TULSA OILERS HAMMER THEIR WAY TO AN 8-TO-2 VICTORY

TULSANS GET ODD GAME OF SERIES

BROKAW REDEEMS HIMSELF

Pulls Spectacular Fielding Plays; St. Joseph Is Here Today.

BY CHARLES J. BRILL.

Peeved at their own offensive helplessness on the preceding day when one lone bingle was all they could get off Kopp, Abbott's Oiler athletes went into yesterday's closing engagement with Omaha determined to secure revenge and when the dust clouds raised from the base paths by their spikes had cleared away and an accounting could be made of their accomplishments for the afternoon, it was discovered that they had out-hit their rivals three to one and had registered an 8 to 2 victory. By winning, the locals took the deciding game of their first series in the Western league. The Omahogs departed last night to be succeeded today by St. Joe.

Lefty Bayne was Abbott's selection for mound duty in the final session with Rourke's men and right valiantly did he perform. There were times when the youngster showed signs of wavering but he stuck to the hilltop. The best of the opposing batters were as bewildered by his shoots and curves as the weaker ones, eight out of a dozen men who faced him being retired on strikes, one of them three times. Only five hits were registered against him, a couple of which were of the scratchy variety.

While Tulsa's eight runs and 14 hits constituted a powerful offensive, not all of the Oilers' meritorious conduct was confined to the batting end. There were some fielding plays that smacked of the sensational. In the seventh session, just after Omaha had registered her only successive hits of the game, Brokaw sprinted from deep center into right to snare a powerful wallop off Dashang's bat—that seemede certain to go for a couple of bases and one or two tallies. Again in the ninth, with another runner on, he made another sparkling catch. Those who had railed at his miserable showing during the first exhibition game with Kansas City when he permitted easy chances to drop all around him, could not but make mental note that first appearances often are deceiving.

In addition to his brilliant fielding, the lengthy middle gardner had a very successful session at the plate. He singled on his first trip. The next time he sent out a long sacrifice fly which put Tulsa in the lead, then he took one in the slats and scored and on his last attempt he again scored a runner by an aerial sacrifice.

Omaha was first to put a runner around the paths. Banner, first up in the third, drew a walk. Townsend fanned. Banner moved to second on Dashang's infield out whence he scored when Goodwin, hadicapped by the sun suddenly breaking out from behind a cloud directly in his line of vision, permitted Jackson's high fly to ship through his fingers.

The other enemy marker was chalked up in the fifth. Cable drew a base on balls and Gisleson took one in the ribs. Banner struck out and Lyck, batting for Townsend, lifted a foul to Cleveland but with safety near. Dashang poked out Omaha's first hit of the game, scoring Cable.

Tulsa threatened in each of the first three innings, but it was not until the fourth that the home boys could concentrate their efforts sufficiently to secure results. Gisleson encourage the homelings by making a bad peg of Cleveland's grounder, the runner thereby securing a life at first. Instead of attempting to push him along by a sacrifice, Captain Meyers put all his power behind a drive to center which was good for two bases and a score. Wano, however, came through with a nifty sacrifice and Brokaw gave his captain a chance to sprint home by lifting a long sacrifice fly to Kirby. Still a third tally was registered when Davis and O'Brien delivered successive two-baggers, that of the little catcher's bounding off the centerfield fence.

Real baseball added another in the fifth. Wuffli led off by smashing a hard liner toward left which Dondia was lucky to be able to knock down yet could not head off the runner. Goodwin dumped a sacrifice. The shortstopper completed the circuit when Cleveland lifted a safety into right.

Tulsa completed her scoring in the sixth and seventh. Brokaw was unable to get out of the way of one of Manske's benders, getting a poke in the shoulder and a free ride to first. Davis bunted a sacrifice. Brokaw went on home on O'Brien's missing grounded between Jackson and Cable. O'Brien scored too when Cable emulated Goodwin's muffing stunt and missed out on Wuffli's pop-up which should have been an easy out.

In the seventh Goodwin singled and advanced on a passed ball. He made third on Cleveland's infield out and galloped home on Meyer's hit. Wano followed the captain with a double, and Brokaw scored Meyer with his second sacrifice fly.

BARRETTS ARE INDICTED ON CHARGE OF SWINDLING

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 2.—Three members of the Barrett family said to have operated a swindling scheme in several states, were indicted today by the federal grand jury. They were John Francis Barrett and his two sons Kyrle C. Barrett and Kranklin W. Barrett. John Armstrong, alias Fred Holmes associated with the Barretts also was indicated. The Barretts had operated in Kansas City in the selling of stocks said to be of no value, under the name of William L. Baker and company. They are said to have used a different name in each city in which they opened offices.

Postoffice inpestors says one victim lost money to five different offices operated by them.

SOONER TRACK TEAM IS VICTOR OVER LONGHORNS

NORMAN, May 2.—In a dual track and field meet extremely hard fought out in the Southern events, the University of Oklahoma defeated the University of Texas here today by a final score of 75 to 47.

First and second places in the discus javelin and broad jump and first place in the quarter relay race ever seen on Boyd field enabled Oklahoma to pull away from the Texans and win by a fine margin. By winning this meet Oklahoma feels revenged for the double defeat two weeks ago at the hands of the Texas baseball team.

Moss of Texas won three first places and was all around man in 15 points. Moss won both low and high hurdles and the 220-yard dash.

Two records were broken and the southwestern conference marks almost equaled in several other events. White, a Sooner freshman from Oklahoma City, tossed the discus 133 feet 9 inches, the old mark was 122 feet. Marvin, Oklahoma, threw the javelin 155 feet 5 inches, four feet better than the former mark.

F. G. Tanco Wins Guess on Baseball Opening

If everyone who submitted guesses on the paid attendance at the opeging game of the Western league in Tulsa had been among those present the attendance that day would have been more than double what it was.

More than 5,000 guesses were submitted to the sporting editor of The World in competition for the season ticket offered to the one coming nearest. Most of the guesses were between 4,000 and 8,000. The maximum guess was 13,000 and the lowest was 1,111.

F. G. Tanco of the Field Stationery company won the ticket, his guess being 2,137. The official attendance was 2,119.

Daily Dope

By Larry Dailey

Tied for third place with two victories and one defeat, Cozy Dolan's St. Joe Saints are guests at the local play lot today, tomorrow and Monday. While not much better ball could be wished for than that furnished by the Oilers and Omahogs, it's a cinch that the locals and visitors will be out there battling all the way.

Uncertainty marks the Western league race this season and each team is out there hustling all the time. It isn't like the old days when two or three clubs were the class of the league, with the others trailing. Every club has a look-in this season and every game should be a battle.

Again the Oilers have demonstrated their ability to hit. Fourteen bingles is good enough to win in any league. John Wuffli led with four blows in five trips. Every player hit safely with the exception of Bayne.

Bill Jackson is a scrappy manager and thereby has incurred the displeasure of numerous umpires. Con Daly chased him the first game and almost benched him yesterday. Bill was the target of the bugs y
