New York Stock Market

New York, November 12.—The feature of to-day's stock was a vicious drive against quoted values which occurred in the middle of the session. Prices fell away rapidly, and for a time the list showed little more than a semblance of support. Before the end of the day, however, most losses were fully recovered with a good average of material gains.

While the selling was at its height various disquieting rumors were current. These included domestic and foreign political developments and the possible result of the findings of the railway arbitration board in the matter of the demands of the Eastern engineers to be made known later in the week. News from London, Paris and Berlin was all of a character to indicate relaxation in the tension created by the war in Southeastern Europe.

Judging from the resiliency manifested by the market on its rebound, it is altogether probable that the early movement constituted little more than a concerted attack by a formidable professional faction, whose recent operations have indicated a pronounced tendency towards the bear side.

Call money was something of a factor, the rate ranging from 5 1-2 to 6 1-2 per cent, with most loans made midway.

Bonds were irregular, later making some recovery. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

New York, November 12.—Money on call firm, 5@6 1-2 per cent; ruling rate, 5 1-2; closing bid, 5 1-2; offered at 6. Time loans steady; sixty days, 6 per cent; ninety days, 5 3-4@6 per cent; six months, 5 1-2. Prime mercantile paper, 6 per cent; sterling exchange easy, with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.8115, for sixty-day bills, and at $4.8540 for demand. Commercial bills, $4.8075. Bar silver, 62 1-2. Mexican dollars, 48 3-4.

COTTON MARKETS.

New York, November 12.—The cotton market showed great nervousness following yesterday's big break, and fluctuations were extremely erratic. Broadly speaking, however, the tendency seemed to be upward, and the close was firm at a net gain of from 15 to 20 points. The South was a seller here early, but appeared to be buying on the advance during the middle of the day, although later local sentiment was somewhat confused by claims of a less active spot demand.

Cotton futures closed firm.

Total since September 1 at all ports—Net receipts, 4,157,461 bales; export to Great Britain, 1,[illegible] bales; to France, 4[illegible] bales; to the Continent, 1,[illegible] bales; to Japan, 25,[illegible] bales.

New Orleans, November 12.—Cotton futures opened steady 1 point down to 1 point up compared with the last prices of yesterday. The close was barely steady at a net advance of 6@8 points. Cables were better than due, but brokers had an accumulation overnight of selling orders to fill and they weighed against price support. Spots were firm and soon after the call the trading months went up 10@18 points over yesterday's close. Offerings were redoubled on this advance and the market weakened quickly and fell off 10@19 points. Spot cotton steady; low middling, 12½c. Sales on the spot 500 bales and 1,200 to arrive. Closing futures quiet.

Freights and Peanuts—Unchanged.

Cottonseed oil, was generally lower early, but soon firmed up on speculative buying on account of the strength in lard and cotton. Later in the session, however, the market again sagged off under selling by refiners, realizing and scattered selling for outside long account. November closed 4 points higher and later months generally 1@2 points lower. Sales 17,900 bales. CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, November 12.—British consols and French rentes to-day reassured wheat traders, who for a while thought that a price advance at Budapest might mean the approach hostilities between Servia and Austria. In consequence the market closed steady at a net decline of ⅛@¾c. Corn finished lower down, and oats off ⅛@¾c. to ⅞@1c. In provisions the outcome varied from unchanged figures to 12½c. advance.

ATTRACTS GREAT CROWD.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

Berryville, November 12.—The Berryville Wilson and Marshall Club celebrated Woodrow Wilson's election on Tuesday night. People came from all over the country and from Winchester, in automobiles, on trains and in all kinds of vehicles. Stores, banks and residences were handsomgely decorated with the Princeton colors and red, white and blue draperies. American and Confederate flags. An address was made at the courthouse by Gray Williams, of Winchester, followed by a parade through the principal streets, consisting of automobiles, footmen, riders on horses and mules and two floats, one carrying a dead elephant and the other thirteen school children, the goddess of liberty in the centre, all singing "America." H. W. Baker was chief marshal. His assistants were B. Lippitt, Thomas Hardesty, Charles Levi and Bob Thompson, and aids, James Foley and R. A. Grubbs. The Charlestown band furnished excellent music. After the parade there was a display of fireworks in Rosemont Field.

Negro Attempts to Kill Wife.

Durham, N. C., November 12.—There was a near murder in Durham Sunday night. Lewis Bumpass, a negro, in the colored settlement on South Street, shot at his wife with an apparent murderous intent, and came so near hitting her that the fire from the gun set her clothes on fire, and she had to run to some of her neighbors to extinguish the flames. She was considerably burned, either from the bullet or the burning clothing. Bumpass fled, and has not yet been apprehended.

