Sale of Stone's Mill.—Col. Jno G. King has purchased of Stone & Bros. the valuable flouring mill so recently improved by them, and located one mile below Bristol, near the E. T. R. Road. The character of the mill is strictly A No. 1.

After You!—The close of the year is upon us and Messrs. Pepper Bros desire a settlement at once. See advertisement.

Splendid Water Power for Sale.—We desire to attract the attention of gentlemen of capital and energy to the splendid opening for an investment at River Bend Forge, owned by Mr. Joseph Meredith. The property contains 460 acres of valuabe land, 40 acres of which is first class river bottom. The water power is distributed by a canal half a mile in length furnishing positions for at least six factories, separate and distinct from each other and yet sufficiently contiguous; the fall being from 12 to 16 feet. It is situated seven miles southeast of this place and is within eight miles of Union Depot, by batteau navigation.

From Rutlege switch it is distant overland four miles.

The canal, alone, cost Mr. Meredith $1,000 prior to the war and he asks only $4,000 now for the entire property. The power is of any extent that could be desired within a limit of 1,000 horsepower.

The Iron Mountain Mystery.—The communication of Mr. T. C. King, in our last issue has attracted much attention. The remains found by him, in a gorge of the Iron Mountain, while very ancient are evidently those of European persons. That they must date their sepulture beyond the settlement of the Country is plainly evident It has been suggested that they are those of a portion of De Soto's party, in its journey to the Mississippi River in and we regard the conjecture as not only plausible, but probably true. The spot will be visited by gentlemen of our town, and perhaps by one of the editors of the News

A Bit of Romance.

At Union, Tenn., in the very midst of the holidays there culminated an affair, the details of which we cannot resist. The long and stately railroad bridge, which there spans the roaring Holston, seems to be guarded at each of its ends by a tenement which the reader would suspect had been built for that purpose, They are equidistant from the river, equidistant from the railroad, equidistant from the bridge.—The one upon the eastern shore is built from the everlasting limestone of the hills, the other from their stately forests. Within the former there grew, to the tender verge of womanhood, a fair angel who possessed the solid attractions of earth with many of those virtues which are a stranger to it. Within the other there grew a sterner and more stately figure until it sprang upon the dangerous precipice of manhood, and knew all the dissatisfaction of an ardent and aspiring nature. Between the two there stretched across the bridge the great iron bars of the railway like an immense conducting wire between the positive and negative poles of humanity. Upon this very real connection there passed in his airy form the unsubstantial but persistent messenger whose office, between reciprocal natures, never grows old—never ceases. Between them was the surging gulf of the Holston; but love laughs at even the locksmiths of nature and on Tuesday evening last the angel of the rock-built home ceased to be an integral part of its family circle and, passing on Wednesday morning across the iron spanned stream, became an inmate and ornament of the wooden mansion "on the other side of the river." May a ray of divine light always illuminate and distinguish that home; and those perennial trees upon its front but typify the imperishable hopes within.

Revival at Jeffersonville.—We learn from the Clinch Valley News that a revival of religion, now progressing at the Methodist Church in Jeffersonville, has already resulted in the conversion of 31 persons.

Emory & Henry College.—Attention is called to the advertisement of this old and popular institution of learning. The Spring session will open on the 13th of January 1870. There is no reason why Emory & Henry should not rank among the most popular and flourishing institutions in the Union, and we confidently expect to see its number of students doubled in a short time.

Blown Out.—The mastodonic enterprise of Hugh M. Freeman at Johnson's Depot has collapsed. The gaseous founder of such lofty hopes has gone, and the good people of Johnson's may now simmer their ambition to the point illustrated by the dull truth that it is only by the work of their own hands that they can build up their institution of learning. The beautiful and attractive lady, for whose hand he professed to wait, had the good nerve and fortune to distrust him, with her decisive answer the airy fabric of his granite castle fell. Thus ends the extravagant and unsubstantial dream from which our own inerodulous opinion failed to arouse the citizens of our neighboring town. We hope they are wiser now.

Thanks.—Our friend, Mr. J. H Cross, of the firm of Millard & Cross, at Union, did the handsome thing of sending us a package of fruits and other luxuries peculiar to the holiday season. He has our thanks.

Prospecting.—Our office was visited on Friday last by Messrs. J. Chandler and W. Dunbar, from New Hampshire, who design purchasing homes in Bristol. We welcome them to our midst, and do not wonder that Bristol with its fine climate, rich soil and promising future has attracted them.

Compliment to Capt. Manard.—The pupils of that capital instructor, Prof. Manard, surprised him on Christmas morning by presenting him with a handsome silver-headed ebony cane, bearing the inscription "B. G. M., from his pupils. Dec. 25, 1869." The list was headed by that attractive little fellow, Cyrus Lyle, whose speech, at Prof. Manard's exhibition, was so much enjoyed by the audience. His father, Capt. Henry Lyle, of Va. & Tenn. R. R., was chosen as the vehicle of presentation, which was done privately. The compliment is really deserved by Prof. Manard, whom all parties desire to retain in our midst that he may continue to teach and discipline the youth of our town and country. He has the confidence and good wishes of all our people.

Union.—The village of Union, Tennessee, is improving, and we see no reason why it should not become a thriving place. Bristol aspires to be a city, and will assuredly attain that distinction in a few years It must necessarily be that it be surrounded by a number of active points and Union must be one of them. There are reminiscences connected with the place which are not generally known It was the birthplace of David Crockett and long the residence of Gov. Browlow. At present it is chiefly promising as the Depot of a very fertile and prosperous section of country.

