MONROE, LA., NOVEMBER 28, 1874.

The vacancy in the Returning Board caused by the resignation of Gen. Longstreet, on account of physical infirmity, has been filled by the election of Oscar [illegible], who is familiar with [illegible] and all out.

[illegible] sometimes called General by his admirers, anything as Homer that Gen. Sheridan had voted for him (Morey) [illegible] in 1872 and 1873. Three [illegible] gentlemen assured [illegible] Morey did make such a declaration, [illegible] word of either is better than [illegible]

[illegible] procession, in honor of [illegible] victories, which comes off to-night (Saturday) promises to be a grand affair. The busy notes of preparation, as we write, are steadily progressing. The occasion will be marked by a grand parade, music, firing of cannon and a general illumination. The enthusiasm has caught hold upon all of our best people, and we predict, in advance, a demonstration unparalleled in this city.

The Intelligencer, alone, of all the Republican papers upon our exchange list, approves of the hand-cuffing of Drs. Richardson and Shoham and Mr. Huey, by Marshal Selye. Such a distinction is by no means enviable.

The same paper says that the prisoners "were abundantly supplied with refreshment before and after their arrival at Monroe." The facts are exactly to the reverse. We know, personally, that refreshments were positively denied the prisoners after their arrival here, and that they were treated as felons under arrest; and that Selye went so far as to make arrangements to have the prisoners placed in jail in one of the filthy rooms of that building. We also know that orders were issued to admit no friends of the prisoners except with the consent of Selye, and that this writer went to their place of confinement to see the prisoners, and witnessed, himself, the rude treatment received by them. The whole affair was disgraceful, calumnious and abhorrent.

Seelye and Hodgson.

The resolve of the arrest and trial of Deputy Marshal Seelye and Lt. Hodgson, upon the order of Judge Trimble, may be briefly summed up thus: Seelye, after remaining about seven days in jail for contempt of court, received a pardon from Kellogg. He was brought into court, whereupon J. H. Dinkgrave, Esq., exhibited the pardon as counsel, and immediately, in his other capacity as U. S. Marshal, arrested Seelye for embezzlement, upon a warrant from some commissioner supposed to hold his court in New Orleans, at the same time calling for aid from Capt. Head and the troops to enforce the warrant. Judge Trimble, disregarding this palpable ruse in Seelye's behalf, remanded Seelye to the custody of the Sheriff, to await the result of an indictment found by the Grand Jury for cutting the telegraph wires. Bond was fixed at $1000, which Seelye furnished, and he was then taken in charge by Dinkgrave, who left Vienna with his precious charge, with two soldiers as an escort, arrived in Monroe, and, without delay, proceeded to New Orleans, where we presume the embezzlement will end in smoke. The bond will, doubtless, be forfeited, and Seelye will betake himself, like a wise detective, to other fields.

In the case of Lt. Hodgson, the Judge, upon application of several citizens, released the accused, after he had been in prison about thirty-six hours. Upon trial for cutting the wires, Hodgson plead guilty, and was fined one dollar and costs. The Lieutenant was then placed under military arrest, and is now awaiting trial by court-martial, upon what specific charges we have not heard.

And thus stands the case of Seelye and Hodgson. As the latter is about to undergo a military trial, we refrain from any comment upon his acts, except to say that the army uniform has not been elevated by his course. As to Seelye, the "oscillator," we are under restraint whether to denounce him for his tyranny and subserviency, or to pity him for his cowardice, flight and disaster. Between Seelye and Hodgson, most outrageous acts upon the rights of freemen have been perpetrated, and evidently for partisan purposes. The affidavits and warrants upon which they acted were not only frivolous, but show a conspiracy to intimidate white people, which a conspiracy is further proven by the cruel and insulting manner, systematically carried out, in which they arrested and treated helpless old men under their charge. Savages in war could have been but little less barbarous than the treatment of their prisoners.

The Returning Board.

The Returning Board of the State—a body of men numbering five—is now in New Orleans reviewing and compiling the election returns made by the Supervisors of the late election. The Returns appear to have proceeded thus far with great celerity, and for honest officials, with unnecessary parade of observance of the rights of the elector, as defined in the law enacted by the party of which the Board is a part. What ticket, or for whom, the elector voted, seems to be a matter of small consequence with the Board, in comparison with the question, whether, or not, the chosen officials of Kellogg, chosen probably to enact fraud, have complied with the law they were sworn to carry out, but, as it appears, were expected to violate.

