SUNDAY.....OCTOBER 13, 1889.

Julius Cæsar Burrows.

He is in one sense the right man in the right place, this Kalamazoo statesman, whom WILLIAM MAHONE invited to come to Virginia to instruct her people as to what a regard for duty will require at their hands when on the 5th of next month they cast their ballots in the gubernatorial election. The issue in this State being a simple one between MAHONE and negro supremacy on the one hand and MCKINNEY and the rule of the white man on the other, it was eminently proper that an advocate of social equality who had in the national House of Representatives spoke and voted against allowing white Virginians to have white public schools for their children should be called upon to address the negroes of the Old Dominion and tell them how he and others of MAHONE'S allies had endeavored to force negro children into our white public schools.

In our article of yesterday on this subject we did not bring out as clearly as we ought to have done all the facts we desired to impress upon the public mind. But that is not very important. The facts which show Mr. BURROWS to be such a man as ought to make speeches to nobody but negroes in this Commonwealth are that he voted for the bill to open all hotels, theatres, railroad-cars, &c., &c., to negroes; that he voted and spoke for the force bill, and that he declared in the House of Representatives that he would never vote for the proviso in the civil-rights bill allowing separate railroads for whites and blacks. If white Virginians can bear with patience a man who has such a record as that, then let them turn out and encourage Mr. BURROWS. But if they abhor whatever has the least taint of social equality between the two races, then let them stay away from Mr. BURROWS'S appointments and allow him to address his sable fellow-partisans to his heart's content.

In February, 1875, the House of Representatives passed an unconstitutional act intended to open all theatres, all other places of amusement, stages, railroad-cars, &c., to negroes. It reads as follows:

"Be it enacted, &c., That all persons within the jurisdiction of the United States shall be entitled to the full and equal enjoyment of the accommodations, advantages, facilities, and privileges of inns, public conveyances on land or water, theatres and other places of public amusements; subject only to the conditions and limitations established by law, and applicable alike to citizens of every race and color, regardless of any previous condition of servitude."

That act was intended to open the dress-circle of every theatre and concert hall to negroes; the ladies' car on every railroad to negroes; the best rooms in every hotel to negroes. In a word, Mr. BURROWS and his Republican associates did all they could to bring about perfect social equality between the negroes and the white people.

Mr. BURROWS was not content with his efforts to open all our public halls, hotels, theatres, &c., to the negroes; but endeavored to compel the whites to send their children to the same schools with negro children. The bill, from which we have quoted the first section as it was when it became a law, contained a proviso allowing the establishment of separate schools for the whites and the negroes. This proviso Mr. BURROWS opposed. He said:

"Mr. Speaker, I now desire to call the attention of the House to that proviso of the bill which allows the separate establishment of schools where the local authorities shall so determine. In no event can I give this proviso my support."

"In no event" would Mr. BURROWS consent to the establishment of separate schools for the two races. "In no event" would he permit the delicate, refined, Caucasian girl to be separated from the coarse, uncouth girls of the inferior race. "In no event" would he allow the rosy-cheeked white boy to be separated from the offensive negro boy.

But Mr. BURROWS not only showed in the House of Representatives his hostility to the whites of the South, but made against them one of the most vituperative speeches ever heard in that body. Read his slanders upon your people, ye true Virginians, and empty the vials of your wrath upon the malignant Michigander. He said:

"WRONGS THE MOST CRUEL, OSTRACISM THE MOST MALIGNANT, CRIMES THE MOST REVOLTING, REVOLUTIONS THE MOST UNPROVOKED, CONSPIRACIES THE MOST MONSTROUS, PERSECUTIONS THE MOST RELENTLESS, RIOTS THE MOST BLOODY, AND MURDER THE MOST FOUL HAVE CHARACTERIZED THIS ERA OF SOUTHERN REPENTANCE AND RETURNING LOYALTY."

