HAPPY WILL THIS MEETING BE.

Locates His Mother in Pennsylvania After 30 Years' Absence.

HUNTINGTON, W. VA., April 30.—(Special.)—John Hargis, of Lincoln county, arrived in the city last night on a very important mission, and should there be no hitch in the programme Mr. Hargis will be one of the happiest men seen in these parts for many a day, as he anticipates an experience which probably never came to a citizen of West Virginia before.

When Mr. Hargis arrived in the city he went to the boarding-house of Mr. Gilkerson, No. 711 Third avenue, and it was around the supper table last evening that he unfolded a story which received the undivided attention of all the guests, and when it was ended there were few cheeks which were not moistened by unbidden tears.

Mr. Hargis has resided in Lincoln county but a short time, having moved there from Scott county, Va., where he, with his father, has resided from his early childhood.

HIS PATHETIC STORY.

The story which Mr. Hargis tells is one which verifies the saying that "truth is stranger than fiction," and the heart which it would fail to stir would certainly be oblivious to all the finer and nobler sentiments of humanity.

At the period of his earliest recollection Mr. Hargis found himself, with his father, occupying a humble home amid the fastnesses of the Great Smoky mountains in Scott county, down in the extreme southwestern border of Virginia. When first he remembers his father told him that he was motherless—that when he was less than two years of age that best of all earthly friends had died, and the father had again married. The little prattling boy had learned to confide in all that the father said, and though his curiosity to know something more and more of his deceased mother overcame him and prompted him at times to indulge in anxious inquiry concerning her, the father was at all times fortified, and so adroitly explained matters that the child was always satisfied of the truth of the story, and was fully reconciled to pass through the world without the privilege of feasting his eyes upon the form of a tender, loving mother.

As John grew to manhood he ceased to ask questions concerning mother, and became absorbed in the real battle of life—in making a living for himself—only at times, no doubt, thinking how he should have been rejoiced to know how one felt who had a real, living mother.

Time passed on until the little boy grew to manhood, well up in the twenties. The father became ill and the physicians informed him that death was near and inevitable to him. It was then that he determined to unlock the secret which he had carried in his bosom for over a score of years. Calling his son into the sick chamber he explained to him that his mother was still living. He stated that in the State of Pennsylvania he and his mother were married. The little boy was born, and before he had reached his second year domestic trouble arose, and one night slipping the little child out of the bed he stole away in darkness and fled to Virginia, choosing a home in the fastnesses of the mountains, where he was able to conceal the real facts in connection with his life's history with little difficulty.

The father lived but a few days. He told his son that it was his opinion that his mother was still alive.

John determined, if possible, to discover her whereabouts. So he came to Lincoln county, this State, and began an inquiry which recently resulted in the discovery that his mother was living and resided in Erie, Pa. A correspondence ensued, and it was arranged that the mother should meet him in this city, and to-morrow she is expected to arrive here. And such a meeting it will be, should it come to pass that the mother and son, separated for more than thirty years, during which time each supposed the other to be dead, should they be thus reunited.

Mr. Hargis is 32 years old, and is one of the intelligent and highly respectable farmers in his section. His mother, it appears, having believed that his father was dead, had married a man by the name of Tyler.

Mr. Hargis will remain here until the arrival of his mother, and he is literally insane with delight over the prospect of meeting her whom he regarded as dead for so many years. To him the meeting will be almost as though one had risen from the dead, while the mother will be no less delighted to meet the one so ruthlessly torn from her arms in his infancy, and whom she had, no doubt, also mourned as dead.

SCOTTSVILLE.

The Constitutional Convention—Personal and General.

SCOTTSVILLE, VA., April 30.—(Special.)—Everybody in this section seem to think that the constitutional convention is a foregone conclusion. I think the general sentiment, however, is that the matter be submitted to a vote of the people.

The many friends of Miss Sallie Moon were much shocked to hear Sunday morning of her death, which occurred suddenly on Saturday evening at the residence of Mr. David J. Hancock, at "Snowden." The immediate cause was heart failure, brought on by a second attack of grip. She was about 73 years of age, and a sister of Mr. J. L. Moon, of Richmond. She was buried at Mount Ayr, her old home.

Mr. M. P. Pitts, of Caldwell, W. Va., is here on a visit to his old home.

Mr. Fred H. Farrar, of Richmond, spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Farrar.

