A DEAD SURE THING

That Cleveland's Plurality in New York is Unshaken

FIGURES STILL UNAFFECTED.

Leading Republicans Giving Up the Contest.

OUR FRIENDS FIRM AND CONFIDENT.

Two Hundred and Nineteen Electoral Votes and No Mistake About It—The Cry is, All's Well.

We repeat this morning our assurance that all is well, and that there is no doubt about Cleveland's election. The canvass in New York will prove, as we have always held it would, a mere matter of form. As far as it has proceeded, the showing is calculated to strengthen the most nervous. Our friends in New York know that Cleveland has a plurality that cannot be shaken, and are perfectly undisturbed. Leading Republicans also know that the result cannot be altered, and, as will be seen from extracts from the leading New York dailies, are giving up the contest. Only Elkins and his little coterie of conspirators pretend to have hopes of defeating the will of the people, and their hopes are fast vanishing, now that it is evident that the Democrats are prepared to checkmate any fraud they attempt. Yesterday several disquieting rumors were set afloat in Richmond, the substance of which was that the canvass in New York city showed heavy gains for Blaine. These rumors, however, were quickly dissipated by telegrams from New York and Albany. In fact, in answer to the direct question how the results of the canvass, as far as known, affected Cleveland's plurality, the Albany Argus telegraphed us as follows:

ALBANY, N. Y., November 13.—The official canvass has been made of all the counties except New York, and that is proceeding satisfactorily. Our figures are unaffected, and we have full confidence that they will stand. The roll of Democratic States will give 219 electoral votes to Cleveland and Hendricks. There is no wavering here. ARGUS.

The table of the Argus, from which it calculates Cleveland's plurality, is made up of complete returns from every voting district in the State. At midnight the New York Times telegraphed the Dispatch:

NEW YORK, November 13.—All but three counties in the State have completed their official canvass. The result makes Cleveland's plurality in the State 1,266. The increased number of votes were obtained in Kings and St. Lawrence counties, in which to avoid risk of misstatement, imperfect votes, apparently for Cleveland, were given to Blaine in the semi-official canvass by the Democrats. The official count places the votes where they belong, in the Cleveland column. The canvass in this county progresses slowly, no material change having been made. The count will probably be completed by Saturday, perhaps to-morrow. Erie and Franklin counties yet to be heard from. TIMES.

Another New York special, given below, fully confirms the advices received from the Argus and the Times, and shows that the further the count goes the worse it becomes for the corruptionists.

ALL SERENE FOR CLEVELAND.

Senator Jones Says Every Republican He Has Met Gives It Up—Bill Chandler Raises a Storm.

[Special telegram to the Dispatch.]

NEW YORK, November 13.—Every county in the State, with the exception of the city and county of New York, has made its final report in the presidential contest. The returns do not materially change the condition of affairs. The delay in completing the canvass has been occasioned by clerical errors which had to be returned for corrections. The figures give Cleveland a plurality over Blaine of 1,255, and the conclusive count will not affect them to any great extent. In the New York city canvass eight districts have been passed upon. The work is going forward carefully and without excitement. Democratic and Republican counsel are present, and every phase of the contest is closely watched. The result of the two days' scrutiny is a gain of about 30 votes for Cleveland.

HEADQUARTERS.

At the rooms of the Democratic National Committee, Senator Jones, on being informed that the Blaine crowd which still remains in the city continues to play the bluff game, remarked dryly: "Well, I really had more respect for Mr. Blaine's committee before the election occurred than I have now. The bluff game will not aid them in the least. Any man of sense must recognize the fact that Cleveland is our next President, and that he has been honorably chosen by the votes of the people. Every Republican with whom I have talked has given up the fight. The farther the official canvass proceeds the greater becomes the plurality of our candidate. It is only necessary to state one single instance to substantiate that statement. To-day official returns from Kings county indicate that Cleveland's plurality there is 15,761. Compared with the figures heretofore made by the State Committee, this is a gain of 134 in our favor. The remainder of the returns from Schuyler, Broome, and other counties indicate little or no change. How, in the name of common sense, the Blaine men dare, in the face of such figures, claim the election of their man, passes beyond my comprehension."

