

CALYX. Friend Ayer.—In this age of quacks, charlatans and mere windy gaseous pretenders to heal, who blow at every corner, and in the face and ears of all men, their loud, blaring Jericho trumpets and other noisy boisterous wind instruments of marvellously twisted brass, in such a woefully sham ridden speech as this, I say, it is comforting. Nay even cheering to the earnest well wisher of his race to cheer there as he earnest in this world a genuine physician—to light once more upon something besides mere Sangroves and Don Mervilles Julians, with their phibotomies, poison and warm water. Your Charbatic Pills, and Cherry Pectoral, carry us forward to Halcyon days—to millennial Pharmacies, when science, deep diving down into the principles of things, shall, with infinite cunning, bring out the genuine Felix Vitæ for of a truth there is something enough somewhat of that same Life Essence in your subtle vegetable distillations and compounds.

You realize to us the visions of those painfulest smoke-dried Alchymists—bootsless seekers—dreamers among retorts and crucibles, touching the quintessential hidden virtue of the universe, which should infuse distemper, and break for man the Wheel of Time, 1857—1m.

DALLEY'S MAGICAL PAIN EXTRACTOR.

The great and principle characteristics of DALLEY'S MAGICAL PAIN EXTRACTOR consist: 1st. Of its never failing and unique property, as soon as applied to any external injury, such as INFLAMMATION instantly, and rapidly to reduce it. This feature constitutes its great power to alleviate the pain of burns and scalds, and of other painful diseases, in so incredibly short a space of time, and as will appear from the few testimonials hereunto annexed. Every intelligent mind is fully aware that, in all cases of external injury, the pain is produced by inflammation of the injured parts; and, therefore, if you remove the cause, the effect must cease. 2d. Its purificative properties neutralize the poison that may lurk in the system, and will, when applied to the sores, draw rapidly all impure matter to the surface, and eject it—discharge it—check the production from sores occasioned by burns—and when applied to old and inveterate sores, Salt Rheum, or other cutaneous diseases.

Each box of DALLEY'S PAIN EXTRACTOR has upon it a Steel Plate Engraved Label with the signature of C. V. CLICKNER & Co., proprietors, and HENRY DALLEY, manufacturer. Price 25 cents per box.

All orders should be addressed to C. V. Clickner & Co., St. Barley street New York. May 8, 1857—2m.

Bedford's Hair Dye, Warranted to dye brown or black, so as to defy detection, without the least injury to the hair or skin. It is the admiration of the theatrical, the envy of initiators—never fades, is the perfection of the art, as it is the original. Made and sold, or applied, at the Wig Factory 223 Broadway, New York. A steel plate label with W. A. BARNES on each box of genuine, all others are counterfeit. May 8, 1857—1m.

TO RENDER A MEDICINE PERFECTLY Palatable is certainly a great advance towards the eradication of disease; because there can be no doubt that, one of the greatest causes of protracted illness is the natural reluctance we have to swallow medicine conformably to the directions of the Physician. Various experiments are therefore resorted to by the medical Practitioner in order to disguise the taste of his prescriptions. Because it is generally had, in such cases, in the articles of food which the patient is most fond of, and which are commonly at hand. The consequence is, he loathes the sight of them ever afterwards. Now, CLICKNER'S SUGAR COATED TABLETS, remedies this objection entirely. The medicine is so completely enrobed by the coating of sugar, that the pill is so soft as to remain in the mouth a considerable length of time without inducing any symptom of nausea or disgust. Their curative properties are chiefly confined to complaints which originate in impurities of the blood. Hence they strike at the root of disease, and the remedy afforded cannot be otherwise than permanent and effectual. They place nature in the very position occupied at our birth. They cleanse the blood, purify the blood, promote the insensible perspiration, and restore a healthy action to the liver, and the lungs. Their virtues are so positive and certain in restoring the blood, that the proprietors have had himself to return the money paid for them in all cases where they do not give general satisfaction. May 8, 1857—2w.

