NOTABLES TALK AT KENDALL OPENING

Formal Start Is Marked by Impressive Exercises and Music.

BIG NUMBER THERE

Mayor Simmons Greets College for Tulsa; Evans Makes Last Speech.

The formal opening of Henry Kendall college Wednesday morning was witnessed by more than a hundred people from the city of Tulsa, as well as notables from the various corners of the state. The Presbytery, in session in Tulsa, closed its business early in the morning and the members, together with the board of trustees and others, were the honored guests of the occasion.

The program was opened by a few finishing college songs, characteristic of the general assembly exercises, together with the college slogan, "Boost O. U." led by Gallard Simmons.

The formal program began with the singing of "My Country 'Tis of Thee," being followed by a Bible reading by Rev. L. S. Burton, which preceded the invocation by Rev. J. E. Floyd. The school was then greeted by Mayor T. H. Simmons, representing the city of Tulsa.

Mayor Simmons said in speaking of Doctor Evans: "You have got one of the greatest, if the not the greatest, educational leaders in the state. Not only is he a great educator, but he is also a gentleman. I predict the greatest year for Kendall of her history, and believe that Sixth street paved to Kendall would greatly assist the school."

Oberholtzer Talks.

Superintendent Oberholtzer of the Tulsa city schools, in an address, stated that the Tulsa city schools are cooperating and expect to cooperate with Kendall. He said: "I have found the president of your school big enough to handle 2,500 and more pupils and I believe it will be only a short time until he will have a much larger student body to handle at Kendall than he now has."

Mr. Oberholtzer said in the future he expects to draw a number of teachers from Kendall.

A great feature of the program was the very interesting talk of Mr. Right, a full-blood Choctaw Indian, whose father has been connected with the Bible department of the school for many years.

Dr. Ellis Baird of the First Presbyterian church of Oklahoma City extended greetings to Kendall from all the churches and highly complimented the school from different standpoints, especially complimenting the president.

The Hon. D. I. Johnson, president of the board of trustees, reminded the hearers that the words of the college song, "The Eyes of Kendall Are Upon You," would better fit the spirit of the day if they read "The Eyes of Oklahoma Are Upon Kendall." He continued that Kendall at the present time, as never before, is in the spotlight of Oklahoma education and the educators of the state expect much of Kendall in the near future. Mr. Johnson predicted Kendall to be the biggest school in the state within five years.

The audience stood to greet the new president when Rev. J. R. Lamb, master of ceremonies, formally introduced him to the school. Doctor Evans, in a brief but impressive discussion, outlined the policy of the institution.

The speeches were alternated with musical numbers and readings, among them being a number by the quartet of the First Presbyterian church, a violin solo by Miss Myra Cornwell, a reading by Miss Dove Gravitt and a piano solo by Prof. John Knowles Weaver.

TULSA SAFE FROM INFANT PARALYSIS

Death of One Youth Who Is Victim Closes Brief Chapter Here.

FUMIGATE SCHOOLS

Health Officials Are Taking Every Precaution to Prevent Spread.

That the death of Fred Pattie, 13-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Pattie, 1414 South Lansing, is the last chapter in Tulsa's brief infantile paralysis history was the belief expressed by health officials Wednesday. They believe that with every precaution taken a probable scourge has been intercepted. They hold no fear of the future.

The Pattie boy succumbed to the disease early yesterday morning after an illness of only a few days. Funeral arrangements have been completed and the burial will be held Thursday.

Members of the Pattie family will be held in strict quarantine for the next two weeks and no one will be allowed to enter or leave the home. A brother and sister of the deceased have so far shown no symptoms of the disease, but they will be under strict medical surveillance for some time.

Every precaution is being taken to prevent an epidemic. The Lincoln school in Bellview, where young Pattie was a student, is receiving particular attention. The students are submitting to a daily spraying of throats and other medical attention. The rooms are fumigated and thoroughly cleaned.

Fumigate School.

In order that nothing may be left undone to thwart the disease extraordinary care is being taken at the Longfellow and Horace Mann schools, where fumigation is done twice a week.

Dr. DeZell Hawley said last night that the physicians had rallied to his help and that reports from nearly all of them received yesterday indicated that there was not another case of infantile paralysis in the city.

"At present I do not believe we are in any danger whatever of an epidemic of the disease," said the health authority, "but we are going to use every precaution and do everything within our power to make this safety doubly possible.

"There have been cases of infantile paralysis in the city at different times during the past year, but there never has been any sign of its spreading. Parents should watch their children carefully and call a physician if only one of the symptoms of the disease appears. Physicians should call me at once if they discover another case at any time."

Santa Fe Lays Track.

