BOOKS.

These are the masters who instruct us without whip or rod, without hatch words or angry, asking naught in return. If you seek them they are not austere. If you ask counsel of them they do not refuse it. If you go astray they do not chide you. If you betray ignorance in them they know not how to laugh in scorn. Truly, of all masters books alone are free and freely teach.—Richard Duffery.

CENSOR IS DEFIED BY WOMAN EDITOR

It has been left to a woman editor to defy the censorship and refuse to acknowledge its existence. Mere male editors have gone so far as to print articles which the censorship has refused to pass, and have had their paper suspended for a day, a week or longer in consequence, but such cases always have been a question of one particular article, whereas Madam de Sainte Suzanne has declared boldly that she intends to ignore censorship entirely. The May number of her publication began with the following statement: "I declare that I have not submitted the text of the Nouveau Journal to the censorship. I refuse any relation with the press bureau (the official title of the censorship) until it is composed of intelligent censors. Henceforth I shall publish no diplomatic or military article, in order to be certain of printing nothing which might injure my noble country." Since this declaration was printed in May two more issues of the Nouveau Journal have appeared. Madam de Sainte Suzanne has been entreated to submit her magazine to the restrictions imposed on all publications; she has been summoned before a series of authorities and threatened terrible, if vague, consequences; she has been flattered and promises have been dangled before her, but all to no avail, no number of her magazine has been exposed to the censorial scissors.

Kendall College News Notes

Friday came the climax of a number of "pep" meetings held throughout the week for the purpose of arousing interest in the Kendall-O. U. game. At that time the student body paraded the Tulsa streets and visited a few of the principal places of business in the city.

Though the week has been full of the football spirit, much has been accomplished in other activities. The Y. M. C. A. met Thursday night in the parlors of Robertson hall, with about fifty young men present, and listened to an interesting program. The feature of the meeting was the lecture on the subject of "Clean Athletics" by a Yale graduate.

The Y. M. C. A. is looking forward to the reception to be given October 20 by the Tulsa Y. M. C. A. to local organizations.

Members of the zoology classes work with renewed interest since the announcement by Professor Cragin that a zoological museum is to be maintained at Kendall. The boys will do a great amount of mineral specimen collecting in the immediate future.

This week saw the organization of a railway band. The band is composed of good material and has an exceptionally large number of different instruments in proportion to the number in the band.

The special assembly exercises Wednesday morning were led by Rev. C. W. Kerr of the First Presbyterian church. Reverend Kerr also made an elegant address on the same occasion. No better speaker is to be found than this man. He has a manner that is not fine one and a message that is full of thought. The character sketches portrayed in the lecture were rare and appropriate.

Prof. G. J. Williams traveled 129 miles and hundreds of school children and a comparable number of adults in the many communities that he visited, giving illustrated lectures in the rural districts of the county, last week.

Professor Wood reports the extension work to be progressing nicely. He is reaching many that cannot take the work in the regular classes.

Spanish seems to be the most popular of the foreign languages this year.

Kay Ala Che is the name chosen by the new club organized among the girls in the dormitory recently leased to care for the increased number of students. Plans are said to be under way for the club to make its debut in the social world. The social lions of the college are looking forward with interest to the occasion.

The employment bureau, under the direction of Professor Holmes, as yet has not been able to place all men wanting work to do while they attend school although a large number have been placed.

The Tulsa street railway has found it necessary to run double car service a large part of the time of late. Before this the boys have found it necessary to stand up in the car a large part of the time. Thanks.

The giant Kendall chorus rehearsed under the direction of Prof. Robert Royce Carson Thursday for the first time. The chorus will soon aid Professor Carson in forming a community chorus in the city of Tulsa at the municipal hall.

The Answer.

"What is your position on these public questions?"

"My position," replied the confident candidate, "is very simple. I am personally the answer to all of them."—Washington Star.

CHURCH MUST GO FORWARD IN WORK

Speaker Declares There Is Great Need of Broader Christian Unity.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Oct. 15.—Serious aspects of world affairs demand increased efforts toward Christian unity, according to Peter Ainslie of Baltimore, who addressed the Churches of Christ convention here tonight. He said in part:

"We have been so long accustomed to division in the church that it is frequently looked upon as a normal condition, whereas it is both abnormal and immoral. A divided church can never serve the purpose for which it was established, for its divisions make it carnal and incompetent. Jesus said that a house divided against itself cannot stand, so that the issue today is not whether Christianity will conquer the world, but whether it will be able to stand against the great opposing forces.

"The church never faced a more serious period in its history than now. I had a letter from Dr. John R. Mott a few days ago in which he said if there was ever a time for the church to get upon her knees and stay there in prayer, it is now, for there is no other method of meeting the issue except by a renewed consecration.