Dr. Hartley's Sarsaparilla, now almost a household name, is firmly established the best and most efficacious medicine of that class. The cures effected are without parallel, and will be a standard remedy when all other Sarsaparillas are found in merited obscurity.

Prevention Better than a Cure.—Dr. Keyser, Wholesale Druggist, of 140 Wood Street, in inviting attention to his Pectoral Syrup, does not pretend that it will heal tubercles or ulcers in the lungs, or remove a half wasted lung in the incipient stage of disease. It will allay inflammation, cure the cough, and effectually arrest the progress of the disease. One or two spoonfuls of this medicine has often cured a violent Cough of several weeks duration. What has been done can be done again. Cure your Cough with half a dollar by buying a bottle of Pectoral Syrup.

To be had at the Store of Mr. Samuel Adams in Bedford—and at Mr. Colvin's Store in Schellsburg.

Painful Blood in a Cavern.—E. G. Spear's notes on Central America describe a wonderful effusion of a fluid resembling blood from the town of Vitod, in the State of Honduras. It appears that there is continually oozing and dripping from the roof of a cavern there a red liquid, which upon falling coagulates so as to precisely resemble blood. Like blood, it coagulates, inscts deposit their larvae in it, and dogs and lizards resort to the cavern to eat it. It is thought to have several times been made to obstruct some of this liquid for the purpose of analysis, but in all cases without success, in consequence of its rapid decomposition, whereby the vessels containing it were broken.

The small cavern or grotto during the day is visited by buzzards and hawks, and at night by a multitude of vampire bats, for the purpose of feeding on the unnatural blood. It is situated in the border of a rivulet, which it keeps red with a small flow of the liquid, which gives the color, taste, and smell of blood. In approaching the grotto, a disagreeable odor is observed, and when it is reached there may be seen some pools of the apparent blood in a state of coagulation.

The peculiarities of this liquid are considered due to the rapid generation in this grotto of some very prolific species of infusoria. The California State Journal, in remarking on the discovery, observes that the estero of the town of Monterey contains a species of blood-red infusoria (the larvae of water insects), which at certain seasons of the year smell precisely like blood fish, or, on exposure in a vessel, like putrid fish. In some seasons it has been found in flakes, and of the intense color of vermillion.—Scientific American.

In the right Way Again.—We publish in another column, an article taken from the Junata published on "Republicanism as it is seen," and for it a careful perusal by our readers. It appears that the Sentinel has been the organ of the American Party of Junata County, but by some means or other was deluded into the support of Fremont last year, and did, with a degree of violence characteristic of the Fusionists the straight-out Fillmore ticket. Time, the great vindicator of truth, has shown how false such a course of procedure has been; and we rejoice to see that those who were found in the support of republicanism last fall, are arrayed against Niggerism, Republicanism and Whitticism.—Honover Spectator.

The Indian Massacre in Minnesota — Shocking and Bloody Murder.

The Minnesota papers bring us additional details of the Indian massacre at Spirit Lake and other points in that territory. After detailing the slaughter at the house of Mr. Wood, an account of which was previously published, the Pioneer says:

The Indians next called at the house of Josiah Stewart, and shot him in the head. His wife begged for her life, to which they replied, "nepo squaw?" (kill squaw) and shot her also in the head. Her two little girls were killed with war clubs. John Stewart, a little boy eight years old, hid himself behind a log and escaped. Major Williams has taken him home, and will bring him up. They then proceeded to the house of Mr. Thomas. Several families had here collected together, and there were some eight or nine rifles in the house. Umphashota, an old Indian chief, well-known in this neighborhood, ran past the house shouting to the inmates, several of whom unfortunately ventured to the door to see what was the matter, when about twenty Indians, posted behind a hay stack, about five rods distant, fired upon them, killing a son of Mr. Thomas, aged ten years. Mr. Thomas was wounded in the arm, rendering amputation necessary; David Carver was shot through the arm, the ball lodging in his side; the wound is not considered dangerous; and Miss Dru-la-Swiver received a ball in her shoulder, the ball passing out upon the opposite side.

