REMEDY OF THE AGE!

EDWARD WILDER'S FAMOUS STOMACH BITTERS certainly cure Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Indigestion in all its forms, Intermittent Fever, Fever and Ague, and all periodical diseases. It relieves Colic and Flux. Cures costiveness, proves an invigorant of a mild and delightful character for delicate females, acts as an alterative & tonic for family purposes; recuperates the wasted and debilitated frame, strengthens the appetite, and improves the digestive forces; it is unlike all other bitters, its basis being pure old Bourbon or copper-distilled Whisky, while the body of all rival preparations is common raw Whisky or Alcohol, which is in the highest degree deleterious to the system. This fact has of itself strongly commended it to the confidence of the public, and its usefulness has been attested by the unsolicited certificates of leading men in the medical profession and the holy ministry.

Purify the Blood

The destructive, energetic, unfailing and rapid remedy known for those numerous diseases incident to an impure state of the blood is EDWARD WILDER'S SARSAPARILLA AND POKE ROOT. This great Medicine stands without a rival. It is perfectly peerless. Manufactured with the utmost care from the purest and choicest materials, it has achieved a reputation for potency and thoroughness that places it in the front rank of popular remedies. Cures guaranteed in every case, where the directions are followed, for those diseases, the most terrible of which the human body can be subject, namely: Scrofula in all its forms, every Known Variety of Constitutional Syphilis, Venereal Diseases, Neuralgia, Skin Diseases, no matter how old or inveterate, Chronic Rheumatism, Scrofulous Sore Eyes, Glandular Swelling of the Neck, or elsewhere, chronic Chills and Fever, Tetter, Weeping Sore Leg, Ulcers of every kind, Pimples on the Face, Ringworms, Scald-head, Falling out of the Hair, or Alopecia, White swelling, Hip-joint Disease, Chronic Dyspepsia, Ague Cake Dropsy, etc.

Avoid Consumption!

No enemy to the human race is more to be dreaded, and is more insidious in its approaches, than that fearful and generally prevalent archdestroyer of health and happiness of mankind—"consumption in its ghastly form. The duty of all is to guard against its first advances. This may be done by the timely use of EDWARD WILDER'S COMPOUND EXTRACT OF WILD CHERRY, a preparation universally recommended as affording certain relief for all Pulmonary Complaints. Before it Coughs, Colds, and Catarrhs rapidly disappear.
It affords prompt and decided comfort in cases of Bronchitis, Laryngitis, and Asthma or Phthisic. Likewise, it is of the highest use in relieving the difficult breathing and distressing cough of those afflicted with consumption. In all cases of Pneumonia or Winter Fever it is indispensable. It has no equal in taste, efficiency and power. Wherever used it has not only given present relief, but effected permanent cures.

Beware of Arsenic!

And all arsenical compounds. Better, far better, endure shaking and quaking life through than tamper with this mineral poison. Know how carefully prepared, its extensive use in malarial diseases has already proven the cause of great and distressing misery. Use EDWARD WILDER'S CHILL TONIC for Chills and Fever, Fever and Ague, and every form, type, variety and species of Malarial or Paludal Fever or Affection, Twenty-one-day Chills, Bilious or Remittent Fever, Brow Ague, Lumbago, and every form of Periodical Disease. It has no equal. It effects a certain and rapid cure. It is purely vegetable. It is warranted to cure

Correct the Stomach!

It is a well-ascertained physiological fact that the origin of most of the ills to which humanity is heir is a deranged condition of the alimentary canal. The bowels become constipated and lug-gish, and there arises a train of painful and distressing maladies. As a preventive and cure for these, EDWARD WILDER'S FAMILY PILLS are unrivalled and without a peer. They are not excelled as a purgative, and are especially recommended in all Fevers and Inflammatory Diseases in Acute Rheumatism; Inflammation of the Liver Brain, Kidneys, and Bladder; in Erysipelas, Fever and Ague, Acute Ophthalmia or Sore Eyes, Fullness of the Head, Vertigo, Dizziness, Billiou-ness, etc. They are far superior to any known combination in the certain and rapid relief afforded in all the above named diseases.

Save the Children!

