VIRGINIA AND THE WORLD'S FAIR.

It is reported from North Carolina that the Central Board of Agriculture of that State had instructed its Executive Committee to ask the Legislature for an appropriation of $25,000 for the purpose of presenting a complete exhibit of North Carolina's resources at the Chicago Exposition. This step on the part of the leading agricultural body of the great Commonwealth to the south of us is not at all premature, and is deserving of imitation by the same authorities in this State as soon as our Legislature shall convene.

The example set by North Carolina in this matter should be followed by Virginia at the earliest practical moment, for it is of the highest importance that the various natural resources of this State should be adequately represented by collections of specimens at the Fair of 1892. It is not improbable that the success of the Fair will be somewhat curtailed by the attitude of the European nations, superinduced by the passage of so exclusive a measure as the McKinley bill; but whether foreign peoples shall take an active interest in the Fair or not, its substantial success is assured. If the exhibit to be made in Chicago in 1892 should turn out not to be wholly national instead of international, as the people of the United States intend it to be, the advantage to be derived by this State from an adequate exhibit of her different products will more than compensate for any expenditure of the public moneys which will be necessitated in the act.

The Columbian Fair will furnish Virginia with a grand opportunity to lay before the people of the whole country all her claims to an unrivalled material greatness. The attention which her numerous advantages in the point of climate, soil, variety of products, and diversity of mineral resources, is even now attracting without any combined effort having been made to stimulate the interest of outsiders in all that she has to offer, barely shadows forth the degree of attention which would be directed to her resources, after a full display in the Fair of 1892.

There are countless evidences that the people of the West and North are beginning fully to realize that Virginia is one of the fairest fields for the investment of capital, one of the most excellent Commonwealths in which to seek a permanent home to be found in the United States. A complete exhibit at Chicago will not only confirm this growing opinion, but also stimulate interest in the State to such an extent that the amount of capital and population which has so far poured into our borders will appear small as compared with what will be observed thereafter.

Virginia could very well afford to appropriate thirty thousand dollars to make an exhibit in 1892 that will fully cover every branch of the various resources with which a kind providence has endowed her. It may be taken for granted that the rising material spirit which is now working so many practical miracles in every section of the Commonwealth will insist upon the State being adequately represented at the great Columbian Fair.

A POLITICAL REVOLUTION.

Whether or not Mr. Parnell succeeds in living down, or fighting down, the strong opposition at present being manifested against him in the ranks of his own party, he certainly has succeeded in accomplishing one very interesting feat, and that is, he has caused a complete revolution in British politics. Ever since the existing Government came into power, Lord Salisbury as Premier has found the Irish Parliamentary party among his stoutest opponents. In fact, the main feature of Salisbury's administration has been the constant warfare which he and his Conservative and Tory followers have been engaged in with Parnell at the head of the Home Rulers, allied with Gladstone at the head of the Liberals.

But now all this is completely changed. Gladstone has broken his alliance with Parnell, and immediately thereupon we see Salisbury espousing the cause of the Irish leader and defending him against the attacks and charges of his quondam warm friend and ally.

The reason for Salisbury's so complete and radical change of base is apparent. It is not that he hates Parnell less, but Gladstone more. He realizes that a general election is impending, and he is seeking to avail himself of every possible opportunity to make himself more secure before the country. Just now he wishes to make friends with Parnell and the Irish party, so that he may widen the breach between them and the Liberals, in order to add to his own strength while weakening his most formidable enemies. In other words, he evidently regards the Liberals as his chief antagonists, while the Home Rulers he looks upon more as a third party, whose opposition is not so much to be dreaded.

It is therefore apparently by no means unlikely that in the approaching general election in Great Britain we may see Parnell, despite all the hubbub he has raised, holding the balance of power, and allied with Salisbury and the Tories in opposition to Gladstone and the Liberals. Such an idea would have been laughed at as preposterous a few weeks ago, but British politics are very much of a kaleidoscope, and there is no predicting what a day may bring forth. The great question to excite attention, in case this foreshadowed revolution is realized, is: will not Salisbury with Parnell allied with the Conservatives, be, under present circumstances, weaker before the country than Gladstone without "the uncrowned King" on the side of the Liberals?