Republican Chairman B. F. Jones, of the National Committee, Secretary Samuel Fessenden, Jerome B. Chaffee, Steve Elkins, Secor Robeson, and William E. Chandler held a conference to-day, and much loud talking was heard issuing from the room. The import of the discussion was not directly obtainable. A frequenter of the rooms volunteered the information, after the conference had ended, that the angry words proceeded from Secretary Chandler. It was said that he roundly berated Chairman Jones and Elkins for the disastrous result of the Blaine campaign. He denounced in the strongest language the attempt on the part of the committee to secure the electoral votes of any of the southern States. He declared that the money sent to Tennessee, South Carolina, Virginia, West Virginia, and Florida, was simply thrown away. The fight ought to have been made in New York State. He openly declared that the National Committee alone was to blame for the death and burial of the "Plumed Knight," and that the party would ever hold it responsible.

THE NEW YORK COUNT.

Official Canvass of the County Returns—A Net Gain for Cleveland.

[By telegraph to the Dispatch.]

NEW YORK, November 13.—All but twelve of the counties of the State have reported the result of their official canvass. Those outside of New York show Blaine gains aggregating twelve, Blaine losses aggregating fourteen, and Cleveland gains of seven; net gain for Cleveland, nine. This does not include New York and Kings counties.

BROOKLYN'S VOTE COMPLETED.

NEW YORK, November 13.—The total vote in Brooklyn for President, as officially announced to-day, was as follows: Cleveland, 69,274; Blaine, 55,512; Cleveland's plurality, 15,762; being a gain of six votes to Cleveland over published figures.

ALL BUT FIVE COUNTIES IN AND NO MATERIAL CHANGE.

NEW YORK, November 13—10:30 P. M.—The official canvass is yet wanting of the New York counties of Franklin, Greene, Monroe, New York, and Niagara. Balancing the various small changes so far reported outside of New York county, a net loss to Cleveland of 29 votes is shown, and taking Cleveland's plurality of 1,240 as given in the New York Times of Sunday last as a basis, Cleveland's plurality is now 1,251 in the counties in which the canvass is complete.

A SWEEPING DEMONSTRATION.

Washington Democrats Preparing for a General Cleaning-Out of the Ins.

[By telegraph to the Dispatch.]

WASHINGTON, November 13.—The Democrats of this city and vicinity celebrated the election of Cleveland and Hendricks to-night by a grand torchlight procession. At least 6,000 men were in line, about 500 of whom were mounted. The greater number of them were residents of Washington and Georgetown, but large contingents from Virginia and Maryland helped to swell the parade which, marching in platoons of eight, occupied nearly three quarters of an hour in passing a given point. The route of the procession was from the Capitol by way of Pennsylvania avenue to the northwestern section of the city, passing the Democratic Congressional Committee rooms, Mr. W. W. Corcoran's house, and the house of Chairman Luttrell, of the District Democratic Committee, at each of which places the column passed in review before prominent Democrats. Private houses and stores along the route were illuminated, and the residences of such prominent Democrats as Mr. Corcoran and Mr. Merrick were decorated and hung with Chinese lanterns from roof to pavement. Crowds of spectators were massed on the sidewalks all along the route of the procession and greeted the column with cheers and waving of hats and handkerchiefs. Colored fires were burned at intervals along the route, and rockets and other fireworks were used liberally, giving great brilliancy to the scene. The transparencies carried in the procession bore devices which have become familiar during the campaign and since, and the large assortment of living and of pictured roosters evoked the enthusiastic plaudits of the spectators. Every second man in the column carried a broom. The several divisions cheered themselves hoarse as they passed the different reviewing stands, and along the streets shouted the names of the Democratic standard-bearers and various catch phrases of the campaign. A singular feature of the celebration was that Blaine's magnificent new mansion, about which so much was written during the campaign, was brilliantly illuminated. It is leased from Blaine by Mr. Leiter, of Chicago, who is a Democrat.

While the procession was passing through a part of the city in which a great many negroes reside, a colored man standing in the crowd on the sidewalk, without any provocation, shot into the column of moving men, the bullet striking a torch-bearer named Sullivan in the temple. He fell in the ranks, and a number of processionists charged on the crowd of colored men who surrounded the man who did the shooting. The latter ran and in the confusion the murderer escaped, but was afterwards captured by the police and locked-up in the station-house. Sullivan is not expected to live through the night.

The New York Aldermen.

[Herald, 13th.]

