SUFFERED FROM PROFIT-TAKING

Favorite Speculative Stocks Generally Lost Ground During the Day.

THE TONE VERY IRREGULAR

Bank Statement Showed Larger Decline in Cash Than Was Expected.

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—With no change in the hopeful, cheerful tenor of the news and with no abatement of the confidence in general conditions, the desire to realize profits so far overbore the eagerness to secure new ownership in stocks as to cause a decidedly irregular tone in to-day's market. The price changes compared with last night offered a very mixed result at the end of the trading. The favorite speculative stocks, which usually lead the whole market in point of activity, suffered most from raliying and generally lost ground during the day. Conspicuous gains were made by the less prominent railroad stocks and by many industrials and speculatives, which are rarely heard of in the market. Such gains were striking, extending to many points in some cases, but their effect is never so reassuring to the general speculative sentiment as the uplifting demand for standard stocks. The Wabashes, Illinois, Central and Southern Pacific were the most effective sustaining forces in the day's market, and United States preferred showed revived strength in the late market, when the general tendency was downward. The bank statement showed a larger decline in cash than was expected, but its effect on the surplus was modified by the considerable loan contraction of $14,789,600. Total sales of bonds, par value, $7,295,000. Total sales stocks to-day, 820,000 shares.

COTTON MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 3@5 points, which was rather better than due on the cables. The weather was more or less unsettled, but nothing was reported to calculate to alarm shorts particularly, and while there was buying from this account it seemed to come chiefly from the usual end-week motives. Wire houses with southwestern connections did a fair buying orders. On the other hand, Wall Street sold moderately and there was countering liquidation. Altogether trading was quiet, with fluctuations narrow and irregular. Prices sold off a little from the best, but the general tone was steady.

Lynchburg Tobacco Market.

Lynchburg, Va., Nov. 12, 1904.

Sales of loose tobacco on the Lynchburg market for two weeks ending November 11th, reported by John L. Oglesby, of Lynch's Warehouse, are as follows:

Sold ewek ending November 4th, 29,700 pounds; sold week ending November 11th, 73,00 pounds; increase for week ending November 11th, 43,300 pounds.

Sold from September 1, 1904, to November 11, 1904, 501,100 pounds; sold from September 1, 1903, to November 11, 1903, 1,585,300 pounds; decrease for 1904, 1,084,200 pounds.

The receipts this week were teh heaviest since the new tobacco started to move. The offerings consisted largely of the new crop, but little primings or old tobacco being sold. The price of primings continue about as heretofore reported—$1 to $3.00 per 100 pounds. The new tobacco offered has not been of the best quality, but mostly of the nond script portion of the crop. The prices paid for the grades offered have been fairly satisfactory to the planters, being a higher average price than the same grades brought the corresponding week last year. Prices this week for lugs were from $3.50 to $5.00; common leaf, $5 to $6.00; medium leaf, $6.10 to $8.00, and for the best leaf, $8.50 to $10.00 per 100 pounds. The cause of the increase in receipts was a light season last Friday, which enabled some of the planters to get a portion of their tobacco down. Much heavier receipts are looked for next week.

DANVILLE TOBACCO MARKET.

Danville, Va., Nov. 12, 1904.

Danville, Va., Nov. 12, 1904.

Sales this week have been the largest of the season, lasting until 1 o'clock each day and until late in the afternoon on one day. The offerings do not show any improvement in quality. Nearly all of the tobaccos are of medium grades, with very common and fine tobaccos exceedingly scarce. The market continues strong and active on everything, and prices on common tobacco show an even further advance. Good to fine whappers also show strengthening. All classes of buyers are out in full force and buying is quite lively. The large corporations are buying quite freely. Trade in hogshead lots continues active and the stocks in the hands of dealers are being rapidly decreased.

CRACKED SKULLS OF OBSTINATE STUDENTS

Recent Trouble at Innsbruck Caused Riot Between Germans and Italians.

(By Associated Press.)

VIENNA, November 12.—Many heads were broken in a fierce conflict between German and Italian students at the University to-day, the fight arising from the recent troubles at Innsbruck.

The Germans took the aggressive. They started singing the "Wacht Am Rhein" with uncovered heads and demanded that all the other students remove their hats.

The Italians, Slavs and other non-Germans refused to do so, whereupon the Teutons forcibly knocked off their opponent's headgear and trampled their hats and caps in the dust.

The Italians started a counter-demonstration on the University steps and sang the national hymn of Italy. The Germans then attacked the Italians and drove them from their position. Sticks and umbrellas were freely used and many heads were cracked, but no arrests were made as the fighting was confined to the University precincts.

SALAMAGUNDI CLUB.

A Limited Social Organization in Northampton County.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

CAPE CHARLES, VA., November 12.—A society event of more than passing import was scored a few days ago, when the Salamagundi Club was organized by the young ladies and gentlemen round about Chesapeake.

The club will be found to be one of the most exclusive in the county, when it is considered that the membership is limited to twenty in number, and its duration expires by limitation on December 24th next.

The organization was effected about three weeks ago, when a few of the upper social strata met at Lebanon, the hospitable and palatial home of Mr. L. L. Nottingham, long since the rendezvous of pleasure-bent society, the following leaders in affairs of innocent gayety being unanimously elected to official position for the period of the body's club life: Miss Edna Jennie Williams, president; Mr. Baily Bell, first vice-president; Miss Hannah Stoakley, second vice-president; Paul Woodfin, secretary, and Miss Lucile Cooke, treasurer.

Several meetings have since been held, one at Shirley, the magnificent residence of John B. Williams, Esq., where, true to the traditions of that ancient and honorable ancestral line, everything good was dedicated to the will of the brilliant company assembled for mutual enjoyment. The last, which was held at Lebanon, proved an epoch in the annals of Northampton society. When the evening was well spent in a spirited game of progressive dominoes, the gathering was invited to partake of a repast such as seldom gladdens the palate of the most confirmed epicurian. The dinner consisted of four elaborately prepared courses, and when gathered to the destiny of all good dinners, was admittedly on all sides a subject of delightfully absorbing interest and converse.

Miss Edna Nottingham, the accomplished daughter of the host and hostess, had, by the resourcefulness of her forethought and charm of her personality, vouchsafed to the fortunate ones in attendance an evening of enjoyment whose memory must needs henceforth occupy a position of permanency, and all with one accord agreed that were the club at once disbanded, yet it had earned for itself a place of security in the affections of all the elect whose names were enrolled upon the pages of its membership. But they tell it that the end is happily not yet.

Barbour, of Harrisburg, Pa., How to Feed Your Stock With the Best Results.

Evening session—Professor S. B. Heiges, of the Virginia test farm, Saxe, Charlotte county, Va.; subject, Fruit Culture and How to Keep Your Orchards Free From Insects. J. M. Barker, Esq., of Axton, Henry county, Va., who is one of the most progressive and successful farmers in all the South, made an address, which was given the closest attention throughout its delivery, on the subject of Tobacco Culture and General Farming.

The farmers were greatly pleased over what they heard and learned, and a large crowd may be expected when these gentlemen hold another institute about this time next year.