Mrs. Jarman, of Charlottesville, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Mary Jones, at Stacy Point.

Mr. B. H. Jones's new residence is progressing finely, and the family expect to occupy it about the middle of May.

Rev. W. C. Hull, of the University of Virginia, preached at the Disciples church here Sunday to good congregations morning and night. The church has employed him as pastor for every third Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Carter, of Howardsville, were here yesterday.

Mr. William S. Beal, of Arvonia, is on a visit to our town.

Mr. Bernard A. Burgess, of Richmond, is here to-day.

Mr. J. L. Moon, of Richmond, is here on a short visit to his old home.

Mr. F. C. Moon, of Lynchburg, left for his home yesterday.

FATAL ACCIDENT.

Two Men Dashed Down a Mountain Side.

LURAY, VA., April 30.—(Special.)—Jim Weekley and Jim Colvin, young men, working at Nauman's saw-mill, about ten miles south of Stanley, in Madison county, received fatal injuries last Friday. Colvin was almost instantly killed, and Weekley died Sunday. They were operating a train car on a steep mountainside, the cables of which broke, dashing them down the mountain.

CORONER'S INQUEST INTO THE VIADUCT ACCIDENT.

THE CAUSE MAY NEVER BE KNOWN.

Death of Everett, Sunday Afternoon, Swells the List of Fatalities to Four—Bodies Shipped Home—Possible Lawsuits—Coroner's Evidence.

To the list of fatalities resulting from Saturday's viaduct horror was added Sunday the name of Arthur Leslie Everett, who died at 2 o'clock P. M., at the Virginia Hospital. The injuries to the skull of the young Richmond man precluded hope of recovery from the first. He lingered, in a semi-comatose condition, until the hour just stated. His was the fourth death to ensue from the accident.

The other injured men—Brubaker and Simmers—will recover. The latter was walking about last evening. The former took the train at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon for his home, at Halifax, Pa. He will be compelled to use a crutch for a month. Assistant Foreman Simmers will leave to-day for his home, at Harrisburg, Pa.

The event of interest Sunday was the holding of the Coroner's inquest. This lasted nearly four hours. The result was disappointing to those who expected the verdict to fix the blame. The jurors concluded that "from the evidence before them they are unable satisfactorily to ascertain the cause of the overturn." The cause may never be known.

HOLDING OF THE INQUEST.

The inquest was held over the body of George B. Bauer, one of the four men whose death resulted from the accident. The following jury made the inquiry: William H. Taylor, M. D., Coroner; Messrs. R. J. E. Garrison, foreman; R. A. Woodward, R. S. Childress, C. R. Meads, J. W. Gibbons, and E. M. Noble. The jury assembled at 10 A. M. at Billups's undertaking establishment, but subsequently adjourned to the First Police Station, where greater privacy was secured, an immense crowd having collected about the undertaking parlors.

The jury was in session until about half-past 1 in the afternoon, when the verdict was reached. There was a long discussion among the jurymen concerning the exact language that would best reflect their judgment. In the end it was agreed that the evidence did not justify the placing of blame.

The following witnesses testified: J. W. Carroll, foreman for the Pennsylvania Steel Company, in charge of the Richmond, Petersburg and Carolina viaduct work; George H. Albright, engineer; Clarence A. Muire, a bystander; Joseph Simmers, assistant foreman.

FEATURES OF THE EVIDENCE.

The interesting features of the testimony are found in the following sentences from the sworn evidence of the four witnesses:

Foreman Carroll: The booms can swing up and down, but not sideways. * * * The traveller was lashed to the viaduct. * * * We have lifted much heavier girders with the same rigging. * * * All the ropes were sound."

Engineer Albright: The front right-hand corner of the traveller arose, and the whole machine fell into the street. * * * The present methods and machinery have been used in the construction of the viaduct from Marshall street to Main street.

Witness Muire: I heard something crack, and the boom seemed to bend. The southwest corner of the machine raised up, and the whole machine fell into the street.

Assistant Foreman Simmers: The traveller was lashed (to the viaduct) with inch and a half rope, wrapped about five times and wedged. I superintend that myself. * * * I have been engaged in this business all my life, and don't know of any precautions that are customary that I did not take that day.

BODIES SHIPPED HOME.

