coming of the high tide the house would be carried away.

A considerable section of the boardwalk at Asbury Park was damaged by the waves, and some of the piling of the famous fishing pier at Asbury Park have been weakened.

Storm Increases in Intensity.

Pittsburgh, January 3.—The storm which broke over Eastern Ohio and Western Pennsylvania last night increased in intensity late to-day, moving down into West Virginia and causing great damage to telegraph and telephone wires. Many communities were cut off entirely because of heavy snow, which fell steadily during the evening. The local Weather Bureau sent out warnings to railroad and river interests to prepare for a continuation of existing conditions until to-morrow, when the mercury probably would drop to 22 degrees.

Fear of flood, prevalent all day along the upper Ohio and the Monongahela and Allegheny Rivers, was dispelled by the prediction of lower temperatures.

Stories of suffering and loss of life began to reach Pittsburgh during the day. James Martin was electrocuted at Wheeling, W. Va., while repairing broken wires, and Samuel Repro was killed at Youngstown while shoveling snow from a railroad track.

Railroads operated under difficulties. East of Pittsburgh it was snowing heavily in the mountains, but trains were moving. In the Allegheny Valley trolley traffic was almost at a standstill.

Results in One Man's Death.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Atlantic City, N. J., January 3.—One man is dead and several others have been injured as a result of the terrific storm which has swept Atlantic City and adjoining towns for the past twelve hours. Scores have been driven from their homes, and considerable damage has been done to property along the beach. A large portion of Young's Pier was carried away, and Captain John Young's old home was wrecked. Part of the jetty protecting the steel pier was carried away. George Radford, a Federal life guard, died as a result of injuries received while assisting in rescuing families at Ocean City, two miles below here.

Damage by Tides in Beach Towns.

Los Angeles, Cal., January 3.—Tides more furious than any experienced this winter did damage in beach towns, near Los Angeles, to-day. Pier supports were ripped out and bulkheads and jetties that were damaged several days ago were washed away. The heavy seas washed up into the streets of Santa Monica, Redondo and Venice.

Scientists of the Mount Wilson Observatory and heads of the scientific departments of the educational institutions here were quoted today to the effect that the unusual tides on this coast and on the Atlantic seaboard and European shores were due to a combination of solar and lunar conditions, coupled with either submarine disturbances of a volcanic nature or terrific and long-continued winds in mid-ocean.

ACCEPTS TERMS OF POWERS

Prince Weid Consents to Become New King of Albania.

[Special Cable to The Times-Dispatch.]

Paris, January 3.—Prince Weid announced to-day that he had withdrawn his demands regarding the salary he is to receive as King of Albania, and accepted the terms offered by the powers, the maximum salary and expense allowance being $50,000 a year. The prince is extremely destrous of founding a dynasty, and as he is wealthy, he feels he can afford to spend $150,000 a year to enliven his court.

CAMPING IN COLD MANSION

Woman Alleges Plot to Have Her Adjudged Insane.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Boston, January 3.—Miss Frances Duer Key, a Back Bay society woman, well-known in London, Paris and Vienna, as well as in Boston, claiming that certain of her relatives are in conspiracy to have her adjudged insane and to get her property, is with her Italian maid camping out in Mrs. Key's mansion, which is unfurnished and unheated. Her guardian, William A. Dunbar, says all this is unnecessary.

RECLUSE LEAVES $100,000

All of Estate, Except $4,000 for Relatives, Goes to Charity.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Metuchen, N. J., January 3.—Miss Amelia Marks, widow of Israel Marks, died ten days ago after living a life of a recluse in a ramshackle house in the poorest section of New Brunswick. To-day her will was probated by Surrogate D. M. Clayton, and it provides that out of the fortune of $100,000 which she left, $200 shall go to every poor Hebrew girl who marries a Hebrew. All of the estate goes to charity, excepting $4,000, which goes equally to two relatives. Among the beneficiaries under the will are St. Peter's Hospital and Wells Hospital, of this city. At the expiration of ten years, the executors are to pay the entire residuary estate to the United Hebrew Charities.

