The City and Country.

QUESTION for THE SABBATH SCHOOLS.

No. 15. To what age did the antediluvians live? At what period of the world was the life of man shortened, and for what reason?

MEETING.

The next meeting of the Ladies' Southern Aid Society will take place on the first Monday in November.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

The Sunday School Convention of this county will meet at the Presbyterian Church, on the 10th of November next.

FAIR TICKETS.

The great Fair of the Ladies of the Southern Aid Society of St. Louis, having a second time been postponed, enables us to offer their tickets for the balance of the week. GRIMES & VENABLE.

TOWNSHIP MEETING.

A meeting of the Conservatives of Washington Township, will be held on Saturday next, October 13th, at Hoax' School House, for the purpose of nominating officers for said township. A full attendance of the people is requested.

PUBLIC MEETING.

We are authorized to call a meeting of the people at the courthouse, on Saturday next, at 10o'clock, to take into consideration the necessity of some action in respect to the frequent robberies in the county, and the proper means to be adopted to put a stop to these depredations. It is hoped all will attend, whether of the city or county.

Dr. J. G. CHINN.

Dr. J. G. Chinn, an old and esteemed ex-citizen of this city, and well and favorably known to all the old citizens of the place as one of the best physicians and the fondest gentleman we ever had in Lexington, is at present on a visit to his children and friends, in this city. We are glad to hear that the Doctor is in fine health, and able to do his share yet at fighting radicals. The Doctor resides at present, at Lexington, Ky., for which place he will leave after spending some days here.

NEW ARRIVAL.

An immense stock of fashionable custom-made clothing, including extra sizes; gents' furnishing and piece goods; boots and shoes, for gents, ladies and children; hats and caps, notions, trunks, valises, &c., &c. Also a complete assortment of genuine PEBBLE SPECTACLES, to suit all defective eyes and failing visions. The celebrated Eye-Measurer on hand, and a perfect fit warranted. Store and office next door west of the City Hotel, Lexington, Mo. F. SHNELL,
Motto: Cheap for Cash. 1 Optician.

PHILLIPS' HEMP BRAKE.

We are glad to be able to refer to the card of Mr. William Morrison, in another column, in which he announces that he is manufacturing a limited number of Phillips' Hemp Brake, pronounced the best Brake now in use. These Brakes are now soon to be thrown on the market, from the the foundry and machine shop of William Morrison, made of the best material, and at home, where, if anything should break or be lost, or get out of order, it will be far easier to replace it than if the machine were made at a distance. The cost will not be higher than the machine is sold for elsewhere. All good farmers will look to it that they patronize home manufactures, so far as they can, and keep what little money we have in our midst, instead of sending it out of the country, and to assist in building up ourselves instead of others. We ask for these machines the attention of the farming interest.

Missouri State Sunday School Convention.

The Missouri State Sunday School Convention will be held in the M. E. Church, Washington Avenue, corner of Eighth street, in the city of St. Louis, on Wednesday, October 24, 1866, and continue its session through the 25th and 26th. Pastors of the several churches, officers and teachers of the Sunday Schools of the State, are cordially invited to attend. The object of the Convention will be to adopt measures calculated to encourage and extend the Sunday School work through the State. Statistical information will be presented and topics considered bearing on the Schools. Messrs R. G. Pardee, Esq., Rev. E. W. Gudlaux, Stephen Paxson, Esq., and other distinguished workers have agreed to be present. Let there be delegates to this convention from every Church and Sunday School in the State. All the railroads in the State, also the St. Louis, Alton and Terre Haute railroad, the Memphis and St. Louis Rockets, Illinois River and Alton Packet Companies, have agreed to return delegates free of charge. The Chicago, Alton and St. Louis Railroads will return delegates on payment of one fifth regular fare. These arrangements only apply to such as have paid full fare over the same route on their way to the convention. It is desired that the delegates purposing to attend will report their names as early as possible to Isaac S. Smith of this city, Chairman of the Committee of Reception, so that ample provisions for entertainment can be made in advance. Delegates on arrival, will be received by the Reception Committee at the Church, corner of Washington Avenue and Eight street, and assigned home during the sitting of the Convention. Come, christian brethren, with hearts full of love for the cause, knowing only the glory of the Master, give us the benefit of your experience and let us learn of each other how we may best promote the good work.

