RICHMOND OUTCLASSED.

NOT EVEN FOR A MINUTE COULD THEY HOLD THEIR OWN.

Pittsburg Had Lots of Fun Yesterday Evening, but it is Hoped the Game To-Day Will Be Different.

Pittsburg found Richmond an easy thing yesterday afternoon, and if the locals don't get together in team work, and exercise more with the stick, the other Atlantic League clubs will find them easy things when the season gets on its way.

Richmond would better settle right down to hard work now, and go in for business. The people want a good team and are demanding it, and if the management of the club want the support of the people they must give them good ball.

So far as has been shown, Richmond is weak in the box. There may be first-class timber in the corps of pitchers now here, and no doubt there is, but this timber must come out.

Flynn, in his opening game, proved a failure. In his first inning five hits went to Pittsburg easy, two of them for two bags and another for three, and four runners crossed the plate. He looked as if he had that tired feeling and wanted somebody to give him a soothing syrup.

There is no doubt that Flynn is a fine twirler, when he wants to be, and this is the time he wants to shake his spring fever and get into the game.

Chesbro worked hard for three innings and held the Pittsburgs down to two hits and three runs.

Smith gave a hint of staying qualities, but his curves did not fool the big fellows from Pittsburg much.

Three weeks of practice work lies before the team yet and there is no telling what may develop from the corps of pitchers. They don't appear to show up as well as they should, though, after a week's limbering up.

THERE ARE OTHERS.

Not only is this noticeable among the pitchers, but there are kinks still in the arms and legs of some of the other players.

"Reddy" Foster wants to get his throwing arm in order so as to be able to get the ball up when it goes to Pender, and he also wants to get rid of his glass legs.

Sholta tries to cover too much ground and in consequence covers no ground fully. Yesterday he attempted to gather in one of Elsey's sky-scrapers and dropped it when it would have been an easy one for the big middle man.

Kain made a magnificent running catch of Smith's high fly in the eighth, and fell heavily to the ground. It was really the star play of the game. It will also be seen that "Early" made the only run that is credited to the home team.

In securing Elberfeld for third, Wells has landed a good one. Not only is the little fellow at home around the third bag, but he handles the stick with both hands, and there is little doubt that he will rank as a leading third baseman in the Atlantic League.

Schabel is as steady and reliable as ever and Berte is getting into trim.

Tannehill has caught on with Pittsburg, and he will be heard from in the coming season.

THE SLUGGING MATCH.

In the first inning yesterday Smith walked to first and was sacrificed to second bag by Ely, and a single by Lyons brought him home. Kuhns also walked to bag No. 1, and went to third on Lyons' hit, scoring on Berte's error.

Wells left his base to chase an easy one by Snyder in the second, and that worthy beat him out. On the single by Tannehill he went to second, and was sacrificed by Smith to third, and scored on Sholta's error.

Smith was the first man up in the fourth, and he popped a beauty to far centre for two bags. Ely followed with another to the same territory for three bags, sending Smith home, and going there himself shortly after on Kuhns' single. Kuhns stole second, got to third on Padden's single, and went home on the same play, and Padden scored on Gardner's double.

In the fifth four bad ones caromed away from the plate, and Tannehill trotted down the path. Sholta dropped another fly, and the ex-Richmond twirler pilfered second; he also took possession of third when Foster wasn't looking, and scored on Donovan's hit. In the next inning, through his kindness of heart, Smith presented Lyons with four bad ones, who took possession of Pender's territory through an error of Wells. He was sacrificed to third by Gardner, and scored on the single by Sugden. Padden, by the error of Wells, captured first, and was sacrificed to second, scoring also on Gardner's hit.

Ely hit the second ball pitched him in the seventh and drove it to far centre, making a clean home run.

THE TALE OF WOE.

It was one, two, three order five innings for the locals. In the third inning Berte and Foster caught a hit each, but did not get any nearer home than where the two hits landed them. In the fifth Wells got as far as third through the assistance of Flynn's sacrifice, but there he anchored, with Foster freezing on to second, waiting for some one to come to the rescue. They perished there, however, for assistance failed to reach them.

In the sixth Elberfeld made a single, stole second and was sacrificed to third where he died. In the seventh it was three in a line, and in the eighth Elberfeld was left on first, the only man that reached that anchorage.

Kain, through an error of Ely, went safe to first, and was forced to second by Wells, who was given a walk. He went to third on a fielder's choice and stole home. In this inning Wells and Berte were left on base when the third man went out on a fly to Lyons.

What a Critic Says of Carreno.