WRONG HONORS BESTOWED.

Mistake Causes Much Amusement at Court of St. James.

[Special Cable to The Times-Dispatch.]

London, January 3.—A mistake in the bestowal of honors by Archduke Ferdinand of Austria during his recent visit to King George, has been the cause of much amusement at the Court of St. James.

At the termination of his visit the Austrian archduke conferred the Order of the Iron Crown upon Lord Charles Fitzmaurice, one of the King's equerries, who was in personal attendance on him during his stay here. The same decoration was also given to King George's valet and the chief chef of the palace. This honor is reserved usually for servants of the first rank.

When the error was discovered a letter of apology was sent to Lord Charles with the explanation that the order given him should have been the Iron Cross, which was forwarded with the letter.

MARLBOROUGHS' REUNION FIXED FOR THIS MONTH

Efforts of Queen Mary to Bring Reconciliation Believed to Have Been Accomplished.

[Special Cable to The Times-Dispatch.]

London, January 3.—Friends of the Duchess of Marlborough say the duke will join the duchess somewhere on the Continent early this month, and that the long separated pair will come to London to live, at any rate, under the same roof. That this badly assorted couple will ever live really happily together is doubted by the friends on both sides, but it is believed that the strenuous efforts made at court, and especially by Queen Mary, will be rewarded.

The Queen has gone out of her way for several months to pay marked attention to the duchess. Her Majesty has pointed out that the position of the boys, young Lord Blandford and Lord Ivor Spencer Churchill, will become more and more painful as they grow older.

But a far more powerful indentive has proved to be the anxiety of the duke to shine in politics. His great ambition is to be included in the next Conservative Cabinet, and it is almost essential that his private life should be exempt from all gossip.

The duke will never be popular with "the crowd," owing to his cold personality and his unfortunate sneering expression, but in recent years he has taken a serious interest in politics, and more particularly the land question, on which he can speak and write brilliantly. His sons are more devoted to their mother than to their father, but it is very awkward for them to have to visit their parents in turn.

The duke is anxious that his eldest son should become a statesman, and he writes almost daily to the boy on all subjects. The duke, by the way, is a great friend of F. E. Smith, M. P., and the two have arranged to play a lawn tennis match for $2,500 a side at Miss Maxine Elliott's country house, where she has a winter court.

NO TRACE OF RALPH LOPEZ

Posses Continue Exploration of Every Nook in Mine Levels.

Bingham, Utah, January 3.—No trace of Ralph Lopez, the slayer of six men, was found by the posse searching the Utah Apex mine to-day. A fresh party continued exploring every nook in the Andy, Minnie and Parnell levels to-night, but at a late hour had discovered nothing to indicate the fate of the gunman who made the workings his stronghold on November 27. If Lopez escaped, it is said that he had many friends in Bingham who would have helped him out of the country.

WAR MATERIAL SEIZED.

Government's Order in Ireland Embarrasses War Office.

[Special Cable to The Times-Dispatch.]

London, January 3.—A pretty comedy has arisen over the government's declaration forbidding the importation of arms into Ireland.

A consignment of war material, intended for the use of the two military companies stationed at Carrick, Fergus Castle, was promptly seized by the customs officials in transit from London to Belfast despite the fact that it was stamped with the broad arrow of the government. Notwithstanding indignant protests from the War Office, the customs authorities decline to release the seized cases on the ground that the proclamation did not mention any exemptions.

AGAINST LANE'S PROPOSAL.

Plan to Reserve to Government Rights to Radium-Bearing Ores Opposed.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Washington, January 3.—Colorado will strongly oppose, through its representatives in Congress, the passage of the bill proposed by Secretary of the Interior Lane reserving to the government all rights to radium-bearing ores found in public lands. Secretary Lane advocated the measure because he believed the value of radium had been enhanced by its use as a cure for cancer.