The bodies of Walter S. Plock, Harry Marzolf, and George B. Bauer were shipped to their respective homes, in Pennsylvania, yesterday. One of the workmen was detailed to accompany the remains of Marzolf and Bauer. A brother-in-law, named Benn, came for the remains of Plock, and returned to Philadelphia with them yesterday afternoon.

No accident has happened here recently which aroused so great and general interest. This is shown in the case of Everett, whose death was generally known throughout the city an hour or two after it occurred. The hospital 'phones were kept in constant use all day. Everett's funeral took place from his late home, No. 1820 Carrington street, at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, in the presence of a large assemblage. Rev. Preston Nash conducted the funeral service. Five carriages, containing men in the company's employ, followed the remains of their companion to Oakwood, besides the family and other friends.

SUITS ARE EXPECTED.

It is considered probable that suits will be brought against the Pennsylvania Steel Company, in whose employ the dead men were. One of the first things Mr. Benn did on arriving here yesterday was to call on Coroner Taylor. He is a brother-in-law to Plock. He asked a great many questions as to the evidence that had been given, and seemed disappointed that the jury had not placed the blame. Mr. B. B. Munford, as counsel for the Pennsylvania Company, was present at the Coroner's inquest. One of the men from the main office at Steelton, Pa., Mr. Fred Cohen, engineer of erection, came down yesterday.

The company, it is stated, carried no insurance on the lives of its men. The Casualty Insurance Company, of New York, is custodian of a permanent accident fund, which is maintained by deducting 2 per cent. from the salaries of the 10,000 or 12,000 men engaged by the Pennsylvania Steel Company in various parts of the country. In case of injury, the men receive one-half pay during the period of their disability, provided it does not exceed fifty-two weeks. The families of those killed receive nothing from this fund. It was stated last night that a subscription would be raised among the workmen for the families of those who perished in Saturday's accident.

RESUME WORK TO-DAY.

No work was done on the viaduct yesterday. The men preferred to observe the day out of respect to the dead. This morning work will be resumed. Four more girders are to be placed to the south of Main street. This will be done without waiting to replace the wrecked hoisting machinery. Another means will be employed to handle the big girders, so as to avoid the expense and delay of providing a new hoisting apparatus.

THE STRAWBERRY TRAINS.

They Daily Carry Much Fruit North from North Carolina—R. R. Notes.

The through trains of the Southern Express Company from the strawberry district of North Carolina are doing a fine business. The strawberry train leaves Wilmington every morning at 8 o'clock and stops at every station between Wilmington and Goldsboro' on the Atlantic-Coast Line to receive strawberries and other early fruit. But after getting north of Goldsboro' only five or six stops are made south of Washington. The train makes sixty miles an hour between Washington and New York.

The Wilmington (N. C.) Star says that the Southern Express Company handled 1,006 crates of strawberries over the Wilmington and Weldon railroad yesterday, and fifty-four crates were handled over the Atlantic and Yadkin Division. The majority of the shipments yesterday were to Boston and Pittsburg. It is thought before the present week shall have closed that the express company will be handling on an average of about 7,000 crates, which means a solid train of twelve to fifteen cars. Prices on Saturday ranged from 25 to 50 cents a quart. On the Boston market the quotations were from 40 to 50 cents, and on the New York market from 25 to 40 cents. On the Philadelphia market 25 cents was the highest quotation.

Mr. Warren P. Taylor, traffic manager of the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac railroad, and Mr. C. E. Grabowski, of the claim department of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company, left for St. Louis yesterday to attend the meeting of the Freight Claim Association, May 2d and 3d. Mr. Taylor is secretary of the association.

The offices of Mr. C. S. Campbell, division freight and passenger agent of the Atlantic-Coast Line, and of Mr. E. R. Gilbert, soliciting agent, have been removed to Ninth and Main, in the quarters of the Norfolk and Western. The friends of Mr. Campbell and Mr. Gilbert are glad they are now out in position where they are more "comeatable."

NOTES ON SUNDAY SERVICES.

Christians to Build a Church—Many Sucessful Revivals—Other Notes.

The first steps were taken Sunday afternoon towards the organization of a Christian church in the neighborhood of the West-End Christian mission, No. 1205 west Cary street. A decidedly interesting meeting was held at the mission house and a committee was appointed to effect the details of organization. This committee consists of sixteen persons, who have been much interested in the mission at this place. Mr. J. L. Hill was made chairman.

