STORMY CONVENTION

AN OMINOUS REPUBLICAN SPLIT AND TWO CANDIDATES.

A Political Contrast—The Situation in a Nutshell—Curious Features of the Campaign.

[Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.]

PETERSBURG, VA., September 19, 1889.

The Republican Senatorial Convention for the district composed of the counties of Dinwiddie, Greensville, and Sussex, which assembled at Stony Creek yesterday, broke up in disorder after a very turbulent session and split into two bodies, each claiming to be the regularly-constituted convention. Judge R. W. Arnold, of Sussex, Mahone's late candidate for Congress in the Fourth district, was nominated for the Senate by one body, and Mr. J. C. Duane, the present senator from the district, was nominated by the other. The nominations were not made until after midnight. The feeling between the two factions is said to be very bitter, and at present seems difficult of reconciliation, as both candidates claim to have been regularly nominated, and both will most probably enter into an active canvass. The leader of the Duane forces was A. W. Harris, a colored lawyer and member of the last Legislature, and one of the smartest and shrewdest colored politicians in the South. The leader of the Arnold forces was Mr. S. Y. Gilliam, formerly sheriff of the county of Dinwiddie, and an influential man. It was between these two leaders that the personal difficulty occurred in the convention. With this open division and disaffection in the ranks of the party, an inviting field is presented for the election of the Democratic candidate for the Senate.

In this connection it may be said that there is open rebellion among the negroes in Dinwiddie county, caused by the nomination of Mr. L. E. Coleman for the House of Delegates. Many of the colored Republicans positively declare that they will not support Mr. Coleman, and there has been some talk of putting up another Republican candidate. It seems almost certain, in view of the tactics that have been resorted to and of the dissatisfaction caused thereby, that Dinwiddie county will elect a Democratic representative to the Legislature this year.

In the congressional contest of last fall almost the solid negro vote was cast against Judge Arnold. It is a matter of great doubt whether the bulk of this vote will be cast for him next November.

Mr. Thomas N. Perdue, constable for Matoaca district, in Chesterfield county, is reported as seriously ill at his home, near Ettrick.

ETTRICK DEMOCRATS.

The Democratic Club of Ettrick will have a public meeting to-morrow night, when several addresses will be delivered. Thomas G. Watkins, Esq., of this city, and probably one or more gentlemen from Richmond are expected to speak. The Democrats of Ettrick promise a larger vote in November than ever before.

It is a singular fact to notice, as in contrast with the management of affairs under President Cleveland's Administration, that the most active of the partisans in the present campaign are the office-holders. When Mr. Cleveland was President no Federal employe was allowed or permitted to take active, open part in politics. Under Harrison's Administration it is expected that an employé shall be active. He is considered of no account unless he looks after the interests of the Republican party. Judge Arnold, who is one of the Republican nominees for the State Senate, is a deputy collector of internal revenue. One of his most active adherents is another deputy collector. One of his most active opponents in the interest of another Republican is a Federal official at Newport News. The contrast is suggestive.

A careful survey of the political situation here suggests the opinion that the negroes are by no means enthusiastic over the nomination of General Mahone; that while the majority of them will vote for him there is a large element that may be counted as lukewarm; that a number will not vote at all; that the charges for and against the Republican ticket about equalize one another, and that, taken altogether, the situation is extremely hopeful for the Democrats. The Republicans are not disposed to back their boasts by wagers even at odds. The Democrats are willing to bet, but the Republicans are not. There is a suggestiveness about this fact that cannot well be misunderstood. But probably when national funds are in hand, if such should ever be the case, bets may be more lively. If reports be true the size of the campaign fund has always heretofore regulated the gauge of the Republican election bets.

MAHONE AND THE SPLIT.

It is not known how General Mahone stands in reference to the Republican split in the Dinwiddie senatorial district—whether he favors Judge Arnold or Mr. Duane, the opposing Republican candidates. Judge Arnold is one of the appointees of Colonel Brady, the Collector of Internal Revenue. He was Mahone's pet candidate for Congress last year. Between Mahone and Brady there is no love. On the contrary, it may be said there is intense hatred. Brady's appointees are supposed to be in actual disfavor with the boss, though several of the latter's friends, among them Judge Arnold, were appointed to office by Brady. If Mahone has no use for Brady, does he have any use for the men who accept office under him? It is believed not. Then comes the question whether Mahone favors Arnold's candidacy or that of Duane, who has always been his political supporter. It is an interesting one, which those most interested are trying to solve.

