M'GUIRES WILL TACKLE HIGH SCHOOL SATURDAY

Prep Nines Clash for What May Prove Determining Championship Battle.

What gives promise of being one of the fastest prep-school baseball games played here this season will be staged Saturday morning in Broad Street Park at 10:30 o'clock, when John Marshall and McGuires hook up in the battle that will practically decide the prep-school championship of the city. Should the Red and Black aggregation land the victory, it will put them in the lead, with a comfortable two-game edge. Should the Marshallites repeat the stunt they pulled on McGuires a few weeks ago, it will give the public school lads more than an even chance to win the coveted cup. With so much at stake, it is thought that a bumper crowd will be on hand to see the youngsters fight it out. "Dutch" Bottoms will have charge of the pastiming.

McGuire's team is flushed with the recent victory over the Academy aggregation, and claim that they will give the Marshallites a dose of medicine out of the same bottle when they meet Saturday. Hedgepeth has been putting his charges through some strenuous practice, and says that the squad is in the pink of condition and out for blood. It is rumored that Hedgepeth will pull a new stunt on the Marshallites by using all three of his pitchers Saturday morning. His idea in this is to change pitchers every three innings so that the opposition will not have time to get next to one man's delivery before he is yanked. Such a plan may work well, and it will at least provide a novelty for the local fans.

Hedgepeth will probably start "Billy" Hammond, with "Bob" Baldwin following him for three sessions. "Big" Bruce will be saved for the final three frames. "Monk" Craven will work behind the bat for the university school lads.

Coach Clark will depend on "Matty" Woodward to turn the trick on the confident Main Street aggregation. Woodward twirled a masterly game against McGuires the last time the schools played, and if he shows the same form Saturday, should be able to put a crimp in the Red and Black pennant aspirations. "Big Boy" Atkinson will be sent to the middle of the diamond if McGuires develop a sudden liking for Woodward's offerings. "Deacon" Blankenship will be on the receiving end for the Marshallites.

Each of the winners defeated her opponent by one up.

YELLOW JACKETS HOPE TO TIE WILLIAMSBURG

Should William and Mary Lose to Hampden-Sidney, This May Happen.

Ashland, Va., May 14.—The Yellow Jackets having defeated Hampden-Sidney, are right on the heels of William and Mary, and should Hampden-Sidney beat William and Mary Saturday, the Yellow Jackets would only have to beat Richmond College in the last game to tie the Williamsburg boys for the championship. Of course, the Yellow Jackets will be pulling for the Tigers on Saturday, and the Tigers have a good chance to win, as they are playing on their own grounds, and will have the student body to back them up.

The Yellow Jackets have had hard luck the last week in the way of getting players injured. On Tuesday, in the last practice before the Hampden-Sidney game, White, the Yellow Jackets' left fielder, twisted his ankle, and was kept out of yesterday's game. Bane fractured his ankle yesterday, and will hardly be able to play any more this year. His loss will be greatly felt, as he is the hardest hitter and one of the best fielders on the team.

"TAP" DAY AT YALE

Juniors Selected for Membership in Senior Societies.

New Haven, Conn., May 14.—One of the biggest events in student life, when juniors are selected for membership in the senior societies, was held to-day.

What is considered one of the greatest undergraduate honors—that of being the last man "tapped" for Skull and Bones—went this year to Thomas B. Denegre, of New Orleans, captain of the crew.

John W. Hanes, of Winston-Salem, N. C., was "tapped" by the Scroll and Keys.

SMITH ANXIOUS FOR REPORT

Washington, May 14.—With a view of gathering data on which the Post-Office Department may readjust the pay of railroads for transporting of parcel post mail, Senator Hoke Smith to-day introduced a resolution asking the special joint committee on railway mail transportation when it would be ready to make a report on the question.

Senator Smith stated that a readjustment of pay was necessary to provide for "economic and suitable" facilities for the parcel post service."

DUBUC UNHITTABLE

New York, May 14.—Dubuc's pitching was of the unhittable variety to-day, and the Yanks again lost to Detroit, 3 to 1. The lanky Tiger allowed just two hits, one a double. Peckinpaugh was the only Yankee who touched him.

Keating pitched a great game for the locals until he "blew" in the eighth. A wild pitch allowed the tying run to come in, and then a single and two passes filled the bases. Keating was replaced by Caldwell, and Veach sent in two scores with a single. Score:

WILD THROW COST GAME

Philadelphia, May 14.—A wild throw by Hagerman in the thirteenth inning enabled the Athletics to score the only run of to-day's game, which ended 1 to 0 in the champions' favor.

With Schang on first in the thirteenth, Plank bunted to Hagerman, whose throw to first went out into right field, enabling Schang to score. Both Plank and Hagerman pitched splendid ball, the veteran southpaw allowing five hits and fanning nine men. Hagerman was found for only six hits. Score:

FOXEN'S HURLING HELPS COLTS TO FIRST BLOOD

There were a number of pretty catches, as witness Newton's handling of Cleveland's fly ball in the second and Snyder's catch of two fly balls from the same bat, one in the fourth and the other in the eighth. All three of these were hard chances, and were taken care of in admirable fashion. Likewise, Allen made a beautiful catch of Dolly Gray's foul fly in the third.

IN THE WAKE of THE GAME

By Gus Malbert

The columnists all rage and rave
And rant and madly tear their hair.
They spout of this and rail at that,
Breathe forth a lot of maudlin chat.
Because, forsooth, they cannot find
Within their great collective mind
Just how to end their colyum.

We weakly souls who read it must
Who fain would parry every thrust
Who might to them some "info" give
Relating to their mental sieve
Through which, anon, some worthings drip—
I say we might give them this tip—
End at the top your colyum.