That is the picture of the southern people which was drawn by Mr. JULIUS CÆSAR BURROWS, of Kalamazoo, Mich., whom General WILLIAM MAHONE has induced to come to his assistance in Virginia. What would BURROWS say if confronted with the facts which thus blacken his record? Has he repented of this wrong-doing? Not he. He is to-day as much in favor of social equality between the two races as he was in 1875. He is to-day malignant enough to repeat anywhere in the North the slanders which he first uttered in the national House of Representatives. People of Virginia, BURROWS is beyond your reach, but MAHONE, his ally, is here. Tell him on the 5th of next month what you think of him and BURROWS.

The Czar's Visit.

Next to the Servian situation the topic of interest in Europe is the visit of the Czar of Russia to the German Emperor, and the overshadowing figure among all the dignitaries assembled in Berlin is BISMARCK. Before the Czar's arrival on German soil there were all sorts of rumors afloat as to what he would and what he would not do. One rumor was that he intended to avoid the German capital altogether and be entertained at some smaller place. Another was that he had declined to meet the old German Chancellor. For neither of these does there appear to have been any reasonable foundation, unless we assume to be true the charge frequently made that ALEXANDER is a man of moods given to sudden changes of mind. He did go to Berlin, and not only did he meet BISMARCK, but met him in conference and treated him with marked courtesy and respect. And now the suggestion is, What will be the outcome of the visit? Will it inure to the peace of Europe, or, after the pomp and pageantry of the reception is over will Germany and Russia continue to snarl at each other until finally they shall take each other by the throat? That BISMARCK has vindicated his claim that he desires peace cannot be denied, nor can it be denied that the young German Emperor is by no means the hot-spur he was reported to be when he succeeded to imperial honors. The latter (young WILLIAM) has, it would seem, always been guided by the counsel of his grandfather's old friend, devoted servant, and adviser, and there is no reason to question that he will continue to be so guided until BISMARCK passes off the stage. Whatever truth there may be in the assertion that all of young WILLIAM'S predilections are for the "WALDERSEE set" in matters of moment affecting the unity and the prosperity and happiness of the Fatherland, he has always turned to the fountain-head of German statesmanship and diplomacy as embodied in the Chancellor. The inference, therefore, is that the Czar's visit will be utilized by BISMARCK and WILLIAM so far as possible in the interest of establishing and maintaining cordial relations between the two empires. This would certainly be of a piece with BISMARCK'S policy, and the wisdom of such relations will doubtless be impressed upon ALEXANDER no less in conference than by the display of Germany's tremendous military power. The Balkan problem is after all the present "nettle danger" in Europe, and if that shall be plucked BISMARCK will have achieved another magnificent triumph. If the Czar can be made to comprehend how futile would be the attempt to break through the wall of steel (the triple alliance) that intervenes between Russia and France and can be induced to desist from efforts to start a conflagration in Southeastern Europe, the aged Chancellor will have deserved laurels little less glorious than those he received for the part he took in bringing about the unification of Germany. Such a result of the Czar's visit would perhaps be the first step in the direction of rendering safe partial disarmament in Europe—a consummation devoutly to be wished, especially by Germany—seeing that the military necessity is sapping the veins of Germany's material progress as nothing else does.

The Plot Thickens.

Mr. NUTTING, the New York Republican congressman who has so long been unwell, has resigned his seat in the House of Representatives. He was induced to resign, no doubt, by the representations of the men who desire to have a Republican quorum in the House of Representatives present in Washington on the first Monday in December. It is reported that he was paid to resign—paid $7,500; but this rumor needs confirmation.

Let every Democratic congressman be notified to be in Washington in time. Some of the most important questions which ever came before Congress will when that body meets almost immediately arise. The admission of members of the House of Representatives from Territories claiming to be States is one of them. The scheme to unseat Democrats and seat Republicans is another. The conspiracy to pass a national election-law is another. The scheme to change the House rules as they have existed for so long is another. There will be lively times in Washington two months hence.

People of Virginia, defeat MAHONE, and your vote will be counted as against the measures we have mentioned. Elect him, and all these and worse evils will be written down as having been approved by you.

A Card from Judge Gwathmey.

