PRODUCERS DROP AWAY FROM MINERS

Locals Lose Weird Hitting Game to McAlester by Score of 11 to 10.

SEVEN PITCHERS USED

Meet Miners in Big Double-Header Today. Hunt and Kraft to Work.

The Producers and the Miners will battle twice today. The Producers have been strengthened in the infield by the advent of White, a collegian, and in the outfield by Murphy, formerly of Sherman. Both men are going at nice speed. Big Ben Hunt formerly with the St. Louis Cardinals and Philadelphia Nationals who has been signed here will pitch the first game while Dave Kraft will hurl the second game.

Manager Price announces that he has three new pitchers on the way to Tulsa.

(By X. Q. JINX.)

The Tulsa Producers pursued a fleeting mirage of victory through nine acrid and dust-choked innings in the first game of the Producers-Miners series yesterday afternoon, grasped time and time again at the filmy garments of the elusive wraith and perished as the shadows closed over our dell, still clinging desperately to a delusion.

The valiant Producers faced a seven-run lead in the third inning with a never-die spirit which buoyed them up to the highest fighting pitch they have reached in this entire season. Instead of submitting to what seemed the inevitable, they formed a giant offensive and swept trench by trench into the enemy's country, scoring four runs in the fourth and one in the fifth, allowed their opponents to again count in the seventh, then drove in five clean-cut tallies and tied the game into a gordian knot in our end of the frame. They saw the flying Miners again spurt into the lead by virtue of a lone tally in the eighth, and closed in again; and finally, as they had spent valley after valley on the offensive and had fought their hearts out under the July sun, they saw the game slip from their grasp on account of bad pitching.

Hard Hitting Featured.

It was a game of poor hurling or vice versa of heavy hitting. The Producers used four pitchers against their arch rivals while three flingers responded to the call of Manager Humphries. Geist manned the parapet as we swung into the first stretch and was battered into shreds. Kraft, who worked two days ago, was foisted into the fray long enough to temporarily stem the tide and was taken out in order that he may pitch today. Manager Price grabbed up the burden and was chased from the park by Umpire Spencer after he had persisted in jawing about a decision which was irretrievably lost, and McCoy, after working only the day before, walked into the fiery contest and was punctured as full of holes as the sheif-worn sieve.

The visitors depended on Naylor as the curtain of fire was hoisted over the dell, found him wanting in the fourth, hurried Sugar Maple into the pit where he was bombarded until the ninth when Mickey succeeded him.

Both Sides Hit.

Neither offensive was any respector of persons. All targeteers appeared in exactly the same light to them, namely as units upon which to fatten the general batting average.

It was a weird game, and a game overflowing with surprises and hair-raising moments.

The affair opened up in bottled fashion. For two innings neither side reached the plate where they could entertain any hopes of scoring. Geist and Naylor worked in tiptop style, the latter striking out three men in the first and one in the second. But in the first half of the third, the whole lid was swept off. After two men were out, Naylor walked and Nutt, Humphries, Yardley and Herriott singled in succession counting two scores. Kraft was sent into the game and Franklin, who by the way, once was released by the locals, mauled one of the larkspur tossers deceptively for a triple and three men trooped in on the next play. White hit one over the fence and Franklin preceded him over the home plate.

We Come Back

After Price had struck out in our half of the same hope wrecking inning Moore and Murphy singled, Heatly struck out and White dropped a roller to Naylor and drew a wild throw to first. Moore tallied and Murphy scooped to third before the ball was retrieved. Murphy and White scored when Brady dashed out a scorching double to right and himself coasted when Wooley singled.

Moore was hit by a pitched ball in the fifth. Heatly's single sent him to second, White's single advanced him and Stewart's line drive had the effect of sending him through the last station.

Humphries opened the seventh with a drive over the fence and in our division of the caste we evened the entire board by scoring three. Murphy's hit started in. Heatly was based and White bored his way into the hearts of all the fans by jamming one into a back yard out of the enclosure. McCoy sent a homer over the fence in the eighth for us and Murphy dilloed in the ninth.

The game was virtually snatched from our way in the eighth when Kortum singled and was sacrificed to second. Nutt walked and Humphries' long fly scored Kortum when Murphy pegged wildly to the plate. Herriott's hit scored Nut. Franklin garnered his second three-bagger of the game in the ninth and scored when Murphy dropped White's easy fly.

Manager Price was fined $5 in the fourth when he protested Spencer's decision on Heatly's out at the plate, and was sent out when he talked back to the official while in the box.

Mets 3, Senators 1.

Special to The World.

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 3.—Muskogee won the longest Western association game of the 1916 season by scoring two runs in the seventeenth inning and breaking a 1 to 1 tie. Three singles following a base on balls did the work, Smith weakening after pitching shutout ball up to then. Three errors were accountable for the visitors' first run in the third. A base on balls, a balk and a sacrifice enabled Oklahoma to tie the score in the ninth.

DENISON, Texas, July 3.—Preceding the game today, which the Railroaders won from Sherman by 7 to 5 count, a fine gold watch was presented to R. M. Pinley, who recently resigned as business manager and secretary of the Denison club. The watch was presented from the men making up the Denison club and was given to Mr. Pinley as a token of esteem in which the players hold him. The presentation speech was made by S. C. Kennedy. The game which followed was the tenth straight victory for Denison over Sherman. Through a misunderstanding of a decision made at home plate in the fifth the visiting team was given but two put outs and the game proceeded just the same. Umpire Morgan called a man safe at home plate when both teams thought he was called out. After two innings were played the teams "saved" the umpire and the game proceeded though one frame was a bit out of line.