"The people of Colorado are strongly opposed to any measure which will result in segregation of any more land in our State from mineral entry," said Mr. Seldomridge, Representative of the Second Colorado District. "We believe that all that is necessary is to prohibit the exportation of the mineral. If there are no chemists here who can treat the pitchblende or carnallite ores, the government can well afford to engage foreign chemists who can."

STORM WARNINGS SENT BROADCAST

Many Vessels Along Coast Are Seeking Safety in Harbor.

HEAVY SNOW IN VIRGINIA

Traffic Almost at Standstill After Fall of Twenty Inches.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Norfolk, Va., January 3.—Warnings of an approaching northeast storm were sent broadcast to sea to-night by wireless, and signals were displayed all along the coast from Norfolk to Hatteras and from Baltimore to Delaware breakwater. The storm was reported over Virginia moving northeast and increasing in velocity.

Scores of sailing crafts, following the warning, sought shelter in Hampton Roads. A number of sailing vessels that had started to sea turned back and dropped anchor under the sheltering lee of Fortress Monroe. The revenue cutter Onandaga received orders to proceed to sea to render assistance to any vessel in distress. It is reported that an unknown vessel is in distress near Hogg Island. The Onandaga will sail at 4 o'clock tomorrow morning, and her destination is said to be Hogg Island.

Reports from Cape Lookout say a number of craft are sheltering in Lookout, but there is grave anxiety for the safety of other vessels that were caught in the storm.

Heaviest Snow in Years.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Christiansburg, Va., January 3.—The heaviest snow in twenty years fell here last night and to-day. When it ceased late to-day it measured from sixteen to eighteen inches on the level. The ground was unfrozen and the snow was heavy, otherwise it would have been much deeper. The weather is turning colder rapidly, and a heavy wind is causing much drifting. The double daily mail between this place and Floyd, a distance of twenty-one miles, failed to get a single hack through. All star and rural routes failed to make their usual rounds today, and all country roads are blockaded. It is reported that there is much suffering among the poor, as well among the stock and game throughout the county. It probably will be several days before the county roads will be open to travel. All trains are delayed several hours and business is practically at a standstill.

Dublin Is Stormbound.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Dublin, Va., January 3.—By far the heaviest snowfall for years came last night and to-day. This forenoon the snow was nineteen inches deep and though very compact it settled during the day so that the depth was not increased by the additional fall. The rural free delivery and star route men failed entirely in an attempt to make their trips, and an early westbound passenger train got stuck within the corporate limits. Should there be a sudden thaw a great flood would follow.

Snow Still Falling.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Wytheville, Va., January 3.—Wytheville and vicinity was visited last night by the heaviest snow known here within the last twenty-five years. The average depth is from fifteen to twenty inches, and it continues to fall, but there has been little or no drifting.

Snow Over Southwest.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Roanoke, Va., January 3.—The heaviest snowfall in several years visited this section last night and to-day, and reports from points west of here say the fall has reached from five to twenty-two inches. Nine inches was recorded here, and indications are that additional snow will fall before morning. Because of the ground being warm, a great deal of the fall melted, and conditions here are far from pleasing to pedestrians.

Storm Passes Wilmington.

Wilmington, N. C., January 3.—With a decided drop in temperature, the Southern storm off this coast has apparently passed to-night, leaving in its wake no known damage. The schooner Victor C. Records, Captain Griffith, from Georgetown, S. C., to New Haven, with a cargo of lumber, put in at Southport to-night on account of stress of weather. The damage to the vessel, if any, is unknown here.

Damage Done by Storm.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Alexandria, Va., January 3.—High waters and a heavy northeast wind did damage to the extent of several thousand dollars today on the river front. Coal from several wharves went into the river, while small boats all along the river front were badly damaged. The water was higher than in many years. Some merchants stayed up all night for fear of further damage by the high tide at midnight.

Trolley Lines Washed Out.

Cape May, N. J., January 3.—The heavy northeast gale which prevailed here all day caused high water to wash out the trolley lines at Sewell's Point and Cape May Point. At Cape May City the tide cut across Beach Avenue and into the front yards of some cottages.

