RECOMMENDS MANY CHANGES IN LAWS

Auditor Moore Says State Will Have Big Balance at End of This Year.

PUT PRISONERS ON ROADS

Makes Many Suggestions for Legislation on Tax Subjects.

Reiteration of his desire to see prisoners in jail placed on the public roads is contained as a recommendation in the annual report of State Auditor C. Lee Moore, which was issued in printed form yesterday to members of the General Assembly. Changes in the fee system should not be made until the present conditions have been thoroughly investigated and full information secured, he adds.

The feature of the report is the estimate made by the Auditor that there will be a balance in the State treasury of $1,000,000 on September 30, 1914, unless special and extraordinary appropriations are made by the coming Legislature.

Auditor's Recommendations.

The principal recommendations made by the Auditor are:

Various changes in the statutes respecting payments out of the treasury for criminal expenses, and reiteration of recommendation of 1912 that the prisoners in jail be placed upon the public roads and perfected method be provided by law for the purpose.

Again calls attention to large sums paid out of the treasury to superintendents in charge of insane hospitals for examination into the sanity of persons under indictment for crime.

Recommends an annual appropriation of $5,000 for the care of needy Confederate women, i. e., to increase the present appropriation from $2,500 to $5,000, and recommends an appropriation of $5,000 a year to the Home for Needy Confederate Women.

Recommends appropriation to the secretary Virginia Confederate Records, for procuring from the government at Washington, copies of the Confederate records of Virginia soldiers, now in the custody of the Federal government.

Asks additional appropriation to increase his clerical force and make more effective the work of his department.

Reduction of Fees.

Recommends reduction in the amounts allowed county and city treasurers on collections over $60,000.

Recommends reduction in the amount allowed examiners of records for the assessments made by them, as follows: Instead of a commission of one-tenth of 1 per cent on the first $1,500,000 of value assessed, commission be reduced to one-tenth of 1 per cent on assessments of values up to and including $1,000,000; instead of one-fifteenth of 1 per cent on assessments of values in excess of $1,500,000, commission to be reduced to one-twentieth of 1 per cent on assessed values over $1,000,000 and not in excess of $2,000,000, and be further reduced commission not to exceed one-fortieth of 1 per cent on assessed values over $2,000,000.

Recommends change in the law regulating official receipt to be given for fines, the purpose being to adopt a book better suited for the purpose, also recommends that the records of clerks of courts showing collections be examined by commissioner to be appointed by court, and makes same recommendation about examination and collection of fines by clerks of courts.

Recommends reduction in amount of commissions allowed clerks of courts on amounts collected in excess of $25,000 in any six months.

Bonds from Corporations.

Recommends bond be given by corporations (other than public service) at the time they are chartered by this State or permitted to enter this State to secure payment of annual registration fee and franchise tax.

Reformatories to be placed under state control.

Norfolk city to pay salary of police justice, as is now done by other cities.

Authority of Auditor of Public Accounts to compromise and release certain taxes should be taken from him and conferred on the courts.

All public printing should be under the control of the Superintendent of Public Printing.

Change should not be made in fee system until there is thorough and full investigation, to ascertain if the fees now required by law are excessive, and if remuneration received by officers from fee system is excessive or unreasonable.

Taxes and fees collected by departments for their support should be paid into the treasury to the credit of the general fund of the Commonwealth. Departments should be supported by direct appropriation out of the treasury as other departments of the government are maintained.

Recommends enactment of law taxing rent charge or ground rent.

Recommends law making taxes a lien on real estate be amended so as to make the tax a fee lien on the entire interest in the land.

Recommends the tax of $1 on seal of notary or clerk of court be abolished.

Won't Tolerate Disorder To-Day.

Thanksgiving Day in Richmond must be observed without rowdyism or any misbehavior. Recalling holidays in the past when there have been some evidences of disorder, Chief of Police Werner last night issued orders to all members of his department cautioning them to see that the day is observed properly.

Twelve Caught in Raid.

Twelve negroes, alleged crapshooters, were arrested last night when the house at 211½ West Duval Street, was raided by Patrolmen J. J. Smith and Krouse.