In the Board of Aldermen yesterday the canvassing of the election returns went on slowly, but there was no appearance of any disposition in the aldermen, or of any proceeding to which the friends of a fair count could make objection. Mr. George Bliss, it is true, indulged in some rodomontade, and talked a little as if he owned all the courts and the judges in this State, and had only to lift his little finger in order to stop the count, and so exclude from the presidency the man whom the people have determined shall hold it. But with an astonished magnanimity he refrained from putting himself in the way of the popular purpose, and therefore there is reason to hope that the will of the people will prevail. Some few aldermen also, inspired by the Blaine advocates to attempt obstruction, talked rather more than was necessary, but did no other harm than to waste time.

But the waste of time is itself a not inconsiderable evil, as any one may see who will reflect how long the proceedings now before the aldermen must almost necessarily continue that state of agitation and suspense in the public mind which is inseparable from even the trifling degree of uncertainty that exists. With all the industry of the aldermen yesterday—and they worked honestly all day—they only got through one eighth part of the labor to be done. If they should sit as many hours every day as they sat yesterday, and have as little interruption, they could not finish the canvass in less than seven days more. But there will be prolonged interruptions on some of the days—points in dispute will have to be determined, errors explained, misunderstandings righted, and some of the dreadful Mr. Bliss's wrath may be unbottled—so that we cannot hope for so early a conclusion of this revision of the reports. Therefore the people must possess their souls in patience for perhaps two weeks more.

Everybody, of course, is satisfied without this count just what the vote is, for that is now certain and beyond fair dispute. And yet the knowledge that this count is watched as it is by the desperate and unscrupulous agents of a party that once stole the presidency, and is now ready to take advantage of any blunder that may have been made, provokes a natural dissatisfaction at even the necessary delay. But we may say broadly that the first day's work has been reassuring in every particular. Tammany, whose possible readiness to aid the schemes of the conspirators was much apprehended, certainly did not show this disposition, but behaved honorably and fairly; and if she continues to so behave the conspiracy must fail. Another element that the enemy seems to count upon is the fear and ignorance of some inspectors who are to be called up to make them "explain" away the figures that favor Cleveland. But we fancy that even an inspector of election cannot be frightened into a declaration that may send him to State prison.

Ex-Governor St. John on the Situation.

[By telegraph to the Dispatch.]

KANSAS CITY, MO., November 13.—A representative of the Times visited Olathe, Kansas, yesterday, and interviewed ex-Governor St. John upon the political situation. The ex-Governor declared most emphatically that he had held no relations whatever with any political party in the campaign other than the Prohibition party; that he had made the fight strictly upon the principles which he represented, and stated his intention of taking the field again after a few weeks' rest and continuing his efforts in behalf of national constitutional prohibition, which he felt assured would be ultimately established.

Hung in Effigy.

[By telegraph to the Dispatch.]

ST. JOHNSBURY, VT., November 13.—Last night Governor St. John and C. M. Stone, editor of the St. Johnsbury Caledonian, and the candidate for Governor on the Independent ticket, were hung in effigy from a telegraph pole. The citizens generally condemn the act.

[By telegraph to the Dispatch.]

LOUISVILLE, KY., November 13.—The official returns from the Ninth district show that Wadsworth (Republican) is elected to Congress by 300 majority over Powers (Democrat).

Murdered for Money.

[By telegraph to the Dispatch.]

DENVER, COL., November 13.—Robert Standring and wife were discovered dead this morning in their house, on the Ranche station, seven miles from Pine Grove, a small station on the South-Park road. Circumstances indicate that they were murdered for money. Standring, who was one of Colorado's pioneers, was quite wealthy, and was widely known. He was an ordained preacher of the anti-polygamy branch of the Mormon Church.

ADMIRABLE RESULTS IN FEVERS.

Dr. J. J. Ryan, St. Louis, Mo., says: "I invariably prescribe it in fevers; also in convalescence from wasting and debilitating diseases, with admirable results. I also find it a tonic to an enfeebled condition of the genital organs."

THE CHOLERA SCOURGE.

The Dread Epidemic Spreading in Paris—Exodus of the People.

[By cable to the Dispatch.]

PARIS, November 13.—The cholera epidemic seems unquestionably to be spreading gradually throughout the city. In spite of this, however, the people show no signs as yet of panic or fear. Precautions of every kind are being taken by the public and by individuals to impede as far as possible the deadly progress of the plague. On Monday one warehouse sold 30,000 yards of red flannel, the wearing of which is supposed by many to be efficient in guarding against contagion. Such of the troops and policemen as are detailed for night duty are given an allowance of rum in their coffee. Many people have already left the city in hope of getting beyond the fatal influence of the disease. Latterly the exodus has been increasing, and a continuous string of vehicles can now be seen in the streets leading to the various railroad stations filled with people eager to get at a safe distance from the city.