Thus, the Returning Board, notoriously favorable to Kellogg, is proceeding figure by figure, column by column, and parish by parish, to inquire into the correctness of the returns made by the supervisors appointed by Kellogg himself. What are we to infer from this extraordinary care upon the part of Kellogg's Board? As we view it, the purpose of the Returning Board is simply to serve its master and its party by such technical legal advantages as will serve the interests of both, and will defeat the honest expression of the popular votes. If Gov. Wells and T. C. Anderson, two members of the Board to whom well-wishers of the State might look for protection, mean to act right, they are proceeding in this matter, by delays, and by observance of forms regardless of right, with dangerous disregard for their welfare, and with inexcusable contempt for the people.

The people are not now standing upon ceremony and forms; but upon their rights—upon their god-given right to be free. Possibly, extraneous aid may be brought forward to support the Returning Board in defeating the People's cause; but it will be well for those who help to enact this outrage, to reflect, that there are personal responsibilities which no army can assume. The people of Louisiana have been patient and long-suffering; but the wiles and villainies of political leaders, have exhausted their stock of forbearance. An election has been carried for the people, by the people, against odds which almost appalled the strongest. It is now time to cease manipulating the votes of the people as the black-leg would his cards. It is time there should be a count of votes in accordance with the poll. It is time that, not five men, but all the men of the State should decide whom they would choose as their rulers.

"General" Frank Morey appears extremely solicitous to clear his skirts of all responsibility for the outrageous treatment of prominent Democrats just before the election under the thin disguise of arrests for violations of the Enforcement act of Congress. It is pretty well understood, and firmly believed, by all respectable, intelligent people in this congressional district that these outrages were perpetrated sor the sole benefit of Frank Morey. He has confessed that his call upon the President brought troops to his district. That he has used Selye to secure his election to Congress, will hardly be denied.

Selye's denial to Morey, of an understanding between the two, amounts to nothing. Their intimacy, their mutual dependence, their acts, and their joint efforts, are all proof showing a deliberate conspiracy upon the part of both to intimidate, insult and outrage the white people of this district. Denials on paper amount to nothing. Selye, now that he is harbored under a charge of embezzlement, would naturally protect his pal and benefactor. His word is not current—his denial is a confession.

RE-BUILDING THE LEVEES.—The Levee Company has awarded the contract for re-building the upper and the lower Pargoud leeves, and also the leves at Morrison's, to Bry & Muir, who propose going to work immediately. The price per cubic yard is 27 cents; estimate of work to be done about 25,000 yards. The upper Pargoud levee will be almost new, the survey being located some 30 feet inside the old levee. It will require the labor of some 200 hands to do the work.

We gather the following items from the Delta Journal of Tuesday:

A laborer on the railroad, sick with swamp fever, while being conveyed to the Vicksburg hospital, died on the train, Saturday, before reaching Delta.

One day last week, we saw three wagon loads—some twenty persons—cross over the ferry, bound for Texas. They had come from Alabama, and had been traveling in this way twelve days.

Diptheria is prevalent to an alarming extent among the young people of our parish. We were told of two deaths in one family on the Hesperia Plantation, last week.

MARRIED,

On Monday, November 16, 1874, at the residence of the bride's father, in Ashley Co., Ark., by the Rev. A. Watson, Mr. J. A. Covington, of Ouachita parish, to Miss Lou Bailey.

It affords us pleasure to welcome Mrs. Covington to Louisiana, and to congratulate her upon her choice of a husband. We throw all of our old shoes after the happy pair, and invoke upon their nuptials the blessings of Heaven.

TO THE PUBLIC.

My conduct not being understood as the arrival of Sheriff Howard and posse to arrest Lieut. Hodgson and Marshal Selye, I feel it my duty to state to my friends and the Public, my motive was to assist and share the glory with the Sheriff & co., in making the arrest, and none other. I feel pledged in the future, as in the past, to stand by the conservative interest of our country at all hazards. R. J. SOUIE.
