employ all their means and resources in producing the utmost possible amount from the soil. And with this information we have the further assurance, that in all the most productive States and portions of States that produce cereal grains most abundantly, the present appearance of the crops is highly favorable. The farmers apprehend nothing but the casualties of the season, drought, rust, fly and weevil. With a favorable season, there will be considerably more than an average crop.

We learn, moreover, from the examination of our exchanges, from the west and north west, that the spring season has engaged an unusual amount of attention, and that every acre of available ground will be made productive. This is encouraging intelligence. It assures us that the necessity has been understood, and has proved a wholesome impulse to a good work. The relief of our people can come only from the soil, and that having been so liberal abundantly around us, the fault lies at our own doors if we do not resort thereto in the time of our need. That policy which would have the land lie idle and unimproved, for any cause whatsoever, is one of the most suicidal fallacies of the age.

The people are now contending against famine prices. They grieve helplessly over the exhausting expenditure which is demanded of them; they are perhaps learning the theory and practice of a healthful economy, but it is at a heavy cost. Hope encourages them and they look forward with confidence to some coming relief. How many of them understand whence this relief is to come, we do not know. From recent legislative action in some of the States, we infer that a good many people cherish the notion that it is to be wrung out of the newly created banking institutions. This is of all things the most fatal error and one which universal experience has put beyond peradventure. It but increases the present burden, and will render the day of retribution more exacting. As we have said before, substantial relief may be found in domestic economy.

We already learn from statistical publications that our domestic economy is improved. Imports have been greatly reduced, and in this fact we have the assurance that the work of retrenchment has been forced upon us, whatever the gaiety of street equipage may effect to the contrary. We shall not have so much to pay Europe this year as we did last by some millions. There will be less hidden away in railroad "enterprises," and other speculations. Business is being done upon a narrower but surer basis; within the laws of supply and demand, and nearer to cash principles. If with these improvements, we have a good harvest, we may look hopefully towards the autumn—but let us beware that we do not presume either upon our hopes or upon the actual realization of them.

From the Wool Grower.

Thoughts for Wool Growers.

Periods arise in the history of every farm occupation, characterized more or less, by gloom and depression. Dark days spread a pall over the hopes of the husbandman, and the light that has lent its cheer, to nerve his steps and steady and guide his course, wanes and flickers. He at times is tempted to abandon his long cherished plans and fly to other occupations. The American wool grower feels and believes that he is now passing one of those ordeals which challenge his utmost faith, in the merits and value of his business over other farm pursuits. Now the question arises, is there any thing in this state of feeling or is it imaginary. In reply we aver that imagination has much to do with the wool growers, belief, that the prices offered for wool during the last six months unprecedented, and far from remunerative—that unless a higher price be speedily fixed and paid, ruin is sure to overtake him. A greater mistake could scarcely occur. In the spring of '53, good wools brought a higher price than they had done for ten years.—Wool growers became elated and cherished the hope that corresponding prices would continue to rule. Our opinion is, that in a modified sense, this would been the case had not our country been speedily visited by a severe financial crisis, which makes money dear and difficult to be obtained, and greatly tends to depress prices.

To take in '52, an advance of from 10 to 15 cents per pound for wool, over the previous year, was easy. To submit in '54, to a reduction of 10 or 15 cents per pound was hard. Here is the rub. Had there been no advance in '53, every wool grower in the Union would have considered himself fortunate during the present severe commercial crisis, to have received several cents less for his wool than he has, or could have taken during the last six months. The only wonder with us has been, that wools have bro't what they have even, considering the state of the money market for the last few months. That they are intrinsically worth more than they bring, we firmly believe. The difficulty is to realize it under the money pressure which pervades the country. The truth is, fine wools command now a remunerative price, and quite equivalent to the average price of at least ten years, which has not succeeded 38 cents.

Why then do we hear so much grumbling and see manifested so much uneasiness, by wool growers! Simply because they array in their minds the prices of '53, instead of those they were fully satisfied to receive during the previous half dozen years, with present prices, and draw false conclusions. The phrase—"low price of wool"—which is banded from mouth to mouth, is indicative then, of a comparative not a real evil. Imaginary as it is, however, it is producing results which are most disastrous to the increase of American flocks. In Vermont, where the average weight of fleece is 62 per cent over the average weight of all the sheep in the United States, and some 20 per cent. over Massachusetts, which is next to her in height, it is believed that it can be profitably grown for 33½ cents per pound. Hence, no fears or prices are able to disturb their course. The best flocks will average six pound per head, at least and hence, they feel safe, let the scale of prices rule where it may. The opinion that the present prices for wool are too low, is so generally prevalent, that tens of thousands of sheep will lose their heart's blood as a consequence. Thousands of others, will be miserably cared for or shamefully neglected, and the result will show a fearful diminution in numbers before the first of January, '56. While multitudes are rushing their sheep to the shambles, it will indicate wisdom in him who throws a thought ahead and govern his course by the philosophy of facts.