"There is not a nation on the globe a majority of whose citizens are Christians; the worst war in the history of the world is raging on the continent where Christianity has been the longest, a dozen other conditions of a similar character face us. Long before this war neither Roman Catholics nor Protestants were increasing in Europe, and the growth of Christianity in America has been nothing to be compared to its possibilities. The principles of force on one side and worldliness on the other in the midst of a divided household are undermining the very foundation of our faith, so that if our religion is based only upon certain scriptural interpretations of credal pronouncements, it will never satisfy the hunger of the world's multitude. When asked why this condition, there is but one answer and that is, it is the product of a divided church.

"The fact of the matter is the church has been fooling away her time on credal pronouncements and dress parades, keeping up her denominational fences, and with scores of men willing to die for denominational convictions, no one of which has anything to do with the salvation of a single soul, while a great world has been lying at the feet of the church lost and uncured of its sins. More than to any other source the cause of the great war lies at the door of the church—an instance of lost opportunity. I was in Europe at the outbreak of this war and I was simply overwhelmed that neither the Roman Catholic nor the Protestant churches were taken into any consideration whatsoever, but the great war moved as though the church did not exist. The European tragedy has revealed the impotency in the house of God as has never been revealed to us before.

"There is no time for boasting; there is no time for arrogance. As disciples of Christ, we ourselves are called to practice a long suffering and patience and brotherliness with the whole Christian world that will win men to the principles that underlie all union, for a theological union is of little avail, and ecclesiastical union will produce division; a union by compromise is only temporary. It must be a union built upon the spirit of Jesus Christ, who revealed the dignity of repentance, the power of love, the charm of kindness and the winsomeness of long suffering. These are the fundamental things in religion."

MUTILATED BODY IS FOUND; MURDER?

Army Man's Death Is Cause for a Thorough Investigation of Crime.

NOGALES, Ariz., Oct. 15.—The mutilated body of George Shiflet, K company, Second California infantry, from Selma, Cal., was found late Saturday just outside the yards of the Southern Pacific railroad here. Bullet holes in the right shoulder and left thigh and bloodstained clothes point to the soldier having been murdered. An effort had been made, according to the authorities, to place the body in such a position on the tracks that it would appear it had been run over; but examination of the engine of a train from Guaymas nearby revealed no evidence of this sort.

Three regulars believed to have been with Shiflet at a nearby house last night, were arrested on suspicion of knowing something of the death. One of the men arrested carried an automatic with an exploded shell.

BODIES CHANGE COMPLETELY

But No Foundation for Seven-Year Idea, It Is Claimed.

Many people believe anything they hear because they are too lazy to think for themselves. How often have you known a child to exclaim, "There goes a hay wagon; make a wish;" a dressmaker on Friday defers to cut a garment until Monday, and a real estate agent says he cannot sell a house because the number has a thirteen in it. Logic keeps some on the road to real intelligence, however.

There is more of a foundation for these foolish notions than there is for the rumor that your bodies change every seven years. Almost every part of the anatomy except the outside of the teeth and parts of the bones changes slowly at all times, for the human structures wear and burn away, then are replaced by new material.

This is one of the reasons why you have to eat. In a sense, you "die daily" and build yourself up again from the nourishment taken. Were it possible to mark all the atoms in the foods and those that go to make up the bodies you would certainly find that nearly all the material of the body changes completely in far less than seven years. But this is an old sorcery number and in most superstitions where figures are concerned seven comes in.

It is frequently asked why, though the body changes so often, that marks in the skin remain. The reason is that the form of the body stays, though the material of it comes and goes. The stuff that makes your muscles flows into and out of them, still things that happened long ago are remembered.—Chicago Herald.

CHANDLER TALKS ON TARIFF ISSUE

Democrats Have Not Made Good Promises Made to People.

Special to The World.

GROVE, Okla., Oct. 15.—T. A. (Bert) Chandler has spent the last two days in Delaware county, and has grasped the hands of more voters in this section in the same length of time than any candidate ever canvassing here. While this county is normally Democratic, the general opinion is among both Republicans and Democrats that the popular candidate will be the means of retiring Jim Davenport from congress and placing a man in his seat who will attend to the duties of the district, state and nation.

"Looking the situation squarely in the face, free from party prejudice, I cannot for the life of me see how any man can be so blind as to not know the good in protective tariff and the bad in free trade tariff; and sometimes I am led to believe that people do know better, but wouldn't say so because free trade is the hobby of the Democratic party," said Mr. Chandler while here.

Voters Need Protection.

