COTTON MARKETS.

NEW YORK, April 30.—While quite erratic as to fluctuations to-day's cotton market showed great firmness at time. May contracts making new high records for the season. The close was steady at a net advance of 1@6 points. The market opened steady at a decline of 1 point on May, which was influenced by uncertainty as to the effect of notices, but generally unchanged to 4 points higher, and right after the opening the whole list firmed up on steady cables, reports of severe storms in the Central belt, bullish spot market talk, covering by nearby shorts and bull support. There was more or less irregularity during the middle session, as realizing was quite heavy, but the general tendency was upward until May contracts reached 10.63 and October 10.35, or 8@12 points above the close figures of last night. Later the market was unsettled, and prices reacted several points above under indications that some older longs were taking profits on a considerable scale. It was reported that the National Ginners' Association forecast a reduction of 6 per cent. acreage, and this with bullish reports Memphis concerning the course of in- or holders and storm and storm dam- in parts of Tennessee, Mississippi and kansas, were the chief factors on the ad- ce. Southern wires were working poor- and probably restricted business to some ent. Another report on acreage, publish- during the day, made the probable de- ase only 7-10 of 1 per cent. Southern t markets also officially reported early re unchanged to 1-16c higher. May no- s were estimated at about 12,000 bales, ected to be promptly stopped.

eceipts at the ports to-day were 23,164 es against 23,414 last week and 6,384 t year. For the week, 130,000 bales inst 144,274 last week and 58,934 last r. To-day's receipts at New Orleans 1 bales against 3,120 last year, and at

NEW ORLEANS, LA., April 30.—COTTON—Spot cotton steady and unchanged; middling, 10¼c.; sales on the spot 1,250 bales and 800 to arrive. Futures opened steady at an advance of 3 points on the near and 7 points in distant months. After the call the market was encouraged to do better by reports of heavy purchases of contracts in the Liverpool market by spot houses. The trading in the old crop positions were 6@9 points up and the new 10@14 up. The market weakened on rumors of heavy tenders of cotton against May contracts. The position is such that factors find it more profitable to tender high grades against May than to sell from their tables. Under this feature the near positions fell to a level 2@4 points below yesterday's closing, but the distant months were not so weak, remaining at a net advance of 4 points. The close of the market was steady, the old crops showing a net decline of 1@4 points and the net advance of 3@4 points. Futures closed steady. Dun's Weekly Review.

NEW YORK, April 30.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade to-morrow will say:

Two developments of the week are of special significance. One is the distinct improvement in the iron and steel trade, on which the whole industrial situation so largely depends. The reduced prices have stimulated an active demand, which, in turn, brought about this week a lifting of prices on a number of products. The other development is the foreign commerce statement, which reveals extraordinary importations of crude materials for manufacturers' purposes, a clear proof of reviving industry. The cold weather of the week has, however, been unfavorable and has retarded business in mercantile lines.

While jobbers of cotton goods are doing a very moderate business locally, the trade in a number of Western centres is quite satisfactory and the aggregate of transactions is fully up to normal. Export trade continues quiet, although there is some inquiry from the Red Sea. Demand for heavy brown goods for the home trade is light, but prices continue firm, owing to the fact that much machinery in this line has been diverted to filling export contracts. The print cloth situation continues to be strong, and cutters, especially shirt manufacturers, are buying freely of the higher counts, and operating well into the future. In the woolen goods division there have been some cancellations on current heavyweight goods, especially fancy wool overcoatings.

Some increase in orders is reported by shoe manufacturers in New England, but trading continues more or less restricted.
