PRESIDENT TAKES HAND IN NEW YORK

Confers With Root and Cortelyou About Political Situation in State.

HUGHES' MANAGERS ALARMED

Tide of Support From Labor Circles Has Set Toward Hearst.

[illegible]

The Hughes managers in New York confess to alarm at the outlook. The steady tide of support from labor circles which has set in towards Mr. Hearst has alarmed them. The recent whirlwind tour of Mr. Hughes through New York State showed quite plainly, it is believed, that the bulk of the farmer vote would be with him. It is said that many men who never voted the Republican ticket before in all their lives came miles to assure Mr. Hughes that they would vote for him in November.

Frost in Towns.

It was all quite encouraging until the candidate struck the towns. Then the frost began. Everywhere, so far as the towns and cities were concerned, Mr. Hughes received a reception cordial enough, but the enthusiasm of crowds was lacking. All the smaller cities of New York and the outskirts of the towns are filled with workers in factories and mills and furnaces, and these are said to have shown unmistakably that they were supporting Mr. Hearst.

the fall of 1890, and in the Senate during the session succeeding the election, the bill was defeated through the efforts of Gorman, Daniel and Vest, mainly, aided by Senator Quay.

But Tennesseeans have not forgiven Mr. Evans for his vote to put the force bill upon them, and a Tennesseean exhibited to-day an extract from a Republican paper of this city, commenting upon the force bill a few hours after its passage by the House, which will be circulated in Tennessee against Mr. Evans. Mr. Evans, by the way, is not a native of the State, but came into Tennessee soon after the end of the war, and was a carpet-bagger as long as that term was used in the South. The extract mentioned was dug from the files of the National Republican in the Congressional Library. It appeared in that paper on July 3, 1890, a few hours after the House had passed the force bill. It is as follows:

"With the Lodge national election law in full force over the South and various strongholds up North, we may confidently look for a different state of political affairs than now exists. New York City will then return several more Republican Congressmen than at present, while more than twenty negro representatives from the South will render Republican control of future Congresses absolutely sure and safe. As Mississippi, Florida and South Carolina contain a large majority of negroes, to put these States into the Republican line, we can confidently look in the future for seven Southern States to be reliably Republican. This means a gain of fourteen Senators and at least twenty Representatives to the Republican party.

"When through the operation of the Lodge national election law six or seven Southern States shall discard Democratic rule, we shall look for some measure of justice done the blacks who have been so long defrauded of their rights. Heavy taxes should be laid upon the property of the whites to develop and extend the school system in these States.

"Separate schools for the two races should be abolished, and the plan of bringing the youth of both colors into close and equal relation in schools and churches given a fair trial, as one of the most potent elements to break down the detestable Bourbonism of the South. The right of the black to bear arms should be guaranteed to him, as well as the social rights intended to be secured him by the passage of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments. The State laws against the intermarriage of the races should be repealed, and any discriminations against the blacks in the matter of learning trades or employment should be made a criminal offense, while the colored man's right to hold office should be sacredly protected and recognized. A few years of this policy will solve the race problem satisfactorily."

"I do not want to revive old prejudices and animosities," said the Tennesseean, who displayed the clipping, "but [illegible]"

King Quality SHOES FOR MEN

Comfort Giving. King Quality Shoes are comfort giving because they are made on true scientific principles from high-grade flexible leather and on correctly shaped lasts.

The hooks and eyelets do not wear shiny.

The Stylish New Toe. The new fall styles in toes are exemplified in this model. It combines style and distinctness and yet is sensible, roomy, comfortable.

The Glove-Fitting Top. The stylish appearance of a shoe depends so much on the perfect and unwrinkled fit about the ankle that we pay particular attention to this point. Our shoes fit the ankle as a glove fits the hand.

THE ARCH of the instep is perfect in form, comfort giving and instep supporting, in fact.

strikes all who know her as worthy to share the fortunes and comfort the declining years of our chief, as she was worthy to share his honors and reign in society at Washington and at Richmond.

"She speaks in the most cordial terms of dear Mr. Davis of Richmond and Richmond people, and [illegible] after [illegible] friends."

Death of Mr. Davis.

This quiet, peaceful life [illegible] was brought to a close by the death of Mr. Davis, who had long been in an enfeebled condition. A week before his final illness he insisted on going to Brierfield to attend to some business matters.

He was then in his eighty-first year. While at Brierfield he was taken sick and by the time he got back to New Orleans the shadow of death was upon him. He was taken to the home of Judge [illegible]

Winnie Davis, the "Daughter of the Confederacy." Her sons died before her husband. But one child was now left to her, Mrs. J. A. Hayes, of Colorado, who is still living. The remains of Miss Winnie Davis were brought to Richmond and were interred in Hollywood. The funeral was held from St. Paul's Church, in this city.