Too little care and attention is given to the preservation of the lives of the innocent, tender, and blessed offspring with which providence favors parents. The little folks chiefly suffer from the presence of Worms in the system, which is indicated by a variety of symptoms, such as pains in the stomach, swelling of the abdomen, picking of nose and ears, bad breath, variable appetite, etc. Should the worms be allowed to continue for any length of time, death most frequently ensues. Mothers should therefore use EDWARD WILDER'S Mothers' WORM SYRUP. It is superior to all other preparations as a worm destroyer. It is pleasant to the taste. It is free from poisonous ingredients. It is not dangerous as are Vermifuges and Lozenges that contain terri-alla, a most deadly poison. It has given delight to thousands, and saved the lives of hundreds of children.

CARRIER'S ADDRESS.

As Time upon his noiseless way, Comes ushering in each New Year's day A custom long observed throughout The land, by all the press no doubt Gives me, who every day but this one (And you well know I never miss one) Am busy carrying round to you, What others write on all that's new,
A chance to let you know what I Have thought of things as they've passed by.

A stirring time this twelve months past And grand events have flocked fast;
Some nations with each other warring
And others in their counsels jarring Napoleon mar-balked all his hosts,
And grandly marched with vanishing ghosts
To kick King William off his throne, Because he doubted his Spain alone King William the latched him home and round Cuff he knew than weapon down Which he with such a bounding from Ah, France! well may we call thee poor For who can name a single door Subdued by those who called thee master And Paris, Queen! Ah, should her lance Pants struggling in a forced embrace?

The Russian running from his dens Rethink him of a little schemin' A billet dux to England sends, Informing her that he intends It she's agreeable, to break
A little treaty, and would tak No more of that in his hat, he Speaks out in anger, "Nor ye,
"Let's hear no more of that I pray,
"Off—rouse up lion—what you say The Russian answers with a bow,
"Well, I'll break it anyhow"
"Oh, well," says she, "if that's the way
"Of course I've nothing more to say;
"Be sure always toward your nation—
"I'll keep a peaceable relation."

Even over here old spunk is off Tried hard to raise a row again,
This time with England, and he lays His plan before the public gaze:
"We'll ask her once to come up lately
And settle all our claims up squarely,
If she don't pay us Alabama
And other claims, we'll—we'll—and lam her Like alleration. Any way She's bound to lose her Canada."
And for this plan he's been much lauded,
And in New England much applauded,
If true a flock of geese saved Home.
We're in no danger here at home.

But there remains the saddest part Yet to be told, and from my heart Deep grief comes welling to my eyes
And tears fall fast as fast they rise.

Weep, soldier, for your Chieftain
As you have wept in vain, Think it not a shame to weep, O'er a grief that strikes so deep,
For Lee is dead!
Is dead!
Our Lee is dead!

Mourn, Patriots, mourn in sorrow,
And low low your head!
Oh, our hearts are deeply pained, O'er the loss we have sustained,
For Lee is dead,
Is dead!
Our Lee is dead!

Weep, Southrons, let your woe in Bitter drops be shed
For low buried in the grave,
Lies the noble, good and brave,
For Lee is dead!
Is dead!
Our Lee is dead!

Ours no longer! Something stronger To take, than love to keep Came and bore it us, and he died as we Weep! Weep
For Lee is dead!

But four sad thoughts we'll ponder Back to our former lively trains Indulging in a short reflection, Upon our glorious State's decline.
How some went up, and some went down,
And how we will, ere finds up Brown,
With fine prospects, and strong expectations Of serving themselves all over the nation

And now, dear friends, my task is done,
A happy New Year to one and one May health, and wealth, and happiness,
And all the joys that help to bless
The life of man be yours; but then,
E'en should your life be one of labor,
And something harder than your neighbor, God bless you with contents. Amen.

SEVERAL DAYS AFTER CHRISTMAS.

The feasting of Christmas is over and past,
The turkey, the pudding, the cake,
And pies and confections, are relics at last,
Which follows on eating more than enough Of pudding and turkey, and cakes and stuff.