HORNSBY BURNING UP OLD NATIONAL

Is Only Youngster in Big Leagues Who Is Hitting in .300 Class.

Could Pick All-Star Aggregation of Youngsters This Year.

(By LOU DUFFY.)

Boston Braves' young hurlers, Barnes and Nehf, are beginning to show their worth and as a result the Stallings clan is being picked by the wiseacres as one of the world's series contenders. With the help of Hughes, Ragan, Allen, Rudolph and Tyler they apparently have the edge in pitching over the remaining antagonists for the National league gonfalon.

Rogers Hornsby, the Western association graduate, is the only youngster among the hitting leaders of the parent organization. A perusal of the list shows the same veterans to the fore as in prior seasons. Wagner, Hinchman, Schulte, Doyle, Daubert and Wheat topping the list, every one having been in the league from five to twenty seasons.

The return to form of Ray Caldwell has proven a boon to the New York Americans and it is mainly owing to his consistency that the Manhattanites have forged to the front in the Johnsonian body.

The disappointing showing of the St. Louis Browns has been laid at Fielder Jones' door, as it is conceded by experts that he has a pretty pert aggregation. There is not a team in the circuit that can place seven regulars with more speed than the St. Louisians, but they are in the rut, trailing clubs that appear inferior on paper.

Though the Cardinals are well down in the National league standing, the club's supporters are far from disheartened. Their reason for optimism is well figured, as they own some of the most promising recruits in major league circles. In Hornsby, Corhan, Smith, Betzel and Steele the club claims five of the best first-year men ever graduated.

Even though Brooklyn stays in front in the National league race, having shaken off every contender that has challenged to date, the consensus of opinion among the devotees is that Robinson's men will finally falter, with New York and Boston furnishing the contention.

Several high-grade juveniles have joined the major league ranks this year and an all-star team of first-year men could be manned as follows: Sisler, St. Louis Americans, first base; Gedeon, New York Americans, second base; Terry, Chicago Americans, shortstop; Hornsby, St. Louis Nationals, third base; Heilman, Detroit Americans; Gilhooley, New York Americans, and Rondeau, Washington Americans, outfielders; Tragresser, Boston Nationals; Chapman, St. Louis Americans, catchers, and Coveleskie, Cleveland Americans; Mogridge, New York Americans; Steele, St. Louis Nationals; Miller, Pittsburgh Nationals; Meyers, Philadelphia Americans, and Mitchell, Cincinnati Nationals, pitchers.

New York 1, Washington 0

WASHINGTON, July 3.—New York beat Washington 1 to 0 today in an 11-inning game. Both teams had numerous opportunities to score, but neither Caldwell nor Johnson could be hit opportunely. In the eleventh inning Nunamaker reached first on a drooping fly to short rightfield, only to be forced at second by Caldwell. The latter went to second when Sawyer threw wide to first on Gilhooley's bounder. High beat out a bunt to Shanks, filling the bases, and Hartzell, batting for Peckinpaugh, lifted a short fly to left on which Caldwell scored.

PHILADELPHIA, July 3.—Although Philadelphia hit the ball hard and knocked Shore off the rubber in the ninth, Boston won, 6 to 4. The visitors made good use of their hits off Nabors, who was taken out for a pinch hitter in the eighth.

FIRST IMPRESSIONS

Rather a coincidence that Wooley should turn two identical plays on the same player, but White happened to be the victim when the centerfielder twice caught him off first on rifle-like shots.

White, the recruit shortstop from Michigan university, though a trifle nervous on account of his initial appearance before a home crowd in the earlier stage of the fracas, gained confidence later and his homer with two on, tying the score, was an exceptionally hard hit ball. He overlooked a bet in the second when he let a groove ball go by unmolested with a runner on second, with the pitcher following. This education, however, comes from experience.

Heatley showed to advantage, and if the writer has any influence, this boy will be caught in the major league dragnet. Yardley also shone to perfection, but he has been captured by the St. Louis Americans.

McCoy retired the side in the sixth after he had but little preparation, then went out and warmed up and was hammered hard. What's the answer?

Ben Franklin certainly staged the playlet revenge in two acts when he tripled with the bases full in the third and later counted what proved to be the winning run on his three-bagger and Murphy's error in the ninth.

Price was dilatory in inserting Clarence Kraft in the fray. Left-handers Yardley, Herriott and Besse should be prey for the kithogue, but Yardley and Herriott were permitted to feast off Geist's offerings and Franklin was then substituted for Besse.

Too bad Wooley and Lamb failed to get that fourth ball in the eighth. Both worked the call to 3-2 only to succumb on strikes. McCoy followed with a home run which would have tied the score if either had got on.

Both pitchers opened the game by fanning the lead-off man and when Naylor went this even better and fanned the side the rail-birds expected a pitchers' battle. They got their desire in quantity even though the quality failed.

Ben Hunt, the big southpaw, reported yesterday and should prove a tower of strength, both literally and physically, as he stands six feet four inches. Hunt was a wizard with Tacoma, Northwestern league, later being secured by the St. Louis Nationals. Training in Columbus, Ga., during an extremely cold season, the big fellow caught a cold in his back, and as Huggins was well fixed for left-handers that season, deemed it advisable not to wait on this behemothic portsider. Hunt, however, has improved and if given the proper encouragement by the fans will just about win this old rag.
