JOHN H. OBERLY, Editor.

ATTORNEY-GENE[illegible] superintendent Eu[illegible]AL EDSALL and Su[illegible] school officer[illegible]er have decided that all oath pres[illegible]s who have not taken the article [illegible]ribed by section twenty-four, [illegible] fifth of the State constitution, are legally qualified to act.

SENATOR GORDON.

Senator Gordon, of Georgia, who was interviewed by a Herald reporter, says he now considers the Greeley movement, to which he was strongly opposed at first, as the wisest political movement in the history of the country.

ARKANSAS.

The color line in Arkansas, says Mr. Charles Nordhoff, is broken. The Republicans are coquetting with white Democrats whose votes they must secure to regain the ascendancy; and the Democrats have for a year past been busy in establishing friendly relations with influential blacks.

BEECHER'S LAST SERMON.

Mr. Beecher's sermon of last Sunday was preached from the text, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart and with all thy soul and with all thy strength and with all thy mind, and thy neighbor as thyself." He might have appropriately added "and thy neighbor's wife as thyself."

THE POSTAL FRAUDS.

For years past, it has cost the United States one hundred thousand dollars a year to repair the bags used by the postal department for the carrying of the mails. This fraud is one which Mr. Jewell has just discovered. The fifty mail bag depositories where the repairing has been done will be reduced to three, one at New York, one at Washington and one at Indianapolis, and the cost of the repairing will be reduced to twenty thousand dollars per year.

THE CRUSADE AGAIN

The female crusaders have started out afresh in New York, and beginning at the upper end of the city, intend to make a clean sweep of all the saloons in it. The result of the crusade in Ohio, notably in Washington, where it began, are not encouraging to the women to begin again. Washington has two more saloons now than it had before the temperance war was inaugurated. The saloons are run by the same men who ran them before, with the exception of Van Pelt, who drinks liquor himself now instead of selling it to others, and spends his time principally in jail.

WITHOUT ACTION.

The General Assembly of this State will adjourn sine die to-day at 6 o'clock, and will adjourn without having made any provision for the suppression of the Williamson county outrages. But, probably, the discussion that has resulted from the effort to obtain an appropriation to be expended in bringing the murderers of that county to justice will have a good effect, and result in the pacification of the bloody ground of Southern Illinois. Indeed, there is reason to believe that the terrorism that has prevailed in Williamson does not now inspire as much fear among the citizens as it used to, and it is believed by many that the court now in session at Marion may result in the good work of bringing some of the guilty men to justice. But these facts do not relieve the General Assembly of the odium that should attach to it because of its neglect to do its duty in the Williamson county matter. We, of Illinois, have been denouncing Kentucky and other Southern States as lawless—banditti States—while in Southern Illinois, Ku-Kluxism and murder being rampant, our legislators have refused to do anything to suppress these crimes! When next we reproach the mote in the eye of the South, we will be referred to the beam in our own.

WHICH?

Those citizens who propose to vote for Mr. Winter should not do so upon impulse. They should consider the situation carefully. If they will do so, we are sure they will conclude that the best interests of Cairo require his defeat. He has no qualifications for the position, and his election would have a disastrous effect.

On the other hand, Mr. Morris, by his record in the Council, has demonstrated his fitness for the office of Mayor. We do not approve all his acts as Alderman, but no one will deny that he has been identified with those who have labored to economize for the city and get it into condition to enter upon works of public improvement. There can be no doubt that he is a "safe man," and will prove to be a good Mayor.

The charge that Mr. Morris will be controlled by Capt. Halliday, now being made by Mr. Winter and his friends, is made for the purpose of inducing the citizens hostile to what is called the "Halliday clique" to vote for Winter. This is chaff that should catch no birds. Capt. Halliday has, in many ways, manifested his unfriendliness to the BULLETIN, and we are neither his advocate nor apologist; but we do not believe he has any interest hostile to the interests of the city, and we know he could not, if he would, use Mr. Morris as Mayor to the disadvantage of the municipality. Not at Capt. Halliday's solicitation, but upon the request of "many men of many minds," Mr. Morris consented to become a candidate for Mayor—upon the request of hundreds of our citizens.