A NEW NATIONAL PARTY.

There is strong reason to think that the Farmers' Alliance will fall into a serious mistake if it shall decide, through the National Convention now in session at Ocala, Fla., to commit itself to the proposition of forming a third party, to act independently of the great political organizations now in existence, and to be known as the People's party.

If ever a party showed that it was in its very essence the party of the people, the champion of their rights, the defender of their privileges, the Democratic party not only at the last election, but throughout its whole history, and particularly in the trying interval that has elapsed since the war, as shown itself to be such beyond even the power of its enemies to traverse the fact. In the course of the last year the Democratic party has especially commended itself to popular approval by its inflexible resistance to the encroachments upon popular liberties which have been attempted by the present Republican majority in Congress.

It is not a time for the formation of a new party of the people when there survives in renewed vigor of hope and principle a great party which, through a thousand vicissitudes, has firmly supported the people's cause until that cause has been finally brought to a triumphant consummation.

Let the Farmers' Alliance maintain their professional organization, but throw all of their political influence on the side of the great Democratic party which has proved itself by its acts to be the truest and most powerful friend of the Alliance.

ALTHOUGH a man of great bluntness of speech and directness of purpose, Mr. Stanley is capable on the spur of the moment of much verbal finesse, which can put to naught even the persuasiveness and persistency of an American interviewer. During his recent stay in Baltimore a strong effort was made to obtain his opinions on different subjects, but he evaded the attempt with a skilful politeness that excited the admiration even of those who sought to draw him out. Here is a sample:

"Do you expect to make further explorations in Africa?" Mr. Stanley was asked.

"I have but one plan at one time," was the reply. "My plan now is to explore America, and while I am doing that my plans lie right here."

"Will you make your future home in England?"

"Wherever I am that is my home. It is here now, for my work is here."

THE Chicago Mail credits Mr. McKinley, of tariff fame, with a very unique idea. It seems that the Major has been very largely interviewed recently, and he has adopted the plan of preparing a series of interviews in advance especially suited for the interviewer, no matter from what section he may come. These are placed in a slot machine, and the work is done. All a Northern, Southern, Eastern, or Western man then has to do is to drop a nickel in the slot of his particular machine, and out comes a ready-made interview suitable for his special section. It is a great scheme, both as a labor-saver and as a promulgator of high tariff and monopolistic sophistries and platitudes.

It is not unnatural that a President who showed himself to be a firm supporter of that eminently wise and patriotic measure—the civil service law—should have excited the enmity of an important proportion of the class of professional office holders. The masses of the people who are not looking forward to political rewards, and who are content to rely upon their own private business for a livelihood, honor an inflexible devotion to public duty in spite of the clamorous hostility which it may excite in those whose hopes of political preferment it may blast.

STAUNTON.

Young Men's Christian Association Bazaar—Leg Amputated.

STAUNTON, VA., Dec. 5.—[Special.]—The "Santa Claus Festa," given by the Woman's Auxiliary to the Young Men's Christian Association, has been formally opened. It will last three days and nights, and it is hoped a nice sum will be realized to pay off the debt on the Young Men's Christian Association building.

Mr. Plecker, who was so badly hurt by the Valley train last Monday night, had to have his leg amputated on Tuesday. He is getting on quite well. His son, Dr. Plecker, was telegraphed for, and is constantly at his father's bedside.

Yesterday as little Pattie Burnett, daughter of Mr. William Burnett, clerk of Augusta county, was going home from school she stumbled, fell and broke her arm. She will be confined to the house for some time.

Hon. R. St. George Tucker left for Washington Monday last. His family will not go until after the Christmas holidays.

Superintendent Robertson, of the city schools, has gone to Farmville to visit the Normal School there. Mr. Robertson is a live school man, and is always getting the newest ideas on education, and grafting them in his school methods. There are no better public schools in the state than those in Staunton.