The remote effects of the Eastern war cannot be otherwise than to enhance the prices of wool as a consequence, manufactured fabrics must command higher rates, just so soon as the present rapid consumption overtakes the arms and hands of production.

Such is the nature of meats and breadstuffs, that it measurably prevents any considerable accumulation of stocks. Not so however, with woolen fabrics. Every one of the 100,000 American merchants, keeps constantly, (if he keeps cloths) a year's supply on hand, and many of them two or more. As soon as these stocks are exhausted, and this is being rapidly brought about—as soon as the finances of the country become arranged—as soon as we get straightened up from our bent and almost broken condition, caused by overtrading with Europe, so soon will the interest of the wool grower be promoted and increased prices obtained.

Now let those who have good flocks, be careful not to throw away their improvements but continue their efforts in careful and judicious breeding. Let them look across the "slough of despond," into which thousands have fallen, and rest assured that the follow of such, will work out permanent good for them. Let them know assuredly, that ere long the wheel will turn up, & those who have butchered their flocks will find it necessary to stock up with sheep again, and must come to the "Josepha" to buy. A little waiting, a little patience, and a good time is at hand, to all such as faithfully rear up good flocks suitable for stocking farms. The present sifting and cutting down of the flocks thro' the country, will leave it a much better class of sheep, and result in good to the country, while it will lessen the amount of the coming clips, and tend to enhance the price. In short, we would urge, with all the persuasiveness of truth, that good flocks be kept with all care, and increased with due rapidity, as upon them mainly depends, the future extension and prosperity of the American flocks.

S. B. ROCKWELL.

Cornwall, Vt., March, 1855.

☞There is, on an average, about one fourth of a pound of potash to every one hundred pounds of soil, and about one eighth of a pound of phosphoric acid, and one sixteenth of a pound of sulphuric acid. If potatoes and the tops are continually removed from the soil, it will soon exhaust the potash; if the wheat and straw are removed, it will soon exhaust the phosphate of lime; if corn and the stalks, it will soon exhaust the sulphuric acid. Unless there is a rotation of crops, or the material that the plant requires, supplied from abroad, your crops will soon run out, though the soil may continue rich for other plants.—Ohio Farmer.

SUBSTITUTE FOR BUTTERMILK.—During the winter months, the thrifty housewife often suffers some inconvenience from a scarcity of good buttermilk or sour milk, for the purpose of mixing up dough which is to be raised with saleratus. This difficulty may be at least partially remedied in the following simple manner: Keep constantly on hand a kind of gruel made by thickening boiling water either with flour or Indian meal, to the thickness of sweet cream. Allow it to stand until it becomes sour, and it is nearly as good to mix with saleratus as buttermilk; or if used when sweet, it affords an excellent substitute for milk to wet up bread with.

APPLE DUMPLING.—Butter a six quart pan, (an old one,) and fill it one-third full of pleasant sour apples, previously pared and quartered. Pour over them sufficient warm water to cover them. Have ready a stiff batter, made of sour milk in the same way as for "flap-jacks," only much thicker, pour it over the apples so as to entirely cover the surface. Set it on the top of the stove, and turn over it a pan of the same size, to keep in the steam. Cook with a brisk, steady fire, serve hot, and eat with a sauce prepared by the following directions:

Take one teacupful of sugar, half as much butter, melt them together, and stir in a large spoonful of flour; then add a pint of boiling water, stir it well and flavor it with nutmeg.

