FREEDOM'S FLOWER.—Among the most interesting acts in the book brought by the last mail is the official confirmation of the formal and total emancipation of slaves, and the abolition of Slavery in Egypt. Whittier has made it the theme of the following verses:

THE NEW EXODUS.

By fire and cloud across the Desert sand,
And through the parted waves,
From their long bondage with an outstretched hand,
God led the Hebrew slaves!

Dead as the lover of the Pentateuch,
As Egypt's statues cold!
In the adytum of the sacred book
Now stands that marvel old.

"In God is great!" the simple Moslem says,
We seek the ancient date,
Turn the dry scroll, and make that living phrase
A dead one. "God was great!"

And, like the Coptic monks by Mount's wells,
We dream of wonders past,
Vague as the tale the wandering Arab tells,
Each doubtfuller than the last.

O Sphinx and Sphinx! Above the Pyramids
Stretches once more that hand,
And tranced Egypt, from her stony lids,
Flings back her veil of sand.

And morning smitten Memnon, singing, wakes
And, listening by his Nile,
O'er Ammon's grave and awful image breaks
A sweet and human smile.

Not, as before, with hail and fire, and call
Of death for midnight graves,
But in the stillness of the noonday, fall
The fetters of the slaves.

No longer through the Red Sea, as of old,
The bondmen walk dry shod,
Through human hearts, by love of Him controlled,
Runs now that path of God!

Receiving his Reward.

The South are getting suspicious of the purity of Mr. RICHARDSON's views on the Slavery question, and a Richmond, (Va.,) paper is at a loss to know the true secret of the unparalleled devotion of the Democracy at Washington to that gentleman, while it finds no fault in presenting a reason why the South could not support him for Speaker. RICHARDSON voted for the Nebraska Bill, and having been taken to task for this act by his constituents, excused himself on the ground that the Territories were free by the act of nations, and of nature, and would remain free forever, and therefore he voted for the bill—On neighbor of the Enquirer in common with the Pierce Democracy of Ohio, excused the action of their party on the same ground. This did not satisfy the North however, and it is now likely to produce dissatisfaction at the South, and we shall not be surprised if the latter serve the Northern doughfaces as they have been served by the honest people of the North.

The following extract is published from a speech made by RICHARDSON in 1850:

"The territories," said he, "are free now and will always remain free; they are free by the law of nations; they are free by the law of nature they will remain free from causes to which I have already referred. This should satisfy all, in my judgment, who are opposed to the extension of slavery." And again: "I do not and cannot believe that our Constitution carries and protects slavery, except in States; nor do I believe that its framers intended that it should extend this institution. I believe it was formed for far higher and nobler purposes."

Our Richmond contemporary brings in another objection to Mr. RICHARDSON. He says he is a coarse, vulgar, drinking and rude man, and in support of this latter grave charge, quotes the following from the Louisville Journal:

"Mr. Richardson, of Illinois, whom the administration members support, is no doubt ostensibly sound upon the Kansas question but he is a drinking, coarse, vulgar and rude man. We chanced, less than two years ago, to be thrown near him where he and several other members of Congress were gathered in a circle by themselves—A gentleman by our side pointed him out to us, and remarked, that it we would listen a little while we should be certain to hear some hard swearing."

We didn't listen, but we could not help hearing. We have heard gamblers swear, we have heard sailors swear, we have heard flatboatmen swear, and we have even heard fishwomen swear, but never in all our lives did we hear such horrible swearing as that of the Administration candidate. The variety and intensity of his oaths were wonderful. And then the novelty of many of them would have been amusing, but for their dreadful blasphemy. We could not help thinking that he was in the habit of devoting more time and study to the invention of new modes of swearing, than cursing, and blaspheming, than to all the other pursuits of life. We do believe that he could out curse anything under heaven—except, perhaps, his Holiness the Pope. But, if anybody else could call the seventy four for the 8 exercised, they must have to him. If these elect him, they will have a Speaker to curse for them and a Chaplain to pray for them."