The following appeared in the Philadelphia Ledger recently about the playing of Teresa Carreno, who will appear at the Academy of Music next Saturday under the auspices of the Metropolitan Concert Company:

Teresa Carreno, who returned to the Academy last evening, after too long an absence, to figure as the soloist of the fourth Boston Symphony concert, was received with all the honors and distinction due a veritable star. Well she might be, for while this gifted pianist was heard in but one number (Rubinstein's No. 4 D minor concerto), her work therein sparkled with a musical lustre that well deserved the enthusiastic appreciation of the large house, and which would have sufficed, had she never played here before, to stamp her as an artist of shining achievement. Perhaps brilliancy will best sum up the many virtues of Carreno's performance, and, although the adjective is so hackneyed and so often misapplied or wasted that one hates to use it, no more appropriate word can be found when bestowed, as in this instance, in its finest sense.

Defaced a Register.

Justice G. C. Vincent at Henrico County Court house had a remarkable case before him yesterday morning, when Robert Campbell, a white man was hauled up to answer a serious charge, namely, that of defacing the register kept at the National Cemetery, at Seven Pines, for visitors to inscribe their names in.

Complaint was made by the keeper of the cemetery, that Campbell had upset, or spilled, a bottle or inkstand of ink on the register, wilfully and with intent to deface, et cetera, but Campbell pleaded drunkenness, and that it was accidental, so the Justice fined him $2.50 and costs, and let it go at that.

IN ALBEMARLE COUNTY

APRIL COURT IS HORSE-SHOW DAY AND POLITICAL OPPORTUNITY.

Meeting of the School Board—J. O. Munday Loses His Store and Stock and a Family Have a Narrow Escape.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA., April 5.—Special.—Albemarle County Court convened at 11 o'clock this morning, Judge John M. White presiding.

April court is generally known as "Horse-Show Day," and the city was full of fine stock.

April court, as usual, brought a large number of people from the rural districts.

P. W. Nelson and John W. Harris, aspirants for Legislative honors, were on the court green, hand-shaking and mingling with the people. Mr. Harris thinks his chance for a seat in the House is very promising. Mr. Nelson also is very sanguine about his chances.

THE SCHOOL BOARD.

The County School Board held a meeting at 12 o'clock. The principal object of the meeting was to urge on the trustees the importance of attending the State convention to be held in Richmond in May, the object of which is to discuss the free school system and to adopt the best plans to further the interest of the free schools of Virginia.

Mr. J. O. Munday, merchant at Burnley's station on the Southern road, fifteen miles from this city, lost by fire on Saturday night his store-house and stock of goods.

The family of Mr. W. W. Le Tellier, who lived in the house adjoining the store had all their furniture consumed and barely escaped with their lives. Fire occurred at 1 o'clock at night.

About 7 years ago a storeroom and residence, which stood on the same spot was consumed by fire, burning to death the wife of Mr. Le Tellier.

A GOOD ARRANGEMENT.

Dr. E. O. Lovett, of Johns-Hopkins University, delivered his second of a series of lectures before the class in mathematics at the University of Virginia this morning at 11 o'clock.

Rev. R. H. Pitt, of Richmond, occupied the chapel pulpit at the University yesterday morning and evening, preaching two able discourses. The present arrangement of supplying the pulpit each Sunday by distinguished divines from a distance is very popular with the students and large numbers are attending these services.

BURIAL OF MR. STEGER.

His Remains Now Rest in Beautiful Hollywood.

All of the family, except Mrs. Steger, who was prostrated, as the result of her recent trouble, and many of the friends of the late Frank D. Steger, assembled at the Byrd-Street Station Sunday morning to meet the train due here at 6:15, from New Orleans, bearing the body of Mr. Steger, whose recent tragic death in that city has been fully told in The Times.

Mr. W. O. Steger, a brother of Mr. Frank D. Steger, accompanied the remains, having gone to New Orleans to identify them, and these close personal friends of the dead man were selected as pall-bearers:

Captain William H. Allison, Mr. Warner Moore, Mr. Samuel H. Pulliam, Mr. P. Lightfoot Wormeley, Mr. Carter W. Branch, Dr. Edward McGuire, Mr. J. Blythe Moore, and Major Otway S. Allen.

There were present also a committee from the Royal Arcanum, and the Progressive Endowment Guild of America to positively identify the remains as those of the late F. D. Steger, this being a necessary action before the payment of the insurance held in their associations by him.

Representing the Belvidere Council, Royal Arcanum, there came Messrs. J. Taylor Ellyson, H. L. Denoon, C. Y. Bargamin, and N. T. Bedford, Regent of this Council.

From the Old Dominion Chapter, No. 24, Progressive Endowment Guild of America, Messrs. E. Leslie Spence, R. T. Wilson, and W. S. Archer made up the committee.

The remains were viewed and all of these gentlemen were entirely satisfied that they were none other than those of the unfortunate man, whose late sad history is familiar to all Richmond.

