SAYS MRS. BRADLEY IS IRRESPONSIBLE

Defense of Accused Murderess Make Clear Basis of Their Procedure.

PATHETIC TOUCH TO CASE

WASHINGTON, November 18.—Foundation was laid to-day for the plea of the defense in the trial of Mrs. Annie M. Bradley, charged with the murder of former United States Senator Arthur Brown, of Utah. That plea, heretofore made evident, will be insanity, or, more accurately perhaps, mental irresponsibility of the prisoner at the time of the tragedy. As on previous days of the trial the courtroom was thronged with interested spectators. Outside there was a steady, dreary downpour of rain. Within the dramatic scene being enacted had a setting dark and sombre.

The prisoner, frail and weak, almost to the point of collapse, sat behind her counsel, manifesting comparatively little interest in the proceedings. Occasionally she exchanged a few words with her attorneys, but only at rare intervals. During the afternoon session she sat with her face buried in her hands for nearly an hour without moving.

The evidence adduced to-day tended to throw light upon Mrs. Bradley's condition at the time of the tragedy. Newspaper men and physicians occupied the stand during most of the two sessions of the court. In each instance the newspaper men, but lately in the employ of Mrs. Bradley, testified that the time they saw Mrs. Bradley shortly after the shooting she was greatly agitated, and two of them declared she was wild and haggard looking. The purpose of the defense was to show her irresponsibility at the time she did the shooting.

Physicians who knew her before the murder, and who subsequently examined and treated her, were put on the witness stand to show that her physical condition was such as to make it likely to produce mental alienation at least irresponsibility for her actions.

A pathetic touch was given the case in the afternoon when Mrs. Bradley's aged mother, Mrs. M. J. Madsen, told of an accident which her daughter had suffered when she was a small girl. One of her playmates accidentally struck her on the head with a hoe. She was ill for several weeks, and Mrs. Madsen testified that subsequently she suffered greatly from severe headaches.

The last witness of the day, Colonel M. M. Kaighn, a lawyer of Salt Lake City, testified that Mrs. Bradley visited him at his office in Salt Lake, and told him that she must talk to somebody or she would go crazy, and that she wanted to talk to him because he was a friend of Arthur Brown.

Objection being made to the line of testimony being adduced, Justice Stafford held a prolonged conference with the attorneys for both sides, at the conclusion of which he directed an adjournment of the case until to-morrow. In the meantime an understanding was reached that some change will be made by the counsel for the defense in the order which they will follow in presenting their case.

The delegates from the Southern States assembled in a body in the city this morning, and kept together as an assemblage by the time they reached the Valley of the Delaware. Pennsylvania delegates received a welcome to all upon their arrival at the Chestnut Street wharf on the Delaware River.

FIND WARNER GUILTY.

New York Man Killed Young Woman and Later Shot Man.

NEW YORK, November 18.—Frank H. Warner was to-night convicted of murder in the second degree for the killing of Esther C. Nestling on July 23d last. The jury did not make the first degree was Warner's only contention when the verdict was returned. Warner, who had known Miss Nestling for some years, went to the store in which she was employed in Forty-second Street, and shot her without warning. He escaped into a large office building, and before he was followed got out through a rear window. He then went to a clear store, owned by John C. Wilson, a lifelong friend, and shot Mr. Wilson dead soon afterward. Warner was captured by a truckman armed with a cattle-hook, as he was leaving Wilson's store. Patrolman Thomas Walsh was dismissed from the police force on charge of complicity for not following Warner into the office building after he had shot Miss Nestling. Warner's defense was insanity. He has not been tried on the indictment charging the killing of Wilson.

SPECULATE AS TO POLITICAL EFFECT

even ask their newspaper friends what they think about it.

The fact is that the administration is uneasy. There is a pretty general feeling that the measures taken by the administration will serve to restore public confidence, and that the wheels of trade will begin to turn in the normal ways, but at the same time it is feared by the administration that they have been forced to give the Democrats the most dangerous weapon to fight with that they have had for many a year. Everybody knows that so far as the material conditions in the country are concerned, so far as the real financial condition of the people are concerned, there never were better times. The trouble is everywhere ascribed to the body politic. Can the administration ever excuse itself for permitting or being responsible for a panic under such conditions?

The Republicans fear that it cannot, and while they realize that they were forced to resort to the measures which were invoked, the net result to them will be little better than if the panic had not been averted.

The Cleveland Panic.