A CONSTITUTIONAL JOKE.—Gen. Cass of the National Hotel, Washington, is said to so resemble Gen. Cass in his expression as to give rise to many mistakes. The National is quite crowded this winter, and a guest, who had been put into a remote and inconvenient room, coming down stairs in the morning, a little cross, met General Cass in the hall, stepped up to him, and in language more forcible and rapid than elegant said: "Mr. Gen. I'll be——d if I'll stand it. You've put me at the top of the house! I must have a room somewhere lower down."

Gen. Cass, (interrupting and nervously)—Sir you are mistaken in the person you address. I am General Cass of Michigan.

Stranger, (contrarily)—Why, you are Gen. General Cass—thought it was my old friend Guy. Beg a thousand pardons, Mr. All a mistake I assure you, Sir."

The Gen. passed out of the hall ding, but soon returned, and as luck would have it, the stranger met him at full face again but in another position. This time he was sure is had mistaken for the Senator from Michigan he knew had just gone out. No stranger stepped boldly up, slapped the Gen., heartily and familiarly on the shoulder, exclaiming: "By heavens, Guy, I've got a rich one to relate; I met old Cass up stairs just now, thought it was you, and began cursing about my room."

Gen. Cass, (with emphasis)—Well young man, you've met old Cass again!

Stranger disappeared and has not been heard of since.—N. Y. Times.

GREAT EXCITEMENT
AT SEBASTOPOL!
Also, in the Western Country, on account of the Good Harvest!
I HAVE bought a very large assortment of Fancy and Staple DRY GOODS, to which I invite the attention of the citizens, and public in general. Just come and look, as there is a rumor all over the country about the goods being higher than they have been, but all I ask is a call, and you will find, on account of my large stock, I will sell cheaper than ever.
Eight hundred pieces of calicoes, at almost your own price, good Calico at 6½c. per yard, 100 pieces Merino Laine, a very good quality, at 12½c, 50 pieces of fine Jeans, some most a yard wide, at 18c. per yard—last to lose; French Merinoes, the best quality of Alpaca's mixt, 12 yd wide, at $1 per yard, Cloaks and Cassimeres, cheaper than they have ever been brought to the West—an excellent quantity for 25 cts. per yard. A piece of all colors, some very good at 12½ cts. per yd; Black Silks, a very good quality, 22 inches wide, at 75 cents per yard.
Shawls, Shawls, Shawls!
As I have a very large stock, and want to make room for more coming I will sell at extremely low prices.
MANTILLAS!
Direct from Europe of the latest fashions, which I will sell 25 per cent. cheaper than you can buy them at Wheeling.
Large stock of BONNETS of all kinds, which I will sell at greatly reduced prices.
Chemizets, Collars and Undersleeves, a very large assortment.
Gentlemen, "one word to the wise is sufficient." If you want to buy the cheapest goods to be found in the city, Cassimeres, Cloths, Satinetts, Black Silks, &c., give me a call in all cases, and I am sure you will be satisfied.
Ready-Made Clothing.
I have bought the largest stock I have ever bought, and will sell them 20 per cent. cheaper than you can buy them at Wheeling.
Also, a large assortment of Hats, Caps, Boots and Shoes, and a great many other articles too numerous to mention. Call before you purchase elsewhere, and I guarantee you will be satisfied before you leave.
All kinds of country produce taken in exchange for goods.

Oh, don't you remember Lew Ransom, friend Joe,
Lew Ransom the Barber so town,
Who smiles with delight, when you give him a call,
And does up his shaving so brown.

In the neat barber shop on Main street, friend Joe,
Beneath the old green house in blue,
He has fitted up his shelves with soaps of every scent,
And the striped pole is his sign.

Upon his soft cushioned chair, old Joe,
That spreads wide its arms for all,
Together we've sat in the noon-day time,
And snoozed while he shaved us so well.

Many Barbers have tried in vain, old Joe,
But their efforts can never compare;
For the customers flock around the shop to see
How tastefully he clips off the hair.

There's a change in the times I know, friend Joe,
They have chang'd from the old to the new,
And I feel in the depths of my pocket the truth
That prices down town of have chang'd too.

Four years have passed, or more, old Joe,
Since Lew Ransom's name was first hail'd,
And his shop is deemed a blessing in truth,
For to please he has never yet failed.