From the railway station the funeral cortege proceeded to Hollywood, and there, in his family section, was laid to rest, with religious services by Rev. J. Y. Downman, of All Saints' church, all that was mortal of Frank D. Steger.

PICKETT CAMP.

The Regular Weekly Meeting Last Night Quite Interesting.

Pickett Camp, Confederate Veterans held its regular meeting last night, and a very interesting one it was.

In the absence of Commander Woody, First Lieutenant-Commander Gibbs presided.

The Oakwood Memorial Association invited the camp to attend their celebration of Memorial-Day, on the 10th of May next, and to participate in the exercises of the day, and Pickett Camp accepted the invitation, voting to attend in a body.

Dr. T. E. Stratton, late of Company B, First Virginia Regiment, was elected a member of Pickett Camp. Comrades Joseph W. Carter and Adam Schmidt were reported as improving, while Comrade Charles H. Eppe was reported as still confined to his bed.

The death of Comrade W. D. Wrenn was reported, and a committee to draft and report appropriate resolutions on his death was appointed, consisting of Colonel R. F. Morriss, with Comrades R. S. Gates and E. T. Richardson.

The regular business of the camp being concluded, there was an agreeable feature introduced in the appearance of Comrade Cowardin's musical family, which is composed of seven little children, girls and boys.

Though of the tender ages of from four to twelve years, they gave, nevertheless, a delightful programme of martial music with fife and drum that was very pleasing to the veterans.

After this came some vocal music from Mr. John Pearman and his quartette, and then Comrades Past-Commander T. P. Pollard and M. T. Philips gave the camp an interesting talk.

Fire was discovered at 12:30 o'clock yesterday morning in the basement of a brick tenement at the corner of Broad and Madison streets, occupied as temporary quarters for the confectionary store of Jeremiah Malone.

An alarm was rung from box No. 4, and engines Nos. 4 and 5, and truck No. 2 responded, and by hard work succeeded in confining the blaze to the basement. The damage to the candy stock was not excessive, $50, uninsured. The cause is unknown.

Another alarm was turned in about 7:30 o'clock yesterday morning from box No. 59, caused by the burning of a chimney at 5?? Hill street, owned and occupied by Annie Taylor. The loss will not exceed $5. No insurance.

NORTH CAROLINA NEWS.

GOV. RUSSELL CAN'T PRESS THE BUTTON AND GO TO NEW YORK, TOO.

Why He Issued a Warrant to Defray the Expenses of the Troops at the Inauguration—Headstones for Graves.

RALEIGH, N. C., April 5.—Special.—Some time ago Governor Russell accepted the invitation to press the button that is to start all the machinery in motion at the Tennessee Centennial May 1st. Now it is stated that he is contemplating attending, accompanied by his staff, the ceremonies of dedicating the Grant monument April 30th, in New York. He surely will have to give up one or the other.

There are quite a number of Moravians living here now, and a Moravian church will soon be built here.

Governor Russell writes a letter to the Asheville Citizen, stating that in issuing a warrant on the Treasury for money to defray the expenses of the military at the inauguration he followed an example set by the State defraying the expenses of the representatives from North Carolina to the World's Fair, but that after having his attention called so plainly to the matter he must admit he does not approve of such expenditure.

The 448 North Carolina graves at Winchester, Va., will have granite headstones at each by the middle of June.

HOSPITAL AND PARK.

The Board of Aldermen have been requested by the direction of the Agricultural and Mechanical College for permission to locate the college hospital on the edge of Pullen Park, and to have control of the grounds around it, but this will hardly be granted.

It is said that Governor Russell will at once carry out the part of his inaugural address suggesting a reduction of railroad and telegraph rates, by asking the Railroad Commission to make first-class rates on all roads whose gross receipts are $5,000 per mile 2 cents instead of 3½ as at present, and to make the rate for ten words by telegraph 15 cents, instead of 25 cents, as now.

THE POSTOFFICE.

In spite of the denial of C. T. Bailey that his trip to Washington a short time ago had anything to do with the Raleigh postmastership, he is endorsed by both Senator Pritchard and Congressman Pearson as the successor of Postmaster Busbee in April, 1898.

Bishop Cheshire is very much encouraged in his efforts to raise the $100,000 for the endowment of St. Mary's.

Polk Miller appears here on April 15th.

Circulars are being sent out looking to the holding of a sheriffs' institute, and having competent men discuss the revenue and machinery acts, and letting sheriffs discuss the different branches of their work.

Dodge as the marshal to represent North Carolina at the unveiling of Grant's tomb in Riverside Park. Major McKissick has not yet accepted, for he does not yet know that he can be present.