The doors were instantly shut and barricaded. Some of the inmates engaged themselves in moulding balls, others in loading the rifles, while John Bradshaw and a man named Markham fired upon the Indians without. Their chief and a number of others were killed; the exact number is not known. It was reported by an Indian to a man named Shingley that nine were killed and five wounded. Towards night the Indians withdrew, carrying their dead and wounded with them. No white person was killed after the first fire.

The men sent to Spirit Lake have returned. They have buried twenty-nine bodies; two were found burned, besides, it is not known, of course, whose skeletons they were. They first visited the house of Mr. Thatcher, and found two bodies—those of A. Noble and Mr. Ryan. They then visited the residence of Jonathan House; here nine bodies were found, dreadfully mangled; men, women and children, all indiscriminately murdered.

The next house was Granger's, near the Lake. Here, probably, a sharp conflict had ensued.—A man named Snyder was found dreadfully mangled with a broadsword. The Grangers have one missing, probably both killed. The body of a man was found upon the Lake near the house, so mangled that it was impossible to recognize him. Signs indicative of a fight were seen about this house. They next went to Mattack's house where eleven were found. This house had been burnt. There, men and women shot and children tomahawked, were some twelve persons—one missing.

No Show for Utah.—Mr. Brigham Young's prospects are by no means flattering. His hatred of infamy and corruption is at last to be overhauled. The false prophet who, with reckless daring, has braved all hints at extermination, standing an uncommon good chance of finding his power suddenly vanishing, his followers flying in wild consternation, and his temples dashed to earth. An order has recently issued from the War Department, withdrawing Gen. Harney from the scene of the Indian war in Florida, and directing him to proceed to Fort Leavenworth, there to wait special instructions. The government has determined on a grand concerted sally on Brigham Young and his nest of pollution. Gen. Harney is the man for the emergency. He has given convincing proof of his iron will and indomitable energy and boldness, and is a lion whom Brigham Young will find it rather dangerous to beard. The immense and fearful delusion of Mormonism has spread with a rapidity well calculated to awaken most serious apprehension. Utah is a foul blot on the face of our country—a reproach to our soil. There is an absurd and fallacious idea embraced by certain persons, that great evils, if left to themselves and entirely unopposed, will die out and disappear in time. All history declares to the contrary. We may not perceive, far off from the actual field, the spread of the damning doctrines of the wild Governor of Utah, but no less surely and silently are the apostles of this mad delusion sowing the seed which may expand in a harvest of blighted fruit. We sincerely trust that Gen. Harney's instructions may be of no very pacific character, and that Brigham Young may speedily receive a permanent quietus and unlimited respite from his labors of iniquity.—Evening Journal.

The Chinese War.—The war which has broken out between the English and Chinese may be one of long duration and important in its results upon the commerce and civilization of the world. The Chinese are self-confident and not likely to appreciate promptly their inability to meet the military power of England. The contest may therefore fail of speedy adjustment, and the British government may not obtain what they will deem honorable terms of peace until they shall have sent a formidable army into the Celestial Empire and thoroughly alarmed the Emperor for the safety of his crown. It is said that the Emperor has prohibited all trade with the English, and all the Chinese servants have been withdrawn from the service of foreigners. Although British soldiers will readily prevail over the superior numbers of the Chinese antagonists, it would require a considerable force to penetrate with safety into the interior of the country and reach the capital of the Empire.

Should England content herself with taking possession of the Chinese seaports, it might not speedily compel a peace, and in the meantime her important commerce with the country would be ruined. The affair may very likely prove a protracted and damaging one, both to England and all other nations having commercial intercourse with China. The result will probably tend to break down the walls of that secluded Empire, and open it to more familiar relations with the rest of mankind, as England is not likely to make peace on any other terms.