When the Cleveland administration was forced to issue bonds, the howl that went up in the Republican press was something wonderful. Although every natural condition was ripe for a panic then, the entire blame was unhesitatingly placed on the Democrats. The production of corn was 100,000,000 bushels short in 1892 and 1893. The production of wheat was 200,000,000 bushels short in 1892. The production of oats was 100,000,000 bushels off that year. The yield of potatoes was nearly 100,000,000 bushels below a normal crop. The loss by the crop shortage amounted to almost as much as the entire export trade of the United States had been worth during any year of the Harrison administration. And yet, with all this before them to justify a panic, the people were led to believe that politics alone was responsible for it.

And now the maledictions of the Republicans against the Democrats are rising up to haunt them. If the Democrats were responsible for the troubles then, what about the relations of the Republicans with the present trouble? The Republicans feel that they may be hoist with their own petard. They will have to answer their own logic. They will have to battle against their own position. They realize it, and are facing the situation with no little misgiving.

Government revenues have fallen off in the past two months more than they fell off during any two months of the Cleveland administration. It is believed that the policies the President has invoked will check the trouble. But people are everywhere asking what the matter is that makes such extreme and unusual policies necessary. And that is thought by the administration to be a serious question for it to answer in the next campaign.

MISSIONARY INSTITUTE

Workers Arrive and Arrange for Opening To-Day.

An interdenominational missionary institute will open this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the chapel of the Second Presbyterian Church, at Fifth and Main Streets. The institute will be modeled somewhat after the mid-summer conferences which have for some years been held at Asheville, N. C., under the auspices of the Young People's Missionary movement, and several of the same speakers and workers will take part. Mr. Edmund D. Soper, of New York city, who will lead the conference, arrived in the city last night, and went over the plans in detail, finding everything to be ready for the successful opening to-day. The conference will last three days, with a program which will include several speakers of note. The afternoons will be given up largely to classes for the definite study of mission problems, while each night a public meeting of a popular nature will be held. The conference is being operated by representative people of all denominations, and is open to all who are interested in missionary work.

At to-day's session Rev. Russell Cecil, D. D., will preside, and the program will be as follows:

4 to 4:30—Devotional session, Rev. Morris W. Ehnes, New York.

4:30 to 5:30—Conference on missionary committees in Young People's Societies.

5:30 to 6—Conference on missionary meetings in Young People's Societies.

6 to 6:30—Address, Rev. W. E. Towson, Japan.

6:30 to 7:30—Supper.

7:30 to 8:30—Mission study classes: Home Missions—"The Challenge of the City," Rev. Morris W. Ehnes. Foreign Missions—"The Uplift of China," Rev. E. D. Soper and Rev. W. A. Brown.

8:30 to 8:35—Song service.

8:35 to 9:30—Addresses, Rev. Frank Rawlinson, China; Mr. A. Fong Yeung, China.

DECIDE TWO CASES AGAINST GEORGIA

Federal Supreme Court Decides in Favor of Railroads in Both Instances.

BOTH INVOLVE TAX MATTERS

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 18.—The case of the Georgia Railroad Company against the tax authorities of Georgia and the Fulton county, in that state, involving the right of the state to collect back taxes on the stock of the Western Railway of Alabama, a foreign corporation, was decided to-day by the Supreme Court of the United States against the State. The taxes which it is sought to collect run back to 1899, and the company alleged not only that they were excessive, but that they were discriminative, because no such proceedings had been undertaken against any other railroad, the legal contention being that this was a denial of equal protection under the law. The opinion was by Justice Day.

Justice Day also delivered the opinion of the court in the case of the Central of Georgia Railway Company against William A. Wright, comptroller-general of Georgia, and John W. Nelms, sheriff of Fulton county, Georgia, in favor of the company, thus reversing in both cases the decisions of the Supreme Court of Georgia.

In the second suit the railroad company sought to evade responsibility for the taxes on stock of the Western Railway of Alabama. The controversy was further complicated by the circumstance that the stock is in the possession of the Mercantile Trust Company of New York, by which it is held to secure the payment of $5,000,000 worth of bonds, but the Georgia court held that "as the substantial and beneficial ownership of the stock is in Georgia, it is liable to taxation in that State."

Justice Day's decision, reversing the Georgia court, was based upon the denial to the railroad company of the right to be heard, which, he says, denies due process of law as required by the Constitution of the United States. The case was therefore remanded to the State court for further proceeding in accordance with to-day's decision.

BROTHERHOOD MEETS

Annual Session Held and Officers Are Elected—Bishop Strange Coming.

The Richmond Assembly of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew held its annual meeting last night in the lecture room of Grace Church. The attendance was exceptionally large considering the inclement weather, nearly all of the Episcopal churches of the city being represented.