The appointment of Major McKissick was made without his knowledge, and at the instance of several members of the Union League Club.

Report was brought here Saturday night of a free fight among a crowd of mountaineers near Bryan City, in which a man, named Carver, was killed, and several others were injured. No particulars could be learned, other than it began in a fight between two men, and the bystanders took part.

James Ledbetter, a worthless and drunken negro, was killed late Saturday night in a negro restaurant in this city by Eugene Boyd, the proprietor. Ledbetter was drunk and disorderly, and was ordered to leave the place, and refused. A difficulty ensued, in which Boyd struck Ledbetter with a glass. The blow fractured the skull, and Ledbetter died in a few hours. Boyd and two witnesses are in jail.

The body of an unknown white man was found in the French Broad river, about twelve miles below here, last Saturday.

NEWPORT NEWS.

Rev. M. F. Broaddus at Work for the Southwest Institute.

NEWPORT NEWS, VA., April 5.—Special.—The cruiser Maine arrived here for coal to-day.

The report of the chief-of-police shows that one hundred and eighty-six arrests were made here during March. Five hundred and sixty dollars in fines were imposed.

Rev. M. F. Broaddus, of the Southwestern Virginia Institute, of Bristol, Va., is here. He led the men's afternoon meeting at the Y. M. C. A. rooms yesterday and inspired his hearers by his pathos and eloquence. Mr. Broaddus is making a canvass of Virginia for funds to save the Southwestern Institute from being sold under a deed of trust. He has met with a liberal response from his brother Baptists and people of other denominations have aided him. $25,000 having been subscribed with the provision that the $40,000 needed must be subscribed before the subscriptions are binding.

He has only a limited time in which to raise the balance. A committee of Catholic Church officials from Baltimore recently visited the Institute and decided to purchase the property if it were offered for sale. This fact has made the friends of the Institute redouble their efforts.

PLAYING WITH FIRE.

A Famous Brood Mare Dies—A Minister's Call.

EASTVILLE, VA., April 5.—Special.—Last Monday while Mr. J. W. Abdell was out of his shop, in this town, a little negro boy kindled a fire in a cigar box and placed it under the edge of the building, but without any intention of burning it. He was playing and only wanted a fire to carry out part of his programme. However, the shop caught, and was only saved by the return of the apprentice who discovered the fire and extinguished it.

Rev. P. H. Pernell, pastor of the Baptist churches at Eastville and Wardtown, has received a call from Clark county, Va., and will visit that county in a few days to view the field of labor. Princess Esther, one of the most noted brood mares on the Eastern Shore, died this week, at the age of twenty-seven years. This mare was owned by Mr. Edward F. Nottingham, of Eastville, and has one of the greatest records of any brood mare in the State. She was the dam of the two fastest pacers in this county—Marendiz, record 2:17, and was sold for $3,000 by Mr. Nottingham to a gentleman in Philadelphia. The other was Corbett, record 2:18, and won several races last year.

She also was the dam of several more horses of less note, which had records below 30.

NORTH GARDEN FARMERS' CLUB.

For Ellyson and a Constitutional Convention—Hunting the Incendiaries.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA., April 5.—Special.—The North Garden Farmers' Club met in monthly session Saturday at the farm of Mr. J. N. Paris, near North Garden.

The meeting was largely attended by the leading farmers of Albemarle county. The Inspecting Committee, consisting of James G. White, J. G. Martin, and Mr. Y. Sullivan, reported Paris' farm, stock and implements, in good shape. At 2 o'clock the club partook of a sumptuous dinner, prepared by Mrs. Paris.

During the meeting an informal vote (regardless of politics or without discussion) was taken in regard to their choice for Governor, and the vote stood unanimous for J. Taylor Ellyson. The club was also unanimously in favor of calling a Constitutional Convention.

The farmers of Albemarle are very much wrought up in regard to the many recent destructive fires, and means are being used to ferret out the cause.

Committees are secretly at work all over the county, trying to locate the cause of each fire, and, if they should find that they are of incendiary origin to endeavor to bring the guilty parties to justice.

FIRING THROUGH A DOOR.

A Lady Shoots at an Unseen Robber—Work on a Telephone Line.

CLIFTON FORGE, VA., April 5.—Special.—A negro entered the house of F. L. Spinnler on Church street Sunday. Mrs. Spinnler and her little child were alone in her room at the time and hearing some one trying to get into another room locked her door. Soon after the negro attempted to open her door. Seeing him turn the lock, she picked up her husband's shot gun and aiming where she thought the man was standing fired it. Unfortunately the man was not hit, but he was frightened off. He was seen to cross Church street bridge near the house.

Messrs. Watts and Sprone of Staunton, will in a few days begin work on a telegraph line for this town and vicinity.