General Mahone's outgoing campaign documents amount to about a wagon-load each day. ROBIN ADAIR.

REPUBLICAN FIGHT ON MAHONE.

What General Groner Said to a "Herald" Correspondent.

The Washington correspondent of the New York Herald gives the following interview with General Groner:

When I had an opportunity to talk with him he said: "The trouble with the disaffected Republicans (some Mahoneites call them groaners) is that they were not fairly treated by Mahone. I'll tell you plainly wherein they were not. In the first place he so belittled our wing of the Republican party as to cause us to go in a body to see the President and thereby endeavor to show the size and respectability of it. There can be no question about the showing we made in the numbers and in intelligence and character. Owing to other callers breaking in upon our visit just as we were about to proceed to place the matter before the President, we had to defer it to another time.

OBJECTIONS TO MAHONE.

"We again appeared by the committee who waited on him and stated our grievances briefly. We objected to Mahone's chairman certifying delegations to conventions when they were not selected, in some cases receiving only five votes in a hundred. This plan of organization we told the President operated to give Mahone an unfair advantage by allowing his chairman to ignore large majorities and to remove the delegation. In many instances they had certified to a minority instead of a majority delegation.

"In plain words, we contended for the right of the majority to govern in the primary meetings. To this the National Committee agreed, and of course we acquiesced, but General Mahone has not been governed by it. It hasn't been carried out in any instance where there was a contest. In not a single case were the contesting delegations seated, even in the face of the most overwhelming evidence of unfairness on the part of the chairman. In fact, in such cases as I have alluded to there were ninety-five out of 100 votes against the seated delegation.

AN ANTI-MAHONE CONFERENCE.

"I have been requested to call a conference of the anti-Mahone Republicans to meet in Richmond, and have done so."

When asked what the objects of the parties were who asked for the conference General Groner said of course he could not say definitely, but some of them were so wild in their opposition that they wanted to do something. He did not think there was any probability of an adjustment of the differences, as it was now too late. "Why," said he, "even those things General Mahone agreed to have not been carried out. If the plans of reorganization agreed on have not been carried out heretofore it will be too late after the election to satisfy those who have protested against the high-handed proceedings time and again.

THOUSANDS OF KICKERS.

"You may say that there are thousands of Virginia Republicans who not only declare their unwillingness to vote for Mahone, but I regret to say have gone so far as to declare their intention to vote for the Democratic ticket. I am a Republican, but I have not gone to that extent. I don't know whether it is wisdom on their part or not—I wouldn't like to say."

I asked General Groner how General Mahone managed to get such a hold on the President.

"I'll tell you," he said, "what I think about it. I believe that General Mahone, on account of his intimate association with senators and public men here in Washington, has secured their aid and influence with the President, and so persistent and untiring have been those influential friends that they have persuaded the President to do what he will be sorry for after the election. You know what a worker Mahone is.

"No, I do not think money can save him or that there will be much used by either side except for necessary purposes.

HARRISON'S POLICY.

"I saw the President at Deer Park, and he assured me that there were no appointments being made in Virginia by his direction or consent. He does not intend to make any appointments in Virginia until after the election. He declared it to be his intention to appoint the very best class of Republicans in Virginia to the positions in his gift. He assured me of this. No, patronage will not play any part in the contest."

When I alluded to the small postmasters being appointed daily in Virginia General Groner hesitated, referred again to the President's assurances, and said they would not affect many votes and might do Mahone as much harm as they would benefit him by reason of the disaffection of the disappointed ones. He did not think there were any appointments being made likely to affect the contest very much one way or the other.

When I was parting with him I asked him the direct question if General Mahone would be elected. He fairly beamed with pleasure when he said emphatically:

"He will be beaten!"

Mr. Park Agnew, who was then with us, seemed to appreciate this remark, and said: "I am sorry for the President. He ought to have kept his hands off. In any event you may say I said so. He ought to have let us alone in this squabble."

THE HILL CITY.

United States Court—A Railroad Wreck.

[Special telegram to the Dispatch.]

LYNCHBURG, VA., September 19.—In the United States Court to-day the jury in the case of Henry D. Sloan, indicted for passing counterfeit money in Roanoke, failed to agree.

Four cars of a south-bound freight train on the Richmond and Danville railroad were thrown from the track at Tye River early this morning and badly wrecked and the track was blockaded.