The following is a copy of the enclosure in Judge GWATHMEY'S card, which follows directly after:

Captain Lurty also furnished us the following evidence of the civilization of which the Democracy boasts:

GRAND BARBECUE AND PUBLIC SPEAKING at NEWTOWN (KING WILLIAM COUNTY), MONDAY, Oct. 26, 1885.
Stuart, Dunlop, Croxton, Wright, Follard, and Stubbs to speak.
DINNER FREE.
Ladies and Gentlemen, White and Black, invited to attend.
By request of W. R. BROADDUS,
(Democratic Chairman.)
☞ I POST THIS NOTICE. ☜
O. O. GWATHMEY.

Captain Lurty read the above on the court green, King William county, in the presence of the Judge whose name is signed to it, and who hung his head in shame, never once denying its authenticity.

AYLETT'S, VA., October 10, 1889.

To the Editor of the Dispatch:

Enclosed please find a slip cut from the Labor Herald of the 28th ultimo, which I had intended to pass by unnoticed, but I have just received a copy of the same as a circular from Staunton, and am informed that the Republicans are using and circulating the same extensively. I am, therefore, compelled to take notice of it:

1. Whoever signed my name to that paper forged my signature, and is liable to indictment.

2. There is no such place in King William as Newtown.

3. We had only one barbecue in King William in 1885, and that at "Epworth," and the speakers were Diggs, Aylett, and Haw.

4. When Captain Lurty states that he read the same in my presence, &c., he states what is utterly false, and as he does not know me even by sight the statement must have been wilfully false.

O. O. GWATHMEY.

We are sorry for Mr. HALSTEAD. On Wednesday or Thursday he announced that he had in his possession the original documents proving that Mr. CAMPBELL, the Democratic Governor of Ohio, had whilst in Congress been concerned in a scheme to induce Congress to adopt a certain kind of ballot-box, and had expected to make a great deal of money out of it.

On Friday Mr. HALSTEAD had to say:

"That there may be no shade of doubt upon my exact meaning I have to say that Mr. Campbell's signature as it has been used is fraudulent. The proof of this came to me in conclusive form at a late hour, and it is my duty at once to declare the truth."

Mr. HALSTEAD was imprudent. He might have known better. He has added many a vote to CAMPBELL'S list, and damaged himself and his paper; no other result is possible. At the same time we will say that we are confident that he supposed he was telling the truth. His anger makes him blind, nay mad.

What has become of Captain Lurty and Baby McKee?—Register.

We do not know what has become of President Harrison's grandchild; but Stonewall Jackson's cousin will be heard from before election-day.—Spirit of the Valley.

"Before election-day," truly. Not afterwards.

President Cleveland sent special invitations to Mr. Douglass and his wife (who is a white woman) to dine with himself and Mrs. Cleveland at the White House.—Spirit of the Valley.

This is news to us. What is the authority for this statement?

BRIEF COMMENT.

BISMARCK to ALEXANDER of Russia: "Ah, Czar, let us peace have."

A contemporary says: "British capitalists even want our gas." Hurrah for American politics!

"JULIUS CESAR BURROWS." We are not surprised at it. He ought to hide in a hole in the ground and pull the hole in after him.

HALSTEAD'S attack on CAMPBELL was the worse case of previosity that has come under the observation of the public for many years.

There appears to be a probability that the electric light-companies of New York could furnish bond and security that electricity will execute.

In speaking of a certain practical Republican statesman's visit to Washington a Republican contemporary says "it looks like STEELE." Isn't there a mistake in the spelling?

"The guardian of THOMAS KEATH, a New Hampshire boy, has put in a bill for $2,000 for waking the boy up on two thousand different mornings." Wonder if the bill read "To shingling"?

Don't Be Deceived,

especially when your health may be at stake. If any one offers you Johann Hoff's Malt Extract and it does not have "Johann Hoff's" signature on the neck of the bottle, do not take it under any circumstances.

BUSINESS BOOMING IN EVERY DEPARTMENT
AT
"THE BOSTON."

This is the laconic message we are able and pleased to send our friends and patrons.

