WINE FOR WOMEN

McEree's WINE OF CARDUI makes Ladies vivacious, cheerful, and fascinating in society. It converts scolding wives, cross sisters, and homely girls into loving mothers, amiable daughters, and beautiful women.

McEree's WINE OF CARDUI corrects all derangements peculiar to Ladies, relieves the pains to which they are subject, quiets the nerves, purifies the blood, and restores health. It imparts vitality, and insures clear complexions.

McEree's WINE OF CARDUI is more stimulating than wine made from grapes, more strengthening than any preparation of iron, yet it does not intoxicate, but is as harmless as pure water to the most delicate Lady.

Send for our sixty-four page pamphlet, telling all about it. Address The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

SOME THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

Fish may be scaled much easier by dipping into boiling water about a minute.

When soaking salt fish before cooking add a little vinegar to the water; it improves the fish.

Cream cures sunburn on some complexions, lemon juice is best on others, and cold water suits still others best.

Milk which is slightly turned or changed may be sweetened and rendered fit for use again by stirring in a little soda.

Paint spots may be removed from any kind of clothing by saturating with equal parts of turpentine and spirits of ammonia.

Salt will curdle new milk; hence, in preparing milk porridge, gravies, etc., the salt should not be added until the dish is prepared.

To scour knives easily, mix a small quantity of baking soda with your brick-dust, and see if your knives do not polish better.

For "greasing" the griddle, cut a white turnip in halves and rub the griddle with it. It causes no smoke, smell, taste or adhesion, and is better than butter or grease.

Steel knives which are not in general use may be kept from rusting if they are dipped in a strong solution of soda, one part water to four of soda; then wipe dry, roll in flannel and keep in a dry place.

Don't waste your time scouring your breadpans; bread never bakes as well in a bright tin. Indeed, the best pans if one can afford to have them made, are oblong ones made of Russia sheet iron.

When one has had a fever and the hair is falling off, take a teacup of sage, steep in a quart of soft water, strain it off into a tight bottle. Sponge the head with the tea frequently, wetting the roots of the hair.

Stale buns may be made to taste as nicely as when fresh if they are dipped a moment or so in cold water, then put into a hot oven for five or ten minutes. They will turn out as light and crisp as when first baked.

Flowers may be kept very fresh over night if they are excluded entirely from the air. To do this wet them thoroughly, put in a damp box and cover, with wet raw cotton or wet newspaper, then place in a cool spot.

Kerosene will soften boots or shoes which have been hardened by water, and render them as pliable as new. Kerosene will make tin tea-kettles as bright as new.— Saturate a woolen rag and rub with it. It will also remove stains from clean varnished furniture.

Beeswax and salt will make your rusty flat-irons as clean and smooth as glass. Tie a lump of wax in a rag and keep it for that purpose. When the irons are hot rub them first with the wax rag, and then scour them with a paper or cloth sprinkled with salt.

When coffee beans are placed upon hot coals or upon a hot plate the flavor arising is one of the most effective and at the same time agreeable disinfectants. If no heat is obtainable even the spreading of ground coffee on the object to be disinfected is most satisfactory.

The value of crushed ice as a dressing for burns and scalds, first pointed out by Sir James Earle, is confirmed by Dr. Richardson. The ice after being reduced by crushing or scraping to a fine state of division as dry as possible, is mixed with fresh lard into a paste, which is placed in a thin cambric bag and laid upon the burn. This is said to banish all pain until the mixture has so far melted that a fresh dressing is necessary.

The Scientific American says if a bottle of the oil of pennyroyal is left uncorked in a room at night, not a mosquito or any other blood sucker will be found there in the morning. Mix potash with powdered meal and throw it into the rat holes of a cellar and the rats will depart. If a rat or mouse gets into your pantry, stuff in its hole a rag saturated with a solution of cayenne pepper, and no rat or mouse will touch the rag for the purpose of opening a communication with a depot of supplies.

—The Times-Democrat rather frankly criticises an operative manager who thought he cared nothing for the press, that he could buy notices when he wanted them. It tells him that the public cares nothing about managers, but a great deal about the quality of plays and acting, and press opinions worth having are not for sale. It is right. The least deviation from fidelity to truth tends to injure the press, and where it is conducted with intelligence no such suicidal policy will be pursued. A single editorial puff of an execrable play or miserable performance would amount, in a reputable journal, to a fraud entailing upon the public an outlay of several hundred dollars, resulting in disappointment to as many persons and consequent resentment toward the paper. Newspapers that sell their alleged opinions do not acquire influence or earn money. This general law is slightly obscured by the fact that there various departments in a paper and it may be loyal to the public in one department and venal in another. In that case it soon comes to be rated accordingly, as a special paper. But in the natural progress of news competition, honesty and ability are required in political, commercial news and dramatic and all other departments; otherwise capital is thrown away in the publication, for it requires good work all round to make a thorough success.—[Exchange.

—"I HAVE both used and sold Prickly Ash Bitters for a number of years, and think it the best bitters made for Biliousness, Liver Complaints and for toning up the system," so writes W. H. Cole, Druggist, of Joplin, Mo. A single trial of this remedy will convince any person of the truth of the above.