Sailing Is Postponed.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Philadelphia, January 3.—On account of the heavy gale in the Delaware Bay, Commander Benson, of the navy yard, ordered the postponement of the departure of the transport Hancock, which was scheduled to sail from here to-day for Culebra Island, near Porto Rico, with 900 marines aboard, until to-morrow morning.

JAMES E. HUBBEL DEAD.

Death Caused by Hydrophobia Developed by Autosuggestion.

Syracuse, N. Y., January 3.—James E. Hubbel, former county clerk, and a prominent resident of Syracuse, died at a hospital to-day, following symptoms of hydrophobia, which physicians assert were developed by autosuggestion. Mr. Hubbel was bitten on the lip by a pet dog on November 26. At a hospital antitoxin was injected in his lip.

Hubbel's friends joked him about rabies, and he read everything he could find concerning the disease. Last Tuesday he returned to his doctor and told him he was extremely nervous. He again was taken to the hospital, and was attended by four of the city's leading physicians. He complained of throat trouble, and for some time before his death the sight of water caused spasms of the throat.

Following an autopsy on the body to-night, it was announced that hydrophobia, induced by autosuggestion, undoubtedly caused death.

MRS. REID FIRST VISITOR IN NEW DUDLEY HOUSE

Park Lane Mansion, Ambassador's Wedding Gift to Hon. Mrs. John Ward, "Restored."

London, January 3.—Although Dudley House, Park Lane, is by no means completely furnished, Mr. and Mrs. John Ward have taken up their residence there. The house was the gift of the late American Ambassador Whitelaw Reid to his daughter, Jean, upon the occasion of her marriage to the Hon. John Ward, a brother of Lord Dudley. Thus the house is restored in this way to the Dudley family.

It has been entirely redecorated, although the scheme which prevailed during its occupancy by Sir Joseph Robinson, the South African magnate, remains. Most of the nine reception rooms are painted in cream and gold, as are the beautiful ballroom and picture gallery. The parquet flooring in these rooms is perhaps the most beautiful in London, having elaborate floral designs inlaid.

The picture gallery at present is empty, but pictures are being collected for it, including a considerable number of family portraits. A modern note is the absence of the smoking room, the fashion now being to smoke, as the Americans say, "all over the place." The house is noted for some very fine old fireplaces.

Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, appropriately enough, is the first guest to be entertained in the new house by the Wards, and she has expressed herself as delighted with the restoration.

Not Much Benefited by Will.

[Special Cable to The Times-Dispatch.]

London, January 3.—The new Lord de Freyne apparently did not benefit to any extent by the will of his late father, according to the terms of the will published to-day. The De Freyne estate is valued at $650,000, and all of the cattle and sheep have been sold, and from the proceeds of this sale the widow will receive money due her. The present Lord de Freyne received certain real estate, but the majority of the property was left to the widow. The young Lord de Freyne served for some time in the United States Army.

AMERICANS SEE SACRED RITE OF THE HOLY CARPET

Khedive Performs World Renowned Ceremony in Mohammed Aly Square in Cairo.

[Special Cable to The Times-Dispatch.]

Cairo, January 3.—One of the most interesting and world-renowned ceremonies of the Eastern world took place here last Saturday, attended by the Khedive and his staff, two battalions of Egyptian infantry, immense crowds of natives and a large contingent of American and European visitors.

The ceremony was the return of the Mahmal, or holy carpet, from Mecca. The sacred caravan arrived after a long procession from Abbasseeyeh in the Mohammed Aly Square, at the foot of the Citadel, amid the acclamations of the crowd and to the salute of a battery of twenty-one guns precisely at 10 o'clock.

Here His Highness the Khedive was in waiting in his motor car, having come over from Abdin Palace, his Cairo residence, escorted by his ministers and governor of Cairo. The Khedive at once placed himself at the head of the procession by taking the halter of the Mahmal from the hands of the "Emir El Hag" and passing it on to the Ulemas, the Effendis and the other grandees present.

