Writes Verses For Old Boatmen at Big Reunion

Sunbury, Pa., Sept. 8.—The following verses by Margaret Wertz Clark, of 421 Forster street, Harrisburg, were read at the Old Boatmen's Reunion held here recently and by unanimous vote are sent to the Telegraph for publication, which paper is read by a majority of those who attended the reunion, the poem being dedicated to the late Captain William Wertz, of Newport:

Once again we meet and welcome
Old-time friends at Rolling Green.
Glad and happy at this meeting,
All too short the day will seem.
As we meet with this and that one
Memories seem to crowd the day,
And recall the time of boating,
When we sure had "right of way."

Along the winding Susquehanna
Slow but sure our boats did glide;
Down the valley, 'long the mountains
Known for their beauty far and wide.
How our hearts rebound with pleasure
As we view the same old "route";
Brings to memory friends and boats
And the driver's call or shout.

"Boat ahead!" And if we hurry
Along this level we can pass,
Make the lock and gain a-headway;
Steering straight, we won at last.
Thus we lived oft night and day
In the times now past and gone.
As we braved rain, storm or sunshine,
Night's dark shadows, we longed for morn.

But listen! Let us stop and think:
Before this glad day brings a close
Many, many of our friends
May be drifting, drifting.—no one knows.
What a grand and useful lesson
Each and all of us can bring
To our homes, our friends and loved ones.
Grand! If we all can join and sing:

"Throw out the lifeline, across the dark wave;
There is a brother whom some one can save.
Somebody's brother—Oh, who then will dare
To throw out the lifeline, his peril to share?"
Every look, kind word or action,
As our boat glides down life's stream,
Sure will tell when all is ended.
Let it not "be all a dream."

On the distant shores our captain
Beckons us with loving hand.
Let us steer our boat, life's voyage,
and in safety we will land.
For the bugle soon may sound
Far across the rolling deep,
Calling each one into port—
Peaceful be our dreamless sleep.

There our loved ones now are waiting,
Watching from that shining shore;
Listening for the voice of dear ones
And the sound of our fair boat's "oar."
Here this day we meet in gladness
Near the Susquehanna's shore.
"Some day" as we steer our "life boat",
Meet in Heaven, to part no more.