But it cannot be, that this shallow trick—this Halliday cry—can induce the citizens of Cairo to elect Mr. Winter to the Mayoralty. If it does, the people will regret it and deplore their action before two months of his administration shall have passed away.

[illegible]E SUN'S EVIDENCE.

[illegible]plY to our assertion that Gen. [illegible]gan, in his debate with Col. Dickey at Carbondale in 1863, admitted that at the commencement of the war, he had organized a company of men in Williamson county to resist the arbitrary arrest of citizens by United States troops, the Sun named Captain A. P. Corder, Hon. W. J. Allen, Hon. J. M. Washburne, M. C. Campbell, T. M. Logan and Dr. W. L. Johnson, and says, all of these gentlemen are likely to know whether General Logan organized such a company.

We accept the witnesses presented by the Sun.

Before the meeting was organized at Carbondale, certain charges were preparED against Gen. Logan, among them the one that he had organized a company and marched it to Crab Orchard bridge for the purpose we have indicated, to prove which witnesses were in attendance, ready to face the General on the platform and take a solemn oath that they were there. Our recollection is, that the charges were written by Hon. W. J. Allen; and, if our memory is correct, Capt. Corder was one of the witnesses. Mr. Tom Logan, the General's brother, called the meeting to order for the Democrats, and was, if we mistake not, the most prominent Democratic manager of the demonstration. Tom will fight for "John" as an individual, but fights him in politics as bitterly as he does any other Republican. At Carbondale he was Col. Dickey's right hand man.

But in addition to these witnesses, we offer Gen. Logan himself. We assert, and we do not believe he will deny, that in his Carbondale speech he admitted that he had mustered his fellow-citizens in the manner we have indicated.

But what of all this? At the commencement of the war, the then Mr. John A. Logan was a violent Democrat, and hated and detested the Abolitionists. He believed they were responsible for the bad blood existing between the North and South. With Douglas and other Democrats, he preached that war was dissolution; but when the conflict came, he took up arms for the national cause and proved himself to be a gallant soldier and a patriotic citizen. At first, a violent anti-war man, he became, when the rebellion was fairly inaugurated, a most vigorous war man, and denounced all who did not agree with him. Against him were arrayed most of his former political friends, and between him and them passed a fusillade of abuse. But all that is of the past; and we, one of his former abusers, are willing to admit that the old scores should not be counted against him—that his gallantry in the war entitles him to have them all wiped out. On his part, he must permit us to say, there should also be a little charity. It does not become him to say, the Democratic party, before the war, was a pro-slavery party, when in fact, he was one of the leaders of the party and the advocate of the horrible black laws of Illinois. It does not become him to say, the Democratic party inaugurated the war, when he was one of the leaders of the party and denounced a war for the union even after Douglas had declared that there were only two parties in the Republic, patriots and traitors. The past is dead and he should not resurrect it.

PROTEST AND COUNTER-PROTEST.

The Republicans of the Illinois House of Representatives have protested against the partiality of the Speaker and the unfairness of the majority, and the majority in a counter-protest have denied and belittled the charges made by the minority.

The protest is a voluminous document, but contains very little of importance. It proves, we admit, that the Speaker was not fair, but it admits that, with all his unfairness, no act objectionable to the protestants was consummated.

They complain that Speaker Haines attempted to do certain things, which they prevented him from doing.

For instance, the protestants charge that he permitted the bill for an act to repeal the registry law to be taken up out of its order. He replies, that it was taken up out of its order as other bills had been. But, no matter, the protestants defeated the bill, and therefore no wrong was done to the people by the irregular action of the Speaker; a great benefit would have been conferred upon them if his action in this matter had resulted in the passage of the bill.