Physicians are of opinion that people who are strong and healthy need have small fear of being attacked. None of the attendants at the hospitals have so far been seized with the dreadful malady. Many, therefore, consider the disease not contagious. Efforts were being made to put the slums in better sanitary condition by flushing them with water and carbolic acid.

Three cases of cholera have occurred at the police depôt in the prefecture. The conditions are such there that it is feared the disease will make rapid headway. The depôt contains prisoners who are awaiting trial, or who have already been sentenced and have not yet been sent away to their places of punishment. The rooms in which the prisoners are huddled together pell-mell are nauseous holes in which scarcely a ray of daylight can penetrate. They are extremely filthy, and reek with the foulest odors. The bed linen, such as it is, is seldom cleaned. These disgraceful quarters are now being surprised with thorough cleansing and disinfection.

A single death from cholera has occurred in each of the outlying villages of Aubervilliers, Clichy, Boulogne, and Pantin. Spaniards who have been residing in Paris have hurried back to Spain to avoid quarantine. Numerous fugitives from Paris are stated to have arrived at Genoa. It is believed that the number of cases of cholera at Toulon, in the fresh outbreak of the epidemic, has been understated through the influence of hotel-keepers, who of course have had a dreadfully-bad season.

At Marseilles three friars of the Ecole Chretienne have died of cholera. In consequence of this the Ecole has been closed.

It is reported that Austria will establish a sanitary cordon at the frontier against cholera.

6 P. M.—Fifty-eight deaths from cholera are reported to have occurred since midnight, of which number thirty were in the city proper, the remainder being in the hospitals. Two deaths are reported at Oran, Algiers.

TOULON, November 13.—One fresh case of cholera and one death have been reported here to-day. In consequence of the popular indignation at the filthy condition of the city, the municipal authorities are having the streets and gutters cleaned. The sanitary condition of the city is thereby being greatly improved.

AN APPEAL AGAINST THE IMPORTATION OF OLD RAGS INTO THE UNITED STATES.

WASHINGTON, November 13.—Secretary McCulloch to-day received the following petition from a number of leading New York physicians in regard to the importation of old rags from European ports:

"We, the undersigned, recognizing the fact that there is great danger of the introduction of Asiatic cholera into the United States through the medium of old rags imported into this country and coming from European ports, do hereby respectfully suggest and urge upon you the necessity for immediate and decisive action in reference thereto. We are prompted thus to appeal to you because of the recent removal of the restrictions on the importation of old rags, and it is our firm belief that the threatened danger can only be averted by the most thorough and systematic disinfecting of all old rags coming from any and all European ports. Trusting your honorable department will see the urgent necessity for speedy and definite action, we beg to subscribe ourselves."

In speaking on this subject to-day Secretary McCulloch said he was fully alive to the great responsibilities resting on him, and proposed to do what seemed to be for the best interests of all concerned.

SANITARY MEASURES BEING ENFORCED IN NEW YORK.

ALBANY, November 13.—The Governor to-day transmitted to the State Board of Health a long communication from the National Board of Health on the subject of cholera. Immediately upon its receipt, Dr. Alfred Ludlow Carroll, secretary and executive officer of the State Board of Health, issued a circular to local health officers and boards of health apprising them of the rapid advance of the cholera in Europe and the threatened invasion of this country, which may occur at any moment, and notifying them that the State Board of Health expects a strict performance of the duties imposed upon them by law. The circular says: These duties are not discretionary with the local boards of health. The law is mandatory, and evasion or neglect will not be tolerated in the face of the danger which menaces the community. Experience has shown that the cholera poison does not extend where no filth favors its multiplication, and that the only way to correct its march is to remove all sources of pollution of the soil, air, or water. In excremental contaminations especially lies the greatest risk, and all such conditions must be at once removed.

RALEIGH.

The State Board of Canvassers—State Baptist Convention.

[Special telegram to the Dispatch.]

RALEIGH, N. C., November 13.—Governor Jarvis to-day ordered the State Board of Canvassers to meet here on the 18th instant, to canvass the returns for electors and State officers. The Board of Canvassers is composed of the Governor, Secretary of State, Attorney-General, and two senators. The latter being W. H. Chadburn and R. W. Winston—one Republican the other a Democrat. General Scales, Democrat, will certainly have over 25,000 majority.

The State Baptist Convention is in session here. Some six hundred clerical and lay delegates are present. Hon. John C. Scarboro is president of the body.