Special to The World.

COLLINSVILLE, Okla., Sept. 27.—A mile and seven hundred feet of track is being laid in Collinsville by the Santa Fe. On account of the heavy shipping that is being done by the smelters here it has proven necessary to put in more track. Some enlargement has been given by the officials that roundhouse is possible in the near future for this city.

GRADED SCHOOLS WIN AT CAPITAL

Carry Off Blue Ribbon in Every Department Entered at Oklahoma State Fair.

The exhibits in drawing, art and painting of the graded schools of Tulsa which were shown at the Oklahoma state fair held at Oklahoma City last week outstripped their competitors from all over the state and won by several laps. Of the six grades entered five of them pulled down the blue ribbon and the other won third prize.

The following is the list of prizes: Eighth grade, first and second prizes; seventh grade, first and second prizes; sixth grade, first, second and third prizes; fifth grade, first and second prizes; fourth grade, no entries; third grade, no entries; second grade, first prize; first grade, third prize.

The above list is in addition to the prizes won by the high school, when first and second prizes were captured in each department that entries were eligible. The record is even more extraordinary when it is remembered that work was handed in to the fair from centers all over the state, and shows that educational work in Tulsa is no longer in the sapling state, but has grown to strong oak proportions.

MACHINE GUNS WIN RESPECT

British Soldiers Pay Tribute to Effectiveness of German Weapon.

We give more stories of their experiences told by the wounded brought back from the battlefield north of the Somme.

The talk always reverts to machine guns. Again and again our men have swept the enemy before them, only to be held up or seriously weakened by streams of bullets from machine guns which have been left in "hold the fort" until the last.

"They stick to their guns well, they lads," conceded a Scottish private, who was qualified to express an opinion by the possession of three machine gun bullet wounds in his thigh.

A man on the next stretcher looked up. He was a corporal. "You mean these guns stick to them," he observed quietly.

"What way could their guns stick to them?" inquired the puzzled Scot. "I'll tell you. One morning we went through the dugouts in one of their front line trenches. We found a German machine gun and its No. 1 gunner. He was dead, and he was chained to his gun. The end of the chain was locked to his wrist."

There was silence. Then the Scot broke again.

"Being chained to a gun," he observed thoughtfully, "would certainly tend a doubtful man to make up his mind whether he would go or stay."

"The Huns hate" have come to their own. Six months ago, when first faced, they were far from popular. They were heavy and difficult to keep in position; in short, they were "a fatigue". But experience has proved their value. A private with his head bound up delivered himself as follows:

"Nasty scalp wound? In a manner of speaking, yes; but by rights I didn't caught to have a head on at all today. How? Well, I got a direct hit, fair on top of my nut, from a shell splinter. It knocked me off my perch I can tell you; I was on the parapet at the time. But it never touched me. What am I bandaged for? The splinter knocked a dent in my hat, and the hat twisted round and gave me a bit of a scalp wound. But I didn't grudge it. A scalp wound's better than no head, and that's a fact!"—London Times.

ROYAL NEIGHBORS GATHER IN TULSA

Supreme Manager of Order and Some 150 Members Meet in Convention.

Unless plans for the occasion go awry, today will be an important one in lodge circles of the city, it being the occasion of a visit to Tulsa camp, Royal Neighbors of America, of Mrs. Alice Gilliland of Springfield, Ill., supreme manager of the order.

Mrs. Gilliland's coming likewise is to be the occasion of a visit from a dozen or more neighboring camps, which are to be represented by some 150 Neighbors. The morning hours will be given over to welcoming the visitors at Knights of Columbus hall and in making preparations for the event of the day, a school of instruction to be conducted by Mrs. Gilliland, who is a speaker of considerable note, and in the initiation of a large class of candidates. This meeting will be closed to all save those who have received the password or who are familiar with the taps required for entrance to a Royal Neighbors camp.

In the evening, however, there will be an open meeting, to which all Modern Woodmen and their families have been bidden as special guests of the Neighbors, and the occasion promises to be a very pleasant one socially. Music, speeches, the serving of refreshments, etc., will feature the program.

MINNESOTA'S NORTH BOUNDARY

On That Side It Projects Into Canadian Territory.

Numerous inquiries have come from readers of the Pathfinder asking why the boundary line between Canada and Minnesota extends farther north than the fortieth parallel in one particular place which can only be reached by either traversing Canadian territory or crossing the Lake of the Woods. In reply he quote from article II of the treaty of 1819 with Great Britain:

"It is agreed that the line drawn from the most northwestern point on the Lake of the Woods, along the the forty-ninth parallel or north latitude, or, if the said point shall not be in the forty-ninth parallel of the north latitude, then that a line be drawn from said point north or south, as the case may be, until the said line may intersect the said parallel, shall be the line of demarkation between the territories of the United States and those of his British majesty."