Again, the Speaker refused, upon demand of a member, to divide a divisible question—the question being that certain persons should be elected to small offices of the House. The decision was appealed from, and the House sustained the chair. Even Cullom, the Republican leader, voted to sustain the Speaker. But now the minority protests.

Again, a motion was made to reconsider a vote. The House got into confusion, and adjourned before the chair had passed upon the question whether the motion was in order. The next day the resolution sought to be reconsidered, was rescinded. But the minority protests!

Again, (and this is the great offense), the Clerk recorded the names of several members in the affirmative on one of a series of resolutions upon the Louisiana question—one condemning Grant. The members claimed that they had voted in the negative. The House refused to permit them to have their names transferred from the affirmative to the negative the next day. The minority protests that this action carried the resolution, when in fact the vote upon the resolution as a whole adopted them by a large majority.

This is all. The protest, with all its words, amounts to nothing, and is in bad taste. It protests against nothing that has been consummated.

PAUL BOYNTON'S SEA WALK.

Paul Boynton has swum into notoriety, if not fame, in a few hours. Paul Boynton is an American pearl diver, who is credited with having saved from drowning during one or two seasons at Atlantic City, some seventy persons, men, women and children. But it was not his boldness and intrepidity on such occasions which made him famous. It was his late attempt to cross the straits of Dover, from Dover, England, to Boulogne, France, in a life-saving dress of India rubber, of peculiar pattern, containing compartments which may be inflated at will. Its weight is about fifteen pounds, but the articles which accompany the suit increase the weight considerably. These articles are signal lights, articles of food, two or three weapons of defense, axe, bowie-knife, etc., and a large double-blade paddle with which to propel himself. The suit is the invention of a Yankee, and has been worn by Boynton on several occasions prior to his sea-walk from Dover to Boulogne. On the first of these occasions, he donned his rubber suit, on a wild, dark night, at half past nine o'clock, and was lowered from a vessel, ten days out from New York and about fifteen miles from the Irish coast. He drifted out into the sea, lost sight of the vessel, and became surrounded by the darkness and a storm of wind and waves, sometimes completely submerged and again tossed high on the crest of an enormous billow, all the time plying his paddle vigorously. He was on the water seven hours, and at four o'clock in the morning was hurled high and dry on the Irish coast near Skibbereen. The life-saving dress had failed in no particular, and his navy uniform, which he wore beneath, was dry and warm. Boynton subsequently tested his life-saving apparatus in the harbor of Cowes before Queen Victoria, was personally thanked by her Majesty and amply rewarded when she ordered the safety equipments for the royal yacht.

He attempted to cross Dover channel on the 10th inst., starting at 4 o'clock in the morning. When five miles from the coast of France the darkness of the night compelled him to desist, and he was taken on board the steamer which accompanied him.

COMMERCIAL.

CAIRO, ILL., THURSDAY EVENING, April 15th, 1875.

The weather during the week has been cool, with high winds throughout the day and cool at night. The fruit trees have been in bloom for two weeks in this section, and a frost or freeze would be very unwelcome. A high wind from the Southwest prevailed today. The sky became overcast with clouds about 3 o'clock this afternoon, and a slow rain set in about five, that may continue through the night.

The rivers are falling slowly, and the high water scare is over for another twelve months.

The markets are a little unsettled. The advance in corn culminated yesterday, and to-day the market is weak and drooping, with quotations a cent or two lower than early in the week. Oats are held firmly with nothing doing. Stocks and receipts being light, sellers decline to make concessions. Meal is declining in sympathy with corn. There is no flour to speak of on the market, and no receipts, and an active demand. Other branches of the market are without change.

THE MARKET.

☞ Our friends should bear in mind that the prices here given are usually for sales from first hands in round lots. In filling orders and for broken lots it is necessary to charge an advance over these figures. ☜

FLOUR.

