

might not aspire with an honorable ambition to fill the highest office within the gift of the people; but in order to attain to positions of honor and usefulness and distinction, they must remember that everything depends upon themselves. They must carve out their future from the opportunities of the present. Kind parents and friends have afforded them rare opportunities of acquiring that knowledge which constitutes power. If they neglect or abuse these opportunities—if they idle away the golden hours allotted for the improvement of mind—if they are not obedient to their professors in all that relates to the good, interest and success of the institution—then they might be assured, they would have cause to repent of their folly through long hours of bitter sorrow in after life for they could never retrieve the past.

Mr. BUCHANAN said he had been a College boy himself, and none of the best of boys either, being fond of fun like themselves. There were many little eccentricities in the life of a College student that might be pardoned or overlooked; but there was one habit which, if formed at College or in early youth, would cling to them through after life and blight the fairest prospects. He referred to the use of intoxicating liquors, and declared it would be better for that youth who contracted an appetite for strong drink, that he were dead or had never been born; for, when he saw a young man entering upon such a career, a fondness of liquor becoming with him a governing passion, he could see nothing before him but a life of sorrow and a dishonored grave in his old age. Many lads, he was aware, considered this practice a mark of smartness, but he regarded it as an offense that could not be pardoned, especially in a student at College; and he concluded this earnest appeal by expressing the hope and belief that none of the young men of Franklin and Marshall were addicted to this dangerous practice.

The speaker then alluded to the course and habits of study necessary to insure success in a student's life. Many young men prided themselves in running over a great many books and gaining a superficial knowledge of many branches of science. This was of no practical use. He would urge them to learn thoroughly all they undertook to learn—to acquire knowledge distinctly—and then they would be able to use it to some practical advantage in after life. They should apply themselves with diligence to their allotted studies by day, reflect at night upon what they had thus acquired, and appropriate it as their best capital with which to engage in the struggles of life. He had met with many men of prominence who had looked at the indexes of a great many books, and had a general smattering of knowledge, but it was all surface-work, and of no practical use. He hoped his young friends here present would avoid falling into this error.

Mr. BUCHANAN remarked that his election had been alluded to, and he might be expected to say something on that point. He had been elected to the high and responsible office of President, and he thanked them most sincerely for their congratulations; but whether the event would prove to be a matter of congratulation, time alone can determine. Without saying which party was right or which was wrong, the fears of the "father of his country" had at last been realized, and we now behold a sectional party—the portion of our Union arrayed in political hostility against the other. The object of his administration would be to destroy any sectional party—North or South—and harmonize all sections of the Union under a national and conservative government as it was fifty years ago. Unless this be done the time may come when these sectional animosities which now unhappily exist may break up the fairest and most perfect form of government the sun ever shone upon. But he trusted that the same Power which had watched over and preserved us in the past will continue to smile upon us and make us a prosperous, united and happy people. In conclusion, he said, that if he could in any degree be the honored instrument of allaying this sectional excitement and restoring the government to the principles and policy of the fathers, he would then feel that he had not assumed the arduous duties of the office in vain.

At the conclusion of Mr. BUCHANAN'S remarks, of which we have given but a rapid outline, his guests retired, each one receiving a cordial shake of the hand. After they had returned in the order of procession three cheers were proposed and given for the President of the Board of Franklin and Marshall College and the President elect of the United States.

A SAD CASE.—Wm. Abram, of Canada west, was sentenced to death at Toronto, a few days ago for the murder of his own son. A very affecting scene took place when the prisoner received his sentence. When asked by the judge what he had to say in mitigation of his sentence, he said that he should not be pronounced against him, he said that he trusted God in his mercy would give him strength to meet his fate; that he had no desire to live now except to make his peace with God; that his life for years past has been one of distress and wretchedness, and misery; that he was not conscious of having any intention to take the life of his son, although he did not murmur at his fate, as he had no doubt but that he was the cause of his instant death; but that he forgave his enemies. The prisoner was sixty-four years of age. The judge, while passing the sentence, said to have labored under great emotion.

Purify Your Blood.

The Wonder of the Nineteenth Century. Important and of great Consideration to the Suffering.

T. A. HURLEY'S SARSAPARILLA. OF all the remedies that have been discovered during the present age for the "thousand ills that flesh is heir to" none equal this wonderful preparation. Only three years have elapsed since the discovery (twelve years ago) in studying, experimenting, and perfecting it for introduction to the public, and it is already recognized, by the most eminent physicians in all parts of the country to be the most surprising and effective remedy for certain diseases of which they have knowledge.

All other compounds or syrups of the root, have hitherto failed to command the sanction of the faculty, because, on being tested, they have been found to contain noxious ingredients which neutralize the good effects of the Sarsaparilla, and often times injure the health of the patient. It is not so with Hurley's preparation.

This is the pure and genuine extract of the root, and will on trial, be found to effect a certain and perfect cure of the following complaints and diseases:

Affections of the Bones, Debility, Habitual Costiveness, Rheumatism, Liver Complaints, Dropsy, Piles, Erysipelas, Pulmonary Diseases, Female Irregularities, Scrofula or King's Evil, Syphilis, and all Skin diseases.

Besides curing the above, it is also known to be a great and powerful tonic, purifying the blood and invigorating the system.

In short, it is, without exception, in the cases mentioned, and its general effect on the system, the most efficacious as it is the most desirable remedy of the age. It is used extensively and with the most successful results, and is fast obtaining an European reputation. The instances of cures it has effected are daily coming to the proprietors knowledge, and he has no hesitation in recommending it to one and all who desire to procure relief from suffering. One bottle being tried, its effects will be too apparent to admit of further doubt.

Recollect Hurley's Sarsaparilla is the ONLY GENUINE ARTICLE in the market. Price $1 per bottle, or six for $5. This medicine can be procured at all extensive Drug houses.

July 4, 1856—1y.
