AN OPEN LETTER TO THE PUBLIC.

NEW YORK, October 1st, 1877.

I have devoted twenty years of patient study to the Liver and its relations to the human body, in search of a remedy which would restore it, when diseased, to its normal condition. The result of that labor has been the production of

TUTT'S LIVER PILLS.

Their popularity has become so extended and the demand so great as to induce unscrupulous parties to counterfeit them, thereby ROBBING ME of the reward, and the afflicted of their virtues.

TO CAUTION THE PUBLIC, and protect them from vile impositions, I have adopted a new label, which bears my trade mark and notice of its entry in the office of the Librarian of Congress, also my signature, thus:

Dr. H. Tutt M. D.

Before purchasing examine the label closely.

THE GENUINE TUTT'S PILLS exert a peculiar influence on the system. Their action is prompt and their good effects are felt in few hours. A quarter of a century of study of the Liver has dismissed from it every trace of disease, leaving the system and every organ of the body and when taken according to the directions, it restores the entire organism to a healthy condition. It is necessary for the healing of this organ that a laxative should be taken to tone and bracing the relaxed system. It has proved the greatest boon ever furnished the afflicted, shall they be deprived of its benefits and a vile imitation or cheap pill thrust upon them?

WITH HONEST PEOPLE THE MERITS OF TUTT'S PILLS HAVE GIVEN THEM A WORLD WIDE REPUTATION.

To be certain of obtaining the genuine, see that the signature of the firm of Tutt Brothers, as above mentioned and on the envelope, is on each box. All others are spurious, and should be avoided as dangerous compounds. They can be obtained from respectable druggists everywhere. Very respectfully,

DR. H. TUTT.

Scribner's Monthly
For 1877-78

Without recalling the excellence of the past, the publisher announces that the ENTHUSIASM displayed in the year or more he has been preparing for the year to come has not been in vain. The best talent of the country, in each department of literature, art and science, has been enlisted in the work, and the publication for the year 1878 will be the most attractive and valuable literary undertaking of the day.

THE PICTURESQUE SIDE OF AMERICAN FARM LIFE.

This subject will be treated in a series of separate papers engaged from writers who stand in the front rank among American authors both in quality of style and in acute insight of nature. Mr. H. H. Robinson, author of a delightful paper on "Fox Hunting in New England" in the January number, will represent the same section in this series. John Burroughs whose similar topics have been a highly prized and popular feature of SCRIBNER will write of Farm life in New York. Maurice Thompson, the poet-naturalist, will describe the characteristics of Western farming, of which but little has been written. It is expected that the illustration of this series will be of a de fitted and typical character, commensurate with the subject matter. It is thought that no paper or series of papers is used in SCRIBNER will so fully realize the constant desire of the magazine to keep out of the ruts and both in text and illustrations, to obtain quality, and to print fresh, strong and delicate work from original sources.

ROXY.—By EDWARD EGGLESTON (author of "The Hoosier Schoolmaster," &c.) This new novel will doubtless be the most important American serial of the year. The first number was published in November. Those who have read it in manuscript declare ROXY to be much the most striking remarkable story this author has ever written. It is illustrated by one of the ablest of the younger American painters—Mr. Walter Shirlaw, President of "The American Art Association."

AMERICAN SPORTS.—Some of the most novel and entertaining of these papers are yet to appear the scenes of which will be in the west, the Middle States, the South, New England and Canada.

OUT-OF-DOOR PAPERS.—By John Burroughs, author of "Wake Robin," &c., will contain not only articles on Birds, but on "Tramping," "Camping Out," and kindred topics. Mr. Burroughs's papers will begin in the January number, the first being entitled "Birds and Birds," and illustrated by Fidelia Bridges.

ARCHITECTURE OF BIRDS.—Dr. Thos. M. Brewer will contribute four exquisitely illustrated articles on birds' nests, which every lover of nature will delight in. Dr. Brewer has probably the finest collection of birds' eggs in the world to draw upon for the illustration of these papers.

THE SADDLE-HORSE.—Col. George E. Waring, with whose excellent work of various sorts our readers are familiar, contributes two illustrated articles on the horse. He treats specially of saddle-horses and their use for pleasure and for sport including road-riding, fox-hunting and racing. The nature of the English thoroughbred and that of his eastern progenitor (the Arabian) are fully considered in relation to these uses.

SANTA CLAUS.—New stories by this popular writer will be given in early numbers of SCRIBNER, ending with "Joe Hale's Red Stockings," to appear in January. This novel the chronicles an episode of the late war for the Union.