Most of the resolutions providing for the salary increases enumerated contain provisions making the new salaries effective on February 1, 1914.

WAIVES EXAMINATION

Case of Negro Accused of Murder Goes to Hustings Court.

James Rogers, colored, waived a preliminary examination yesterday morning in Police Court when he was arraigned on the charge of killing his wife last Monday afternoon, and the case was sent on to the Hustings Court.

It has developed that Rogers' real name is Gooch, and that he was married under that name in North Carolina. The police believe that Gooch is wanted in that State for "shooting up" a dance hall several months ago.

Boyd Washington, also colored, is being held in connection with the murder. He is alleged to have aided Gooch in attempting to escape after the shooting. Washington supplied the fugitive with a straw hat and overalls as a disguise. He said that Gooch told him he was in a crap game and was being chased by the police.

HEALTH OF STATE CAUSE FOR THANKS

State Board Issues Triumphant Declaration of Achievements of Year.

"The people of Virginia in their annual celebration of Thanksgiving should not forget, in their general rejoicing, the victories gained by popular co-operation for better health during the year."

With this statement the State Board of Health, in its annual Thanksgiving statement, made public yesterday, reviews the achievements of the people of Virginia in their year's warfare against preventable disease.

"We should rejoice that for the first time in the history of the State there is now general registration of all births and deaths, insuring to every child a legal record of its birth and estate.

"We should rejoice that despite an unfavorable season, the co-operation of the people has prevented a very high rate of typhoid infection and has made possible a marked decline in the number of deaths from this cause.

"We should rejoice that the widespread and general use of diphtheria antitoxin, now procurable at a very low figure, has reduced the mortality from this source of childhood.

"We should rejoice that slowly but surely improved methods of living are reducing the ravages of tuberculosis among our white population, and we should be encouraged by this to make a vigorous fight for the protection of our colored people, who are dying in distressing numbers from this cause.

"We should rejoice that during the past year, the people of the State have availed themselves of the opportunity to rid themselves of hookworm disease, and have thronged our dispensaries in larger numbers than ever before.

"We should rejoice that a new spirit is pervading our small towns, showing itself in a general desire to improve sanitary conditions and to install better methods of sewage disposal.

"We should rejoice that in our cities the people are becoming daily more appreciative of what preventive medicine can do and are giving larger funds to their health departments.

"We should rejoice above all else that popular education is making itself felt in a new desire for good health, and that the sanitation of the average home is improving yearly."

Drinking Water on Trains.

Dr. Roy K. Flannagan, director of inspections of the State Board of Health, is touring the State on his second general inspection of the sources of drinking water used on railway trains in Virginia. Dr. Flannagan will investigate the purity of the drinking water furnished passengers by every railway in the State. The State inspection of this matter is made periodically.

Supreme Court Proceedings.

Cases were argued in the Supreme Court of Appeals of Virginia yesterday as follows:

Schroeder vs. Woodward et al., by Thomas R. Keith for appellant and by E. E. Garrett for appellees, and submitted.

Lemons vs. Harris et al. Argued by Marus Jones for apellant and by Thomas Newsome for the appellee, and submitted.

There will be no session of the court to-day. Cases in call for to-morrow are: No. 16, Newton's Surviving Executor vs. White, who sues, etc.; No. 17, Hick's Personal Rep. vs. Romaine; No. 18, Reichenstein vs. Virginia Railway and Power Company.

Runaway Boy Caught.

Jack Thompson, seventeen years old, who ran away from his home on West Main Street several days ago, was located yesterday in Newport News, according to a message received by Chief of Police Werner. He will be detained until a friend of the family brings him back.

Steal $73 From Safe.

S. T. Beveridge & Co., grain dealers, of Seventh and Byrd Streets, yesterday reported to the police that their office safe had been opened and $73 stolen. Entrance to the safe was made by working the combination.

LEE'S DESCENDANT TO UNVEIL TABLET

Little Mary Custis Lee, Granddaughter of Confederate Leader, Will Officiate.

