PROPOSE CONTRACTS FOR 500 AIRPLANES

Army Air Service Recommends Awards to Keep Industry in Full Operation for Emergency.

TO GUARD AGAINST FAILURES

Disintegration of Manufactures Alarms Department Heads—Will Keep Business Alive.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Contracts for at least 500 airplanes of the very latest types would be awarded American manufacturers under plans prepared by the army air service and sent to Secretary Baker today for his consideration. The primary purpose would be to keep the industry in such condition as would insure its rapid expansion to meet the requirements of a national emergency.

Seven types of planes have been approved by the American air service as representatives of the most modern developments in the science of aviation. They are Le Pere, observation; the Hoening monoplane, the Thomas Morse, scout; the U. S. D. 9-A, day bomber; the Voight, training plane; Marlin, day bomber, and the ordnance enginer pursuit plane.

The contracts under contemplation would be divided among these types so as to insure the maintenance of sufficient machinery and personnel at all times to permit the ready expansion for larger orders. With the exception of the Voight, all seven types were developed in the United States during the war.

To further encourage the airplane industry in the United States, air service officials are prepared to recommend that the war department and other government agencies lend domestic manufacturers every assistance in developing markets for their products in South and Central America.

The rapid disintegration of the airplane industry in this country from the pre-eminent position it had reached just at the time of the signing of the armistice has been viewed with anxiety by officials here. One officer expressed the opinion today that if necessity arose at this time the United States would find itself in almost the same situation regarding aviation as obtained in April, 1917, and that more than a year will be required to again bring the manufacturing facilities to the standard required. Officers declared that the popular idea that a great surplus of aviation material exists in the Unitedo States is entirely erroneous. While hundreds of training planes are on hand, the facilities for producing service planes, especially of the latest types, according to officials, have never reached a "safe" margin of production.

Definite information that Great Britain and France are encouraging domestic airplane manufacturers to perfect the most modern designs of flying craft has reached the war department and has strengthened the purpose of American officials to prevent this country from falling behind.

BILLION BUSHEL WHEAT CROP MAY PROVE BURDEN

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 13.—"A warning that the prospective wheat crop may become a burden unless it is handled economically was sounded today by Robert H. Bean in an address before the twenty-ninth annual convention of the Missouri Bankers association in session here.

Bean is executive secretary of the American acceptance council of New York, which was organized to direct an educational campaign to improve the credit system and strengthen the financial position of America.

"From a debtor nation a short three years ago, buying much more in foreign markets than we sent abroad, we have come to be a creditor nation, with an enormous balance in our favor," Bean said.

"Every student of financial affairs should prepare to participate in the struggle to maintain this American supremacy.

"The prospective billion bushels of wheat in the middle west may become a burden unless it is economically handled."

GERMAN PREMIER SAYS TERMS ARE IMPOSSIBLE

BERLIN, May 12.—It is impossible for eGrmany to fulfill the conditions of the peace treaty drawn by the allies, declared Premier Scheidemann, in addressing the national assembly today before that body took up consideration of the peace terms.

"We want peace," said Scheidemann, "but a peace that conforms to the 14 points laid down by President Wilson. But under the terms of this treaty, Germany becomes non-existent as a great power. No honest man can say he is able to sign the treaty as it has been drawn."

The prime minister accused the allies of framing a militarist peace, and declared that if Germany signed such it would leave "her dead body lying on the field at Versailles."

RECIPES FOR A DAY

Potato Pie—Line a deep greased pan with mashed seasoned potatoes an inch thick. Fill in with chopped meat, bits of left over ham, beef from a soup bone or any scraps of meat on hand. Add minced onion, salt and pepper to taste, and enough brown gravy or sauce to moisten well. Cover with potato, smooth and mark as any pie. Bake till brown in moderate oven. Serve in same pan. Use old potatoes in these made dishes because at this season they have lost their freshness and taste better when used in combination with meat or some other vegetable of more pronounced flavor.

Lettuce and Onion Salad—Wash and dry the lettuce, moisten with mayonnaise (arrange on salad plates). Cut medium sized onions in thin slices and soak in very cold water half an hour. Pull the rings apart and arrange on the lettuce leaves. This salad makes use of the old onions and the lettuce adds the fresh green which makes it attractive to both eye and taste. Any bits of left over canned vegetables, such as cauliflower or string beans, may be moistened with the mayonnaise and added with the onions.

Dried Peach Tarts—Stew dried peaches till tender and force through a sieve. Sweeten to taste and a speck of ground cinnamon. Fill tart shells, which have been previously baked. Top with a spoonful of whipped cream. This is a variation from the ordinary pie and is also a change from plain stewed dried fruit.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING

Wallpaper Cleaner—The following recipe will remove all smoke and other signs of ordinary wear and is superior to many ready-made cleaners: Two cups sifted flour, one cup warm water, two tablespoons salt, two tablespoons coal oil, four tablespoons ammonia. Blend till smooth and boil until it forms a dough, stirring constantly. Knead into a ball, break off a small piece, and use till soiled.

Linoleum Rugs — Excellent linoleum rugs to save your kitchen linoleum may be made from pieces of old brussels carpet. Make a cooked paste of flour and water of a consistency to spread easily with a brush. Turn the carpet upside down and apply a liberal coat to the wrong side. This paste serves as a filler and prevents the carpet from soaking up too much paint. When dry paint any desired color. It will require two coats. Will wear for years with an occasional repainting.

To Renew Rusted Stovepipe—A little raw linseed oil rubbed upon a stovepipe will stop rust and remove rust spots. After it is dry, use stove polish to cover the place and the pipe will look just like new.

When Poaching Eggs—If you will add a half teaspoon of vinegar to the water before dropping in the eggs, you will find the eggs will hold their shape better and you won't waste so much of the white which would otherwise fall to pieces.

Artillerymen Home

NEW YORK, May 13.—American artillerymen, machine gunners and casuals, 2,940 in number, returned from France today on the transport von Steuben.

Other units included in the 158th field artillery brigade headquarters.