Prices are firm and advancing—all grades are very scarce—not supplies enough for one day's good business in the market. The demand is active and sellers are holding the small stocks on hand for an advance in prices. We note sales of 500 barrels, $4 50@$5 25; 200 barrels at the mills, $5 10; 100 barrels, $5 00@$6 00; 500 barrels city, $5 00@$7 25; 300 barrels, $5 00@$6 25; 200 barrels, $4 80; 100 barrels XXX Spring, $5 00; 200 barrels, $4 50@$5 00; 300 barrels, $4 00@4 50.

HAY.

The supply of choice hay is very limited, the demand steady and market firm. Large quantities of hay arrive in a damaged condition and has to be sold at a sacrifice. We note sales of 1 car choice mixed delivered, $22; 2 cars choice timothy delivered, $23; 200 bales damaged delivered, $2 50@2 70; 1 car of hay mixed delivered, $20; 3 cars choice timothy delivered $23.

CORN.

The market is weak and depressed, to-day. The demand is light, and quotations are low. White closed to-day in sacks at 83c; and mixed at 82c. We note sales of 10 cars No. 2 white mixed in heavy sacks delivered 84c; 4 cars No. 2 mixed in sacks delivered 83c; 2 cars No. 2 white in sacks delivered 83c; 2 cars No. 2 white in sacks delivered 84c; 1 car No. 2 white in sacks delivered 85c; 1 car No. 2 mixed in sacks delivered 84c; 2 cars No. 2 white in sacks delivered 83½c; 1 car No. 2 mixed in sacks delivered 82c.

OATS.

There is very little dealing in oats. Prices are steady and stocks light. Sellers are unwilling to make concessions, and buyers hold off. We note sales of 5 cars No. 2 mixed in sacks delivered 72c; 1 car No. 2 mixed in bulk on track 67c; 2 cars No. 2 mixed in sacks delivered 71c; 3 cars No. 2 mixed in bulk on track 67c.

MEAL.

The market is well supplied and easier. Prices are in sympathy with corn and tend downward. The demand is small. Sales were 200 barrels steam dried delivered $3 70; 100 barrels kiln dried delivered $3 70.

BRAN.

This market shows a better feeling and the mills advance prices to $20 in bulk. We note sales of 3 cars in sacks delivered $20@$20.

BUTTER.

The market is unchanged. Very little choice Northern comes in and prices are steady and firm. A heavy stock of common and medium butter is offering at low figures. We note sales of 6 tubs choice Northern dairy 27c; 10 tubs common Northern 20c; 5 pails choice Southern Illinois 20c; 5 pails Southern Illinois 18c; 10 packages choice packed 27c; 15 packages choice Northern 25@25c; 500 pounds common Northern 15@16c.

EGGS.

The market is weak and declining. The supply is a little in excess of demand. Sales reported were 500 dozen 12½c; 1,000 dozen 12c; 500 dozen 12c; 10 boxes 12c.

CHICKENS.

Choice mixed and hens are in good demand at unchanged figures. Receipts are light and there is very few in market. We note sales of 5 coops good mixed, $3; 3 coops good mixed, $2 75@3 25; 6 coops choice hens, $3 50.

APPLES.

Choice apples are in demand and scarce. Receipts are all taken at $3 50; common varieties are plenty and not wanted. We note sales of 50 barrels choice, $3@3 50; 50 barrels bad order, $1; 60 barrels choice, $3 50; 50 barrels common, $2@2 50.

ORANGES AND LEMONS

In good supply and quiet. We note sales of 20 boxes oranges, $4@4 50; 10 boxes lemons, $6@7.

POTATOES.

The potatoe market is quiet and easy, the supply is fully equal to the demand, which is very light. Sales were 100 bushels peach blows, $1@1 05; 30 barrels peach blows, $2 50@2 75; 20 barrels sweet potatoes, $4.

PROVISIONS.

The market is quiet and dull. Transactions are too small to cut any figure in a report. Prices are quoted unchanged since last report as follows:

Dry salt shoulders, 8½c; dry salt clear sides, 12½c; bacon hams, 14c; lard, bucket and tierces, 15c; smoked meats, 1c higher than dry salt; mess pork, $22 50.