That funny old humbug, Santa Kringle,
The Santa Claus of our childhood's days,
Has had the same to go and retire,
And he's up the chimney, or under ground,
And the jury is out on his case, I'm sound,
And trying to reckon the whole amount Of the pitty old cuss
Has given away
And we'll help to reckon them upon the spot

Betsy and Susie and Marie declare That their elegant dolls have not their hair,
And marked their faces and turned them over,
And suffered other mishaps on this who Jimmy's horse has lost its tail,
And his woolly dog, on every and trail,
Has shed about a bushel
Of his principal ornament, namely, his wool,
And a-bony-skin
To travel has come,
And is made and dumb
And no better than dead.
For Johnny's punched in the head of his head, In order that he Might see right see
The inside of the drum,
And so find out where the sound came from.

GONE FORWARD.

BY MARGARET J. PRESTON.

I.

Yes, "Let the tent be struck!" Victorious morning Through every crevice flashes in a day Magnificent beyond all earth's adorning
The night is over, where fore should we stay?
And wherefore should our voices choke to say,
"The general has gone forward!"

II.

Life's toughten field not once beheld surrender;
But with superb endurance, present, past,
One pure commander, lofty, simple, tender,
Through good, through ill, held his high purpose fast, Wearing his armor spotless—till at last Death gave the final "FORWARD!"

III.

All hearts grew sudden, subdued. Yet what said he,
Thus summoned? "LET THE TENT BE STRUCK" for when Did call of duty fail to find him ready Nobly to do his work in sight of men, For God's love and his country's sake; and then To watch, wait or go forward?

IV.

We will not weep—we dare not. Such a story
As his grand life and death writes on the century's years
Should not be bedewed by tears, with a flush of glory, That manhood's type supremest that appears,
Our South has shown the ages. Nay, no tears
For him who has gone forward!

V.

Gone forward! Whither? Where the marshaled legions, Christ's well-worn soldiers, from their conflicts cease Where Faith's true Red-cross Knights repose in regions Thick-studded with the calm white tents of Peace—Thither, right joyful to accept release,
The general has gone forward!

The Indiana Legislature is in sore travail again. A couple of Republican Senators have deserted their standard and joined the Democracy bag and baggage. This gives the Democracy a working majority in Senate. Of course the Republican Senators are threatening to resign and go home.

TIMELY TRUTHS.

The Democracy of Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, celebrated the 8th of January—"Andrew Jackson's day"—with a roaring blow out. Hon. George H. Pendleton of Ohio, then responded to an invitation to be present:

CINCINNATI, January 6, 1871.

Malcom Hay, Esq., Chairman of Committee, &c., Pittsburg:

MY DEAR SIR: I have received your letter of the 31st ult., inviting me "to be present at the Banquet to be given by the Young Men's Jackson Association on the 8th of January, and for that occasion, and while in Pittsburg, to be the guest of the Association."

I beg that you will express to the gentlemen of the association my appreciation of the honor they have done me, and my very great regret that it will not be in my power to be present at their festival. The example of your Association is worthy of all imitation. We need to recur constantly to the memories of the past in order that we may properly appreciate and perform the duties of the present. And in all our annals ye there is none whose recollections are more hopeful of that the Eighth of January. It recalls not only a victory of arms, but also a period of personal character. The victory at New Orleans illustrated the annals of our country—the virtues of Andrew Jackson illustrated the history of our race.

Firmness, honesty, independence, love of liberty, unqualified patriotism, an abiding trust in the integrity and wisdom of the people were his characteristics, and enabled him to appeal with irresistible force to the people for sympathy and support.

These qualifications should be especially attractive to the people of Pennsylvania, for to your State he was indebted for a more hearty and unanimous support than any other, except his own.

Precaution of a character, the exigency and admonitions of the times, compel thoughtful men to examine closely the conduct of public affairs, and to carefully scrutinize the men to whom we entrust their management.

What is the trust in this country is contained From which some of them all it is there not a well founded complaint?

The commercial? The shipping swept from the ocean during the war has not been replaced, and the flag of the country is carried on under the flag of a foreign and not rather than under the national flag of the United States.

The Manufacturing? It is true that the protective tariff policy has been so organized as to enable it to defeat the very end which its friends profess to have in view. The materials have been so much enhanced in value to the manufacturer as to prevent the sale of the article produced.