"Let me illustrate it: In every village, town and city in the United States peddlers are charged a license to canvass from house to house, offering their wares for sale. Why is this done? To protect the merchants who have their money invested, who pay taxes on their goods, and who pay taxes on their homes for the maintenance of county, state and federal government. The man who pays the taxes is entitled to protection, that is why the itinerant peddler who pays no taxes is charged a license. And that is altogether right and proper. Now then, when a foreigner offers for sale in the United States his wares, under the Underwood tariff law (which in fact and truth is free trade) he is allowed to sell his wares to the American consumer without paying a license as he would pay under a Republican protective tariff, and comes into direct competition, with his cheap labor, with the American product at good wages, paid to the American workingman, who in turn pays taxes and helps to support the state and government which should protect him and which does protect him under a protective tariff, and which does not protect him under the Underwood tariff law.

But We Did Not.

"When the Underwood tariff law went into effect, the Democrats told us that now that wool and sugar were admitted free we would get sugar and clothing cheaper. They told us if we took the tariff off Mexican cattle we could get cheaper beef and cheaper shoes. I bought a six-pound roast the other day, and it cost me $1.80. I bought two pounds of round steak last Saturday in Vinita and it cost me 50 cents. Shoes that I paid $4 for two years ago, and selling by the same merchant in my home town for $7.50. Three-piece suits that I bought for $17.50 two years ago now cost me $25, and sugar is higher than ever.

"Now tell me wherein the Underwood tariff law has reduced the cost of living.

When the War Ends.

"Look out when the great European war ends. When billions of dollars' worth of manufactured goods start crossing the Atlantic to find American dollars, in direct competition to the American manufacturer and American workingman. Wages in Europe are one-fifth what they are here, hours considered; and will you tell me how American manufacturers paying $2.50, $3 and $4 a day for American labor can compete, especially when there is no tariff—no license—on European goods? It will mean the closing of our industries and manufacturing institutions, and throwing out of employment millions of men. These are things that the American people must face, and within, in my opinion, a very short time. How will we face them? By electing to congress men who believe in the protection of American men and American industries."

MEEK GUINEA PIGS CARRY CHOLERA

Experiments With the Animals Have Shown That They Throw Off Disease.

MANILA, Oct. 15.—What is considered by insular health officials as a most important discovery has been disclosed by Dr. Schobl of the government bureau of science, who has been experimenting with guinea pigs. His experiments have shown that guinea pigs are intermittent cholera carriers in that they can be inoculated with the cholera germ and later will throw off the germ. Then without further inoculation, a feeding of bile brings back the cholera germ.

These experiments, say local health officials, explain remarkable conditions which have been found to prevail at Bilibid prison, the big insular prison in Manila. During the slight epidemic of cholera which has been affecting several provinces of the islands, inspections at Bilibid have discovered cholera carriers among prisoners who, on previous examination, were found to be negative. Cholera infection appeared afterwards when there had been no possibility of their exposure to the disease.

Cholera carriers are a big problem in the Philippines and through Dr. Schobl's discovery local health officers hope to be able to solve the problem of effectually killing the propensity of certain individuals to harbor the deadly germs.

A DOG USES THE TELEPHONE

Ultra-Modern Pet Hears Its Master's Voice and Obeys.

A distance of seven miles between such a dog as Nipper and his master, William G. McKay of Penn Yan, is nothing at all, for Nipper happens to be one of those ultra-modern dogs who use the telephone and other modern conveniences.

Mr. McKay went to a friend's cottage on Lake Keuka to spend the night fishing. The next morning when he was ready to return home, Mr. McKay whistled for Nipper, but the dog did not appear and his master returned home without him.

An hour or so later Mr. McKay's friend called him on the telephone and informed him that Nipper had returned, but that all efforts on his part to send him home had been futile.

"That's all right," said Mr. McKay. "Just lift him to the telephone and put the receiver to his ear."

His friend followed instructions and told Mr. McKay to deliver his message.

"Nipper, come home right away," said Mr. McKay sternly.

Nipper barked "Yes, sir; all right" or something like that into the mouthpiece and, slipping to the floor, dashed madly for Penn Yan, covering the seven miles in less than an hour.—New York Herald.

HUSBAND SAVED HIS WIFE

Stopped Most Terrible Suffering by Getting Her Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Denison, Texas.—"After my little girl was born two years ago I began suffering with female trouble and could hardly do my work. I was very nervous but just kept dragging on until last summer when I got where I could not do my work. I would have a chill every day and hot flashes and dizzy spells and my head would almost burst. I got where I was almost a walking skeleton and life was a burden to me until one day my husband's stepsister told my husband if he did not do something for me I would not last long and told him to get your medicine. So he got Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for me, and after taking the first three doses I began to improve. I continued its use, and I have never had any female trouble since. I feel that I owe my life to you and your remedies. They did for me what doctors could not do and I will always praise it wherever I go."—Mrs. G. O. LOWERY, 419 W. Monterey Street, Denison, Texas.

If you are suffering from any form of female ills, get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and commence the treatment without delay.
