CUT IN ELECTIONS NOT TO BE AT ONCE.

No immediate results will be affected by the adoption of the Fewer Election amendment to the Constitution, which was adopted by the voters November 7. In the state at large there will be two elections next year—the primary contest in September, and the regular election in November.

The governor, attorney general and comptroller will be elected for terms of three years, instead of four years as heretofore. This is to arrange for system so that their successors will be elected at the Congressional election in 1926.

State Senators and members of the House of Delegates will be chosen for a term of three years. The General Assembly will meet in 1924, but will not meet again until 1927.

All county officers whose terms has been two years or four years will be elected next year for three year terms. Beginning in 1926, sheriffs, who have had two year terms, county commissioners in many counties, and probably most treasurers will be elected for three years.

Registers of wills and clerks of courts to be elected in 1923 for terms which have been six years, will hold office for three years. Those elected in 1926 and thereafter will serve for four years.

All six year terms of those elected in 1919 and four year terms of those elected in 1921 are extended to 1926. This will apply to state senators clerks of courts and registers of wills elected in 1919.

The county officers whose successors would have been elected in 1927 will find their terms unchanged. Their successors will be elected in 1926, but will not take office until a year after their election and will hold office three years.

Those who are to be appointed by the governor in 1924 for terms which have been for two years will hold office for three years. Notarys public and justices of the peace will hold office for three years.

Beginning with 1927 and thereafter the General Assembly will meet every two years on the off year.

It is claimed that this amendment will save the state $120,000 a year.

"FLASHES OF ACTION" FROM BATTLEFIELD

GOVERNMENT PICTURE TO BE SHOWN AT OPERA HOUSE, DECEMBER 7 AND 8.

"Flashes of Action," official U. S. government motion pictures in a reel and a half reels, showing actual battle scenes overseas in the World War, will be shown at the Opera House on December 7 and 8.

In the many feet of the film startling and sensational scenes are depicted of actual fighting and intimate scenes of battlefield horrors. American soldiers are seen overwhelming the Germans. Heroes struck by shrapnel and falling wounded in the victorious dash for liberty can be seen as plainly as though the spectators were on the battlefield. Infantry charges, battle in the air, artillery offensives, submarine attacks and naval battles are shown as they actually took place. Gas attacks as they actually took place with the great clouds of gas rolling across the open spaces are pictured, explosive gas shells, an air battle with a German pilot and his smash to earth as the result of accurate anti-aircraft fire, these and many other scenes are shown, including a special reel of pictures taken in Newport News of the embarkation and disembarkation activities. Many local people will be seen in this part of the picture. This picture is said to be one of the most startling ever shown and gives one a most vivid idea of the actual battle field activities in Europe that one could never get by reading about them.

REAL WINTER PREDICTED.

Clifton Heights, Nov. 17.—Bill Van Zan for years a successful winter prognostigator, comes forth with his predictions for this winter, which he declares will be hard at the beginning and at the closing.

Bill is a conductor of the Delaware county trolley line, between Media and Angora and he resides in Clifton Heights. In all his previous winter predictions he has never failed.

The Clifton Heights weather prophet bases his prediction for the winter on two things. First, the hornets have built their nests high in the trees this year. "This means that we will have plenty of snow and good sledding and sleighing," he declares. It also means "that there will not be much wind."

In the second place the indication for two real hard cold spots is shown by the markings of caterpillars. The fur on these worms is very dark on the head and tail, with a light brown in the centre. Bill declares these are true signs of weather conditions. He also predicts plenty of ice and good skating.

If Bill's predictions are right, it behooves the coal dealers in Delaware county to get a move on themselves to supply the householders with coal because the Clifton Heights weather prophet looks for the beginning of real snap about Thanksgiving.

SEVEN STATES DEFEAT SENATORIAL DEFENDERS OF NEWBERRY.

Republican bosses who defended Truman H. Newberry in January are deprecating and deserting him in November, and are inspiring Republican newspapers to publish announcements of his resignation. The loss of a Republican Senator in Michigan which is to be represented by a Democrat in the Senate for the first time in seventy-five years, leaves no doubt in the minds of these Republican bosses that Newberryism was a fatal issue in the recent elections.

Senator Townsend not only voted to seat Newberry in the Senate but subsequently sought to justify his vote. Townsend's fate was first to be repudiated by a majority of the voters who took part in the Republican primary—he received but 37 per cent of the vote of his party—and then to be relegated for a Democrat. Michigan made it plain that the state's good name was more to be prized than Newberry's scrip.

Michigan was not the only state which gave a judgment on Newberryism. New York, Maryland, New Jersey, Delaware, Minnesota, and Washington eliminated their defenders of Newberry. North Dakota and Indiana had already taken action in the Republican primaries. New Hampshire, Kansas, New Mexico, and Arizona had no opportunity to express their views on their respective Senatorial champions of Newberryism, but they showed their temper by electing Democratic governors to succeed Republican governors.
