NEWLANDS WILL VOTE FOR BILL

DEMOCRATS NOW HAVE A SAFE MARGIN FOR THE WAR TAX BILL

WILL VOTE ON IT TONIGHT

Income Tax and Cotton Futures Tax Were Finally Settled by Conferees Yesterday

WASHINGTON, [illegible] — [illegible] Francis G. Newlands, of Nevada, whose stand on the tariff bill has caused his defeat—[illegible] announced to-day that he would vote for the income tax provision of the war revenue bill, which was finally settled by the conferees yesterday. The Democratic leaders had hoped to have Senator Newlands's vote for the income tax provision, but they had not counted on his voting against the tariff bill. The Nevada senator has been [illegible] the minority report of the finance committee on the tariff bill, which was practically the Democratic caucus bill, and he has been [illegible] since the tariff bill was reported to the senate. Senator Newlands has been [illegible] the income tax provision, and he has been [illegible] the income tax provision, and he has been [illegible] the income tax provision, and he