C. D. Jones, Wm. Downing, E. O. Standard, Thos. Morrison, C. C. Baily, Committee of Arrangements.

LEGAL—George S. Rathbun, Esq., will be present in this city, until after the November term of the court. Office with H. C. Wallace, Esq.

OPINION—Judge Burden, a few days since, decided, in the Probate court of this county, that the test oath in the new constitution touching the case of lawyers, to be unconstitutional. The case was argued by H. C. Wallace, Amos Green, and G. S. Rathbun.

TABO—The new bridge across this stream is finished and in use. We saw, a few days ago, a drawing by L. W. Wernwag, Esq., for the proposed bridge across the Big Sni, near Wellington, that looked very well on paper. We hope it may soon be made of more substantial material.

HORSE STOLEN—Mr. Berry Barton, of this county, lost a valuable mare a few days ago, in daylight by theft. He was visiting the house of a friend; hitched the animal to the fence, spent half an hour in the house, and on coming out to mount, found no animal, nor had she been heard of several days after TOBACCO—A friend who has traveled in the south, southeast, and southwest sections of the county, the past week, told us he does not think the tobacco crops of these sections so badly injured by the frosts as was at first thought, though all the crops are more or less injured.

FINE BUGGY—Messrs. Robinson & Clonbily have just finished up another of their excellent buggies, in their best style, and have it on exhibition at their establishment. It is a fine piece of workmanship, fully finished, nicely painted, and put together strong and well, materials, the very best. Made at home, and sold for less than foreign buggies. Look at it.

New Advertisements.

Fruits—Mr. F. Mock, at his nursery, is in good supply of all the different varieties of fruit trees, which he is offering at low prices, with far more ample guaranties than traveling agents can give, for his trees are all healthy, acclimated, and may be removed at pleasure. See his notice.

Warrensburg—Hyatt, Allen & Co., of Warrensburg, advertise with us to-day. They are live merchants, and liberal dealers, and are the only house so far, used doing a similar business. They give especial attention to the commission business, and we bespeak for them a large share of the patronage of our citizens.

Books—Pigott's bulletin for to-day is a good one, in the musical line.

Dress Making—By notice, it will be seen that the Mrs. Jordan have commenced the business of dress making, stamping, braiding and embroidering, at their residence on Franklin street, where they will be able to accommodate customers in their line, on the best terms at short notice, and in the best style.

New Jewelry—Grimes and Venable are in receipt of a new stock of goods in their line—embracing fine watches, rings, pins, buttons, sets of jewelry, silver-ware, notions, fancy goods, clocks, &c., besides some very curious and unique affairs—one a sea scene, the Great Eastern laying the Atlantic Cable, with music; a music box, with timbrels, and lots of other things, too tedious to mention.

ROBBERIES.

We have a few robberies to report, in this city and county, since our last issue. They are as follows:

On Monday night, Mr. Hackett's stable was robbed of four mules and a horse or two. The mules were branded as usual, and came home the next day, being, no doubt, turned out by thieves, because they could not dispose of them with the brand on them.

The store of Messrs. Mechesney & Hereford, at Mt. Hope, in this county, was robbed of $60 in money, on Monday night last, by three or four well-armed ruffians, unknown to the occupants of the store.

From this store, the robbers proceeded to the house of Mr. John Price and demanded money; but there being no such commodity in the house, the robbers, after considerable parley, left.

The house of Mr. John H. Ish was entered on Thursday evening last, by four unknown robbers, with faces disguised, and robbed of a pocket book, containing some valuable papers; also, a shot-gun, finely mounted with silver, and three pistols. Mr. Ish was not at home at the time, but coming home a few minutes after their departure, procured such description of the men as enables him to fix, in his own mind, suspicion on certain persons residents of this county. See notice in another column.

Friday night last, four ruffians entered the house of Wm. Limrick, near this city, and robbed it of all the silver plate on the premises, and the vault key of his banking house, in this city.

The stable of Mr. Fred. Noel, of this city, was entered on Saturday night last, and two horses and four mules stolen therefrom. The horses returned next day, having every appearance of hard riding the night previous. The mules were also found the next day, near town, with their halters tied around their necks, as though the thieves had endeavored upon the mules following the horses.