Hon. Corbin M. Reynolds, of Botetourt, is in the city.

Attorney-General Ayers is expected here to-morrow to argue some coupon cases before Judge Bond in the United States Court.

At a meeting of the Fox-Hunters' Club last night it was decided to have a big fox-hunt during the fair next month.

It is learned that the Republicans of Bedford have decided to put up a ticket for the Legislature if they can induce reputable men to run.

Bedford County Court will begin next Monday. Whitten and Shepherd, the counterfeiters, will be tried at this term.

Colonel Jo. Lane Stern inspected the white military of this city to-night.

THE MOORE'S MILLS ACCIDENT.

Particulars of the Drowning of Misses Atwell and Cater.

[Special telegram to the Dispatch.]

LEXINGTON, VA., September 19.—A sad and fatal accident occurred in the upper part of this county on Tuesday, resulting in the death of Miss Atwell, of Alexandria, and Miss Cater, of Washington, D. C.—two ladies who had been sojourning in Loudoun as summer boarders. They had intended returning to the cities the next day, and had been driven to Bear's Den, in the Blue Ridge mountains, by Mr. Plaster in a covered ambulance. Upon returning and reaching the stream at Moore's Mills, which was very high, they attempted to cross, when the water washed the traces of one of the horses loose, overturning the ambulance and throwing the occupants into the stream. Both ladies were drowned. The body of Miss Atwell was recovered soon after, but that of Miss Cater was not found until Wednesday. There were seven persons in the party, and the others were saved.

Rev. John C. Dinwiddie was installed here last night as pastor of the Presbyterian church. Rev. J. S. Vance, of Alexandria, preached the sermon and Rev. Dr. A. W. Pitzer, of Washington, D. C., delivered the charge to the pastor and the congregation.

CHARLES CITY DEMOCRATS.

Colonel B. O. James on the Stump—Party Organization.

[Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.]

CHARLES CITY COURTHOUSE, September 19, 1889.

Colonel B. O. James, Democratic canvasser, addressed a large audience here to-day of Democrats and Republicans. He was listened to with most earnest attention for an hour. He reviewed the course of the Republican party in the South with great ability, and then showed what the Democratic party had done.

His arraignment of Mahone followed, and upon Republican evidence. This portion of his speech was very strong, as was the whole.

Colonel James made a fine impression upon our people, and his speech will have influence wherever it is made.

The party organized anew, Mr. E. L. Waddill, county chairman, in the chair.

Delegates were selected to meet the New Kent delegates at Providence Forge on Saturday to nominate a candidate for the Legislature.

The work goes on well. X.

A BAD BRIDGE.

[Special telegram to the Dispatch.]

WILLIAMSBURG, VA., September 19.—About 10:40 o'clock this morning as the west-bound local freight on the Chesapeake and Ohio road was nearing the depot Mr. James Boston, a brakeman on the train, received what is thought to have been a fatal blow on the left temple by his head coming in contact with a bridge which crosses the track. Medical aid was rendered, but when the train left his condition was most critical. This is about the fifth man that has received injuries from contact with this bridge.

The Mrs. Ray Hamilton Case.

[By telegraph to the Dispatch.]

MAY'S LANDING, N. J., September 19.—The court did not open this morning for the continuation of the trial of Mrs. Hamilton for atrocious assault upon Nurse Mary Donnelly until 10:45 o'clock. The delay was caused by the detention through an accident to another train from Atlantic City, upon which were the judges, attorneys, and others officially connected with the case.

When the jurors had taken their seats Judge Read said: "Sheriff, bring in defendant."

The Sheriff stated that the defendant, Mrs. Hamilton, begged to be excused from appearing on account of serious illness, and the Judge allowed the case to proceed. Then Captain Perry, counsel for defence, began his argument. He said he hoped the jurors would frame their verdict according to the testimony independent of the newspaper reports or other influences. He closely reviewed the circumstances which led up to the assault and argued that the testimony showed clearly that Mary Ann Donnelly, the nurse, was the first aggressor, and that she forced Mrs. Hamilton to pick up the knife in self-defence. She had threatened to kill her mistress. She was hot-tempered and frenzied with brandy and she assailed Mrs. Hamilton with murderous intent.

FOUND GUILTY.