Little twelve-year-old Mary Custis Lee, daughter of Captain Robert E. Lee, of White House, and granddaughter of General Robert E. Lee, will unveil the bronze tablet to Jefferson Davis erected on the Main Street site of the Federal Building. This tablet, given by the Confederate Memorial Literary Society, commemorates the fact that in the Federal Building the President of the Confederate States of America had his office from 1861 to 1865.

Workmen have set the bronze memorial in place in the granite wall, and to-morrow afternoon the covering will be withdrawn and the tablet exposed with simple ceremonial. Mayor George Ainslie will introduce Edwin P. Cox, who will make a short address. Rev. James P. Smith, D. D., will offer the prayer. As the tablet is unveiled Wetzel's choir will sing "Dixie" and "Auld Lang Syne." The exercises will begin promptly at 3:30 o'clock in the eastern lobby of the Post-Office.

Little Mary Custis Lee will be accompanied to this city by her mother, Mrs. Robert E. Lee, and her aunt, Mrs. W. H. F. Lee.

The older section of the Federal Building was erected in 1859. Recently it was remodeled at a cost of $800,000, but a section of the original walls were incorporated in the new building. It was not only the office of the President of the Confederacy and of the Confederate Secretary of the Treasury, but it housed the United States court before which Jefferson Davis was arraigned on a charge of treason. Although repeatedly called, the trial was never held, and the indictment was finally dismissed. The bronze tablet has been affixed to a portion of the old wall on the Main Street side.

DELEGATE WHITE HAS NEW GAME BILL

Will Introduce Measure Modeled After Famous Wallace Law of Alabama.

The Virginia Audubon Society has selected Delegate Hugh A. White, of Rockbridge County, to introduce the model game bill drafted by Colonel Jennings C. Wise, in the General Assembly of 1914. In most features the bill intimately resembles the Moncure-Rutherfoord game bill, which passed the Senate in 1912, but failed to come to a vote in the House of Delegates. The bill drawn by Colonel Wise has the indorsement of D. M. Hart, of Ashland, president of the Virginia Audubon Society; Dr. Leigh Buckner, of Roanoke; C. O'Conor Goolrick, of Fredericksburg; John H. Wallace, Jr., nominee for Governor of Alabama; T. Gilbert Pearson, secretary of the National Audubon Society; John Y. Burnham, of New York, and Major L. T. Christian, of Richmond.

The White game bill, as it will be known, is modeled after the celebrated Wallace law of Alabama, a game bill which has been copied by fourteen States since 1907. It provides for the creation of a State game department and for a State game commissioner. It provides that county hunting license will cost $1, State license, $3, and non-resident license, $10. The bill makes provision for an extensive corps of game wardens to be appointed by the State game commissioner.

Under this bill the protection of game birds will be accomplished entirely at the expense of sportsmen. In other States, where the same scale of licenses has been established, the State treasury has received a handsome revenue over and above the pay of wardens.

Sentiment in the General Assembly is thought to be strongly in favor of the proposed bill. In the 1912 Legislature the Senate passed a similar bill by a good vote, but although seventy-six delegates voted for its special consideration, the backers of the measure failed by four votes to have it brought up out of order in the House of Delegates and put to the vote. If it had been reached on the calendar, it would almost certainly have been concurred in.

Charged With Stealing Turkey.

Thomas Fields, colored, yesterday decided he would eat turkey for Thanksgiving dinner, and with this end in view simply lifted one from the stand of Ben Hilliard in the First Market and started to walk away. Hilliard saw him about to vanish with the fowl tucked under his arm, and set up the cry of "stop thief." Patrolman Marcuson heard it, and after a short chase collared Fields.

R. R. Y. M. C. A. Social To-Night.

A Thanksgiving social will be given by the Railroad Young Men's Christian Association to its members and friends to-night at 8 o'clock. There will be moving-pictures, songs, recitations and refreshments. All railroad men and their friends and families are welcome.

SUES TO REGAIN CONTROL OF SON

Woman With Whom Mother Boarded Infant Child Refuses to Give Him Up.