The stable of Mrs. Judge Tarleton was also robbed, on Thursday night last, of two valuable horses.

A horse was also stolen from Michael Allen, near this city, one day last week.

We hear that there are numbers of strange people running through the country with no apparent business, armed. The frequent loss of horses, the robbery of outside stores, and depredations of one sort and another, indicates the existence of an organized band of thieves. What is doing by the authorities to break them up? Nothing.

Several days ago, a number of Jennison's jayhawkers were in this city, at a certain saloon. They were pointed out to Mr. Sheriff Adamson, and he was requested to arrest them; but he did not do so. That very night Mr. Hackett lost his mules. We know it is a nice business for a Sheriff to arrest persons merely on suspicion; but the present is not a time for Kansas jayhawkers to be allowed to roam round the country without some apparent occupation. They should have been arrested promptly, and made to show the nature of their business in Missouri.

Inasmuch as the authorities are doing nothing, and seem determined to do nothing, in the premises, would it not be well to form vigilance committees in all the township and neighborhoods, to look after these villains?

Messrs. EDITORS: A writer, signing himself "Citizen," in last week's Express, gives Adamson and two of the County Court a passing notice, that rubs considerably in places, and tells what, everyone must admit, appears like stubborn facts; but language is inadequate to express the indignation of the people in regard to the action of the County Court, and of the amiable and truthful (?) Mr. Tom. Adamson. That there seems to be some arrangement between him and this county court to swindle the people out of their rights, and put their money into their own pockets, is too plain to doubt. They had the law as plain as day for their guide; they had sworn before high heaven to execute the same justly and fairly, giving to each and every department under their control equal and impartial justice, but they wilfully and maliciously failed; they did it with malice aforethought, too, for no doubt, as "Citizen" says, they had been promised a good share of what Adamson will steal, for the part they played in this swindle. They have shown themselves to be a set of consummate villains, fearfully guilty of perjury, beyond the possibility of a reasonable doubt. Let me say to Chaney and Kirkpatrick that the people will number you, gentlemen, as two of the basest villains that ever disgraced any court room, unless it was a criminal dragged there to answer for some enormous crime; and no lower criminals than you are have appeared before a court of justice, except, perhaps, for murder; and if you had justice, you would have to answer to the law for violations of it in more than one instance. You claim to belong to the only loyal party. Is this a specimen of your loyalty? I presume it is, for it is a fair sample of the gals of your loyal party the State over, from the Governor down to the dirtiest reptiles (like yourselves) he has placed in office. Think of it—a bond required to be worth $140,000 is $129,715 short; or, in other words, worth $10,285; and I presume, as Adamson was a good rebel in 1861, like Drake and Emory Foster, that the cultivation of Jeffersonian Cry will approve of all the acts of this beautiful trio, but the people will remember Adamson, Kirkpatrick and Chaney, and refer to them as three of the most unmitigated scamps that ever went unpunished. J. Y. C.

NEW BOOKS.

INSIDE. A Chronicle of Secession. By George F. Harrington. With Illustrations, by Thomas Nast. Harper & Brothers, 1866.

The reply of the lion to the painter, when he was shown a picture of a man overcoming a lion, cannot fail to be remembered when reading this, and similar books. "Yes," said the monarch of the forest, "it is a very fine piece of art, but if lions were the painters!" and here he ceased. So those who lived in those some times of trouble outside of secession, or, at least, in the debatable border-land, might say, if they were the painters. The author of "Inside," in the commencement, assures his readers of his exceeding amiability. "If there is one drop of gall—the least splinter of wormwood—in these pages, he is ignorant of it."

Well, it was long ago written that the taste might become so perverted as to "call sweet bitter and bitter sweet," but more than this, he is a NATIVE of the South, and has given it his first warm affections. Well, we will not doubt this, either, only the thought will intrude itself, can he be in any way connected with one of his own heroes—the magnificent S. C. De Pelt?