Bonded and trade? Read the list of failures in every paper, and see how fatally the shifting value has breaking down the active, busy energy of this department.

Agriculture? What is the price of corn and wheat to-day?

Industry? Men are idle; wages have been reduced, and the small stores laid by for sickness and old age is melting away in the process of unsafe capital and unoccupied hands.

Taxation? reduced now badly somewhat, is more burdensome than ever. The income paid, though not so great, is more onerous, and the exemptions are more grievous, as they are spread in paying a premium on the bonds, which by law and in equity should be paid at par; and enormous amounts of capital are injuriously taxed from taxation.

I know the tendency in all countries is to attribute every depression of every business interest to the Government and to look to the Government for relief. I do not sympathize with that feeling. The cause of disaster are generally to be found in a violation of the laws of trade and in a disregard of economy, and the surest remedy is generally to be found in wise forethought and prudent management. Yet it is true that the vast power conferred on the Treasury Department by legislation, and by the collection and disbursement of immense sums of money have made every interest in the country subservient to its control. And now, more than ever before, the Government is responsible for the prosperity of the country.

If ever the industry of a country had cause to complain of an Administration it is now. Capital has full power, and controls absolutely its financial policy. By a rapid contraction of the currency it has brought ruin and bankruptcy on thousands of the best men in the land. Every farmer who asked to put it in power asked to reduce the price of his corn and wheat and pork. Every mechanic, to reduce his wages, and curtail his work. Every merchant, to diminish the value of his stock, and to increase his indebtedness. This was all foretold, but was not believed. It is now manifest.

I need scarcely remind you that one party has for the concession years had possession of the Government, and that democracy has always been conservative. Coming in on the assertion that he would have no policy contrary to the wishes of Congress, the President of its selection has beyond all others been an active and persistent advocate of its own measures, and has even ventured in a formal State paper to organize opinion against the adherence to its own views by the Senate of the United States.

Pledged to reform, the supporters of the Administration do not hesitate to charge on the President and his most intimate associates the most flagrant corruption in his foreign policy, and the political malevolence in the appointment and dismissal of the highest officers in the service of the Government.

Looking the problem of all contending in the face, and the solving of all questions by the aspiration, "Let us have peace!" I have sent troops to New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Delaware to control the ballot boxes, and to Georgia, to intimidate the voters.

Avowing my hearty disposition for civil service reform, it has displeased with commendable Cabinet officer who has most persistently sought to establish it. Promising love for and adherence to the Constitution it has not hesitated to disregard its provisions whenever partisan interests or partisan malice has suggested such violation. Pledged to support the dignity of labor, it has made a surrender of political opinion and the right of a free exercise of suffrage the price of obtaining employment, and refused to execute the laws of its own Congress enacted in accordance with the demands of labor.

The Government has been drawn away from the moorings in which it was anchored by our fathers in the past, and is now drifting toward dangerous rocks.

Do we not need the virtues of Jackson to restore honesty and simplicity in administration; economy and integrity in expenditures; equality in taxation; appointment of good men to office, and an adherence to the fundamental maxim that the reserved rights of the States are as essential to our system as the delegated powers of the Federal Government?

This duty belongs to the Democratic party, and to its performance by its organizations, principles and its traditions, that party bring extraordinary capacity. Founded in the earliest days of the Republic, led by great men who have given to it the purity and loftiness of their own characters; inspired by a love of country, it has survived the factions which have sprung up around it. Fixed in its principles, it adopts their expression to the changing condition of human society—constant in its aims and purposes it seeks to attain them by the means best adapted to the exigencies of public opinion and the shifting phases of affairs.

I speak in no partisan sense. I do not refer to particular men or measures. I treat party organizations and their measures as the necessary outgrowth of principles and policies in the Government, and it is in this sense that I venture even at your festival, to say that the prosperity of the people and the cause of good government demands the restoration of the Democratic party to power. The people who give to it a majority will correct whatever error of principle or practice may have grown up within it.

I am, my dear sir, with great respect,
GEORGE H. PENDLETON.

