The entrance to the disorderly house of a woman named Lola Dunn, over the Klondike Saloon, is through a narrow alleyway, less than a yard in width, just to the right of the building. The unconscious form of Henderson was found with his feet at this entrance, lying on his back, with his head toward the street. This led the police to an investigation of the upstairs, and as a result Mrs. William Moss and Mrs. Nora Barnes were arrested and taken to the First Police Station yesterday. The night before the house was entered by the police, but they could find no signs of disorder in connection with the murder. [illegible]

Saw Man Run.

[illegible]

Harris said that he was standing in front of the Klondike with a girl, when he saw Henderson pushed out of the narrow alley by a white man, dressed in dark clothes and of medium stature. On being shoved out Henderson turned about and the other struck at but missed his head. Harris says that Henderson dodged back in the alley, but was shoved out in the street again. By this time the other man raised his fist and hit him in the head. Henderson fell backwards like a log, his head striking the pavement with a loud thud. After the man struck Henderson about he started to get out of the alley and down the street, but had not more than started before he turned about and disappeared into the alley again.

Harris says that he heard some one cry "Look out! They are going to shoot!" and he ran away from the spot. He stated that he could not tell whether the man who hit Henderson had a bludgeon in his hand or not, but Coroner Taylor thinks that only some such similar weapon could have made the fracture which was found in the dead man's head. In fact, the slightly injured flesh almost makes this fact positive. That the fracture should be of so great extent can be accounted for by the abnormal thinness of Henderson's skull.

saw Henderson lying on his back with his feet toward the alleyway, and his head in a direct line toward the street. Henderson's arms were outstretched, and he was gasping for breath. There was no signs of blood and at first Hill thought he was merely sick.

"What's the matter?" said Hill to the girl who had screamed.

"Hit Him in the Head."

"A man hit him in the head and then ran back down the alley and jumped over the fence," replied the girl. At her words a colored man ran down the alley and looked over a board fence about six feet high. He came back saying that he saw the man disappear in the darkness.

About this time officer Wright came up, and began examining Henderson. Hill told him what the girl had said, and she repeated her statement to the policeman.

Hill says that when he came out of the saloon there were few people in the near vicinity.

A crowd soon gathered, however, when the girl screamed, and the city ambulance was hurriedly sent for. The small wounds in the back of Henderson's head bled but very little, and when Dr. [illegible] arrived it seemed to be more a case of apoplexy than anything else.

BANKER STENSLAND TO BE RETURNED

Two Courses Are Open by Which His Person May Be Obtained.

THE PRESIDENT INTERESTED

Department Will Represent Illinois State Until Matter is Settled.

WASHINGTON, D. C., September 6.—Shortly after noon to-day Charles L. Binns, chief clerk of the State Attorney's office, of Cook county, Ill., appeared at the State Department, equipped with a full set of extradition papers, which had been sent along merely as a precautionary measure, because they will not be needed in all probability to secure the return to this country of banker Stensland.

Mr. Binns spent some time discussing the best means of securing the return of the fugitive. All difficulties have disappeared excepting the question of transportation, and that is now regarded as a minor matter. The department has decided to send by cable authorization to Assistant State's Attorney Olsen and James Keely, a Chicago newspaper man, both of whom are now in Tangier, to take Stensland into custody and fetch him to America.

Two Courses Are Open.

Two courses are open; one to place the man on the first merchant vessel touching at Tangier on her way to the United States, and the other to await the arrival at that port of the naval refrigerating ship Glacier, due in about three weeks on her way home to New York. No orders have yet been sent to the Glacier to serve in this capacity, though the matter was discussed to-day between Secretary Bonaparte and Admiral Converse, chief of the Bureau of Navigation. Naval officers are never anxious to use their ships to convey prisoners, but if the State Department makes the request, of course it will be honored.

In addition to the cable authorization, the State Department will send by mail the President's warrant to Messrs. Olsen and Kelley to take Stensland into custody, which document may be of service when the man arrives in New York to thwart any legal efforts to secure his discharge by habeas corpus.

President is Interested.

The President, himself, has shown great interest in this case, having received many communications from people in Chicago urging the national government to do everything possible to secure a prompt return of Stensland for trial. The State Department has anticipated these requests and has notified Governor Deneen that the department is perfectly willing to fully represent the State of Illinois in this matter until the fugitive is delivered in Cook county.