Business at Union.—Messrs. Aiken & Co. have found it necessary to enlarge their store-house at Union, in order to accommodate their augmented trade. As an evidence that they are good merchants their success may be cited. He who oppresses his customers never prospers It is he who does justice between himself and the world who rises Business has its profits, and honor and energy should and do reap them. The stock of Messrs. Aiken & Co. instead of being allowed to grow lean and disassorted is constantly kept up, and their trade is constantly increasing. They deserve their success at Union, and will continue to deserve it.

Cow Lost.—Mrs. Echols has lost her cow. She is four years old—white, with a few red spects on her right side. Her face is entirely white. We hope this notice may lead her recovery.

Movement in Town Lots.—Mr. Joseph Johnston has inaugurated a salutary change in the management of town lot investments. He has sold the entire balance of the trapezoid from which the Episcopal Church lot was taken.—Mr. V. Keebler gets one fourth of an acre, being that portion which fronts on Moore Street, and lying between the property of Dr. A. M. Carter and Emmanuel Church, price $250. Prof. Jno. H. Winston, of Kings College, gets the remainder at $650 per acre, and will build on Cumberland Street. These prices are reasonable, and if Mr. Johnston will adhere to proportionate rates upon his other lands, he shall have our co-operation in selling them. Messrs. Keebler and Winston will proceed at once to enclose their ground. Being gentlemen of taste we know they will do it neatly.

SMOKE! SMOKE ! SMOKE!!!

Puff! Puff!! Puff!!!

The eternal pipe meets one every where. It invades all ranks, poisons all classes, paralizes all energy, renders railway traveling intolerable to others, and drives every dissenter from hotel and saloon. The rising generation is accursed by it. It is no respector of either age or person, sex or condition. It seems our chief legacy from the infernal war. As we write there passes the dappled face of a young man of eighteen. He carries between his clenched teeth the curved and cursed stem, and the briar root pipe fills graceful the palm of his right hand, the little finger of which plays dexterously among the charred contents. He is dressed to a precision that annoys us and asks the way to the residence of the young lady on yonder hill I have seen him again. He has persistently smoked for two hours and yet he puffs the disgusting briar root. Go it young man Ruin your eyes; spletch your skin; rack your nervous system, and when you have married that frail young lady you may live to see yourself unfitted for business and incapacitated for intellectual enjoyment.

The Kuhnert Prize Cake.

The beautiful pyramidal prize cake at Kuhnert's has been drawn. The lucky number was 283 and Rev. David Sullins of the Bristol High School was found to be the fortunate possessor of the ticket containing it. It will be remembered that Kuhnert advertised that every one of his customers during the contest should be entitled to one ticket for each fifty cents worth purchased. The number of tickets exceeded 500. After their thorough mixture in a box a disinterested gentleman was selected to draw one at random, copy the number thereon and deposit said copy safely until the drawing should take place, Mr. Kuhnert himself not knowing the lucky combination of figures. Of course the drawn ticket was returned to the Box.

Personal.—We were pleased to meet in our office on Tuesday last Mr. Josiah Fowler, one of the authors of Fowler's Arithmetic, a work which attained in Tennessee and Virginia, a popularity which would at this day command quite a sale if it could be had. Mr. Fowler is aged 58 and is in very good health.

He is now living in the Brazos Valley of Texas, and considers it equal to the land of Goshen. Really, in a land where the Fig, the Grape, the Peach, the Almond and the Pecan grow in the greatest profusion and without labor; where honey is rained down until it fills the cups of the acorns upon the oak, and where it may be gathered wild to any extent; where wine is made without sugar; where milk kine are but four dollars each, where the inhabitants in traveling make the oaks their inns and the blue grass their beds, the heart need no longer yearn for Egypt. Such is the Valley of the Brazos. Its capacities for production are as varied as they are rare. Cotton is grown at the rate of a bale and a half per acre. Marble may be had for building purposes. The grass never fails and the red cedar abounds. Greenbacks are unknown and gold is plenty. It seems to be the happy mein between the labor of the North and the inertia of the tropics.

Magazines.

Harper for December contains its usual amount and variety of matter, aside from its opening article on Fredrick the Great, perhaps the most distinguishing and interesting feature of the present number is its graphic and well illustrated article on the University Rowing Match.

Scott's Magazine is up to its usual high standard. It is published at Atlanta, Ga., and really merits the patronage of our people.

Blackwood is always welcome to our desk, but the present number is peculiarly so. One article Egypt and the story of the Suez Canal is alone worth the low price $4.00 Address the Leonard Scott Pub. Co, New York.

The Little Corporal This brilliant juvenile for January makes its appearance in a new dress, with new engraved title page on the cover It claims to have a larger circulation than any other juvenile magazine in the world; and deserves its great popularity, both because of its originality and sterling worth, and because it gives so much for so small a price, only one dollar a year Published by Alfred L Sewell & Co., Chicago, Ill. All the children should have it.

A watch, a pair of blankets, quilt or shawl, for One Dollar, appears almost impossible, but such may be had, and hundreds of other useful articles, by patronizing Geo. A. PLUMMER & CO'S "One dollar Sale."

Their system of doing business has been examined by the authorities and a Decision rendered from the Internal Revenue Department, at Washington, dated Nov 14th, 1868, declaring their busines perfectly fair and legitimate, and entirely different from the different gift enterprises. Of course all do not get watches, blankets, &c., for The dolar, but in every large club, one of these articles are sold for One Dollar, as an extra inducement, and some member of the club has the chance of obtaining it. A new feature introduced by this enterprising firm, is to pay their agents either in cash or merchandise, and to prepay the express charges. No better opportunity can be offered to either ladies or gentlemen, having leisure time, than to form clubs for this firm.

Read their advertisement in another column, and send for catatogue.