Judge ye, who read for yourselves. "While we would not dare to say that any of the pictures are more caricatures than true delineations, they are, at least, very adaptable in regard to grouping, coloring, &c." The central piece of each being a nightlier. The semi-colonial brother Sinkey, Col. Wright, Mrs. Warner, Mr. Lanman, &c., etc., in the deepest shades of black and crimson, shaded off to the dull faded grey and dead leaf of Mrs. Fudge Eccles, and the Juggins family. For the Union, Rev. Mr Author, Mr. Scarff, Col. Brooks, and Mr. Furgeson, in dazzling white and blue. "Toned down" to the haziness and neutral tint of Doctor Warren, the shoe-maker's family, and Aunt Sallie, glorified by the golden-colored glory of the S. C. Doctor. All getting one picture—a picture with nothing good belonging to them, while every one in the picture are christian, heroic, patriotic, and in fact, almost "perfect angels." But for the not fit as the reality. These frames more grand sketch of the South, of Northern men, many of whom it is stated, "that the desertion of Southern resistance was owing to muskets and pens in Northern hands, under the flag of the Confederacy." New England and New England boys were there, and where raged the battle fiercest, in council or in field, "to battle for the Rebel." Good Sam. L. thinks that it was not you who have brought all the evil that is around you, upon the land, but the contrabrand "Abolitionists North and South." But after these pictures were all looked at, and the explanatory read, we laid down the book in "sober seriousness" and asked if "cui bono?" Surely, there is good to result from the baleful fire of hate and trifle, to come ever within the awful scourge of which has flowed over our fair homes, surely, there must be some more graver for those who went down amid the tempest of the battle-field, and, alas, with their strong hands folded over the true, brave hearts that prompted their wonderful deeds of valor, are sleeping their last sleep on every hill side, and in every valley. And oh! surely there are enough now more sorrowful and desolate than the old Roman, for lo! at amid the ruins of the city of his enemy, while these mourners wash over the ashes of their own Hesperides, and lament the "Lost Cause" (?) He looks back at last, with no hope, but in the heaven above, though, where alone, "truly broken hearts love" can be satisfied. Surely, it is worth a moment's pause to find up, instead of heaping asunder, a nation's wounds—to pour the oil of consolation over them, and to be the good Samaritan instead of the cruel Levite.

If the book just ever did "Bury its dead," it will be when calmness and charity, instead of sin and injury, are present. Again the solemn question comes, "What good can such books do?" and the still more solemn one, "how much evil?"

SABBATH SCHOOL—The State Convention of the Sabbath Schools, to further the ends of that interest, will meet in St. Louis, on the 24th of November. The Methodist school South, last Sabbath, appointed the following delegates to it, viz: William Morrison, Jas. Clowdsley, and J. M. Fullum. We should be obliged if the other schools in the city and county would send us the names of their delegates to the convention.

REGISTERING.

Registration did not proceed so well, nor so satisfactorily, nor so legally, on Saturday as on the two previous days, owing to too much interference on the part of those who, months ago, ought to have been sealed. Mr. Earl, the registrar for this township, was absent in St. Louis, and consequently, nothing at all was done here; but we have heard it said he would register Thursday, Friday and Saturday next, to make up for the time lost. We hope he may do so, and that the business may be allowed to progress quietly, peaceably and legally.

In Clay township, the Supervisor of Registration has endeavored to throw obstacles in the way of registration, but was not successful. Mr. Kesterson, the appointee in that township, who determined to register according to law, did not meet the approbation of the Supervisor, and he sent for the registrar to come to Lexington, where he attempted to dissuade him either to resume his registration to the radical standard, or resign. He also sent two of the Jeffries to accomplish the same thing. Mr. Kesterson could not see matters in this light, for either would have been an admission of wrong doing, which he did not feel, and declined to be dictated to by Dr. Cooley or any one else, holding, very properly that his acts were to be overlooked and supervised by the Board, and that if he had done anything wrong, it would be time enough then to make him sensible of it. Every means was resorted to to intimidate this officer, but to no effect. He was put on threatening with arrest, and with having his books taken from him. But it was not done! Those engaged in the dirty work probably know why! All can guess.

The same influences were brought to bear on Mr. Dunn, of Dover township, with better success, we understand, that gentleman having surrendered his books up to Dr. Cooley, and resigned. There are a few questions, just here, we shall have to ask the Doctor. 1. Does the registry law give you any authority to interfere with the registration as it progresses? If so, where is the section to be found? 2. Does the law give you the right to force a registrar to resign? 3. What becomes of the book? 4. Does not the law plainly fix his duties? 5. Does the law contemplate any adjournment on registration days? 6. Does it not say the registrar "shall, on these days, be in attendance for the purpose of registration, from 8 o'clock A. M. to 6 o'clock P. M.?" 7. How then is it that adjournments, right in the best part of the day, are effected?