A SPECULATOR CURED.—Once on a time a country Dutchman early one morning went to town, where by chance he overheard some traders telling each other how much money they had made that morning by speculation; one of them had made $100, $200, $500, &c. Han's bump of acquisitiveness was so excited that he, without any reflection, forthwith concluded to leave his former business, which was labor, and try his hand at speculation, and on his return home made his intentions known to his faithful frau. Early next morning he gathered his wallet containing his funds, amounting to five dollars, and off he goes post haste and half bent, to look up a speculation. He had not proceeded far when he met a wagoner, and accosted him thus:

"Good morning, Mr. Wagoner, I wants to speculate a leetle dish mornin 'vid you," "Well, say, said the wagoner, "how do you want to speculate." "Vell," says the Dutchman, "I will pet you fife dollar you can't guess what my tog's name ish." "Call him up till I look at him," rejoined the wagoner. Dutchman: "H-e-r-e Va-tch, he're Va-tch, he-re Va-tch," the dog trots up, the wagoner eyes him for a moment and said, "I guess his name is Watch." Dutchman: "O besure Mr. Wagoner, you has won him, de monish is yours," and Hans returned to his old occupation, perfectly satisfied.

BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS,

—FOR THE CURE OF—

CONSUMPTION, DECLINE, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, WASTING OF THE FLESH, NIGHT SWEATS, SPITTING BLOOD, WHOOPING COUGH, DIFFICULTY OF BREATHING, —COLDS, COUGHS, INFLUENZA,— PHTHISIC, PAIN IN THE SIDE, AND ALL

DISEASES OF THE CHEST AND LUNGS

Dr. Hall's Balsam contains no OPIUM, CALOMEL, or any mineral poison, but is composed mostly of those Roots, Herbs and Vegetable substances which have a specific influence upon the lungs and their connected organs. Its immediate effect is to allay all irritating and gently remove the phlegm and other morbid secretions from the Throat and Air Passages, thus relieving the Cough, by subduing the inflammation and other causes which give rise to it. It also stimulates and imparts a healthy tone to the Lungs themselves, thereby enabling them more thoroughly to remove from the blood those impurities and diseased particles, which, if retained, do so much mischief in the system, and lays the foundation for incurable CONSUMPTION. It also exerts a decided action upon the skin, and assists nature in expelling through the Exhalents, much of that morbid matter which would otherwise be thrown back upon the Lungs, thus relieving them of a part of their work, and rendering the system pure and healthy. When in hordes are forming, it checks their development and further progress, if ulceration has taken place, it assists the lungs in throwing off the corrupted matter, soothes the irritation, heals the ulcerated cavities, and restores them again to healthy action. This medicine, therefore, is not a palliative merely, which only relieves for the time being, but is a THOROUGH CURATIVE, as it strikes at the very root of the disease, and by removing it, removes at once all its remote and attendant consequences. This is its DISTINGUISHED CHARACTERISTIC—a property possessed, in equal power, by no other medicine of like nature, now before the public.

DR. J. B. MARCHISI'S CELEBRATED CATHOLICON,

For the relief and Cure of suffering Females.

It stand pre-eminent for its curative powers in all the diseases for which it is recommended, usually called Female Complaints.

Of these are PROLAPSUS UTERI, or Falling of the Womb; FLOOR WHITES, or Whites; CHRONIC INFLAMMATION AND ULCERATION OF THE WOMB; INCIDENTAL HEMORRHAGE, or Flooding; PAINFUL, SUPPRESSED, AND IRREGULAR MENSTRUATION, &c., with all their accompanying evils, (Cancer excepted,) no matter how severe or how long standing.

The Catholicon far surpasses other remedies, in being more certain, less expensive, and leaving the system in a better condition. Let all interested call and obtain a pamphlet (free) containing ample proof, from the most respectable sources, of the beneficial results of its use; together with letters from highly experienced Physicians who have used it in their practice, and speak from their own observations.

☞Letter addressed to care of Mr. Curtis Hatch, agent at Harrison, Ohio.

To J. B. Marchisi—I have been ten years troubled with Female Complaints—prolapsus uteri, and all the attending difficulties; at times rendering my life most miserable. I have had the attendance of some of the best physicians, with but little success; the most they could do was to relieve—a cure was out of the question. For five months before commencing with your medicine, I had not been able to perform any labor, could walk but a few steps at a time and scarcely went out of doors—in short, I was completely prostrated, both in body and mind, and expected to drag out the rest of my days in suffering and misery. But, reading your advertisement, I was induced to try your invaluable medicine called Uterine Catholicon, as the last resort. I had not used it a week before I felt like another woman. By the use of three bottles I was enabled to perform all the labor for six in the family with ease, and could comfortably walk anywhere in the neighborhood without injury. Nothing but a sense of my duty to you and to the afflicted, has induced me to state my case to the public. I can safely recommend the preparation to all those suffering like myself.

(Signed) MRS. SARAH A. BISHOP.