In Jefferson City the two wings of the Radica party, like the Kilkenny cats in the fight, are mutually destroying each other. There is reciprocal mistrust and hatred between them. They have no confidence in themselves or their leaders.

MILITARY OPPRESSION IN VIRGINIA.

In Richmond, Va., there is an old and respectable citizen, who is soon to be tried before the Federal Court in that city, under the infamous Congressional election act, for this heinous offence. It seems that on the eighth of November, the day of election, in the approach to the polls, he actually permitted the division of the voters into two lines (white and black), which is usually the practice there, instead of amalgamating and mixing them together. He was indicted by a grand jury of negroes, on the oath and affidavits of negroes, and will be tried by a negro petit jury, before Judge Underwood—the same judicial gentleman who informed a committee of Congress that he could pack a jury in Virginia that would convict Jeff. Davis of high treason. All over the State men are being dragged to Richmond, at heavy expense, upon the affidavits of negroes, and compelled to enter into bonds to appear before the Federal Court, upon like frivolous charges with those we have mentioned. Such acts as these are a disgrace, not only to any American State, but to the worst government in Europe. There are hardly any of the latter that would not be driven by them into a revolution. Great oppression has been long endured in silence in the South upon the idea that no hope could be expected from the North; but we invite the press at the South to give the widest publicity to it, for nothing is better calculated to arouse the indignation of every honest man against this corrupt and shameless Administration.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

PACIFIC COAST ATTRACTIONS.

A New Tropical Resort for Health and Pleasure Seekers.

(From the San Francisco Bulletin.)

Perhaps the most attractive resort for the stranger on the Pacific coast, and the best place for the weak-lunged invalid, will be found in the little state of Colima, just within the tropics. A six or seven day's sail will carry the traveller, on a first-class steamer, to Mazanilla, where at the close of the rainy season, say about the middle of October, his eyes will be delighted with the rank vegetation and glorious flora of the tropics. From thence a ride of a couple of hours by steamer will take him or her up the palm-fringed laguna of Cayutlan a distance of thirty six miles. He will then take a coach, or mount a horse, and pass over a fine new road leading across the plain and ancient battle-field of San Bartolo, pass the great sugar estate of La Calera, over wooded mountains where the whole air is fragrant with the breath of countless varieties of flowers, beside which those of our own clime are dull of hue and devoid of odor and where every turn discloses some new scene of enchanting beauty, for sixty miles to the ancient city of Colima. There no cold north wind ever blows, the sea breeze merely tempers the heat, and from October to April he may bask in the soft, warm air, luxuriate on all the fruits of the tropics, from the orange to the chirimoya, and ride every day among the gardens, rice fields, and great natural attractions of the vicinity, from morning to night. The great volcano of Colima, 14,000 feet in height, a perfect cone, when viewed from the west, now pouring forth a dense volume of smoke, and rolling out millions of tons of red hot rocks from a new crater which was formed last year preparatory to deluging and desolating the surrounding country with rivers of lava, will look down upon him in majesty indescribable. A day's ride will carry him to the foot of the mountain, and two more will enable him, if he has the physical strength for the trip—to stand beside the crater at its summit. The discharge of rocks from the new crater is constantly increasing, as we are informed by a recent letter from Colima, and the lava flow will probably soon commence. Then the great barranca of Beltran and Atenquique. Yosemite, clad in everlasting verdue gemmed with flowers, and brilliant with the plumage of parrots and other gaudy-hued tropical birds, will claim the attention for weeks in succession, and furnish an endless feast for the lover of the grand and beautiful in nature. He will find poor hotel accommodations but cheap house rent and servants in Colima. Eggs, butter, milk, fruit of all kinds, poultry, vegetables and all the necessaries of life, are cheap and plenty. The people excel in preparing the native cocoa bean, from which they make the most delicious chocolate in the world; the coffee of the country is fully equal to the finest Mocha; many good judges say far superior; and sugar, vanilla and many other luxuries are attainable at low rates. In short we know of no place on earth where one can enjoy such advantages of climate in the winter season and see so much of nature in all her native grandeur at so small a cost, comparatively, as in and around Colima. It wants but a few intelligent travelers to go ahead and break the way, and in a very short time Colima will become, as it deserves