Now, Dr. Cooley, do not these little mean acts plainly point to the fact, that you are determined to have things your own way, law or no law? "Look to your hands, Dr. C., and don't be foolish—don't kick against the pricks, Doctor. The people, the copperheads, as your oracles, Mr. DeMotte, calls them, and who says they are largely in the majority—are not going to be swindled out of their right of suffrage, Doctor, by you or the Radical party; and if you cannot go on fairly and squarely in this registration business, they will see that some one else can; or see how many dollars you are able to lose from your little pile, to help put negroes into the position of voters. Conservatives, largely in the majority, are not going to be humbugged by you, Dr. Cooley; rest assured of that.

ARREST OF CAPT. EARL.

Capt. Earl, registrar for Lexington township, was arrested on last Saturday. The facts, as we learn, are these: Alf. Jones, one of the most noted rebels in this community, who was often heard to say on the streets of Lexington, at the beginning of the war, "get out of here, you Union whiners, or we'll make you bite the dust;" and who was one of a committee that ordered Major Neet and other Union men out of the city, and otherwise abused them, came up and demanded to be registered. Mr. Earl offered to administer the oath and register him. Jones demanded to know how he would register him. Mr. Earl stated on the rebel list. Jones replied that he would not take the oath unless he would register him as a loyal voter, and that he demanded it. Mr. Earl spoke kindly to him, and told him it was great presumption on his part, in the face of his notorious disloyalty, to ask to be registered a legal voter. Jones then swore he would be registered a legal voter or not at all, and had a writ sworn out before Justice Smith, and placed in the hands of Sheriff Adamson, who arrested Mr. Earl.—[Register.

Does our neighbor from Indiana suppose the people in Lexington are all fools, and that he caters for those who cannot discriminate between truth and falsehood? If Mr. Jones were guilty of all the charges in the first sentence, it would not make him a rebel, even under the third section of the swindle; and if he had ordered Maj. Neet to leave, that would not make him a rebel, or deter him from registering; but, might suffice him to suit for damages. Nothing more.

Mr. Jones, on applying early the first Saturday of registration, and when only three persons had been registered, was careful to do so in the presence of witnesses. He asked to be registered, and the registrar told him he would take his case under advisement until 2 o'clock the same day. At that hour he was again put off, Mr. Jones saying he was ready to register under the law, and would track the law to a T; but for Mr. Earl to take its time, and satisfy himself. He called again the morning of the second day, and renewed his demand, when the registrar said he would have to call in witnesses in his case, one of whom was examined without proving the point the registrar wished to arrive at. The registrar said he had another witness, Mr. Emde, who was not able to attend the morning board, but that he would see him between that time and 2 o'clock, when he would be able to decide. At that hour Mr. Jones was present; but Mr. Emde had not been examined. Mr. Jones then demanded to be registered under the law, and the registrar declined to place his name on the book. Mr. Jones tells us he has good witnesses to all that passed, and called their attention to the proceedings at the time. So that, in the absence of Mr. Earl, the various editors of the Register have got the cart before the horse again. The arrest was not made until after the business of the registrar was closed.

FINE APPLES—We neglected last week, to notice a basket of very fine apples sent us by Mrs. J. I. Williams, of all fall varieties, and as large as one could comfortably handle or eat, of fine flavor, and very perfect.

Mr. T. Mock also sent us, yesterday, about a bushel and a half of as fine apples, both for size and flavor, as we have seen this season. He will please accept our thanks.

JUSTICE SMITH—It is, perhaps, as little as we can do, being somewhat concerned with the facts, to say that it is ample reply to all the Register has had to say about this gentleman, that in the suit between him and Dr. Buckley, the case was twice arbitrated, and each time in favor of Mr. Smith, by good and competent men; and that it is a little late for outside adventurers to be trumping up such trash, to his detriment. He is above and beyond all their malice.