SEVERAL INTERESTING REVIVALS.

The special services at the First Baptist church will continue till to-morrow night. The meeting has been exceptionally fine, resulting in quite a large number of conversions. The ordinance of baptism was administered Sunday night. Dr. J. R. Garlick baptized at this time two grandchildren of the late Dr. J. B. Jeter. It was just fifty-one years ago this April that Dr. Jeter baptized Dr. Garlick, then a mere lad. Dr. Jeter was then pastor of the First church, and young Garlick had professed conversion under his preaching.

Rev. George H. Wiley is conducting special services at Old Market Hall again this week. Mr. Wiley preached a tender sermon Sunday night, and several requests for prayers were made.

The meeting at the West-View Baptist church goes on also this week. Dr. Derieux is aiding Dr. Mercer. Perhaps not before in years have so many special efforts been so signally successful in number of professions as those of recent months.

THE PASTORS' CONFERENCES.

The reports of many professions of conversion made the feature of the Baptist ministers' conference yesterday morning. Additions had been made during the past two weeks to nearly every church of this denomination in and around the city. In many instances an unusually large number of professions of faith were reported. Among the churches that have had recent and successful revivals are the First, Grove-Avenue, Bainbridge-Street, and Barton Heights. Rev. T. C. Skinner, Rev. Dr. A. J. Barton, and Rev. L. W. Pierce, late of China, were visitors to the conference. Rev. Mr. Pierce made an earnest plea for another helper in the China work.

The Methodist, Presbyterian, and Episcopal ministers held their conferences as usual. Several Methodist pastors reported deep interest in spiritual things existing among their congregations. The efforts of the Methodist churches in revivals have been notably successful in the past thirty days.

BRIEF CHURCH NOTES.

Grace-Street Baptist church has in hand now $11,800 of the $12,000 wanted before work on the completion of their church is begun.

Rev. W. W. Williams, of College-View Mission, will conduct the prayer-meeting service at Immanuel Baptist church tomorrow night.

The Sunday school of Monumental church held a most appropriate and interesting Eastertide celebration Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The music was excellent. The procession of children made a most impressive sight.

Mr. J. R. Pepper, of Memphis, was heard by large congregations on Sunday at Centenary Methodist church. Mr. Pepper was also in the Methodist ministers' meeting yesterday morning, and made an interesting talk.

Rev. M. Ashby Jones preached to the Odd-Fellows at Leigh-Street Baptist church Sunday morning. About one hundred members of the order attended in a body.

Mr. Charles H. Gootee, of Maryland, preached to 500 persons in the chapel of the penitentiary on Sunday morning. The discourse was tender and very comforting in its nature to the convict congregation. At the conclusion fifty persons stood up or held up their hands asking for prayer in their behalf.

The congregation of Howard's-Grove Baptist church have determined to erect an $8,000 brick church on their recently-purchased lot.

For the Position of Tipstaff.

Mr. D. S. Cates, the well-known justice of the peace of Monroe Ward, is an applicant for the position of tipstaff of the Supreme Court of Appeals. Mr. Cates was a member of the famous Pegram Battalion, and was at one time Sheriff of the city. His friends urge his special fitness for the place, as he is thoroughly familiar with court work.

The friends of Captain William J. Epps will make a warm fight for him. Captain Epps is one of the best-known men in the city.

The River Work.

The fine weather of the past week has enabled the contractors to greatly push the work on the power-house of the Virginia Electrical Railway and Development Company. A force of men is now at work placing the centres and ribs for the draught tubes. After this has been done the work will be cemented over and made as nearly as possible air-tight so as to cause a draught which will draw the water rapidly out of the tubes. The other work on the river is also progressing very rapidly at present.

Made an Army Surgeon.

Dr. Ben Warriner, who was resident physician at St. Luke's Hospital, in this city about four years ago, has been appointed a surgeon in the army. He will be stationed at Port Royal, S. C.

Dr. Warriner has resided at Crewe for several years, and has a large practice there. Many friends in this city will rejoice at his appointment, although disliking to see him go away from Virginia. He has a number of relatives here.

U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the fourth circuit will convene for the May term to-day at 12 o'clock. Judges Goff, Simonton, Brawley, and Purnell will compose the court for the term. A great many interesting decisions are expected to be announced.

The court will likely be in session a week or ten days.