ATTORNEY BARBOUR RECEIVES MESSAGE

Stensland Will Probably Return Without Waiting for Legal Documents.

CHICAGO, September 6.—Late today Assistant State's Attorney Barbour received a message from Assistant State's Attorney Olsen, at Tangier, requesting that the authorities at Washington permit Stensland to return without waiting for the arrival of legal documents. The prisoner was said to be willing and anxious to return to Chicago at once.

Receiver Fetzer, of the Milwaukee Avenue State Bank, today received the following dispatch from Secretary Shaw in Washington:

"Assistant Secretary of State consulted the solicitor for the State Department concerning the funds deposited by Stensland in the French bank at Tangier. The solicitor sees no course open, but for you to attach the fund according to law, and according to procedure controlling judicial questions affecting the French bank of Tangier."

INSANE MOTHER KILLS HER TWO CHILDREN

Using a Carving Knife, She Kills Them, and Then Sends a Neighbor to See Them.

CINCINNATI, O., September 6.—A Times-Star special from Columbus Grove, O., says:

Mrs. Henry Kippen, wife of a farmer living near Cloverdale, Putnam county, decapitated her two children to-day, a boy, aged three, and a girl, aged one. Mrs. Kippen then went to the home of a neighbor and told what she had done. She asked the neighbor to go and see the children. The boy's head was nearly cut off. The girl's head was completely severed, and was found near the body. A carving knife was used. The woman was discharged recently from the Toledo State Hospital for Insane.

INSPECT FLOWER GARDENS TO-DAY

Committee of Civic Improvement League Will Make Annual Visit This Afternoon.

BOYS AND GIRLS ANXIOUS

Bright Young Contestants Are Eager to Have Their Work Seen.

The bright, ambitious children of Richmond, who entered the "Flower Garden Contest," inaugurated several years ago by The Times-Dispatch, and which, with the co-operation of the Civic Improvement League, has been wonderfully successful in stimulating the youth of Richmond to an effort in the direction of neatness and beauty about the homes and yards and arousing in them the love of flowers, will soon know how they stand this year. The committee of the Civic Improvement League will visit the gardens this afternoon and as soon thereafter as possible will announce the decisions.

PEACE PROJECTS; LITTLE PROGRESS

gents, and other equally radical propositions. The liberals have not yet relinquished the idea that they may be able to force the resignation of President Palma and all the high government officials. The succession of Vice-President Mendez Capote to the presidency is also discussed. Liberals seem to think they could reach an understanding with him that would be satisfactory to all.

A Patched-Up Peace.

Many business men of Havana ridicule the whole effort for what they call a patched-up peace, which they allege can be no more than temporary, and some go so far as to assert that the country never can be governed rightly or investments be absolutely safeguarded unless the United States intervene. This is frankly stated in some cases also by high government officials, and brings the retort that those who make such statements are not good Cubans.

Despite all drawbacks, however, the fact that peace proposals are pending and that hostilities have been suspended has brought more or less hopefulness to the people of Havana.

TAKE DAJABEN.

Garrison of Seventy Surrenders to Guellito's Army of 800.

CAPE HAYTIEN, September 6.—A messenger to-day brought details of the capture of Dajaben, Santo Domingo, by the insurgent General Guellito, Mauricio Jiminez and Andres Navarro. At the head of 800 men, they arrived before Dajaben, which was only defended by a garrison of seventy government soldiers. The latter, seeing the impossibility of resisting, retired into the fort, and, September 4th, the town capitulated to the insurgent forces.

After the capture of Dajaben, General Guellito divided his troops into corps and sent one of them in the direction of Monte Cristi on the north coast, and the other towards Guayubin, to prevent government reinforcements reaching Monte Cristi.

General Guellito represented to the garrison of the fort at Dajaben the uselessness of fighting in the face of such heavy odds, and in view of this fact, combined with the great popularity of Guellito, the government troops deserted and joined the insurgent forces.

Government Forces Routed.

CIENFUEGOS, September 6.—A detachment of fifty government troops from this city to-day encountered a band of General Guzman's insurgents near Camarones. In the fight which ensued the government force was routed, many being killed or wounded. There is great excitement in Cienfuegos.

LONGWORTHS ARRIVE.

Reach Oyster Bay, But Will Soon Go West.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., September 6.—Mrs. Nicholas Longworth arrived at Oyster Bay to-day. Representative Longworth spent the day in New York, and arrived to-night. They will remain the guests of President and Mrs. Roosevelt for several days.

