BEGINS HIS WORK.

REV. C. E. MORGAN PREACHES TWICE AT SEVENTH-ST. SUNDAY.

DR. HAWTHORNE TO YOUNG MEN.

Large Congregation Gathers to Hear a Fine Discourse to the Youth of Richmond—Just Man Compared to the Sun—A Pastor Called.

Great congregations heard Rev. Carey E. Morgan at the Seventh-Street Christian church Sunday morning and evening. The services had to be held in the lecture-room of the church, because of changes being made in the upper room. Not nearly all the people who came could be seated. Mr. Morgan made a fine impression. There was never a more cordial meeting between pastor and people. His congregation already feel at home with him. He says he fell in love with them years ago, when he visited Richmond. He said to them that he was most favorably impressed with Richmond people on that visit. They treated him very kindly, and he never forgot it. During that visit he preached at Leigh-Street Baptist church, and was most cordially welcomed and attentively heard. He declared that he told his wife when he reached home that if he ever received a call to come to Richmond he would accept it. He is a present testimonial that he meant what he said.

"I have known this church by its reputation through the brotherhood," he continued, "and in the person of some of its honored and devoted members almost from the beginning of my ministry, a dozen years ago. I have been acquainted personally with nearly all its ministers. Brother J. Z. Tyler and Brother Jabez Hall and Brother Z. T. Sweeney I have been proud to count among my friends. I feel profoundly that it is no small honor to be counted worthy to be their successor in this pulpit."

The text at the morning hour was: "There Shall Be a Handful of Corn in the Earth Upon the Top of the Mountain, the Fruit Thereof Shall Shake Like Lebanon." This gave an idea of the extension of Christ's Kingdom upon the earth. The burden of the sermon was how the religion of Jesus had grown and choked out all other religions. The entire discourse appeared to all who heard it as exceedingly appropriate to the occasion.

SUCCEEDS DR. HIDEN.

The Monroe Baptist church has called Rev. A. J. Hall to be her pastor. This was done on Sunday morning after the service. It is considered probable that he will accept. The continued ill health of Rev. Dr. J. C. Hiden, who had temporarily accepted the pastorate, made it impossible for him to assume its duties, and it was deemed necessary that the church should have a regular pastor, who could devote his time to the work of building up the organization recently formed.

Mr. Hall has been supplying the pulpit for the summer season during Dr. Hiden's absence, and has made many warm friends among the members of the congregation. He was formerly a student of Richmond College, where he graduated last year with the degree of Master of Arts.

At the business meeting of the church Sunday the following deacons were chosen: Messrs. John D. Christian, J. M. Blanks, L. H. Jenkins, and R. F. Gaskins. These will be ordained at a service to be held next Sunday afternoon. Rev. Dr. W. E. Hatcher will conduct the service, and will also administer the Lord's Supper.

DR. HAWTHORNE TO YOUNG MEN.

Dr. Hawthorne preached fine sermons at Grove-Avenue Sunday. The music was excellent and the congregations were very large. Dr. Hawthorne addressed himself to young men at the morning hour. The text was: "The Path of the Just Is a Shining Light, that Shineth More and More Unto the Perfect Day." Dr. Hawthorne defined a just man. He then said:

The inspired writer compares the just man to the sun. "The path of the sun is high and free. It is so high that nothing can obstruct it. Mountains and clouds rise in vain. The path of the sun is far above and beyond them all. The way of God's ideal man is too high for men or friends to obstruct. God has given to the sun light in itself, and therefore it shines, and no power can prevent it. The glory of God's ideal man is from within. It is a radiation, put him where you will, and he will shine. The light that was in Paul was just as visible while he lingered amid the darkness of a Roman dungeon as when he stood upon Mars Hill and reasoned so masterfully with the philosophers of Greece and Rome. The sun is a benignant orb. Its blessings are impartial and universal. It gives light, warmth, and life to all the world. The same is true of our ideal man. Loving the Lord with all his heart and his neighbor as himself, every day and hour by word and deed and influence he carries benedictions to the home and hearts and lives of men."