The picturesque pageant was concluded by the Ulemas reverently kissing the halter, a duty performed in rotation by the different suites in their turn. The ceremony over, the carpet was carried down to the Ministry of Finance, where it is cut up into small pieces and distributed among the faithful.

It is needless to say that the carpet is a superb work of art, such as the Oriental alone can fabricate. It is composed of the richest material obtainable in Cairo, and worked out by the most nimble-fingered and experienced men in the profession. For centuries it has been sent annually to Mecca to take the place of the carpet sent there the year before, which is brought back to Cairo. It is said to be the finest carpet in the world after that of Damascus.

The return of the holy carpet synchronizes with the arrival of the first batch of pilgrims returning from their holy duties. An animated and interesting scene is presented on the arrival of the various parties at the great Central Station at Cairo. Crowds of friends and relatives assemble at the station to embrace with all the wealth of Eastern ceremonial these new Sheiks of Islam.

As soon as they have shaken off the trammels of their journey they don their brilliant-colored costumes, and, mounting a carriage, parade the principal thoroughfares of the city to be seen and to be admired.

May Withdraw Customs Agents.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Washington, January 3.—The Treasury Department is seriously considering withdrawing its customs agents at Montreal and other interior points in Canada. In place of these agents, it is planned to hold trains thirty minutes at the Canadian border to permit the necessary examination of baggage and other goods.

OBITUARY

Funeral of Mr. Exall.

The funeral of Turner Patterson Exall, who died at his home in Baltimore, Md., on Thursday, after a few days' illness, took place in Hollywood Cemetery yesterday morning. Services of the Episcopal Church, of which he was a member, had been held in Baltimore.

Mr. Exall, who was in his sixty-eighth year, was the eldest son of the late Henry Exall, of Richmond. His wife died five years ago. He was a first cousin of Colonel Henry Exall, of Dallas, Tex., who died on Monday.

Mr. Exall was a member of the engineering department of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, and was widely known throughout the country in civil engineering matters, having been in the employ of several companies before entering the service of the Baltimore and Ohio in 1885. His first employment with that road was as an engineering draughtsman, and at various times he was engaged in other kinds of engineering work.

A native of Virginia, Mr. Exall was educated in private schools, and for a year was a student at the University of Virginia. He left the university to enter the army in the Civil War. He served in the Third Virginia Cavalry, Company G, under General J. E. B. Stuart, until the close of the war.

For a period after the war he was in business with his father, and entered upon his profession as an engineer in 1880 with the Danville and New River Railroad, and later with the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway. He was for a time connected with typographical survey of Baltimore, and engaged in the reassessment of property in that city. He was also employed in the engineering department of the United States government. At the time of his death he was in the chief engineer's office of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

He is survived by four daughters, Mrs. T. G. Hodgen, of Catonsville, Md.; Mrs. Roy Clark, of New York; Mrs. Lawrence Williams, of Baltimore, and Mrs. C. W. Hunter, Jr., of Richmond; one brother, A. Duval Exall, and by two sisters, Miss Sara Exall and Mrs. Kate S. Winn, of Richmond.

Milton L. Hutchinson.

Milton L. Hutchinson, forty-nine years old, died yesterday at his home, 1638 West Grace Street. Besides a widow, he leaves two brothers and one sister—W. T. Hutchinson, of Richmond; J. O. Hutchinson, of King William County, and Miss Etta T. Hutchinson, of King William.

The funeral will take place from the Grace Street Baptist Church this afternoon at 12:15 o'clock. Interment will be made in Hollywood Cemetery.

Sleep on, dear mother, thine earthly cares are done,
The mortal pangs are past;
Jesus has come and borne thee home
Beyond this stormy blast.

Why should we linger to weep around the tomb,
Sorrow shall vex her no more;
Never a shadow of trouble or gloom
Reaches your heavenly shore.

Dear mother, we'll weep no more,
Your sufferings are past;
The mansion that's prepared for you, dear mother,
You've reached at last.