"HIS INHERITANCE."—By Adeline Trafton begun in the midsummer holiday number, will be continued nearly through the year. It will be found to be of increasing interest to the very end.

"A KNIGHT OF FORTUNE."—Bjalmar Bjorth Boyesen's new novel—will be begun in CENTURY at the conclusion of "Hirlehame." It will reveal a phase of American society undreamed of by most of our readers and will be certain to increase the reputation of the writer as a master of English and of heart.

THE ORIGINAL DRAWINGS will continue to employ the best pens in America and will include the present admirable summary of English publications, besides the special articles above enumerated, the magazine will contain Poems, Sketches, Essays, Reviews and Short Stories of the highest character. A large practical reduction in price is made by an increase in the number of pages.

THE ILLUSTRATIONS of the MAGAZINE in variety and excellence of design and in typographical excellence will continue to be in advance of those of any other popular magazine at home or abroad.

Subscription price $4.00 a year, payable in advance to any bookseller.

No subscription or other discounts to subscribers. The Magazine is worth its price unto, and its circulation is increasing in a constant and steady ratio from year to year.

MISSISSIPPI.

The Kemper County Murderers—Mrs. Chisholm Interviewed.

Cor. Cincinnati Gazette.

JACKSON, MISS., Nov. 30, 1877.

I had intended to go to Kemper county yesterday, but Kemper saved me the trouble by coming to Jackson. They were all here: William Gully, Virgil Gully, Jesse Gully, Houston Gully, J. A. Swanzy, Chairman of the Kemper county Democratic Committee, and several others. Among the accused is Richard McCall, a very black man, who talks a lingo that can scarcely be recognized as English. He is a negro of the Guinea-est type, and his offense consisted in making music for the "bulldozers" when they broke up Republican meetings. The parties are charged, under the enforcement act, with "having conspired, by force and arms, to prevent Judge Chisholm from advocating his claims as a candidate for Congress." He was nominated by the Republicans of that district in 1875, and was one of the few Republicans who had the hardihood to canvass his district. He made his appointments and went to speaking. Such a canvass as related to me by men of all parties has few parallels in the history of politics. Nearly all the meetings were attacked by armed Democrats, who constantly interrupted the speeches, and used all means short of actual shooting to scare the negroes away. Still the Republicans persisted, and as a last resort the killing began. At Macon was fired into and a number killed, for the alleged provocation of "making too much noise with a drum." Still the blacks refused to give up the canvass, and then a reign of terror was inaugurated. Judge Chisholm was twice driven from the stand, and his audience scattered by armed Democrats, after which he abandoned the canvass. On election day, armed Democrats took possession of the polls in most of the precincts, and excluded the Republicans. It is needless to say that the Judge was defeated. These offenses, being notorious, the Grand Jury of the United States District Court summoned several witnesses, among whom were Judge Chisholm and John W. Gully.

Indictments were found against those above mentioned, and the trial set for the spring term, 1877. By way of preparation, the Democrats of Kemper commenced driving away the witnesses. Four of them refused to go—viz.: Judge Chisholm, J. P. Gilmer, and the brothers Hopper. As a last resort, Chisholm and Gilmer were killed, and the Democrats are now waiting to see if the Hoppers will not leave. It is to be presumed that they will.

I am much pleased to notice that the Democrats of this vicinity do not look kindly on their Kemper county brethren. It is freely admitted that they are a "hard lot," and I could scarcely conceal my pleasure when I saw their principal pointedly snubbed by a prominent man here. On general principles, I was not noisy in the expression of my views. Seven years in Utah will teach the dullest man something.

It is known to all who have had experience in reporting trials that criminals will never look as we thought they ought to; and I was not surprised to see that many of the accused appeared like ordinary middle class farmers. But among them were a few who looked the "bulldozer" to perfection. William Gully is a fine looking man, physically, and I fancy that he would make a good neighbor under ordinary circumstances; but he evidently has a bad temper when aroused. As for the mass of the accused, the traveler through Southern Indiana, who has seen the backwoods resident in for a day's loafing at the village store, has a fair idea of them. That class of "mean whites" who moved from the mountains of Virginia and Kentucky to Indiana are identical with similar immigrants to Mississippi.