Yesterday was report day at the Baptist Ministers' Conference. The pastors read statements showing the number of additions during the past month. There were present, besides the regular ministers of the city, Rev. E. V. Baldy, of Kentucky, who preached Sunday at Bainbridge-Street church, Manchester; Rev. W. T. Derieux, of Spartanburg, S. C., who preached at Venable-Street church.

RICHMOND BOY INJURED.

Grover Watkins Thrown from a Train at Washington.

The Washington Post of Sunday contains the following:

"Grover Watkins and Harold Vaughn-Lloyd, two runaway boys from Richmond, aged 14 and 16, respectively, boarded an outgoing passenger train at the Sixth-Street Depot, about 10 o'clock Saturday night, and in rounding the curve at Sixth street and Maryland avenue the Watkins lad, who was hanging to the platform of the rear car, was struck by the lowered gates and severely injured. The boys left their homes several days ago and came to Washington, but soon became weary of their experience, and resolved to return home. They were stealing a ride when the accident occurred.

"Watkins was thrown from the train. He was conscious, however, when found, and taken to the Emergency Hospital. The physicians believe that he is internally injured. Vaughn-Lloyd was arrested by Detective Howlett and locked up at No. 1 Station, charged with being a fugitive from justice. At the hospital the injured lad gave his name as Eddie Lewis."

Sons of Veterans Meet.

The weekly meeting of Lee Camp, Sons of Confederate Veterans, was held last night. There was a large number present, and the meeting was presided over by Commander E. Leslie Spence, Jr. Messrs. E. R. Phillips and R. T. Lacy were elected to membership in the camp, and the application of Hon. H. T. Wickham was referred to the proper committee. Chairman Boggs, of the committee to enlist the Sons of the State in the organization, reported a circular-letter, which the committee proposed to send through the State. The report was unanimously adopted.

The camp started a new feature by creating a sick committee, composed of the commander, the three lieutenants, and the chaplain.

The Committee on Entertainment for next Monday night reported that all arrangements for the entertainment had been completed.

Owing to the absence of Comrade Lightfoot, the discussion of the seven days' battles around Richmond was postponed until October 2d.

Pickett Camp's Meeting Last Night.

At the meeting of Pickett Camp, held last night, Messrs. Maury, Wren, Hughes, and Hazlewood were elected delegates to the Grand Camp, and Messrs. Loehr, Crouch, Redwood, and Woody were named as alternates.

Messrs. Stratton, Winston, and Stansbury were appointed a committee to make arrangements for divine service for the camp.

Comrade Winston gave an interesting account of the method of killing sora, which elected a good-humored colloquy, and was much enjoyed by the camp.

Opera at the Auditorium.

The Packard Opera Company presented the "Mascotte" splendidly at the Auditorium last night before an audience of several hundred well-pleased people despite the storm. The opera was in the same capable hands as when last seen by this company. Miss Gilman received a handsome bouquet of roses from an admirer.

To-night "Fra Diavolo" will be given.

Effect of Yesterday's Rainfall.

The heavy rains of yesterday did not extend further west than Scottsville. The rains at Columbia and above have had the effect of raising the river to five feet at that point, but so limited has been the area of the fall that nothing like a freshet is expected.

Young People's Congress.

The Young People's Congress at Broad-Street Methodist church last night was a delightful and most successful affair. The young people's societies of all the denominations were represented in the excellent programme. The music was bright and the speeches were good.

A PRINCESS NOW.

MISS GRANT DULY WED TO HER RUSSIAN CHOICE.

TWO BRILLIANT CEREMONIES.

Greek and Episcopal Church Services Both Observed—The Prince in Red and Gold—Distinguished Guests at the Wedding—Costly Presents.

NEWPORT, R. I., September 25.—The Episcopal marriage service, supplementing that of the Russian Orthodox Church, that was observed yesterday, which made Prince Cantacuzene, Count Speransky, of Russia, and Julia Dent Grant, daughter of Brigadier-General Frederick D. Grant, and granddaughter of General U. S. Grant, husband and wife, was celebrated at All-Saints' chapel here, at noon to-day. The assembly of invited guests, notable for social and military distinction, made the ceremony one of the most brilliant ever witnessed at Newport.