MULE COLTS—Mr. S. J. Fitzgerald drove through our town, on Wednesday last, a small number of mule colts, which he bought in Daviess county, this State. There were twenty of them, and all very pretty colts. He intends to feed them on his farm, and prepare them for market.

FINE WAGON—Price & Hall have on exhibition a very fine two-horse wagon, home made, nicely ornamented, substantial, and durable, at shop on Franklin street.

The radical papers now speak of Gen. Grant as a "Military Adventurer."

Corn is selling at 85 a bushel in Tuscaloosa, Ala.

A peach 10 3-4 inches in circumference has been grown in Georgia.

Blood Will Tell.

The genealogy of Beast Butler can no doubt be traced to the Butler who made his name infamous in the Wyoming massacre during the Revolutionary war. The biography of that Butler is given in Appleton's Cyclopedia, a fit prototype for Butler the Beast.

Butler John—The atrocity committed by this miscreant during the revolutionary war almost exceed belief. He was a native of Connecticut, but removed to the Valley of Wyoming, where, in 1778, at the head of sixteen hundred men, of which three hundred were indians, and the rest tories painted like Indians, he attacked the towns and villages of that romantic region, and indiscriminately massacred those who submitted as well as those who fought, women and children as well as men. To the question what terms would be granted, he replied—"the hatchet!" People of both sexes were indiscriminately shut up in houses, which were then set on fire; some were held down in the flames by pitchforks and in one instance, at least, a poor wretch had his body stuck full of pine knot splinters and then burned, etc.

Our only comment is "that blood will tell."

Letter from a Soldier.

Fellow Soldiers of the M. S. M.: The Radical Congressional Convention at Richmond after passing the following resolution, "We approved the law equalizing bounties and regret that they did not extend it to the M. S. M," had the audacity to nominate Van Horn for Congress, who, while he voted millions for negro and $4000 extra pay into his own pocket, yet never thought of the three regiments of M. S. M. in his district. Let us then resent the insult and elect Judge Birch to Congress, who will spend less for the nigger and more for his constituents.

Connecticut Town Elections—Conservative Gains.

HARTFORD, CONN., Oct. 2.—We have returns from one-third of the town elections of yesterday. The Democrats and Conservatives had made decided gains over the Republicans in Glastenbury, Sunsbury, Somers, Middletown, Canton and Graby. Strict political tests were made. The Radicals were defeated, and every one of these towns was gained to the Democrats and Conservatives.

Auction sales made at Paris by Major S. M. Hibler, on the 1st instant: 1 yoke steers, $155; 49 cattle, 1 and 2 years old, per head $11 to $19; 6 steers, $272 75; 27 cattle, 4 and 5 years old, $29 75; 27 two year old steers at from $125 to 175; some horses at from $130 to 170. All stock lower.

The home farm of the late Lemuel Bennett, of Madison county, containing three or four hundred acres, lying on the Richmond and Lancaster road, six miles from the former place, was sold a few days ago by his heirs at public sale. It brought $72 50 per acre, and Moses Bennett, Esq., of Louisville, was the purchaser.

Mr. Phil. Swigert sold to R. A. Alexander, Esq., of Woodburn, a few days ago, a beautiful Alderney heifer for $300; also a marc and foal by Lexington for $800.—Ky. Gaz.

At Mr. M. Holly Smith's sale, hogs brought $10 50 per 100 lbs gross; milch cows from $55 to $90 to $160. The land was not sold—only $62 per acre was bid on it.

At Dan. Thomas's sale in Nicholas county, seventeen two year old mules $50; three year old steers $75; horses $100 to $200; suckling calves at $26.

At John Gilbert's, on the 25th, two year old steers—a very fine lot—brought $90 50; sixty hogs brought $9 21 per 100 lbs; horses from $80 to $165 per head.

Mr. F. P. Kinkead's sale took place as advertised, and stock brought very satisfactory prices. Horses ranged from 100 to $210 per head; Alderney cows from $55 to $160; Southdown ewes $10.—Ky. Gazette.

The Democrat says that the gang of black-and-tan so-call Southern loyalists, who are expected here on Monday, are exiles from their own States, because traitors and rebels would murder them if they returned. They are more in danger of criminal proseentions and actions for debt, than of the loss of their worthless lives. There is not a so-called traitor or rebel in the whole South who would not think it a disgrace to touch one of these contemptible scoundrels with the toe of his boot.—Times.