Up to the time of her death Mrs. Davis was interested in the [illegible] proposed to be erected here in honor of her husband. She was [illegible] opposed to [illegible] expressed her disapproval of this plan. [illegible] It was her desire also to [illegible] the statue placed at the Soldiers' Home, [illegible] for the use to which it is which she was called; and no husband ever had a more devoted, self-sacrificing wife.

"When he was in prison she left no effort untried until she at last got permission to visit him and share his hard lot, which she greatly brightened; and for all of the later years of his life she was his constant companion, his nurse in sickness, his amanuensis, his comforter, his helpmate in every sense of the term.

"And now, as the 'Widow of the Confederacy,' she has the warmest place in the hearts of old Confederates and of our people generally.

"May heaven's choicest blessings rest upon her and her children has been, and will be, the prayer that wells up from many a Southern heart."

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., October 16.—In reply to a letter written to President Roosevelt by R. C. Dale, of Kern county, a former Assemblyman, asking if the President intended to declare his interest or preference in the State gubernatorial campaign, the following letter has been received:

"White House, Washington,
"October 8, 1906.

"My Dear Sir:

"The President has received your letter of the first instant, and directs me to express his regret that it is not possible for him to do as you desire. He has been asked to interfere in the local contests in almost every State in the Union, but has declined to do so in each case. The President is sorry he cannot do as you wish, but he is sure you will understand how impossible it would be for him to respond in one case and not in another.

"Very truly yours,
"RUDOLPH FORSTER,
"Acting Secretary to the President."

SUIT AGAINST CITY.

Complications Grow Out of Recent Contract for Flooring.

Two suits were instituted yesterday in the City Circuit Court by the Pennsylvania Rubber Company, one against the city and the other against E. B. Combes and W. B. Miller, and each for the sum of $407.

The matter is quite a complicated one, and grows out of Mr. R. S. Valentine's agency for the company in securing contracts for rubber flooring in the City Treasurer's office.

The contract was for $407. The voucher was made payable to Mr. Valentine as agent for the company, and he assigned it to Mr. John R. Grimes and it was paid.

The company now seeks to recover the amount collected from the city by the assignment, and the second suit is brought to protect the company by means of money said to be due Mr. Valentine by various State officials, including the Register of the Land Office, State Auditor, Commissioner of Agriculture and Superintendent of Public Instruction, for furniture put in by Valentine as agent for E. B. Combes and W. B. Miller.

Annual Report.

Chief Clerk C. Lee Moore, of the State Auditor's office, is busy working on the annual report of that department for the fiscal year which ended September 30, 1906.

Mr. Moore said he was making fairly good progress with the task, which is a very heavy and technical one.

NO DAWDLING

A Man of 70, After Finding Coffee Hurt Him, Stopped Short.

When a man has lived to be 70 years old, with a 40-year-old habit grown to him like a knot on a tree, chances are he'll stick to the habit till he dies.

But occasionally the spirit of youth and determination remains in some men to the last day of their lives. When such men do find any habit of life has been doing them harm, they surprise the Osleriles by a display of will power that is supposed to belong to men under 40 only.

"I had been a user of coffee until three years ago—a period of 40 years—and am now 70," writes a N. Dak. man. "I was extremely nervous and debilitated and saw plainly that I must make a change.

"I am thankful to say I had the nerve to quit coffee at once and take on Postum without any dawdling, and experienced no ill effects. On the contrary, I commenced to gain, losing my nervousness within two months, also gaining strength and health otherwise.

[illegible]

"Now, when I have writing to do, or long columns of figures to cast up, I feel equal to it, and can get through my work without too fagged out feeling of old." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read the book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a reason."

Suppose two men, each with a $20 bill, started down the street together to buy new clothes. One of them goes to a Kirschbaum dealer: the other man elsewhere for another well-known make.

The Kirschbaum man will get a splendid suit for $20: the other man finds that $20 only pays for the poorest suit that his maker turns out.

Now there is absolutely no comparison between the suits. The Kirschbaum man has the best of it by at least $5 actual money-value in material and tailoring: and what is more, his clothes have more style.

See if it isn't true.

MYSTERY SHROUDS WEIGHTMAN CASE

Public Interest Whetted to Fine Point Over Contents of Scrap of Paper.

WHAT THE SECRETARY SAYS

Declares He Predicted Result, But Refuses to "Violate Confidence of Dead."

[illegible]

When asked what was written on the paper, Mr. Davis said: "Having served Mr. Weightman for more than twenty-five years, I see no reason why I should violate his confidence now because he is dead."

Mrs. Jones-Wister, who was the wife of William Weightman, a son of the millionaire chemist, but who remarried after the death of the younger Weightman, instituted the suit to set aside the will of Mr. Weightman on behalf of her minor daughter, Martha Weightman. Under the terms of the will as probated, the entire estate was bequeathed to Mr. Weightman's only surviving child, Mrs. Walker.