The family and social connections of the bride gave to the wedding a military, as well as a diplomatic, character, and the little church in which it took place was bright with blue and gold, the bridegroom's uniform easily outshining those of the home guard.

OFFICIATING CLERGYMAN.

Right Rev. H. C. Potter, Protestant Episcopal Bishop of New York, officiated, assisted by Rev. Dr. Nevins, of the American Church, in Rome, but in accordance with the laws of Rhode Island, Rev. Dr. Porter, of Emmanuel church, of this city read that portion of the service which legally united the distinguished pair. On the altar and suspended in the chancel were a large number of baskets filled with orchids, intermingled with a chime of snowy floral wedding bells. Large garlands of bride's roses hung from the bells to two Italian columns, forming a bower which almost hid him from view the bridal party as it stood at the altar. The only music was that of the organ, which gave out the notes of the Lohengrin wedding march as the procession entered the church doors.

At the same time, Bishop Potter and Dr. Porter, vested for the service, entered the chancel from the vestry, followed by the Prince and Honore Palmer, a cousin of the bride's, who acted as best man by proxy for Grand Duke Cyril, of Russia, who was unable to be present.

NO BRIDESMAIDS.

The bridal procession included only Miss Grant and her escort, and the ushers, and there were no bridesmaids, nor was there a maid of honor.

As the bride's father, at present, is with the army in the Philippines, her brother, Ulysses S. Grant, third, a member of the third class at West Point, acted in his place. Mr. Grant wore the full cadet uniform. There were eight ushers.

Miss Grant was gowned in white. Her dress was severely cut, but of the richest white satin, with a sweeping train, and veil of tulle. She carried a shower bouquet of stephanotis and lilies of the valley, and wore the gifts of the bridegroom, a corsage ornament of diamonds and enamel, and a rope of pearls. The Prince, as he stepped down from the chancel to meet the bride, was attired in the full uniform of the Chevalier Garde, brilliant with red and gold.

WEDDING RECEPTION.

The reception at the Potter Palmer residence was one of the largest ever held in Newport. The bridal couple received under an immense floral arch, with Mrs. Grant and Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer standing on the right, while seated near was Mrs. U. S. Grant.

The Prince and Princess started for New York on board the steam yacht Narada.

THE GREEK CEREMONY.

The Bridal Gifts—Sketches of the High Contracting Parties.

Miss Grant and Prince Cantacuzene were married according to the rites of the Orthodox Greek Church last evening. Simple and impressive ceremonies were conducted by Father Hotovitsky, of the Russian church, New York, in the parlor at Beaulieu, the summer residence of Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer.

After the room had been formally consecrated, at 8:30 o'clock, the bride appeared at the head of the grand staircase, leaning on the arm of her brother, Ulysses S. Grant, third. At the altar, before which stood the Russian priest, waited Prince Cantacuzene, clad in the full uniform of the chevalier grade. The bride's dress was severely cut, and was a simple gown of the richest white satin, with sweeping train and veil of tulle. She carried a bouquet of Stephanotis and lilies of the valley, and wore the gifts of the bridegroom—a corsage ornament of diamonds and enamel and a rope of pearls.

THE USHERS.

The ushers, who preceded Miss Grant and her brother to the altar, were Potter Palmer, Jr., cousin of the bride; Lockwood Honore, uncle of the bride; Captain Sartoris, cousin of the bride; Robert L. Gerry, of New York; H. Roger Winthrop, of Newport, and John Prentiss, of New York.

In accordance with the Russian custom Miss Grant had two garcon de noce—her brother, Ulysses S. Grant third, and her uncle, Adrian Honore—those of Prince Cantacuzene being Honore Palmer and Potter Palmer, Jr., while the parents d'honneur were Grand Duke Vladimir and Mrs. Potter Palmer.

THE GUESTS.

