TEXAS REPORTS BIG RICE CROP FOR 1919

Exact Figures Not Available But Acreage Is in Excess of Past Years.

BEAUMONT, Texas, April 19.—Despite heavy rains that prevented harvesting of much of last year's rice crop, indications are that rice acreage this year will be larger than ever before. Two of the biggest canal companies in this section report that rice farmers have applied for more water for the next crop than the canal companies can furnish.

Neither rice millers nor growers have been able to compile exact figures on the rice milled this year. The rains interfered with harvesting to such an extent that much of the crop remains to be threshed, even while plowing is proceeding for the next crop. The late start will delay this year's crop at least three weeks, according to E. A. Elgnus, general manager of the Southern Rice Growers association, which represents planters of Texas, Louisiana and Arkansas.

Estimates, based on rice marketed, the amount on hand and the amount still in the field, place the 1919 crop at about 2,000,000 bags less than the government's last estimate before harvesting began. This amount is taken to represent the planters'