North Carolina Field-Trials.

[Special telegram to the Dispatch.]

HIGH POINT, N. C., November 13.—The State eastern field-trials commenced to-day. The weather was good, and the ground very good but hilly. Each member handled his own dog on the field. Buchellew beat Dashing Novice, Slocum beat Lucia, and Brimstone beat Vision. There were only three heats to-day. The largest crowd that ever attended the trials in North Carolina was present.

The Phi-Delta-Theta Fraternity.

[By telegraph to the Dispatch.]

NASHVILLE, TENN., November 13.—The Phi-Delta-Theta fraternity are holding a large and most enthusiastic National Convention in this city, forty-nine active and eight alumni chapters being represented. The delegates yesterday morning visited the Vanderbilt University in a body. They were cordially received by the faculty and shown through the various buildings and over the beautiful campus by resident Phio. Literary exercises were held in the hall of representatives at the capitol. There was a large and cultured audience present, who seemed highly pleased with the program me, which consisted of an oration by Hon. J. F. Phillips; a poem by W. Jones, of Chicago; a prophecy by George Bryan, of Richmond, Va.; and an address by the historian of the fraternity, A. A. Stearns, of Cleveland, Ohio.

The Association this morning received applications for charters from the State College of Orono, Me., two colleges in South Carolina, and one in Kentucky. A charter was granted to applicants in New York city for an Alumni Chapter. The Convention ratified the establishment of the Chapter of Columbia College. President Brown's report shows that there are fifty-four active and fourteen alumni chapters in existence. Judge John F. Phillips addressed the Convention this afternoon.

He was a son of ex-Chancellor Williamson, of Elizabeth.

St. Cyr, who has been many years a member of his family. The ceremony was performed in the Roman Catholic cathedral and was strictly private, not more than half a dozen persons being present. The newly-married couple left the city immediately after the ceremony for Pass Christian, Miss., where the General has a handsome property.

DREADFUL GIANT POWDER.

Terrific Explosion in Ohio—Much Property Destroyed but No Lives Lost.

[By telegraph to the Dispatch.]

TOLEDO, OHIO, November 13.—A large quantity of powder stored in a shed on Delaware creek, four miles from this city, exploded at 10 o'clock this morning, making a report which was heard for forty miles in every direction. Windows of houses in that quarter of the city near the scene were generally broken. At the Broadway school, three miles distant, windows were smashed, and slats holding windows up were broken. The explosion was in the giant powder factory of A. J. & O. B. Rummel, consisting of a packing-house, magazine and stock-house, situated on the crown of a little knoll on Delaware creek and surrounded by a dense thicket of trees. Workmen in the packing-houses were thawing out a tub containing twenty-six pounds of nitro-glycerine, and set it too near the fire. The tub caught fire and the men threw it outside and gave an alarm. An instant after the tub exploded a concussion set off the magazine with ten tons of giant powder—known to the trade as "Great Western" powder. Nobody was killed and no person seriously injured, though several were bruised and shocked, and one workman's clothes were nearly burned off of him. The House of Refuge half a mile away had the wall on that side nearest the scene of the explosion shattered near the top. Over eighty of the windows were smashed, including the sashes. One side was blown off an ice-house one hundred yards away. Barns and fences near by were demolished and a number of telegraph-poles thrown down. A panic was caused in two of the city school-houses and in the stampede many children were badly bruised, but none seriously injured. The total loss on the powder-works and powder in stock is about $10,000. The explosion was felt at Detroit, Mich., a distance of sixty miles. At Cleveland it was attributed to an earthquake.

RESCUED FROM MORMONS.

Levina Bonn, who Refused to Go to Utah, Finds a Comfortable Home.

[New York Herald.]

The comely young English girl who was rescued from a band of Mormon missionaries on the Guion-Line steamer Arizona on Tuesday was yesterday taken to West Englewood, N. J., where she will remain in the family of Mr. C. N. Jordan. Superintendent Jackson, to whom the girl told her history, said her name was Levina Bonn. Her father died when she was young, and her mother has been seen by the daughter only once or twice since his death.

The girl was reared by Mr. and Mrs. Coop, at Stockport, Lancashire, England. Her foster father died last December, and her foster mother went to Utah in the following April and has since written several times for Levina to join her in the Mormon country. The girl finally consented to join the Mormons, but, it is said, heard on the voyage that they ill treated their women and changed her mind.

CURSED AND KICKED BY ELDERS.