Mr. Grant conducted his sister to the altar. Besides the immediate family there were present Mrs. Ulysses S. Grant, grandmother of the bride; H. H. Honore, Edwin C. Honore, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Honore, Jr.; Mrs. Sartoris, wife of Captain Sartoris; Major-General Wesley A. Merritt and Major Mott, of his staff; Adjutant-General Corbin, Colonel and Mrs. Hein, and Bishop Potter. The picturesque ritual, interspersed with frequent music by a local quartet, was lengthy. The services closed with the singing of the Russian national hymn, after which the couple received congratulations while the orchestra discoursed music. The ceremony consumed an hour, and it was nearly midnight before the guests departed.

THE BRIDAL GIFTS.

Very few bridal couples have been showered with so many and so beautiful presents. They have been pouring in all the week, and within the past forty-eight hours many additional ones have been received. One of the prettiest is a sapphire necklace from Mr. Henry Walters, of Baltimore.

Diamonds, of course, have a prominent place among the wedding gifts. The Prince's gift to his bride is a large corsage ornament of diamonds and enamel and a rope of pearls, with pendant ornaments of diamonds to match the corsage ornament, and an immense sapphire mounted in diamonds.

Other gifts are as follows:

From General Frederick Grant, the bride's father, a crescent of large diamonds.

From the bride's mother, two dozen old Sevres plates and some old Vienna porcelain.

From Mrs. U. S. Grant, the bride's grandmother, fine, large diamond sunburst and beautifully bound copies of General U. S. Grant's Memoirs.

From the Grand Duke Vladimir, a sacred painting mounted with pearls and other jewels.

From Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer—to the bride, a tiara of diamonds, a point lace gown, fan, and handkerchief, with monograms and crown wrought in the lace, and a silver tea service; to the bridegroom, a silver-mounted leather writing desk set, a set of old porcelain plates and comports, and an after-dinner coffee-pot of exquisite workmanship.

From the family of the bride's mother, a magnificent silver service.

From the mother of the bridegroom, a corsage ornament of diamonds with enamelled bow, a beautiful tiger-eye carved owl, and an enamelled clock.

From the late Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt and Mrs. Vanderbilt, a superb gold vase.

From Mrs. Astor, an old French miniature set, in a frame of enamel and jewels.

From Mrs. Leland Stanford, a gold toilet set.

From the Chinese Minister, Wu Ting Fang, a superbly-embroidered shawl.

From Vice-President and Mrs. Hobart, a diamond and turquoise pin.

From Senator and Mrs. Elkins, a large tea service.

From Bourke Cockran, ostrich-feather fan.

From George W. Drexel, gold dishes.

From Ambassador and Mrs. Porter, silver card-case.

From General and Mrs. Dodge, silver and glass bottles.

From Senator and Mrs. Warner Miller, silver pitcher.

From General Wesley Merritt, silver jewel-boxes.

From Chauncey Depew, gold service and spoons.

A FINAL SHOPPING TRIP.

The securing of the license on Saturday was quite an incident, especially for the street urchins of Newport.

Mrs. Grant preceded the young couple by some minutes, and the latter went to the City Hall in Mrs. Palmer's automobile. On their way they passed one of the large dry-goods stores, and woman's ruling passion asserted itself; and, though it was probable that Mrs. Grant was then at the City Hall, fuming and fretting over the non-appearance of the Prince and Miss Grant, Miss Grant signalled the Prince to stop while she alighted and went into the store.

Miss Grant was absent some minutes, and soon a large crowd of street urchins gathered around the automobile and stood in open-eyed wonder gazing at the Prince. He did not appear to notice the little chaps for some time, when he espied one gamin who attracted his attention. To this little lad he addressed some playful remark.

The lad, too amazed to make any reply to the Prince, turned to his companions and said: "Say, fellers, did yer hear dat? His whiskers can talk American!"

The remark was too much for the Prince, and he enjoyed a hearty laugh. He was soon in conversation with the youngsters, who, taking advantage of his friendliness, piled him with all sorts of questions about the automobile. When Miss Grant reappeared she was surprised to see the Prince crouched down on the ground and pointing to some part of the mechanism of the automobile that is under the bottom of the carriage. Bowing to the lads most graciously, the Prince assisted Miss Grant into the automobile, and the couple started for the City Hall, where they found Mrs. Grant seated in a cab outside awaiting their arrival.