Hon. R. H. Hill, United States Circuit Judge, set the trial for yesterday having, as he told us, forgotten it was Thanksgiving Day. But the accused came up with a pile of affidavits for continuance, and the same was granted. So it goes over till the last Monday in January. Having waited only to be disappointed, I called upon widow of the murdered Judge. I found a pleasant looking lady of middle age, with dark brown hair and clear blue eye, dressed in black silk, with rather more of gold ornaments and jewels than is customary in the North. She is much younger looking than the pictures of her would indicate, but the events of the last year have left their traces in her countenance. Of the two hours' conversation, in which her entertainers, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. D. Fisher, took part, the reader will probably only care to hear what relates to facts not hitherto published. Not only have the minutest incidents of the murder been published, but Mrs. Chisholm has had written out, once for all, a circumstantial account, which is soon to appear in book form, and she naturally avoids reference to the painful details. But the more the case is examined the more utterly without excuse does it appear. No circumstance of horror was lacking. It was at once cowardly, cold blooded and causeless.

"They were all old residents," says Mrs. Chisholm, "and what may strike you as strange, all religious sects were represented. There were Catholics, Presbyterian elders, and most of all I noticed two Methodist class leaders that were very active all through the matter. One of these men was a great exhorter, and had often labored with us for the good of our souls. At the last camp meeting I attended, this man got so 'happy' he shouted at a great rate, and came up to Mr. Chisholm, and took him around the neck, and begged him to go forward, and said: 'It is all you lack, Judge, to be a first rate man—all you lack is religion.' And that man helped kill my husband."

"They were old neighbors, then?"

"O, yes, and many of them in debt to Mr. Chisholm for the very bread they ate for breakfast that day—if they took time to eat. The next candidate for sheriff gave his pledge that if he was elected Mrs. Chisholm should never collect anything by law in Kemper county.' And now you say some Northern people want to move to Mississippi. Well, I'll sell all we have in Kemper county—sell it cheap! We have land in forty and eighty acre tracts all over the county, and as fine a mill site as there is in the country—Mr. Chisholm meant to improve it and build a factory—but they can have it all for next to nothing, enough to buy us a little place up North, where my boys can live."

"You have boys living?"

"Two boys left, and its the oldest one that's in danger. He was chased through the woods the last time he left home. He is the one that they want to drive away now. But he's used to trouble. When he went to Sunday-school, the larger boys pinched and thumped him, and even young men would torment him in every way they could. It got so bad that I taught my children at home. There is neither Sunday-school nor church now, to speak of, the region has got to such a pitch. The ruffians rule, and now they don't allow people from other sections, North or South, to take any comfort there. They don't tolerate difference in politics or anything else—not even a difference in birthplaces."

Further conversation developed the facts that Judge Chisholm was of Scotch descent and a native of Georgia; that he served through the war in the Confederate army, and "accepted reconstruction," being thereafter known as a "d——d thieving radical." The murderers included several men of property and some standing in the community, and for a while were greatly glorified by their neighbors; but of late there seems to be a dread that something will be done, and all the machinery of local government and society is enlisted against any inquiry. One by one the enlightened citizens are leaving the county, and their place is supplied by desperadoes and refugees from other sections, and Kemper bids fair to soon be in the condition of Massac, Ill., thirty or forty years ago, when the horse thieves had the county organization, and only honest men were in danger. Very few Republicans of any note are left in Kemper, and they can not get away without going empty handed, as nobody will buy their property. But such a storm of indignation swept over the country that the State is scandalized, and there appears to be a mild pressure now brought to bear on the authorities of Kemper, they are savagely determined, however, to brave it out.

During the conversation I was shown photographs of Judge Chisholm and the son and daughter who were killed. Many persons have desired copies but Mrs. Chisholm has declined to allow them to be sold by the artist. All she asks of the United States and the State of Mississippi is permission to sell her property for whatever it will bring, collect what is due her, and get away. The Judge had intended to settle in Indiana, but she now thinks of going to Ohio. One wealthy resident sacrificed his property and located in Muskingham county, O., one acre of land there costing ten times as much as in Kemper! And not as good land either, he writes. Such is the value of good government. "But the curse of God is on Kemper county," said Mrs. Chisholm, "and there it will remain, and the murderers can not prosper." The trial being postponed, she returned to DeKalb last night.

Be it understood that this is a proceeding in the Federal Courts, not as against murderers, but for the offense of intimidating voters. Under our "paternal" government things are so arranged that in Mississippi it is safer to kill a man than to prevent his voting. The latter falls within national law; murder comes before the State courts, and if the grand or petit jury of Kemper fail to act, that ends it. The present hope of the "bulldozers" is that a Democratic Congress will repeal the Enforcement Act at an early day, and abolish the army. It is impossible to get an opinion out of a Democrat hereabouts as to this Kemper business. "Bad thing, very bad thing," is the extent of their remarks. They are very friendly with me, and in this central section of the State it does not seem that Northern men are annoyed in any way. I think I shall go into the black districts to-morrow.