Hon. Henry C. Burnett. This distinguished politician and sterling Democrat died a few days ago in Christian county, of cholera. Mr. Burnett was a member of the U. S. Congress, and also of the Congress of the late Confederacy, and was a man of great ability and integrity.—Ky. Gazette.

"I bequeath," said an Irishman, in his will, "to my beloved wife, all my property, without reserve, and to my oldest son, Patrick, one half the remainder, and to Dennis, my youngest, the rest. If anything is left it may go to Tobacco McCarty."

Only think of it, just men of all parties: TWO THOUSAND DOLLARS extra to each member of Congress for living in luxury and doing nothing, and not a dollar bounty to the Missouri State Militia who only fought three years at thirteen dollars per month!—Carrollton Journal.

"Did the minister put a stamp on you when you were married, Mary?" A stamp, Charlie! What for, pray? "Why, matches ain't legal without a stamp."

Not a word have the Red Republicans heard from Connecticut or Montana or California. A faint ray of intelligence from Kentucky fell upon them but not long to stay.

The famous Confedeate cruiser Sleneafoah was sold recently at Liverpool, and the proceeds of the sale, amounting to 378,392 lb gold, have been forwarded to the United States treasury.

Several, if not all, of the Governors of the Northern States are engaged in purchasing arms, to be used, no doubt, in the premeditated war with the President.

Gen. Forrest has engaged in the commission business at Memphis, for the purpose, as he admits, of retrieving his fortune.

An Indiana paper tells of the recent killing of a rattlesnake with 110 rattles.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

We are authorized to announce PATRICK BALLARD as an independent candidate for the office of Circuit Clerk, at the ensuing November election.

NEW

FALL AND WINTER GOODS,

JUST OPENED AT

ARDINGER'S

Lexington, - - - - Missouri.

I WOULD ANNOUNCE TO MY NUMEROUS Customers, and the citizens generally, that I have just returned from the EASTERN CITIES where I have spent several weeks purchasing goods, and having purchased them from first hands, (the Importers and Manufacturers,) saving thereby the per cent. charges of the St. Louis Wholesale Merchants, enables me to offer rare inducements to the public to buy of me.

My Assortment of

DRESS GOODS

Is unusually Large and Attractive, comprising all qualities, from the Cheapest to the Best Fabrics, in which are to be found the Newest and Best Styles that could be had in the New York Market. Ladies wanting Goods in this line, would do well to go to

TO GET THEM.

Carpets! Carpets!

A Large Stock, of all Grades, are to be Found at ARDINGER'S.

VERY CHEAP.

SHAWLS, SHAWLS,

A Large Assortment of Long and Square, Bay State, and every other description of Shawls used.

Cloths & Cassimeres,

Missouri Fulled Cloths, and 3-4 and 6-4 Cassimeres, a large lot just received from the Factory—Black Cloak Cloth and Trimming. A large and desirable stock of the above goods at

ARDINGER'S

BOOTS AND SHOES.

STAPLE DRY GOODS.

An Immense stock of the Best Brands, at Wholesale Prices.

It is a well-known fact that I put the price of goods down in Lexington half-price, and then 25 per cent., and I now make a further reduction on my present stock, and if the people will continue to bestow upon me the kindness they have bestowed in the past, I CAN AND WILL keep the price of goods down to the Low Water Mark!

I would say, in conclusion, that I have the Largest, Best, and Most Desirable Stock of Goods in Town, and all are invited to come and examine my Goods, to satisfy themselves of that fact.

Respectfully,

JOHN H. ARDINGER.

The appointment of Col. L. V. Bogy to the office of Commissioner of Indian Affairs, in place of Dennis N. Cooley, the present incumbent, is gratifying to a large circle of friends and acquaintances, and is a matter of congratulation among the Conservatives of all sections. Cooley had retained the office for the purpose of prostituting its patronage to the uses of Radicalism, himself ostentatiously acting with the Johnson party—but this new deal shuffles off the tricks as well as the trickster. Colonel Bogy will make a most efficient officer, and his appointment, we are sure, will be personally gratifying to a very large majority of the people of the State.—Times.
