Ardmore, Monday, March 1, 1915.

George Nigh seems determined to convince the people of Welch that he is by nature an a priori man, either.

This is the month in which the rats is planted and the rat has all the advantage in the contest. Nevertheless we positively refuse to worry until the rats is in the row.

The man who is as dead as a Mexican rat is the fellow who has gone for expectations. Better be your happy self and keep close to sausage meat.

While legislators are thinking they will show the people of Oklahoma on Monday the economy objectives are being made to carry measures of religious kind. How will the legislators get away from the blue laws and so forth?

A NEW DISCOVERY

An Oklahoma banker has made the discovery that racing his stock is more profitable than raising cotton. If we were to quit cotton we might take up the habit of educating our children, and besides it's wondrfully convenient to be satisfied with the present. It requires no energy or thought to change our way of doing.

If we had cattle and kept on the farm we would stay at home during the summer and give them water. As it is we can hurry to my brother and get in our wagon and go away for the summer to see our wife's sister-in-law. They are always glad to see us. Fishing is very fine in the creeks, and it seems this one real big business all in pieces. When chickens get in the way we can give they away.

Really, the Oklahoma banker has made a discovery, but it is a discovery in which we have no interest.

EULOGIZES THE PRESS

"We feel all puffed up," says John Wanamaker, has said so many good things of the press. In a speech the other day he said: "Newspapers are believable and are almost the only things that are real these days. They are as mighty as the military, sleepless and far reaching as the light of the morning."

That really does sound good. Who ever thought the press was equal in power to the military but if the press were to begin a campaign for war it would not be long before war would be real and as long as the entire press is talking peace there will be no stirring of the people in demand war. Can you imagine what would become of baseball if it were not for the press? It would be a most uninteresting game. If it were not for the press there would be no Billy Sundays. There would be room for a really great reformer, a man who has a truth to give to the world because these men cannot be hampered. The Billy Sunday kind owes its existence to the press.

TAFT FOR PRESIDENT?

The New York Times, an independent Democratic newspaper, professes to find a growing sentiment throughout the country for the renomination of William Howard Taft by the republicans for the presidency. The Times remarks: "Mr. Taft's election dinge for let the White house has made him leader of Mandarin and has even affected the success of the party that was humble to the white in area there. Certainly that humility was not thought as much of that as at those around him. His good temper, the wisdom of his public utterances and the service he has performed in directing public opinion have gone a long way towards electing the popular nomination of an honest president who will not think he has lost more by his to persuade that the money now running out in so many different parts of the country will increase rather than diminish."

In commenting upon the suggestion made by The Times the Portland Oregonian discourages the idea and adds:

It is quite unlikely that either Mr. Taft or Mr. Roosevelt will be nominated considering for president next year. If we do not mistake sentiment of the republican party is decidedly on the side of nominating old nominees.

MAKING CONSTITUTION FLEXIBLE

The first step in what promises to be a long drawn out fight to make the federal constitution more flexible in response to the popular will has been taken in the house by Representative Berger of Wisconsin, acting as the mouthpiece of an unofficial organization which has been studying the question for years.

It is proposed by senate joint resolution of proposed amendments to the people by a majority instead of a two-thirds vote of congress and that ratification shall be by conventions instead of three fourths of the states. The most striking provision of the new plan calls for the initiative by the people every 25 years of the question whether or not there shall be a convention to consider constitutional amendments.

* * * For years the federal idea impregnability of the constitution has been lauded by conservatives and criticised by radicals. Today the two-thirds rule in congress and with the lack of other means of changing that government reformers have been slow to write themselves into the fundamental law of the land. There is no doubt that an simple and inexpensive a reform as the popular election of United States senators should have been in force long before it was and would have been enough for the mechanical difficulties in the way of amending the constitution. The plan proposed has the merit of bringing up at stated intervals the question of the constitution and at the same time it can not be accused of making such revision too easy.—Grand Rapids Press.

BECKER'S ATTORNEYS SEEK THIRD NEW TRIAL

New York, Feb. 28.—Arguments to be presented to the court of appeals in the effort to obtain a third trial for Charles Becker, were made public today in a brief filed with the district attorney by Becker's counsel.

The brief is based chiefly on the following contentions:

That Becker's guilt was not established beyond a reasonable doubt.