Ever since the cool weather has set in we have been crowded—crowded in our Clothing Department, crowded in our Hat and Furnishing Goods Department—crowded all over our store with people, intelligent people, and every one of 'em buying Fall and Winter Goods.

Verily, thoroughly reliable and stylish goods when coupled with low prices never fail to draw crowds of intelligent buyers.

It has been rather a common remark of late that the public didn't respond to newspaper announcements these days as they did some years ago. Well, they do, reader, when the advertisement is above a reputable firm's name. The truth of the matter is, the schoolmaster is abroad in the land, and the people are growing more and more intelligent day by day—are less gullible than they used to be—consequently the crowds of buyers are found at our house, because the goods at present prices demonstrate beyond a doubt that we are giving the people big value for their dollars.

MEN'S AND BOYS' FINE CLOTHING.

MEN'S SUITS. Single and Double-Breasted Sacks, Three- and Four-Button Cutaway Frocks, Prince Alberts, Chesterfields, Swallow Tails, Clerical Garments, etc., in a variety limited only by the number of new styles made; make, fit, and trimming equal to the best custom work; prices the lowest consistent with the modern ideas of merchandising.

MEN'S FALL OVERCOATS in Prince Charles styles, Fly-Front styles, English sack styles, Box styles, etc., in a dashing, superb, and brilliant array of patterns, shades, and colors. Prices range from $5 to $12 for good, to $15 to $20 for finest qualities.

BOY'S CLOTHING. Kilt Suits, Short-Pants Suits up to size 16, Jersey Suits, Long-Pants Suits, and Overcoats for boys of all ages are to be found here in an indescribably large assortment of new and desirable styles. Prices—well, you know ours always are lower than others.

LADIES', MISSES, AND CHILDREN'S CLOAKS.

This week we will offer some of the greatest bargains ever heard of in Plush Coats, Plush Jackets, Cloth Newmarkets made up in the latest Paris fashion, Cloth Jackets, and Children's Cloaks. If we say we will sell you a $25 Newmarket for $14 you would think it is almost impossible this early in the season. We count in this manner: Our Coats are all hand-made and made by one of the best tailors in the country, and one who would not touch a single garment like we are selling for $14. A penny less than $25 to $30.
We are headquarters this year for Children's and Misses' Coats;
Persian SILKS, $1.60 worth $2.

JULIUS SYCLE & SON,
213 east Broad.

"Approbation from Sir Hubert Stanley is praise indeed."

WE HAVE BEEN VERY PLEASANTLY complimented during the past few days upon the beauty and completeness of our stock for the fall and early winter season.

This is a source of much gratification to us, Because we have spared no pains or expense to make our establishment second to none in the South as to variety and style.

To-morrow we will start an entirely new departure. We will open for the first time a large line of Misses' Cloaks suitable for girls from six to twelve years of age. We will show these goods in all the most desirable materials and in an astonishingly complete variety of stripes and checks as well as plain designs in all the latest styles. Many of these cloaks are exact reproductions of imported garments, and you can dress your children here as folks do abroad without extra cost.

The reputation we have established on having the most complete variety of Infants' and Children's Garments we propose to maintain on Misses' Wraps.

One of the shapes that seems to be a special favorite among the ladies is the soft wool flat, which we now show in the following shades: Terra cotta, black, bronze, gobelin, gold brown, myrtle, steel, and calf. Our price for these is only seventy-five cents. These hats are stylish and cheap, and with a little trimming can be made very effective for any countenance. By placing a little velvet on the brim next to the face and a few yards of ribbon made into a stylish bow to the back, and a bird with aigrettes drooping to the front will make a hat that will be pleasing and striking. Of course it's necessary to properly blend the colors. A black-and-yellow shaded bird with yellow aigrettes looks charming on a black or red hat, and our milliners thoroughly understand how to arrange the trimming to suit all complexions.

The above hat is a reproduction of the fine French felt which we also show in all of the above colors. Our price for them is $1.50. You will be asked $2 for the same hat elsewhere.

Time and space will not admit of giving a further description. To get an idea of the variety of the styles we show you will have to visit the store.