The meeting opened with devotional services conducted by the Rev. John Moncure, D. D., after which there was an address by Mr. Robert E. Anderson on the condition of the brotherhood in Richmond, particularly during the last year. The address showed a membership of 250, and stated that much good had been done in the several parishes both by the men and boys of the brotherhood, in strengthening the church. The work at Laurel Reformatory has been particularly satisfactory. A brotherhood man goes there every Sunday morning.

A very able and instructive address on brotherhood work in Bible classes was made by the Rev. Thomas Semmes, rector of St. Andrew's Church. Mr. Semmes has a Bible class of 100 members which has grown to these proportions through the efforts of the order within a comparatively short time.

By the action of the National Brotherhood of St. Andrew, indorsed by the House of Deputies in the General Convention, next week has been set apart for special devotion. Services will be held at 8:15 P. M. in St. Paul's, Grace, All Saints and the Holy Trinity churches on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday respectively, under the auspices of the order.

The annual services with the corporate communion will be held in St. Marks Church on Friday night, with a sermon by Bishop Strange, of East Carolina.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Edward Harrison, president; A. Wilmer, vice-president; Buford Kirtley, secretary-treasurer, and the Rev. John Moncure, D. D., chaplain. Executive committee: W. F. Powers, A. Carroll, R. E. Duval, Robert E. Anderson.

PERSONALS AND BRIEFS.

R. E. Lee Council, Junior Order of United American Mechanics, will hold its regular meeting to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock in Marshall Hall. A visit from the State officers is expected.

Mr. Thomas G. Leath has retired to his winter cottage at Palm Beach, Fla., for the winter. At present Mr. Leath and his sister, Miss Nonie Leath, are the only inmates of the household. Later in the season house parties and hunting excursions will be given.

Messrs. Henry A. Krauder and John Kolbe, both young German-American business men of this city, will sail for Germany next Wednesday for a visit of several months. They will embark from Baltimore, going first to Bremen.

MOVING PICTURE MACHINE WILL RELIEVE MONOTONY

Fund Raised by Mrs. Ellyson for Gift to Crew of Battleship Virginia, Which Will Be Presented at Navy-Yard To-Morrow.

With a simple and informal ceremony to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock a combination reflectoscope and moving-picture machine will be presented to the crew of the battleship Virginia at the navy yard.

The money for the purchase of the instrument was raised by Mrs. J. Taylor Ellyson last summer while at her cottage at Virginia Beach through private subscriptions. The response to her appeal was so prompt and generous that it was not necessary to make a public appeal, as at first contemplated.

The idea was suggested by Chaplain George E. L. Stevenson, of the Virginia, who, recognizing the dull and monotonous life of the sailor, desired to devise some plan by which they could be entertained and at the same time instructed, particularly on the long trip to the Pacific, when the sailors will not be so fortunate as the officers in being allowed to seek pleasure on shore when in foreign ports.

The reflectoscope, which has been selected, is after a new model recently invented. One of the advantages which this machine possesses is that pictures contained in books or magazines may be instantly projected without injury to the book or binding, any of which will appear on the screen in their true form and color.

Opaque material, such as postal cards, photographs, drawings, maps, reading matter, and all small objects of every name and nature may be shown.

Real flowers and mounted objects, such as crabs, star fish, and similar things, can be made to appear with startling reality.

As such material can be easily obtained and at very little cost, it can readily be seen that the possibilities of such a machine are practically unlimited.

In connection with the reflectoscope a moving picture machine will be presented also, so combined that the operator can quickly change from one form of projection to the other.

Both machines have been made rust-proof and finished in the most approved style, and supplied with all necessary attachments for the convenience of the operator, without regard to cost.

The moving-picture machine has been equipped with nine picture subjects, put up in several reels, making in all 3,000 feet of pictures.

These were selected by Mrs. Ellyson and Mr. Stevenson during a recent visit to New York, and the subjects are among the most popular on the market.

A number of slides were also purchased, but it is the intention of Chaplain Stevenson to illustrate his lectures with postal cards and other attractive material. A sum of money from the fund collected will be given to him to add to the supply of pictures already in hand, when needed.

The Virginia will be the only ship in the fleet with such a complete outfit. Two others have simply the reflectoscope.

The gift will be installed at a cost of upwards of $800, and is intended as a fitting recognition of the faithful services of the men who compose the crew of the Virginia. They have often been commended by the Navy Department upon receipt of reports of their work by their commanding officer. One hundred and one of their number are now wearing the navy E for excellency in gunnery.