Claiming that her child is being kept from her by force, Mrs. Frances Goodman yesterday filed a petition in the Henrico Circuit Court, asking that Judge R. Carter Scott deliver him into her custody. A writ of habeas corpus was issued against Mrs. Emma Lomax, who now has possession of the boy, directing her to bring him before the court on December 10, when the custodianship of his person will be judicially determined.

Mrs. Goodman, wife of Isaiah Goodman of Henrico County, alleges in her petition that Percy Hicks, a son born before her marriage to Goodman, was placed in care of Mrs. Lomax when twelve months old. Board in the sum of $1 a week was to be paid. For some time this was done, but Mrs. Goodman later fell behind in her payments.

On her marriage to Goodman, she desired to regain possession of her child, but Mrs. Lomax refused to give him up. Goodman offered to pay the back board, provided the boy was given into his possession. All offers were declined.

The petition does not show whether the child has been legally adopted by Mrs. Lomax. The petitioner claims that she and her husband are financially able to support him. She is represented by P. A. L. Smith.

Although one troop of Boy Scouts, twenty in number, set out yesterday afternoon on the twenty-five-mile hike to the Pamunkey reservation, near White House, the balance will not leave until this morning, when they will entrain at the Southern Railway station at 8 o'clock. The following program will be observed after their arrival:

10 A. M., arrive at White House; 10:30 A. M., march to grounds and pitch camp; 11 A. M., address of welcome by Chief John Cook, and response by Scout Commissioner D. W. Durrett; 11:30 A. M., presentation of gift to Chief Cook and delivery of message from Governor Mann to the tribe; 12 to 12:30 P. M., taking pictures of scouts in various positions; 12:30 to 2 P. M., preparation and eating of dinner, washing of dishes and cooking utensils and cleaning of camp; 2 to 2:30 P. M., practice drill by individual troop; 2:30 to 3 P. M., grand parade and march in review of all scouts and Indians; 3 to 5 P. M., scout activities; 5 to 6 P. M., cooking and eating and supper; 6 to 7 P. M., police camp and build campfires; 7 to 9 P. M., Indian entertainment by Pamunkeys, including war dances, scalping of palefaces, burying of hatchet and smoking of the pipe of peace; 9 P. M., start for home on a special train.

It had been planned for the 200 boys who will make the visit to the Indians, to hike the entire distance, but owing to the unsettled condition of the weather, it was decided to go by rail. Barton Heights troop, under Scoutmaster J. S. Haw, however, was determined to carry out the original plan, and set out yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The scouts are due at the reservation in the early forenoon. They camped last night about half-way.

ASK AGENCIES FOR RED CROSS SEALS

Cities Where Seals Have Been Sold Anxious to Purchase Tokens.

As indicative of the wide-spread interest in the prevention of disease, and especially in the campaign for the reduction of tuberculosis, the Virginia Antituberculosis Association reported last night that from a number of cities and towns had come unsolicited requests for the privilege of selling the Red Cross Christmas seals.

This is taken by the officers of the association to mean that business men and corporations are more anxious than at any time in the past to show their appreciation of the war for better health, by contributing and using the seals at Christmas time.

During the last few days, and since the beginning of the sale, the State Association has received requests for agencies at Smithfield, Hot Springs, Newport News and Winchester. In every instance the agents were appointed and seals were sent by express to meet the demand of private business houses.

"We are overjoyed to find how readily the public enlists in the warfare against consumption," said an officer of the State association last night. "When we began to sell the seals in Virginia four years ago, as a means of raising funds with which to combat consumption, we found that the seals were purchased largely because they were novelty.

"Year by year the sale has gone on, and at every sale there has been more interest in the cause represented by the seals. Our slogan that 'every seal is a bullet in the war against consumption' has caught the popular fancy, and the responses to our appeal for $10,000 seems in a fair way of being answered.

"We hope that every citizen in Virginia, whatever his means, will use some of the seals on his Christmas mail and packages, not merely to contribute to the work, but to express his interest in this effort to eradicate the most fatal of diseases."