GREENSBORO.

North Carolina Steel Company—Western N. C. Conference.

GREENSBORO, N. C., Dec. 4.—[Special.]—A meeting of the directors of the North Carolina Steel Company has just been held at their office here, at which it was decided to call a meeting of all the stockholders on the 16th instant for the purpose of setting active measures on foot. It is understood that a united effort will be made by the entire company to at once secure subscriptions for as much of the company's stock as will justify the letting of the contract for building the furnaces within the next sixty days. A great deal of very effective work has been quietly going on for a long time.

The session of the Western North Carolina Conference, just closed, was the first of that body and was one of remarkable harmony. Bishop John C. Keener, of New Orleans, presided. The Conference consists of about 150 members. There were eight transfers from the Eastern division. The Trinity College district was discontinued and the territory divided between the Greensboro and Winston districts—the latter a new one. Some unexpected changes were made in presiding elders—new ones created. The matter of greatest interest discussed in the Conference was the adoption of an "organ" for the Western Conference. There were three aspirants for the patronage of the denomination—the Asheville and Statesville Advocates (both published within the bounds of said Conference) and the Raleigh Christian Advocate. After a spirited contest it was agreed not to adopt any one formally at present, and the field is now open for all three.

Growth of Cities.

[Baltimore American.]

One of the curious, and not altogether admirable, results of the census, is to show that, practically, all the growth in the population of this country is taking place in the cities. In 1800 only 4 per cent. of the inhabitants of the United States resided in cities having populations of 8,000 and upwards. In 1860 the percentage was only 16; now it is more than 23. In the December Forum Representative Springer points out that in the increase of population from 1880 to 1890 the increase of rural population is found to be only 8 per cent., while the increase of the urban population is more than 57 per cent. This classification of urban population includes only cities of 8,000 inhabitants and upward. If the classifications should embrace cities of 4,000 inhabitants and upward, it would undoubtedly appear that the rural population had decreased during the decade, while the total increase would be in the cities. This general result has been brought about, notwithstanding the immense increase in population in the rural districts in extreme Western States, such as the Dakotas, Minnesota, Nebraska, Kansas, Arkansas, and Texas. In view of these facts, Maryland's increase of five thousand outside of Baltimore city may not be so bad after all.

Will Need to Make Haste.

[Boston Herald.]

Many changes may, of course, occur during the next two years, and it may be possible in the interval for Mr. Blaine to swing his party into line in favor of reciprocal trade on the American continent, adopting this as an offset to Democratic demands for a radical revision of the tariff laws. Demoralization in the party may afford an opportunity for a concededly strong man like Mr. Blaine to take the leadership of affairs, and by the strength of his personality force those within the party who are opposed to him to remain silent, or, possibly, give him their support. But, if such a policy is to be taken up, it will be necessary to enter upon it within the next three months, while the possession of both branches of Congress by the Republicans gives to the Secretary of State the chance to have his projects materialized into legislative acts.

Good Manners at Home.

The presence of good manners is nowhere needed or more effective than in the household, and perhaps nowhere more rare. Wherever familiarity exists there is a tendency to loosen the check upon selfish conduct which the presence of strangers involuntarily produces. Many persons who are kind and courteous in company are rude and careless with those whom they love best. Emerson says: "Good manners are made up of petty sacrifices," and certainly nothing can more thoroughly secure the harmony and peace of the family circle than the habit of making small sacrifices one for another. Children thus learn good manners in the best and most natural way, and habits thus acquired will never leave them. Courtesy and kindliness will never lose their power or their charm, while all spurious imitations of them are to be despised.—The Republic.

A Case of Bright's Disease Cured by Chase City Lithia Water.

TESTIMONIALS.

MINERAL HOTEL, CHASE CITY, VA., June 18, 1890.