PRONOUNCING THE NAME.

At intervals during the City Clerk's interview with the young couple, Mrs. Grant would interject a few remarks, and when the Clerk would ask a question that was not perfectly clear to the Prince a conversation in French would follow between Miss Grant and the Prince, and when the point was made clear to the Prince he would answer the Clerk in intelligible English.

"Michel (pronounced Meeshell, accent on the 'mee,' by Miss Grant) Cantacuzene-Speransky."

"With a hyphen," interpolated Mrs. Grant, and then smilingly stepped back to allow the Prince to proceed with his answers. When the Prince had completed, Miss Grant made her declaration.

Then the license was duly made out and delivered, the Prince laid the dollar license-fee on the counter, took his departure, and left with his lady companions for Beaulieu.

The afternoon was spent at Mrs. Palmer's villa, and last evening the first of the wedding festivities began. It consisted of a dinner to the ushers, given by Mrs. Potter Palmer.

THE BRIDE AND GROOM.

The bride is 23 years old, and is the eldest of General Fred. Grant's children. She has been carefully educated, and speaks several languages fluently. She is an unusually beautiful woman, with a complexion of roses and cream, eyes of darkest hazel, hair of a hue almost black, yet full of color, and a tall and splendid figure. She is graceful, tactful, and has charming manners. Of money she has little or none. It was her personality only that won rank for her in American society, and finally an alliance with a royal house.

Prince Michael Cantacuzene is 24 years old, and is a lieutenant in the Imperial Guards. His family is one of the oldest and greatest in Russia. By the death of his father the Prince became the head of the house. He owns a vast estate near Moscow.

Prince Cantacuzene is not an imposing person to look at. His manners are pleasing, and there is no question as to his devotion to the Princess.

A PURE LOVE MATCH.

According to Mrs. Potter Palmer, to whom the making of the match between a Russian Prince and her American niece is accredited, the marriage is founded upon the love of the young people for each other. Mrs. Palmer and her niece were in Rome when Prince Cantacuzene—through a common friend, Rev. Dr. Nevins, of the American Church at Rome—begged to be presented to the ladies, whom he had frequently seen on the Pincian Hill, the favorite promenade and drive of Roman society.

Prince Cantacuzene, when he met the Princess, was a military attache of the Russian legation at Rome. He fell desperately in love with her at first sight, and, having been duly presented, proceeded to pay her court, with all the ardor of an enraptured young lover.

When Mrs. Palmer and her niece left Rome for Cannes, the Prince followed them, and became their almost constant companion, and, after following Mrs. Palmer and the Princess from Cannes to Paris, made a formal offer of his hand and heart to the granddaughter of the great American soldier, and Mrs. Palmer smoothed the way for him.

AUCTION SALE OF THREE BAY-WINDOW-FRONT FRAME DWELLINGS, Nos. 208, 210, AND 212 WEST CANAL STREET; ALSO, FIVE DESIRABLE BUILDING LOTS ADJOINING.—By request of the owner, I will, on

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 26, 1899,

commencing at 4:30 o'clock P. M., on the premises, offer for sale at public auction the DWELLINGS AND LOTS mentioned above.

First, ONE LOT, fronting 25 feet, at the northeast corner of Madison and Canal streets and running back 100 feet. Second, THREE LOTS, fronting 25 feet each by 100 feet deep, adjoining said lot on the north, and bounded by an alley on the north and alley in rear. Third, TWO LOTS, fronting 15 feet each on the north side of Canal street, between Madison and Jefferson streets, and running back 100 feet deep. Fourth, THREE FRAME DWELLINGS, mentioned above, adjoining said lots, with six rooms each, all comparatively new and in good condition. This property is in a good location for renting purposes, as it is rarely ever vacant, and will pay good interest on what it can be bought for. The lots are very desirable, and any one wishing a convenient and good location for building a home can do no better than to settle here.

TERMS: Made known at sale. se 21