OF MUCH INTEREST TO CONGRESSMEN

Returning Members Discuss Bryan's Probable Influence on New Administration.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Washington, November 12.—Four big subjects are absorbing the minds and the attention of returning Congressmen as they pass through the iron gates at the Union Station and see the Capitol dome looming up just ahead:

What Cabinet place will William J. Bryan accept, if any, and will he try to dictate President Wilson's adminstration policy toward the tariff and trusts after the latter takes hold of the government reins?

Who will be selected in each of the States to dictate the distribution of Federal patronage when the Republican bosses go out of business on inauguration day?

Will the selection of Cabinet members be confined to well-known politicians or will the new President act for himself and do his own choosing?

And lastly, in the District of Columbia, where the people talk, but never vote, who will be named to lead the grand inauguration parade on March 4, when it starts at the Capitol and slowly wends its way to the White House, the future home of President Wilson?

Every one of these subjects is brimful of interest and is causing much gossip in hotel corridors and elsewhere when the incoming Congressmen meet and talk about "how it happened" on November 5.

When Colonel Bryan got to Washington Sunday night to make the principal address at the laying of the cornerstone of the Confederate monument at Arlington, newspaper men pounced upon him as a hungry dog would a bone. They had expected that he would give utterance to something which might indicate what the policy of the new President would be toward the trusts, the tariff and kindred questions, and most especially toward the calling of an extra session of Congress, but with his well-known smile and his cordial greeting he met the news hunters. And a smile and cordial greeting was about all they got. It Colonel Bryan knows anything about President-Elect Wilson's plans, he is not taking the public into his confidence.

But regarding the question of political advisers to displace those in the G. O. P. line-up, who soon go out of business, Colonel Bryan knew nothing. He did not know who would be called upon to tell the President about appointments in the different States, nor did he know anything about the men being discussed for Cabinet places. There was just one thing Colonel Bryan did know—that it would take at least four years for the Democrats to get the country's business on a sound financial basis, to kill outright all signs of the iniquitous Payne-Aldich tariff law and other such makeshifts at legislation, and that he was glad of the great Democratic victory in this year of grace 1912, even if the honor of seeing some other Democrat move into the White House was his lot. The colonel's eyes and ears are wide open, but he is doing very little talking.

GIFT TO UNIVERSITY.

Sum of $400 to Purchase Books for the Library.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Charlottesville, Va., November 12.—President Alderman announced yesterday another gift to the library of the University of Virginia. It consists of the sum of $400 for the purchase of books. The donor is Arthur Curtiss James, of New York City.

This money will be used to enhance the university's collection of volumes dealing with the race question, particularly in its aspect as a problem of Southern life. Since the students at the university began with such earnestness a year ago to make a scientific study of the negro in his relation to men and measures in the South, and to Southern life in general, the library of the university has received many books of great value, dealing with this subject. This particular collection has grown until it is now the best in the South. With the new books and other literature that will be purchased with the money given by Mr. James, the university will have a library of books on race questions far more comprehensive than any similar library in the South, and perhaps second to none in the educational institutions of the whole country.

President Alderman returned Sunday from New York, where he attended the meeting of the Association of American Universities. He was accompanied by Dean Dabney. The University of Virginia is one of twenty-five American universities comprising the membership of this association.

TWO DEBATES ARRANGED.

Trinity Will Meet Swarthmore and South Carolina University.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

Durham, N. C., November 12.—The debate council at Trinity has definitely decided to hold one debate this year with Swarthmore College, of Pennsylvania. Definite arrangements have been made for the debate, and Trinity will have the negative side of the question, Resolved, That the judiciary should be submitted to recall by their electorate, constitutionally conceded." This will be the third debate between Trinity and Swarthmore, the first one having been held in Durham in February, 1911, and having been won by the visitors. The second of the series was held last April in Pennsylvania, and Trinity took the honors. It is very probable that the third and last of the series will be held in Durham next February.

The debate council has also arranged a debate with the University of South Carolina, to be held in the spring at Columbia. This college won the decision from Trinity in a spirited contest in Durham last March, when the first of a series of three debates was held. The question debated was the same that Trinity won from Swarthmore in Pennsylvania last spring, though on the opposite side of the question.

The Columbian and Hesperian Literary Societies have decided to hold the intersociety debate before Christmas, instead of in the spring, as has been the custom heretofore, and this debate will, in some respects, be a preliminary for the two intercollegiate debates that will come in the spring.

The death of Colonel John W. Allspaugh, of Winston-Salem, which occurred at his home in the above named city last Sunday evening, removed the oldest living graduate of Trinity College, and one of the very best friends that this institution has ever had.