Which, for this and that, might be aptly applied at home, but that we fain would break your patience while we whoop and a tiger, for Dr. Yancey Wyatt Ayers, late Colt, now hibernating beneath a senatorial toga, Dr. Ayers considerably pitched yesterday, so considerably that after ten wearing innings he had gained a one to nothing victory over young Jim Scott, who works for Messrs. Callahan and Comiskey, a pair large concern, doing business on the West Side of Chicago. It was the first time since his debut up among baseball's elite that our pride had distinguished himself, so we pause, the while gratulations are being handed around.

We always knew that Doctor Ayers was possessed of that peculiar ability which the experts tell us is necessary to maintain a position of trust and confidence, such as pitching a ball game, in the big leagues. But Dr. Ayers refused to show us that spectre until yesterday. Now his position is securely established, and we may hope to recount more and greater triumphs as the days grow older.

It may be a coincidence, or it may be something very real and tangible, but the glaring fact is that Dr. Ayers, since he left us for our betters, has done his most effective work with John Henry, the big Amherst twirler, who hails from Virginia. He has been handled by John Henry he has pitched creditably, as note the game he took from Johnson, in Philadelphia against the Athletics, with the bases tottering beneath their load of human freight. Ayers stopped the scoring and put the game on ice. When Ayers was down in Richmond, John Henry was catching. Yesterday John Henry was catching, and Ayers won. Joe Bushing, the other pride of our seven hills, thinks Henry the grandest backstop he has ever had behind him. He uniformly successful when the collegian is behind there telling him what to do.

We would not be so bold as to advise so old a leader as Clark Griffith, but it appears to us that when a pitcher wins with a certain young man catching and loses with another certain young man catching, and continues these performances consistently and continuously, there must be something behind it. Johnson is behind it all. If Ayers can win with John Henry and lose with Eddie Ainsmith, why not John Henry and Ayers as the battery all of the time? Merely a question, by no means a suggestion.

Colts and Tars will be back furniest each other this afternoon, as Mike Donnelly, the wrestler, would say it. Charley Anderson would say it differently, because Charley is not that kind of a sayer. Says Charles—we mean Charles, of the Lyric—lifts Charles:

They tell me dearling dames and swains
That Colts and Tars will play some games
Out at the baseball park.
Methinks I'll journey out that way,
Come 3 o'clock this seemly day,
Just for a merry lark.

There is more to the roundelay, but we'll spare you. Anyway, they do play again this afternoon, and Manager Prendy will probably be on hand to take charge. For our side it is highly probable, say, nearly certainty, that a certain Samuel McIntyre will ascend the hill. It should be rather a sizable conflict. Counting the two remaining embroglios as our's, we might say that we are somewhat appreciative that place. However, we are merely assuming that they are our's, and at assuming we have never rivalled John Philip Sousa in accumulating medals.

It was a splendid piece of sportsmanship that actuated the American polo committee to cable the English committee that this side would be willing to postpone the games until the challengers could get their team in shape. The reply proved to its credit that the offer is appreciated by our friendly rivals.

Rather sad are the reports being received from abroad concerning our golf representatives. Of the men sent over Travers is the only one playing a consistent game, and last night even he had to be content with a tie at eighth place. Francis Ouimet, the youthful prodigy, has been in a sorry slump, and is not regarded as a serious competitor in the English championship tourney. He may improve in his game, but he has not given evidence thus far that he has struck his stride. The lost he turned in yesterday was an ad, while Travers covered the course in 77. He has done better than that, however, and is improving daily, which lends some sunshine through the gloom.

The Amateur Athletic Union has refused the request of the Scottish clubs to field an amateur and a professional track meet the same day in the same place. While we are opposed to this action on the part of the A. A. U., and regard it as the silliest kind of action, still the majority have voted that way. What possible harm can come from amateurs and professionals competing in the same building, so long as pros and amateurs do not compete against each other is hard for the lay mind to understand.

A new contract is being promulgated by organized baseball for college ball players who drift into professional baseball. This new contract stipulates that the player under contract is to receive only 75 per cent of the salary named in the contract if he doesn't make good. If he makes good he receives the face of the contract. It is an equable contract and one that protects baseball magnates, while at the same time lessening the ardor of a number of collegians who jump at the figures offered them by the professionals when there is no chance for them to deliver the goods expected.

RICHMOND ACADEMY TO HOLD FIELD DAY EVENTS

Youngsters Will Strive for Honor and Prizes at Richmond College To-Day.

Beginning promptly at 10:30 o'clock this morning, Richmond Academy will hold its annual field day exercises on the Richmond College campus. Owing to the fact that the faculty has offered a beautiful silver cup, a great deal of class spirit has been aroused and every event will be hotly contested. As only the points for the senior events will count for the trophy, the contest will only be between the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh forms. However, every form has one or more worthy representatives, such as E. Roden and Patton in the seventh, Justis E. Miller, D. Roden and G. Miller in the sixth; Shackelford, Hill, Spencer and Kayk in the fifth, and Blenner and Powers in the fourth. Each of these individuals is expected to contribute points to his class.

Much interest has also been aroused in the contest for the all-around athlete's medal. E. Roden, Justis and E. Miller are considered to be the contenders for this prize.

All the merchants of the city have contributed liberally, and first and second prizes will be given for each event. Such prizes as twelve box seats to the Bijou or six to the Lyric or a five-pound box of candy will make anybody work to win.

The sponsor committee has elected Miss Dorothy Courtney sponsor and Misses Agnes Parrish and Laura Blanton maids of honor. At the conclusion of the championship class relay these young women will pin ribbons on the point winners. Taken as a whole, this year's field day of the Richmond Academy is expected to be its banner one, and many records are expected to fall.