President Roosevelt entertained at luncheon to-day Major W. H. H. Llewellyn, United States District Attorney in New Mexico. Major Llewellyn was an officer in President Roosevelt's Rough Rider regiment.

When Representative Longworth reached Oyster Bay this evening he said he had spent the day at the meeting of the International Polo-holders' Committee, of which he is secretary. He came East for that purpose, and said he intended to return to Cincinnati to-morrow. He will endeavor to take at the headquarters of the Republican Congressional Committee in New York [illegible]. Speaking of the political situation in Ohio, he said it was very satisfactory.

BALLOONIST FALLS TO HIS INSTANT DEATH

OSKALOOSA, KAS., September 6.—In full view of 2,000 spectators at the Jefferson County Fair to-day, Jerry Turner, an inexperienced balloonist, fell 200 feet from a trapeze suspended from a parachute, and was instantly killed. Turner's home was in Kansas City.

The balloon rose perhaps 1,000 feet. When 200 feet from the ground his hand loosened and he fell backward.

FIX MINIMUM PRICES FOR COTTON SEED

TEXARKANA, ARK., September 6.—The National Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union to-day decided that no cotton seed should be sold for less than the following rates:

East of the Mississippi River a minimum price of 50 cents a bushel, or $14.00 a ton, as seed is worth that amount for fertilizer. West of the Mississippi a minimum price of [illegible] a ton.

BRYAN IS RESTING AND FEELS GRATEFUL

LINCOLN, NEB., September 6.—After the strenuous week since their arrival in New York, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Bryan today enjoyed quiet at the Fairview home. Mr. Bryan said that for himself and Mrs. Bryan, he wanted to thank the people of the country and especially those of his home State and city for the kindly way in which he had been received. September 10th Mr. Bryan leaves for a tour of three weeks in the South, Central and Southeastern States.

Irrigation Congress Over.

BOISE, IDAHO, September 6.—The fourteenth National Irrigation Congress closed to-night, after voting to hold the next congress at Sacramento, and electing as president of the Fifteenth Congress, Governor George M. Chamberlain, of Oregon. The attractions of the Jamestown Exposition had been cleverly presented, and on the first ballot for the convention city, Jamestown was in the lead. Sacramento won on the second ballot.

Both Parties Nominate.

BISBEE, ARZ., September 6.—As a result of the conventions held here today both by the Democratic and Republican parties of Arizona, Mark Smith, of Tucson, was nominated as the Democratic candidate for Congress, and W. C. Cooper, of Globe, was nominated as the Republican candidate.

Both parties adopted an identical resolution against Statehood.

FACTORY COLLAPSES AND MEN ARE BURIED

Two Killed, Two Fatally Injured and Many Others Slightly Hurt.

ELYRIA, O., September 6.—Twenty-seven workmen were buried in debris by the collapse of the new Garford factory. Two are dead, two fatally injured, five seriously injured, and several others slightly hurt.

The dead: M. Spinnel, H. Tuck.

Fatally injured: Michael Johnson, Robert Knowles.

Seriously injured: J. Spinnel, Michael J. Belogie, M. Belogie, B. Pelage.

The accident happened while the men were at work removing the false structure used to hold the concrete pillars of the new building in place. The false work, it is said, was removed too soon, the concrete not yet having hardened sufficiently to sustain the weight of the structure.

The Woman's Privilege.

"What are you looking so glum about?"

"Oh my fiancee has changed her mind."

"Still worrying over that? It was fully two weeks ago since you told me she had broken off the engagement."

"Oh it's been on and off again twice since then."—The Catholic Standard and Times.

Lewis Johnson Davis Dead.

WASHINGTON, September 6.—Lewis Johnson Davis died to-night at his residence in this city, aged seventy-two years. For many years he has been associated with the firm of Lewis Johnson and Company, bankers and brokers, an institution established by his grandfather. He was a veteran of the Civil War, and was identified with various charitable institutions. He also served as president of the Washington Stock Exchange.

The Women and Children Also

We solicit the savings accounts of married women, single women and children. The smallest amount will do to start with and is accepted as cheerfully as a larger sum.

Many a woman wage earner is letting her savings accumulate here to her future great advantage. Many a home-maker has a savings account here growing rapidly.

The earlier the children learn to save the better for their future.

The 3 per cent. compound interest we pay helps the rapid growth of the account.