The jury after being out one hour and a quarter came in at 3:15 o'clock and returned a verdict of "guilty as indicted" (of atrocious assault). Mrs. Hamilton was led into the court-room by the Sheriff, and when the foreman of the jury declared the verdict she fell in a swoon on the floor. It was a most dramatic scene, and brought tears to almost every eye in the court-room. She was sentenced to two years in the State prison.

RAILROAD QUESTION.

THE SUBSCRIPTION OF DANVILLE TO THE ATLANTIC AND DANVILLE.

Will the Bonds Be Delivered?—Military Matters—Proposed Consolidation of Two Companies.

[Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.]

DANVILLE, VA., September 19, 1889.

An interesting question has presented itself in connection with the Atlantic and Danville subscription. The order of election under which the subscription was voted in May, 1886, provides that the company shall come into Danville on its own independent line, and the object of this provision was to insure as far as possible a line competitive with the Richmond and Danville road.

It turns out, however, that the Atlantic and Danville road is using two bridges and the approaches thereto of the Richmond and Danville road at Clarksville and it was rumored that the City Council would decline to deliver the bonds voted to the Atlantic and Danville road by Danville on the ground that as the road was using the Richmond and Danville bridges at Clarksville it was not an "independent line," and was not, therefore, under the terms of subscription entitled to the bonds.

In order to set the question at rest upon petition of the Atlantic and Danville Company the Council has ordered an election for October 15th, when the people will vote upon the question as to whether or not the Council shall consent to the use by the railway company of the bridges of the Richmond and Danville road at Clarksville as not being inconsistent with the conditions of the terms of subscription already referred to.

The Atlantic and Danville people claim to have made a twenty-five years' contract with the Richmond and Danville Company which gives them all the privileges and rights they would enjoy if they had built their own bridges, but the legal question has been raised as to whether the people have a right to change or modify the terms of subscription after the subscription has been voted.

The probability is, however, that if the Atlantic and Danville people have really effected such a lease as will make their road entirely independent of the Richmond and Danville there will be no quibble about the delivery of the bonds when the road has been completed.

MILITARY.

The Blues and Grays have each appointed a committee of conference with a view to effecting a consolidation of the two companies. One company here would be well cared for, while it is a struggle for both to exist. C.

HARDY—NELSON.

A Very Pretty Wedding at Chase City.

[Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.]

CHASE CITY, September 19, 1889.

At the Episcopal church here this morning there was assembled a large and fashionable gathering of our people to witness the interesting ceremony of the marriage of one of our most prominent citizens. Every preparation necessary to add to the joy of the occasion had been made. The beautiful adornment of the altar with flowers of rare and exquisite loveliness was especially attractive.

The parties were Mr. Edward M. Hardy, proprietor of the Mineral Hotel, and Miss Alice Nelson, daughter of Dr. Robert C. Nelson, of this town. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. P. M. Boyden, rector of the church.

As the bride entered the church leaning upon the arm of her father the organ pealed forth the wedding march. She was preceded down the aisle by a lovely little girl bearing a silver waiter with a profusion of flowers, and in the centre of a full-blown rose was the wedding-ring.

The bride was attired in a gown of terra-cotta cloth, elaborately trimmed with black velvet.

The couple was very stylish in appearance, and went through the beautiful ceremony with wonderful composure and dignity. They left immediately after the ceremony on the north-bound train for Richmond, and will continue their tour to other cities South.

Denouncing Mahone and His Methods.

[Special telegram to the Dispatch.]

ALEXANDRIA, September 19.—A meeting of the anti-Mahone Republicans was held in the colored Odd-Fellows' hall here to-night. About two hundred persons, mostly negroes, were present, and addresses denouncing Mahone and his methods were delivered by John H. Green and other local speakers.

ASLEEP ON THE TRACK.

A little child, tired of play, had pillowed his head on a railroad track and fallen asleep. The train was almost upon him when a passing stranger rushed forward and saved him from a horrible death. Perhaps you are asleep on the track, too. You are, if you are neglecting the hacking cough, the hectic flush, the loss of appetite, growing weakness and lassitude, which have unconsciously crept upon you. Wake up, or the train will be upon you! Consumption, which thus insidiously fastens its hold upon its victims while they are unconscious of its approach, must be taken in time, if it is to be overcome. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has cured thousands of cases of this most fatal of maladies. If taken in time, and given a fair trial, it is guaranteed to benefit or cure in every case of Consumption, or money paid for it will be promptly refunded.

For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Bronchitis, Asthma, Severe Coughs, and kindred affections, it is an efficient remedy.