"On the last day of the voyage," said the Rev. J. M. Pryse to a Herald reporter, "when the steamer had arrived at Sandy Hook, Mr. H. Bunnett, of Brooklyn, a cabin passenger, chancing to see a crowd of Mormons, consisting of elders and steerage passengers, surrounding the girl, drew near and insisted upon knowing the cause of so much persuasion as was being used upon the girl. He discovered that the Mormons were trying to induce her to go with them to Utah against her will. The Mormons laughed contemptuously at Mr. Bunnett when he told the girl that she would be protected, and when he took her by the arm and led her away they cursed and kicked him."

A GOOD HOME AND A FAT PURSE.

Mr. Bunnett then gave the girl in charge of Mr. Meloney, another cabin passenger, who cheerfully consented to escort her to Castle Garden. Mrs. Jordan, the wife of one of the cabin passengers, was at Castle Garden, and, becoming interested in the girl, offered to take her into her family as a nurse for her children. Mr. Hugh Elias took up a collection among the saloon passengers and presented the girl with a purse of $16.95.

The Plenary Council.

[By telegraph to the Dispatch.]

BALTIMORE, November 13.—There was no legislative session of the Plenary Council to-day, services being held at the cathedral, where requiem mass for deceased prelates was solemnized. At the end of the mass Archbishop Corrigan pronounced the eulogium of the deceased bishops and archbishops. He enumerated the list of deceased bishops, forty-two in number, and spoke of the duty of the faithful in praying for them out of a spirit of fraternal charity and as a tribute of love and gratitude for those who had borne the burden amid the heat of the day and had gone to their rest.

After the sermon Archbishops Kenrick, Alemany, Lamy, and Williams, senior prelates, with Apostolic Delegate Archbishop Gibbons, pronounced the final absolution.

The venerable Archbishop Kenrick was scarcely able to officiate at this late ceremony, his feeble condition compelling him to pause several times whilst reciting the prayers.

Miss Emily Harper, of Cathedral street, this evening tendered the delegates a reception from 6 to 10 o'clock.

A Woman Shot by an Actor.

[By telegraph to the Dispatch.]

NEW YORK, November 13.—James Ryan, an actor in Johnny Thompson's Eighth-Street Theatre, went into a liquor-store adjoining the theatre last night, accompanied by Lillie Ellis, of Brooklyn. Shortly afterwards a pistol-shot was heard, and Lillie was found on the floor, bleeding from a bullet-wound in the head. The bartender says that Ryan and the woman were in a back room when the shot was fired. Ryan says that the woman threatened to shoot herself if he did not accompany her home. He affirms that he was not in the room when the shooting occurred. The woman was taken to a hospital, where she died this morning. Ryan was before a police magistrate to-day, and will have an examination on Saturday next.

[By telegraph to the Dispatch.]

NEW YOK, November 13.—In the Board of Aldermen to-day President Kirk announced the dissolution of the injunction which had been served upon the Board, in which they had been enjoined from taking action in the matter of a railway on Broadway. The Broadway Surface Railroad Company was given permission to build a road on Broadway from the Battery to Fifteenth street, the road to pay into the city treasury annually 3 per cent. of its gross receipts (the amount of $40,000 a year being guaranteed). The resolution of August 30th, in which permission had been given to the same company, was repealed.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

NEW YORK, November 13.—With the exception of one or two slight relations the stock market was strong throughout the day, and towards the close speculation was positively buoyant. The rise in early dealings was due chiefly to purchases by local traders and foreign bankers, the latter having bought freely to fill orders received by cable. Subsequently, however, Vanderbilts were materially strengthened by a statement by one of the officials of the New York Central Company that the president had reduced the operating expenses for the year ending September 30, 1884, to the extent of four million dollars, and that the company in consequence was earning about 6 per cent. on stock. Union Pacific was prominent and large purchases were made on reports that arrangements were about completed whereby the floating debt would be paid off and the company placed in position to resume dividends in the early part of next year. Reports were also current that the western roads were disposed to restore rates, and adhere strictly to higher tariff; and on these grangers were advanced sharply. Outstanding short interest is very large; a fact which encouraged the bulls in their efforts to turn the market. The improvement in prices range from ½ to 2½. New York Central leading. The market closed strong at or near the best figures of the day. Sales, 249,300 shares.

Noon.—Stocks strong. Money, 1a1½ per cent. Exchange—Long, 479a479¼; short, 483a484. Governments dull. States firm.
