DAYS OF STUDY OVER

Public-School Teachers and Scholars Can Now Enjoy Their Vacation.

THE FIRST-HONOR LIST.

Pupils of the White Schools of Richmond Who Received the Highest Marks and Received Certificates.

The session of the Richmond public schools closed Wednesday. The school has been a most successful one both in attendance of pupils and charactER of work done, and teachers as well as pupils have earned the holiday that is now upon them. Many of the former, however, will take recreation rather than actual rest, as they will attend the teachers' institutes to be held in the State.

Following the DISPATCH publishes the honor lists of the several district schools. These distinctions represent primary grades 95 to 100 in deportment, and in other grades 90 to 100 in both scholarship and deportment:

VOORHEES AND GRAY.

What the Senator Has to Say of the ex-Governor's Political Record.

Editor Washington Post:

Your assault on Governor Gray, of Indiana, in your leading editorial of this morning, seems to require at my hands the following statement of facts:

1. In 1884 Isaac P. Gray was the Democratic candidate for Governor of Indiana. His Republican opponent was William H. Calkins, a gentleman of ability, unblemished character, long and honorable service in Congress, and with an excellent record as a soldier.

These two gentlemen made an able and exciting joint canvass of the State. Their second meeting took place at Greensburg, Decatur county, and while Governor Gray was speaking some one in the audience, doubtless selected for that purpose, arose and demanded that Governor Gray should explain his alleged connection with the Know-Nothing party during the time of its existence. Instantly, and with great force, Governor Gray replied that the charge was an infamous lie, and that the man who made it, whoever he might be, was a liar and too great a coward to ever repeat it in his presence. It was not repeated nor heard of again in the joint discussion of that campaign. He was triumphantly elected, receiving every vote the Democratic party of Indiana had to give, and in fact running very distinctly ahead of Mr. Cleveland, the Democratic candidate for the presidency at that time. As Governor for the next four years his administration ranks with the ablest and most successful in the State. If, in the nature of things, it was possible to entirely kill a lie, which I have found in my experience it is not, this old Know-Nothing lie against Governor Gray would have been dead, buried, and forgotten long ago.

2. In response to the charges that Governor Gray was a Republican it may be said that he has been for the last twenty years a hard-working, able, fearless leader in the Democratic party. This I believe is a longer term of party service than any one of the following distinguished candidates for the Democratic nomination at Chicago—to-wit: Horace Boies, of Iowa; James E. Campbell, of Ohio, and John M. Palmer, of Illinois. I do not hesitate to say that either one of the three gentlemen here mentioned could poll the full vote of the Democratic party, but not one of them more fully or successfully than Isaac P. Gray. When "Bluelegs" Williams defeated Benjamin Harrison for Governor of Indiana in 1876 Gray was on the victorious ticket for Lieutenant-Governor, and from that hour to this he has never been behind in a Democratic vote or in a Democratic fight.

3d. The alienation between Governor Gray and the late and deeply-lamented Joseph E. McDonald requires no other notice than to say that Governor Gray received the support of Mr. McDonald and his friends in 1884, long after the cause of the trouble between them occurred.

There are no unsettled outstanding feuds among Democrats in Indiana.

I know nothing of any arrangement such as you mention in regard to the place to be given to Governor Gray on the ticket in Chicago, but whether his place be first or second he will honor and give it strength.

THEY MADE A MISTAKE.

An Incident of Railway Travel in the North.

[New York Sun.]

We were just leaving Bedford for Altoona, Pa., when a drummer entered the car with two valises, was followed by a boy with two more. He sat down in one seat, turned the back of another seat and piled his valises on it, and then tacked up on the window-frame a printed card reading:

THIS IS MY BUSY DAY.
SEE ME TO-MORROW.

He did all this in a business-like manner, without even looking around him, and then sat down and pulled out a note-book and began to figure. As the train started there were seven passengers who had no seats. In a few minutes something was said about the "railroad hog." In a few more there were observations derogatory to the character of the two-seated man. We had not gone over ten miles when a man who had the largest half of a seat got so mad at seeing seven people have to stand up that he blurted out:

"If I hadn't a seat I'd pitch that chap's valises out of the window and take one."

The remark was applauded, and a minute later one of the stand-ups advanced to the drummer and said:

"Sir, I want a part of this seat."

The drummer pointed to the sign of his busy day and kept on figuring.

"Do you hear me?"

He pointed again.

"Pull him out!" shouted three or four voices.

The stand-up passengers seized the drummer by the collar and pulled him out of the seat and sat down amid applause.

Standing in the aisle the man of valises made some figures on a piece of paper and handed it to the other.

"What is it?"

"Damages, sir! I want $100 damages or I'll sue for $5,000."

"But you have no right to two whole seats."

"Beg pardon, sir, but here are four tickets to Altoona. I represent four passengers and am entitled to two whole seats. Damages, sir, $100 damages for assault and battery and injury to my feeling."

The conductor came along just then and supported the rights of the drummer, and after considerable "dickering" the stand-up man forked over $40 in cash and was given a receipt in full. The drummer pocketed the bills, sat down with a bow to the passengers, and turned his sign over. It then read:

MAKE NO MISTAKE!
I AM NOT A R. R. HOG!

Labouchere's New Business.

[London Truth.]

In the prevailing "depression" of things commercial I had long abandoned all hope of adding to my modest resources, when I luckily came upon the following advertisement in the Morning Post:

"Five hundred pounds or more will be given by a gentleman for introduction into the most select circles. Searching investigation solicited. Address Q. C., 18,387, 17 Wellington street, W. C."

This is just what I should have liked. I beg, therefore, that "Q. C." will at once communicate with me, remitting at the same time "£500 or more"—more, for choice. It will afford me great pleasure to introduce him to the most select of select circles, and it he is the sort of "Q. C." that I take him for I can also guarantee that his introduction will make a marked impression.

He: I should judge that you were a typical sailor.

She: Well, yes—that is, I can heave about everything except the anchor.