Messrs. Hardy & Roller, Proprietors Chase City Lithia Water, Chase City, Va.:

Gentlemen.—On my arrival here from my home, Bloomfield, Ky., the 11th of this month, I met my neighbor, Mr. John D. Wakefield, of Spencer county, Ky. Mr. Wakefield has, to my own personal knowledge, been in very bad health for seven or eight years, and during that time treated by some of the most eminent physicians of Kentucky. His nervous system was affected, complicated with Bright's disease of the kidneys, and it appeared at one time that he would lose one of his kidneys entirely. He was as near death as a man possibly could be. He tried some of the celebrated mineral waters of this country and obtained only temporary relief.

He visited this place and has been using the Chase City Lithia Water since 24th of April, 1890, and, so far as I can now discover, he has complete relief. His complexion healthy, action improved, appetite restored, rest tranquil, and spirits revived. His general condition indicates a restored and invigorated man, attributable to the use of the Chase City Lithia Water.

Very respectfully,
JAMES R. HUGHES, M. D.

I fully concur in the above statement of Dr. Hughes, and I am so much assured of the great benefits derived from the use of the Chase City Lithia Water in effecting a CURE, hitherto despaired of, that I have determined to bring my family here from my home in Kentucky to reside for some time. I attribute my restoration to health solely to the use of this water.

JOHN D. WAKEFIELD, of Wakefield, Ky.

Chase City, Va., June 18, 1890.

STATE OF VIRGINIA, COUNTY OF MECKLENBURG, to-wit:

I, T. D. Jeffress, a notary public for the county aforesaid, do certify that Dr. James R. Hughes and John D. Wakefield, whose names are signed to the writing above, personally appeared before me and acknowledged the same.

Given under my hand this 18th of June, 1890. THOS. D. JEFFRESS, Notary Public.

Chills and fever of three years standing cured by Simmons Liver Regulator.—E. Watkins, Watkins House, Uptonville, Ky.

Oh, What a Cough.

Will you heed the warning—the signal, perhaps, of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption? Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50 cents, to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Snoble's Cough Cure will cure your Cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million of Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves Croup and Whooping Cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. Sample bottles free. Sold by Bodeker Brothers and H. M. Snelhls & Co., corner of Fifth and Marshall streets.

Take! Take! Take Simmons Liver Regulator for dyspepsia, constipation, and heartburn.

We Challenge

any man, woman, or child who is affected with Constipation, Dyspepsia, Headache, or Torpid Liver to prove that a few doses of Simmons' Liver Regulator will not relieve them. It never fails, and is so pure, so sure, so harmless that an infant can take it and never have a second spell of colic. An adult can take it, keep the bowels regular, and secure health.

S. L. R. means Simmons Liver Regulator.

USE POND'S EXTRACT FOR PILES

WHAT THE DOCTOR SAYS:

A PROMINENT NEW YORK PHYSICIAN SAYS:

"There is nothing better to relieve the PAIN and ITCHING, and CAUSE RETRACTION of PILES, than POND'S EXTRACT and POND'S EXTRACT OINTMENT. Either the fluid or the ointment has the astringent and soothing effect required, and is a very useful preparation. In fact for this purpose they are best used together."

WHAT THE PATIENT SAYS:

"For 40 years I have been an indescribable sufferer with the PILES. Every known remedy I have tried, all of which had a tendency to alleviate, not cure. First attacked with BLIND PILES, which annoyed me for years; BLEEDING PILES followed, which frequently confined me to the bed, leaving me unfit for business. Within a few days they have attacked me in full force, and that most excruciating of the hemorrhoid family, the ITCHING PILES, superseded both. Having become possessed of some POND'S EXTRACT, I applied it freely, undiluted. Had Heaven and Earth come together I would not have been more surprised. I never dreamed of a cure. Three times only have I resorted to POND'S EXTRACT, and the ITCHING PILES vanished as if by magic. I am fully convinced that it is the only known remedy in the wide world for the ITCHING PILES. My statement is unsolicited."—THOMAS S. MURPHY, Olmstedville, N. Y.