That his conviction "was brought about by newspaper clamor, the zeal of the prosecutor and natural desire of the actual murderers for self preservation."

That the testimony of Jack Rose was unjustifiedly false.

That Becker's attorneys were not permitted to introduce at the second trial the written confession of Frank Croghan (Dago Frank), one of the four gunmen electrocuted for the murder.

Testimony of several other witnesses including Charles H. Pilitt Jr., Becker's former stool pigeon, and Mrs. Lillian Rosenberg, widow of "Lefty Louie," one of the gunmen executed for the murder, is assailed. Mrs. Rosenberg testified for the state at Becker's second trial.

"HAUNTED HEARTS"

Theatorium Tuesday, March 2.

Can Nathan, the well known star of the "Trey o' Hearts" serial returns to the Theatorium tomorrow in a great drama based on the Hawaiian Islands. It is said to be very important to Jack King, Edward Roman and Ray Hanford.

Rose Lane, Jack Carson, a college boy, and Nathan Wade, a wealthy young banker, and a party of friends are cruising in the South Seas. They visit a small island of rock rock and are looking at it through their glasses when Rose sees a beautiful flower growing on the face of the cliff near the top. She expresses a wish for it, and both Nathan and Jack, being in love with her, vie to get the flower for her, each wagering against the other. The captain says it is impossible to land on the island with a boat, and they decide to swim in. Jack reaches the island first and climbs the rock from the opposite side. Just as he gets the flower in his hand he slips and falls to the bottom of the cliff, breaking his leg. During this time a sudden tropical storm has arisen and the wind and rain blot the island from the sight of those on board the yacht.

Nathan reaches the island just after Jack has fallen and, seeing him lying on the ground, runs to him. He sees that Jack has the flower and is helpless. Knowing Rose's preference for Jack, Nathan is tempted to leave Jack there and take the flower to Rose. He yields, and, ignoring Jack's pleading for help, he takes the flower in his teeth and swims out to the boat which the captain has ordered out to look for the boys. He tells them Jack was drowned. A year later finds Rose and Nathan married, both pale and nervous, haunted by the memory of Jack. Jack is in Rose's thoughts continually. Nathan, loving Rose deeply, knows that she is mourning for Jack, and the vision of Jack as he last saw him haunts him wherever he turns.

Jack, grown well and strong, is living on the island, subsisting on fish and vegetation. Rose lives in his thoughts and comes to him often in visions. Finally Nathan, crazed with remorse and unable to work, decides to go in search of Jack. He sends a note to Rose, saying that he has sinned and is going away, maybe for ever, and leaves suddenly in his private yacht, with a crew of two men. Rose, after reading the note, faints and falls into the arms of her old family physician, Dr. Gordon. Soon, after, a son is born to her.

India's Aluminum Wealth.

India offers a great field for future supplies of aluminum. There are great deposits of laterite and bauxite from which aluminum is derived. It is said that the Indian product could be placed on the market at a figure but little more than half that of the present quotation. The use of this metal is handicapped by the cost at present, and if the metal could be secured at a lower cost its field of usefulness would be greatly expanded. There are many comparatively accessible points where factories for the extraction of aluminum could be located.

Inside the lid of a trunk patented by a New York man is a slide that can be extended to form a bed.

Origin of Old Joke.

Harper Pennington has revealed the origin of the "standing room only" joke: It appears that there was hardly ever any furniture in Whistler's house. He was peculiarly parsimonious in the matter of chairs. This led to a remark of Corny Grain's which became famous. "Ah, Jimmy! Glad to see you playing to such a full house!" said Dick (Corny) Grain when shaking hands before a Sunday luncheon, while glaring around the studio with his large, protruding eyes in search of something to sit on. "What do you mean?" asked Whistler. "Standing room only," replied the actor.

Cities With Nine Lives.

The teaching of history is that a city is hard to kill. For instance, London has been decimated five times by plagues, in addition to visitations of typhus, cholera and other epidemics. She has been burned more or less several times. Paris has gone through eight sieges, ten famines, two plagues and one fire which devastated it. Rome has been swept by pestilence no fewer than ten times. She has been twice burned and six times driven to submission by starvation. Constantinople has been burned out nine times and has suffered from four plagues and five sieges.