The national bounadry follows the Rainy Lake river from Lake Superior to the Lake of the Woods. It has been decided that from that point west to the Rocky mountains the forty-ninth parallel should be the boundary. But at that time no accurate survey had been made, and it was not precisely known where the forty-ninth parallel cut the Lake of the Woods. Some point to begin at had to be settled on, and in the absence of direct information "the most northwestern point of the Lake of the Woods" was taken.

This happened to be, as subsequent surveys showed, about 28 miles north of the forty-ninth parallel, so, in accordance with the treaty, the boundary went from that point south to that parallel. This leaves a tract of about a hundred square miles belonging to Uncle Sam north of the forty-ninth parallel. But it so situated that it can be reached only by water without going through British territory. This tract now belongs to the great Red Lake Indian reservation.—Pathfinder.

It Looks Like Hughes.

Special to The World.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 27.—A state official returning yesterday from St. Louis, where he attended a meeting, said that "all one can hear back there is Republican talk. I heard a number of men say that 2 to 1 was being offered in Missouri that that state would go for Hughes, and that they were sure of electing a Republican governor there this time."

HARRY KESSINGER SAYS "AWAY WITH YOUR BAD STOMACH"

His Latest Triumph of Modern Chemistry, "Orgatone," Is Surely Doing Wonders.

"Every man to his liking," as the old saying has it. Some men build bridges. Others halfsole shoes. Andrew Carnegie made his millions in steel and finds his fun in giving away libraries. John D.'s favorite indoor sport is boosting the price of gasoline.

Kessinger's fad is making old worn-out stomachs good as new. Listen: Orgatone is a marvelously natural corrective medicine and stomach cleanser for all forms of stomach weakness.

This is Kessinger, himself, speaking:

"Stomach trouble is the great American misery. In some form or another — dyspepsia, indigestion, heartburn, bloat, flatulence, "sour stomachs," etc.—it has millions in its vise-like grip.

"My desire for years has been direct to the discovery of a modern scientific method of relieving stomach misery, and my efforts have been fruitful. In Orgatone I have found the sure solution of stomach ailments.

"The pain comes as the result of gases collecting in the stomach caused by too much acid. Orgatone neutralizes the acids almost as soon as it reaches the stomach—pain leaves at once. This stomach relief is unlike all others in so far as it stops the stomach pains and disagreeable feeling quickly, and does not require long treatment for results.

"Orgatone should be in every family medicine chest. It can do no harm in the most delicate stomach and will do away with stomach disorders—meals can be enjoyed with the knowledge that the use of Orgatone will add its easy assimilation and digestion, and neutralize the stomach acids—eliminating stomach pains.

"I am proud of the latest triumph and discovery, Orgatone, and am glad to offer it to all who are handicapped by the great American misery. I ask for an immediate trial of Orgatone. Buy a large $1 bottle of any of the druggists below today, and if Orgatone does not quickly prove its remarkable worth your case will be one of the first to my knowledge where this medicine has failed."

Carl C. Johnson (himself) widely known as the Orgatone health teacher, is daily meeting the public at Roy R. Gotman's Rexall store and explaining tis triumph of modern chemistry.

OTHER CITIES WANT THE TULSA SPIRIT

Secretary Douglas of Chamber of Commerce Gets Communication From Milwaukee Brokers.

Secretary Douglas of the Chamber of Commerce received a letter yesterday from M. F. Fox, senior member of the firm of Fox, Hoyt & Co., prominent bond and mortgage brokers of Milwaukee, asking that at least forty copies of the last issue of the "Tulsa Spirit" be sent him.

"It is a very valuable publication for the city of Tulsa and we are eager to have a number of them in our office for reference and to place in the hands of our customers," the letter continues, after making the request that the copies of "The Tulsa Spirit" be forwarded as quickly as possible.

Secretary Douglas has received a number of requests for copies of the Tulsa Spirit from such concerns throughout the country and is pleased with the reception the edition received at the hands of the larger financial and industrial concerns of the country.

Resinol

healed her itching skin

"I had a terrible case of eczema which covered both my hands. My fingers began to itch, then tiny water blisters came which formed sores all over my hands. I suffered for two years, getting very little rest or sleep because of the terrible itching. I used very many remedies, but they all failed to give me any relief. I tried Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap and got immediate relief, my hands were completely cured. They are soft and white and without a blemish, and I shall never be without Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap in my home." (Signed) Mrs. Jacob Schwartz, 1263 W. Cary St., Richmond, Va., Jan. 27
